Warehouse fire keeps firemen tied up 6 hours

A fire in a paper-carrying railroad car and in a nearby building at Blair Terminal on Holton street has firefighters working six hours straight on Sunday.

At 4 p.m. Box 344 sounded and the firefighters responded with all apparatus. Upon arrival, they found that the fire within the north end of the building had been extinguished by a sprinkler system. The Woburn engine company was already trying to snuff the blaze in the railroad car.

In order to check the inside of the building, the fire department called in the police to remove three attack dogs reported to be guarding the warehouse. No dogs were found in the building.

Firefighters continued to wet down the freight car after B&M had moved it down the track, away from the building.

The fire department reported several dumpster and brush fires in the past week, two of the brush fires occurring at the Swim Club on Johnson road and two of the dumpster fires at the Transfer Station on Swanton street.

Firefighters quickly put out a dumpster fire at Automated Donut Systems, 29 East st. on Thursday at 4:31 p.m. Woburn Fire Department assisted.

The next dumpster blaze occurred later that evening around 6:30 at the transfer station on Swanton street. The crew returned to the transfer station Sunday afternoon to put out burning magazines and newspapers in a dumpster.

The first brush fire at the Swim Club was reported at 11:03 p.m. on Friday, the second at 10:10 on Saturday night. Firefighters also extinguished burning logs Saturday evening at the rear of the USA skating rink.

Local survey

When the Winchester Historical Commission met on Wednesday November 16, members were delighted to find that Henry Simonds, 9 Crescent Road was present, as usual, and that he had brought with him his recently completed list of Winchester buildings that are more than 60 years old.

Simonds has been working on this vast project for over two years and has spent about 3,000 research hours on his work.

Firefighters stand watch as a police officer ventures into a dark smokey warehouse on Holton street Sunday. There was a freight car on fire behind the warehouse and the smoke set off alarms and sprinklers. Fire Chief Robert W. McElhinney, however, was very leery about letting his men in because of the attack dogs patrolling inside. Only when the police came with their shotgun would the fire chief permit the men in. It was touch and go for a while until the chief learned that there were no dogs inside after all. Everyone sighed with relief and the fire department went on with the business at hand.

Washington parents submit three reorganization plans

Parents at the Washington School have come up with three alternatives to the school reorganization plan recently proposed by Superintendent William C. MacDonald and the Middle School Study Committee.

The alternative plans, which were presented to the school committee Monday night, center around closing the Lincoln School and keeping the Washington School open. The plan recommended two weeks ago by Supt. MacDonald would close the Washington, Parkhurst, and Noonan Schools.

Monday had been the deadline for submitting alternatives; the school board decided Monday night to extend that deadline two weeks to allow time for development of other proposals.

Two weeks ago, MacDonald presented the school committee with 10 different plans for the school system, all based on a four-year high school, and all involving reorganization of the town's middle schools. The Washington parents' plans call for similar changes.

MacDonald reacted Monday by saying the parents' proposals were "Worthy of pursuit" and added he would like to meet with the parents and work on costing out the various alternatives proposed to date. Though they did not discuss the plans in detail, the school committee indicated they were ready and willing to give the alternatives serious consideration.

"From my point of view, let's throw them into the hopper," commented board member Heinrich Holland. Holland said he hoped that by making the decision process as open as possible, the school board could avoid the bitter feelings that arose when the Wyman School was closed last year.

The Wyman School was closed, and the reorganization is being proposed because of declining enrollments in the past several years, particularly at the elementary level. Elementary enrollments have dropped 423 students from 2653 in 1974 to 2230 in 1977 - - more than the total enrollments at the two smallest schools this year, and more than the enrollment at any one elementary school.

Committeewoman Constance Papas noted the plans contained some "interesting ideas," and Chairman Robert Frank said the level of detail in the Washington parents' plans was "adequate." Frank said he did not expect the parents to do the costing out on their own but suggested that the administration work on the task with the parents.

The three new plans were put together by a group called the Concerned Parents Committee, made up of Francis Golden, president of the Washington School Dads' Club, Carolyn Thorne, president of the school's mothers' association, and 12 other persons.

Using the criteria established by the superintendent and his Middle School Study Committee, along with some further criteria of their own, the Washington parents came up with the following three proposals:

Plan 1: one four-year high school; one grade 7-8 middle school (McCall); and seven elementary schools (Lynch, Ambrose, Muraco, Mystic, Parkhurst, Vinson-Owen, and Washington). Noonan would be closed and redistricted to Lynch; and part of Ambrose would be redistricted to Parkhurst.

The report notes that the ultimate disposal of closed schools should be considered before any plan is approved contrary to the assumption of the Middle School Study Committee's report. "The Lincoln School," states the parents' report, "is suited for use as town offices and in addition could house a youth center, something desperately needed in Winchester."

The report does comment that one of the disadvantages of closing Lincoln would be the necessity of a second redistricting of children sent to Lincoln when the Wyman School was closed last year.

Plan 2: again, a four-year high school and grades 7-8 at McCall; six elementary schools (Lynch, Ambrose, Muraco, Mystic, Vinson-Owen, and Washington). Noonan would be redistricted to Lynch; Parkhurst would be closed and redistricted to Ambrose and Vinson-Owen; and Lincoln would be redistricted as in the first plan.

The report claims theee would be less redistricting under this plan than under the

Mental health board meeting at Town Hall

The Mystic Valley Mental Health and Retardation Area Board will hold its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be at the Winchester Town Hall in the Board of Health Clinic Room.

The Area Board, made up of citizens from each of the six communities in the Mystic Valley area, including Arlington, Burlington, Lexington, Wilmington, Winchester and Woburn, is charged with the responsibility for management and oversight of mental health and mental retardation services provided in the area. During the course of the meeting, the board will solicit questions and concerns from citizens about mental health and mental retardation services in Winchester and the Mystic Valley Area.

Winchester residents currently serving on the Board, appointed by the Commissioner of Mental Health, are Mrs. Deborah Cary and Mrs. Katrin Cooper. The Board rotates its meeting place among the towns it serves and allots time at each meeting to hear the questions and concerns of citizens.

Limited dividend corp. proposed to aid center

Town Manager Thomas J. Groux has suggested to selectmen that a limited dividend corporation be created to aid developers in Winchester Center. In his memo Monday, Groux also suggested possible purchase of the Winchester train station to allow for leasing and other means of revitalizing the center.

The Chapter 121 A development was one of the 13 mechanisms the Winchester center study committee came up with as a way of improving the center. The fall town meeting voted down the first proposal, $62,000 for professional consultants, and did not vote on the other mechanisms.

Groux suggested that selectmen and the planning board consider pursuing this particular method.

As explained by the study committee, a 121 A development gives businesses or developers the opportunity to take advantage of tax incentives.

A limited corporation, made up of local persons, submits an application to the state Department of Community Affairs which in turn forwards it to selectmen. From that office the application goes to the planning board, hearings are held, community reaction is forwarded to the DCA, and the state either grants or denies the application.

Under 121 A redevelopment corporations, the developer is limited to an eight percent return on his investment and he becomes exempt from real estate taxes and special assessments for a minimum of 15 years. According to the center study committee report, this period can be extended to 40 years "if the developer puts in additional facilities that will increase overall use of the developed area by the general public."

Instead of paying taxes, the developer pays monies to the town in the amount of about 23 percent of the gross income from the property.

While recognizing that the town would in effect be granting tax exemptions to the developer, Groux said, "the benefit in the long run to the municipality is an expanded tax base through development of property that might otherwise continue as marginal commercial property."

The town would have some control over the project because it could define the parcels involved in the redevelopment and the planning board and selectmen would "play key roles in the entire process of project application and approval."

An area must be declared as a "blight open area, decadent area, or substandard area" under the Chapter 121A statute. The center study committee was of the opinion that certain parts of the downtown area could be declared "blighted" for the purposes of the statute.

Groux's other suggestion, which he asked

Athletic, lunch programs

$281,776 in school budgets approved

The three smaller budgets were given preliminary approval by the school committee Monday night. The requests, totalling $281,776, will be sent to the finance committee for consideration.

The athletic program is budgeted at $33,407 higher than last year; because of the cash balance available, the actual request is for $174,517, an increase of $24,607 over last year.

Of the increase, $10,000 is in personal services, and much of that is accounted for by the equalization of male and female coaches' salaries. Other reasons for the increase include the addition of varsity and JV soccer for girls and increases in the costs of equipment and rentals.

At their Nov. 25 meeting, the board voted to transfer the athletic director's salary from the academic budget to the athletic budget in order to give a more accurate picture of the cost of the program. This accounts for a $12,500 of the increase.

Board member Jack Noble opposed the shift, saying, "I don't think it's smart politically to change it over. . . . It will put more pressure on the athletic budget." Superintendent William C. MacDonald agreed. However, the move was approved, 4-1.

The committee went through the budget at its Friday meeting, at times questioning the fine details: at one point, Chairman Robert Frank asked about "one dozen gold golf tees" priced at $8; the item is actually 12 boxes of tees.

Committeeman Henrich Holland wondered why the equipment budget was increasing when enrollments are decreasing. Jack Fallon, assistant superintendent for administration, replied that the decline is not so great at the high school level and that for many of the sports, the team sizes stay the same no matter what the overall enrollment.

Rentals are also up; the cost of ice time at the USA Rink is estimated to rise by $1115 from this year, because, according to Athletic Director William Colella, the rates are rising.

Thanksgiving Day game

WHS Sachems top rival Woburn Tanners, 22-7

The Sachem gridiron club capped a successful 1977-1978 season with a 22-7 roasting of the Woburn Tanners at Winchester's Knowlton stadium.

The final score of the Thanksgiving Day Classic, watched by more than 11,000 fans, was stalled twice inside the Tanner five yard line.

Anthony Davis, rolling up 138 yards and two touchdowns behind the expert blocking of Sam Bellino, Tom Murray and the offensive line, combined with co-captain Don Allard to guide the Sachems to victory.

The game was all Winchester from the opening whistle as the Sachems won the toss and, after a nine-yard return by Bellino, the offensive unit took advantage of their first possession and marched 65 yards for the score.

Davis, carrying nine times during the drive, capped the march with a five yard plunge over the last stripe following a great second effort gain by Bellino.

The drive was highlighted by a beautiful 13-yard gain by Allard, who bootlegged right, faking to pass, and then sped to the Tanner 18 yard line.

The ensuing kickoff by Guarnaccia was received by Tanner George Smith, who powered for nine yards before being stopped by Jeff Micciche on the Woburn 39 yard line.

The Sachems tough defensive unit allowed runners Andy Chvio, the Middlesex leagues leading ground gainer, and Tom Massotta six yards on three attempts, forcing Skip Stocker to punt from his own 35 yard line.

Sam Bellino received the ball on the Sachem 31 yard line, and rushed for eight yards, the last three as a result of a great second effort.

Allard quickly got the Sachem offensive unit in gear, leading the team deep inside Tanner territory as the first quarter ended.

The second quarter began with the Sachems threatening on the Woburn ten yard line, but four touchdown attempts were thwarted by a scrappy Tanner defense.

The quarter proved to be no offensive showcase as both teams defensive units held fast until Anthony Davis following a punt by Stocker to the Sachems 16 yard line, burst off the left side breaking two tackles and scrambling for 21 yards.

Allard, racing the clock which showed three minutes remaining in the half, hit Nick Fitzgerald with a perfect aerial for 19 yards, and following a five yard gain by Bellino, hit sophomore Steve Wolf cutting across the middle for an additional 26 yards to the Tanner 14 yard line.

The Sachems could not be stopped as Mark O'Neil and Allard battled out 11 yards to Woburn's three, and Allard sprung through the middle on a quarterback keeper for the tally.

Local youths arrested in connection with break-ins

T'is the season for breaking and entering, according to police reports this past week. Police investigated many instances of breaking and entering as well as cases of theft and vandalism

Police believe they have arrested some of the youths responsible for a recent outbreak of break-ins in the area.

At 10:25 in the movning of Nov. 22, a Grove street resident reported that a group of youngsters were behaving suspiciously outside her house

When the police arrived, the boys scattered through the neighbors' backyards. One 14-year-old local youth was apprehended and denied knowing the other boys.

Evidence of forced entry was found at the rear of one of the homes. A second boy was caught. The three others ran down to the Sandy Beach area. Upon investigation, police found that entry was not gained into the house.

An hour later, a neighbor returned home on nearby Canterbury road to find her house had been ransacked. Some money, jewelry, and a 22 caliber revolver were missing.

The revolver was later recovered in the MDC maintenance shack at Sandy Beach. Inspector O'Neil of the police department discovered the identity of the youths and recovered some of the missing jewelry from them.

The boys were charged with breaking and entering with intent to commit larceny and will go to juvenile court. The oldest boy is 15 years old.

Another break occurred sometime after 6 a.m. Thursday at the Black Horse bootery. The window was broken and some small jewelry items, gloves, boots, and 25 leather handbags were stolen from the window display.

Thieves were apparently scared off by returning Madison avenue west residents on Nov. 23. The back door had been kicked in and a bag containing jewelry and silver was discovered on the kitchen floor.

Other breaks occurred Friday on Fenwick road, where three or four oriental rugs were taken from a vacant house. The owner is in a nursing home. A storm door was forced and a color television taken from a South Border road home that same day. Nothing was taken from a Lakeview road residence or a Dunster lane home, which were broken into that afternoon.

Vandals, believed to be youths, threw a stone through a window of an indoor tennis court on East street Sunday morning. At 10:50 p.m. on Saturday, a patrol car window was smashed with a cement block in the police station parking lot. The car door had also been kicked.

Police found a car burning on the dirt road off Cross st by the railroad tracks on the night of Nov. 23. The Sharon owner did not know that his car had been stolen. He thought that it had been towed in Boston, where it had been parked illegally.

Another car was reported stolen that night from the VFW parking lot. It was later recovered in Brookline, burned.

In other police news, two accidents were reported on Friday and Saturday.

A Medford woman was treated and released at Winchester Hospital following a car accident on Cambridge and Pond streets Friday evening. Her passenger and the driver of the other vehicle were uninjured.

A hit and run accident occurred at 2:30 a.m. on Saturday. A Winchester resident was driving down Washington street when a vehicle came out of Englewood road and struck her car in the right side. The red Ford sedan continued to drive north on Washington street. No injuries were reported.

Business machines were stolen from Fitzgerald Fuel Oil on 36 Church street sometime over the weekend.

The theft was discovered by Charles Fisk, the manager, when he entered the office at 8:05 a.m. Monday. Typewriters, duplicating machines, adding machines, calculators, and a Hoover vacuum cleaner were missing.

Police found no evidence of forced entry. No windows were broken and the rear door was locked.

Policeman's son arrested by MDC on assault charge

Michael Amico, 19, son of a Winchester police sergeant, was arrested by MDC police Thursday and charged with assault and battery with a dangerous weapon.

The arrest stems from an incident which occurred on South Border road at 2:30 in the morning. Michael Marino of Lawrence was hitchhiking when a blue station wagon carrying four boys and a girl stopped and picked him up. According to Marino, he was let out at South Border road, but Amico followed him out of the car and threatened him with a knife. Apparently Amico wanted Marino's jacket. When one of the youths tried to get Amico back into the car, Amico allegedly cut Marino in the face over his eye.

A South Border road resident heard Marino's cries for help. He was taken to Winchester Hospital for stitches.

Later on, the victim was taken to the scene of an accident at Forest and Grant streets. The car involved fit the description given by Marino and contained four boys and one girl. Marino then identified Amico.

Police made several more arrests last week, three for operating under the influence.

An 18-year-old Rejding man was arrested for operating under the influence and for idle and disorderly conduct following a disturbance on Main and Water streets Friday night. About 30 teenagers were involved in the disturbance.

A 49-year-old Woburn man was arrested for operating under the influence after his car struck two parked vehicles on Church street that same night. According to police, the man resisted arrest and had to be handcuffed.

On Nov. 23 at 4:30 p.m., a Medford woman was arrested for operating under the influence as a result of a small accident at Symmes Corner.

A local youth was arrested Saturday evening for operating a vehicle after the revocation of his license, attaching plates, and operating a vehicle without insurance.

★ Schools

plan proposed by Supt. MacDonald and that there would be a "better utilization of schools."

Plan 3: Along with the four-year high school and grades 7-8 at McCall, this plan would reopen the Wyman School and close Noonan, Ambrose, and Lincoln. Ambrose would be redistricted to Wyman, Parkhurst, and Lynch; Lincoln would be redistricted to Mystic, Washington, Muraco and Wyman; Noonan would be redistricted to Lynch.

Added advantages to this plan, according to the report, include eliminating the need for renovations to Ambrose (which would be required to expand the enrollment there under other plans), no children would have to cross Cambridge street, and the "geographical location of elementary schools throughout the town (would be) almost ideal."

All three plans point out that closing Lincoln would leave all elementary schools in the neighborhoods and away from thhe center of town, one of the additional criteria used by the Washington parents' in developing their plans. Other criteria, aside from those used by the Middle School Study Committee, include:

--Does the plan utilize the space we have in existing schools effectively?

--Can we accomodate the school population in a way which maximizes the effectiveness of the specialists' expanding roles in the elementary schools?

--Does the plan take into account the development potential of existing building lots within the various areas of the town?

--Does the plan take into accoumt predictably rising transportation costs?

The Washington parents were critical of the superintendent and the Middle School Study Committee on a number of points. Their report states:

"There is no evidence that the parents of any school district or the faculty of any elementary sany school district or the faculty of any elementary school scheduled to close were asked to contribute to the Middle School Study in any way. This appears to us as a serious breach of faith. In fact, Supt. Macdonald stated in the 1976 Enrollment Study Committee Report, "Cooperation of all members of the community should be sought in developing long range plans for our school system.' This clearly was not done."

The parents' also argued that the problems of implementation of any long range plan should be considered before a final decision is made as to what schools to close. They added that the implementation Study Committee proposed in the Middle School Report should be comprised of at least 60 per cent parents of elementary school children.

MacDonald said Monday night he "would like the parents to have input as we develop the plan and form the district lines."

"Anything that we can do we would like to be a part of," commented Golden.

Frank set the school committee meeting in two weeks as a "target date" for submission of any additional alternative plans. The board will discuss the implementation of a four-year high school at that meeting.

Frank added that the "target date" is not absolute, and that the committee would be open to further public input throughout the process of deciding on a long range plan for the schools:

and Winchester is getting more afternoon ice time. While the afternoon scheduling is more desireable, it also costs more per hour.

(In addition to paying for time, at the USA Rink, the school department takes home 50 per cent of the gate receipts, while the rink keeps the rest.)

Ice hockey, which has come under fire from the school committee in recent meetings, remains in the budget. However, Holland commented, "It would be better to defend a large budget for hockey if we had a better win-loss record."

The per player cost of ice hockey will stay about the same next year, according to figures compiled by Asst. Supt. Fallon. Those figures also show that the biggest increase in per player costs in the past few years has been in girls' sports, while the increase for all of the sports together has been slow.

Other budgets approved by the board Monday included the school lunch and school-community budgets.

The board Friday cut a proposed six per cent increase in the school lunch director's salary and raised the price of faculty food 10 per cent. The total budget request amounts to $88,259, up $11,416 from last year, primarily because of collective bargaining agreements, increased vacation allowance, and step increases in salaries.

While the operating costs are up by $7000, other expenses are down by $3500 and equipment costs are down by $3000, according to Fallon. Fallon noted the whole budget is up by less than the increase in the collective bargaining agreement.

A school-community budget of $19,000, down from the $22,000 budgeted last year, was also approved.

The board has criticized the community use of schools program as being disorganized and unnecessarily costly. Chairman Frank questioned whether money could be saved by coordinating community requests so that if two organizations meet on the same evening, they use the same school, thereby cutting the amount needed for custodians.

Fallon and MacDonald countered that they did not have the time or staff to undertake such an effort. A proposal to set up a subcommittee to look into the program and try to coordinate it with the recreation department was put off until after this year.

"I would like to explore other ways the community could use the school buildings," said Mrs. Papas, who cited programs in Brookline involving the elderly and the young. "I don't see it as a primary focus to save money," she added; "The idea is that the town has these facilities which are not being used anywhere near capacity."

Both the community use of schools and the school lunch budgets will be forwarded to the finance committee.

To keep the budgets as up-to-date as possible, the board has asked Fallon to check up on the various cash balances at the end of March and adjust the budgets accordingly before they go to town meeting.

Screening committee named for town comptroller's job

"Impressed by the caliber" of all applicants, the board of selectmen Monday night appointed a six-member screening committee to interview and recommend candidates for the job of town comptroller.

Named to serve on the committee were:

Paul Amico, former chairman and member of the finance committee and board of selectmen. Amico also served on the search committee to find a town manager.

David W. Donahue, vice-chairman of the finance committee.

John G. McElwee, a former member of several town boards and committees, including the town manager search committee.

John F. Mitchell, former member of the finance committee and town meeting member.

Sherman W. Saltmarsh Jr., state representative, former selectman. Saltmarsh also served on the town manager and town counsel search committees.

Lawrence T. Smith, former member and chairman of the board of selectmen and finance committee.

In making the appointments, Selectmen Chairman Barbara S. Hankins remarked on the "high level of service which these men have given to the town." Selectman Arthur E. Dunbar seconded those thoughts and added, "I am very impressed by the quality of these applicants." The other board members nodded their concurrence.

This is the second committee to be appointed within two weeks. The first, the audit advisory committee, was named last week. This committee also has six members, the number of applicants who applied. Rather than leave anyone off either committee, selectmen named all applicants to both groups. The board remarked several times during last week's meeting and Monday's session on the "high caliber" of applicants.

At Monday's meeting the board also gave its charge to the audit advisory committee before that new group met in its first session. The charge to the committee is in four parts:

To determine the scope of the audit of the town's books. The books have not been audited since March 1974 when the state last did them. Apparently the state will not be doing them again soon and the requirement is an audit every three years. Selectmen have decided to look for a private auditing firm to do the books and set up the advisory committee to assist them.

+To solicit proposals from auditing firms.

+To do preliminary screening of the auditing firms.

+To recommend between three and five auditing firms to the board of selectmen for their consideration.

The ad hoc committee includes Joseph V. Bentley, George A. Rowe, John J. Kupjian, John F. Padgett, Jeremiah J. Harrington Jr., and Stephen R. Parkhurst. Parkhurst had offered to serve on either the audit advisory committee or the town comptroller search committee. Selectmen felt his services would be more valuable on the audit committee.

At the next board meeting, Monday night, selectmen will give their charge to the search committee.

selectmen to consider, the purchase of the train station downtown.

"Should the town ... become the owner of the station...we could...lease commercial space within the structure itself to stores, offices, etc. and at the same time make physical improvements to the property," Groux told selectmen.

Groux said he had "no idea" if such a sale would be approved by either the owner or the town, but he did think the board should consider it. If the idea seems feasible, Groux suggested that the assessors, building department, police, planning board, board of health, recreation department, and town counsel all make recommendations.

In his memo, Groux said, "The town meeting's negative vote regarding the center study report seemed to me to be a vote against spending additional town funds for studies, but was not necessarily a vote against some of the concepts advanced by the center study committee itself."

The board will take Groux's memo under advisement.

A peaceful start

The battle lines are being drawn, so to speak, over the issue of what schools to close in the coming years. However, there are signs that the fight might be less bloody than the one over the closing of the Wyman School last year.

That some reorganization must take place can hardly be denied. Enrollments have dropped more than 1000 students since 1970; it is projected that they will continue to drop in the next few years. There are more empty seats in the classrooms now than there were before the Wyman School was closed.

All of the plans proposed to date, including 10 alternatives from the school administration and three from the Washington School parents, take into account a four-year high school. We have heard no opposition to that idea as of yet, and moving the ninth grade into Winchester High School seems likely.

As for the middle schools, the most commonly repeated scheme is to put seventh and eighth grades into McCall Junior High School downtown. And, according to Superintendent of Schools William C. MacDonald, there is no clear consensus among educators which says any one arrangement of middle grades is that much better than any other.

So the problem at hand is really how many elementary schools to keep and which ones to close. The reaction of the Wyman parents last year indicates how delicate a question this really is.

What could have been the first skirmish Monday night went more smoothly than expected. The Washington parents presented their alternative plans to the school committee — written out in some detail — and the committee agreed to consider the proposals and work with the parents in figuring out the relative costs of the plans. The committee also extended their deadline for presentation of alternative plans two weeks. Even that date, said Chairman Robert Frank, is a "target date," not an absolute deadline.

The atmosphere was, considering the subject at hand, surprisingly peaceful. When the school board asked for other alternative plans two weeks ago, the Washington parents took them seriously; when the plans came in Monday night, the school board in turn took them seriously.

The hard decisions have yet to be made, but the beginning is auspicious. If the process of narrowing the options continues to be open to public input, and if the public continues to provide that input, the closing of schools in Winchester should be less painful in the future. — DKF

Bay State roll call

Week of Nov. 14-18

Four roll calls were held in the Senate last week. Sen. Samuel Rotondi has attended all 309 of this year's roll calls for a perfect attendance record. One of the four votes is recorded below.

By 19-13 the Senate rejected an amendment to a bill providing for a $600 pay raise for state employees and legislators not covered by collective bargaining. The amendment would have postponed the effective date of the hike for legislators until Jan. 1, 1979.

Sen. Rotondi voted against postponing the effective date of the pay raise.

In the House, most of the action last week centered around creation of an ethics code. Twenty-seven roll calls were held, raising the total this year to 619.

Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh has a 99 per cent attendance record for the year (616 of 619) and made all 27 roll calls last week. Votes on 11 of those are described below.

The House reversed itself and voted by voice vote to defeat an amendment to the ethics code which would have reduced from $100 to $35 the amount of gifts a House member can accept from "an individual who has a direct interest in legislation." The vote came after a 173-54 vote to reconsider the amendment, which was passed in the House the week before.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted for the amendment to reduce the gift limit both times.

The House rejected another amendment on gifts which would have barred House members from accepting more than $50 in gifts, food, and beverages annually from lobbyists and legislative agents registered with the state secretary. The vote was 121-104. Rep. Saltmarsh voted for the $50 limit.

Proponents of the $35 and $50 limits argued that the limits were not unreasonable, would tighten the ethics code, and would limit the wining and dining of legislators by special interest groups and lobbyists.

The opponents of the $35 limit claimed the amendment was petty, silly, and an unncecessary and unworkable restriction on socializing with friends; noted that it is difficult to find anyone in the state without a

Breach of faith

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The reorganization of the Winchester School System is a concern to all taxpayers and parents in Winchester. However, there is no evidence that the parents of any school district or the faculty of any elementary school scheduled to close were asked to contribute to the Middle School Study. This appears to us as a serious breach of faith. In fact Supt. MacDonald stated in the 1976 Enrollment Study Committee Report that "Cooperation of all members of the community should be sought in developing long range plans for our school system." This clearly was not done.

Had Winchester parents been involved in the original planning process, additional criteria to those proposed by the Middle School Study Committee undoubtedly would have been used. We believe the following criteria should also be considered before making any decision:

a) Does the plan utilize the space we have in existing schools effectively?

b) Can we accommodate the student population in a way which maximizes the effectiveness of the specialists' expanding roles in the elementary school?

c) Does the plan take into account the development potential of existing building lots within the various areas of the town?

d) Does the plan take into account predictably rising transportation costs?

e) Does the plan take into account the desirability of keeping elementary school children out of the center?

As concerned parents, we have presented to the School Committee three alternative plans to those presented by the Middle School Study Committee. In as much as there has been insufficient time to research and develop the necessary supporting data, financial or statistical, these plans are incomplete. However, they are no more incomplete than those of the Middle School Study Committee.

The plans we have presented preserve the character of the neighborhood concept in Winchester. The elements of our plan provide for:

a) Keeping the elementary schools, and therefore the younger school children, away from the center of town;

b) Returning valuable land to the tax rolls of the Town of Winchester;

c) The opportunity to consolidate school offices and other town departments to a single location in the center of town.

By presenting these alternative plans, we are expressing our desire as parents and taxpayers to play a concrete role in the reorganization of the Winchester School System.

Car accidents

EDITOR OF THE STAR:
To the MDC:

Last year our neighborhood had a meeting with Sgt. O'Toole of the Fells Station, Jerry Falvey of your office, and other MDC officials to ask for help in our never-ending battle to cut down on the serious car accidents on South Border road and Mystic Valley parkway in Winchester. The cooperation that we received did temporarily slow down the traffic and improve the road conditions enough to successfully reduce the tragic scenes that we witness so frequently.

Again we ask for your assistance. In the past two weeks, we have had two tragic head on collisions and several other serious accidents within a 100-yard section of South Border road and Mystic Valley parkway. The traffic is again picking up speed to the point where we are concerned for our lives and property. We therefore request that you send a "Tops" radar patrol unit (and several chase cars if needed) to patrol the section of South Border road and Mystic Valley parkway between Leslie road and Highland avenue in Winchester.

This should be done on successive Friday and Saturday nights between 8 p.m. and 2 a.m. on consecutive weekends. This is when the accidents are happening, because the same cars are seen week after week racing home from their weekend evening entertainment in Boston. They know from years of experience that this section of road is rarely patrolled and very enjoyable to drive at high speeds.

We are sure that an increased police presence will again put enough hesitation in these frequently intoxicated drivers to slow down as they pass through our heavily populated neighborhoods on the icy roads this winter.

We also hope that the meaning of "increased police protection" WILL NOT mean having the signers of this petition being tagged for having their bumpers over the sidewalk as was the case last time.

We anxiously await your response.

(This letter, sent to the MDC last week, was signed by 16 residents of the parkway and South Border road.)

Gourmet delight

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

When I see the word "gourmet" I look, read and enjoy. Recently I saw the advertisement for the Gourmet Dinner Show at the Northeast Vocational School and I purchased tickets for my wife, myself and some friends.

The dinner was a huge success with approximately 600 people in attendance. The students in the food and culinary classes at Northeast Vocational School acted as waiters and waitresses. They were nervous (who wouldn't be), but otherwise very good. They were very polite and most of all they tried hard and cared about their patrons.

The purpose of the dinner was to raise money for a culinary trip to Spain this coming summer so that students can see and learn more about Continental cuisine.

In a day when taxes are on everybody's mind, it would do you good to visit this school and see the good the taxes are doing. Being big on discipline and respect, I notice no lack of it here. Neither did I see any evidence of vandalism.

The dinner, which included stuffed tomatoes and shrimp, chicken breast Normandy-style, roast sirloin of beef, green salad, fruit platter, cheesecake topped with strawberries, homemade rolls and coffee, was a very great success.

The entertainment supplied by Romies of Danvers was very good and oriented to the Broadway stage theme. I was entertained and in all its was a very rewarding experience.

Thanks Red Cross

EDITOR OF THE STAR:
To the Red Cross Chapter:

Thank you so very much for the kindness you have given me. It is no wonder that Winchester is considered a special place to live.

Your Red Cross Chapter has been so very kind to me during a very difficult year. With true thankfullness,

Kindest words

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

"Perhaps you sent a lovely card,
Or sat quietly in a chair;
Perhaps you sent a floral piece,
If so, we saw it there.

"Perhaps you spoke the kindest words,
As any friend could say;
Perhaps you were not there at all,
Just thought of us that day.

"Whatever you did to console our hearts,
We thank you so much whatever the part."

We wish to extend our deepest appreciation to all those who so readily came forward to comfort us in our recent deep loss of our beautiful John.

Thanks firemen

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

On Friday, Nov. 11, 1977, three members of your (the fire department's rescue) squad promptly responded to a call for assistance. My husband had suffered a heart attack. The men were helpful and very efficient in their handling of an emergency situation.

My family would like to publicly thank the department for their help; and inform them that my husband is now doing very well.

With sincere thanks,

The DPW is putting the finishing touches on the evergreens on the rotary and the center and maybe by this weekend the holiday lights will be on.

After the burnt-out bulbs have been replaced and the wires strung, an electrician will check it all out and then the timer will be hooked up.

The lights will be on from sunset to about 1 a.m. through the holiday season.

The town's geese and ducks have been safely quartered for the winter months in the park department's Lake street facility.

This week Joe Knowles, Richard Casalinuovo, and Norman Doucette Jr. brought out the nets and motor boats for the annual round-up of the water fowl.

According to Robert Tofuri of the DPW, the flight feathers of ten geese and the white ducks have been cut to keep them from flying away. The domesticated animals would freeze to death in the pond if they stayed over the winter and so every November the men gather them up and take care of them until the spring thaw.

The ducks are taken to a farm in Woburn for winter care and are returned to the town in spring. Tofuri does not know what happened to the black swan which graced the mill pond for several months before disappearing in the spring. The other one was killed by a dog.

The mill pond is undoubtedly one of our more valuable assets. The frozen surface, while treacherous in the winter, is beautiful, but we will be glad to see the ducks and geese swimming again in the spring, with the willow trees and plantings reminding us again of the value of green space and water.

The MBTA is anticipating plenty of folks will take advantage of the Sunday shopping allowed between now and Christmas, so they have added to their train and bus services for the remaining Sundays before Christmas. Most buses will be running more frequently than usual on Sundays, and extra buses will be put on key routes if necessary.

The article which town meeting passed petitioning the state legislature to allow a restaurant in town with a liquor license, is in the process of being drafted for the Great and General Court.

Whip Saltmarsh reports that he will try to get the bill through this session so that the town can place the question on the March ballot in a referendum. He expects it to be filed as a late bill next week and then the next step is up to the legislature.

Speaking of our state representative, we note that he has broken a bone in his foot and is sporting a rather elegant blue knit foot covering.

Pauline McNulty, data processing manager, met with the board of selectmen Monday night to let them know how things are going in her department. The board has been calling in department heads for regular briefings since the summer.

Ms. McNulty did an extraordinarily fine job of explaining highly technical material. She is to be commended for an intelligent and comprehensive presentation. It was a pleasure to hear her.

The data processing center is in the basement of Town Hall and Ms. McNulty watches over her Honeywell with obvious care.

We look forward to the next time she emerges from the depths!

...out of joint

A doe, a deer

By David Funkhouser

My roommate and I were gazing at the Miss World Pageant on the tube the other night, when I spied a comely young lady in the lineup dressed in some rather chic looking buckskins.

"That's quite a lovely little doe there," said I, thinking I had finally come up with an inoffensive nickname for the opposite sex.

My roommate glared back at me.

"You know, a doe, a deer," I began to supplicate. "Soft, pretty, graceful — wouldn't it be a fine existence to spend your days bounding through the forest?"

"A deer, my dear," replied the owner of that liberated glare, "is an animal. Besides, there's an open season on them, and they get shot."

End discussion.

I rose from the kitchen table and went back to my quarters to hunt through my grabbag for some new terminology. Some of the terms were pretty old and musty and I had to throw them out right away. There were others I had to burn, for fear of being discovered and guillotined on the spot.

Rummaging through my collection, I couldn't help but notice how many terms were the names of animals: I had a regular barnyard on my hands. Some were archaic, practically Chaucerian; others read like postcards from around the globe:

Chick, hen, bird, gull, mare, filly, sow, cow, lamb, chickadee, honeybee, gazelle, canary, kitten, cat, tigress, mouse... it goes on and on, and most of them had to go into the shredder.

It hardly seemed fair to the animals that they should be rejected simply because they were born with four legs or fur on their backs. I did keep "doe" though, for use when hunting season is closed. And I held on to others, three which I felt make their points succinctly and without discrimination based on sex: jackass, turkey, and pigeon.

After that rather frustrating experience, I returned to the kitchen to find my roommate still gazing at the Miss World Pageant.

"Look at you," I said to her, "Have you no taste? You'd think you grew up in a barn..."

Dying wish

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

It will be five years ago this January when a healthy, 15 year-old boy from Bridgeport, Conn., was stricken; John Pinto was a high school student and his interest was sports. While trying out for the football team, he received a severe head injury. The blow caused some headaches, and in a few weeks, the headaches became worse, and finally unbearable.

He had to be taken to Boston's Lahey Clinic, and a brain tumor was discovered. In all there were three major operations to follow, and finally the sad news: nothing could be done; John ahd a rare type brain tumor (chondromyxoid fibroma) and the doctors told his parents, "to enjoy John while they could."

About a year and a half ago, Mail for Tots, (a non-profit organization, which has volunteers who corresond with sick children) received a letter about John Pinto. That letter prompted us to help cheer him - and John is not lonely now, as he has correspondents throughout the United States, encouraging him in his fight for life.

He is a fighter; but the going is getting rougher. He can no longer read his mail; he is blind in one eye, and has little vision in the other. His mother reads the mail to him. He is confined to either a wheelchair or to his bed. To make matters worse, there is a noticeable hearing loss in recent weeks.

John's mom and dad would move mountains with their bare hands if it would help their son. I have known them to travel hundreds of miles in a 12-year-old station wagon, just to have their son attend faith healing services, the only hope left!

Frank and Murile Pinto, (John's parents), have told me that John used to talk about seeing Disney World in Florida. "He never metions it anymore," but "He keeps all the travel brochures." John is aware of the medical bills and other expenses which continue to burden his parents, and that is the reason he does not mention it anymore.

I believe it is time for his wish to come true; he should see his Disney World - with his loving parents at his side. If readers would like to help make this trip possible, donations should be made payable to: "The John Pinto Fund" and mailed to: The Boston Five Cents Savings Bank, One Center Plaza, Boston, 02108. Funds are for airline tickets, hotel accommodations and pocket money, for fun!

Edmund G. Burns
Mail for Tots

P. S. If donors would include a stamped, self-addressed envelope, I will be happy to send news about the Disney World trip upon the Pintos' return.

(Editor's note: Edmund Burns is a former resident of Winchester and a member of the Winchester Elks Club. He now lives in Brookline and is president of Mail for Tots, which has been registered with the IRS and the state attorney general's office as a not-for-profit charity.)

CETA employees clear debris from one of the drainage ditches that feeds Winchester's three reservoirs with runoff.

CETA programs

'It puts food on the table'

By Robert Manuel

"It puts food on the table and pays the bills." Bob Hildebrand was expressing what his new job, working in the Winchester reservoirs, means to him and his family. His comments could easily apply to eighteen other men, who, thanks to funding from Medford CETA, have an opportunity to be gainfully employed.

According to Howard Chase, coordinator for all CETA programs for the town of Wincheser, "some of these men haven't held a job in a year, but since the program started last June, that has all changed because of the approximately $105,000. from Medford CETA."

Chase said that the monies go primarily for salaries and fringe benefits to the 19 men who do maintenance work on a watershed reclamation project, comprising 812 acres, that includes the three reservoirs from which the town of Winchester draws its water supply.

Besides clearing away brush, and cutting down old trees, the men make sure that the drainage areas that feed the resevoirs from the mountain and spring runoffs, are free of debris. This enables cleaner water to flow more efficiently to the reservoirs.

According to Chase, this is no small contribution to the community, when you consider that Winchester consumes about three million gallons of water per day. "The men are doing a tremendous job," says Chase.

Some of them were in very desperate circumstances when they came aboard the project. In one especially tragic situation, recalls Chase, a man was about to lose his home as well as the possible breakup of his family. But thanks to this CETA funded project, he was able to save both.

Hopefully, all of the men will be able to find full-time jobs when the six month project ends in December. Already, revealed Chase, three of them have been picked up by Winchester for permanent jobs, and seven others have been placed in private positions.

But in the meantime, as Bob Hildebrand puts it, "My family has some security and I have a sense of purpose."

Space and time running short for 10-yr.-old town computer

"The town has run out of computer space and time." Pauline McNulty, data processing manager, spoke to the board of selectmen Monday night as part of their effort to meet with department heads regularly to keep abreast of developments within the various town boards and departments.

Ms. McNulty is concerned about the potential of a data processing system which, after 10 years of service, is doing as much as it can do.

There are 18 major applications in the Honeywell 110 system which is located in the basement of Town Hall. Ms. McNulty says she is getting requests for more processing but with this set-up she can't do it. Winchester has had its computer since 1968.

"It came on to do the bread and butter processing, but now we need to update and expand," Ms. McNulty told the board. At their suggestion, she will look over requests which have been made to see where and if there is a need for upgrading of the Honeywell 110 or for lease or purchase of a more sophisticated system.

Data processing handles, among other things, posting and balancing of the town collector's books, billing and collecting of water and real estate bills, and sorting 16,000 people alphabetically and numerically for jury duty.

It also does the town census, voter list, payroll, accounts payable, redistricting of town lines, warrant labels, dog clinic notification, report cards for grades 7-12, attendance records for grades K-12, labels for the school department on request, grade levels and averages, and the real estate tax book every five years.

Ms. McNulty would like to see the system do even more, like excise tax collection and statistical listings for the fire department. She says the computer could do monthly retirement payment schedules as well.

The problem is the limit to the memory which the system has. It is pretty well filled now.

The high school has a computer but, Ms. McNulty says, it would not be practicable to use it for large-scale data processing. "It is essentially a teaching tool, and a very good one," she said, "but it is not made to handle the kinds of problems we would be asking it to do. The process would be too slow."

She went on, "The memory and speed of the present system is crippling. Winchester is fast coming to a crossroads. Do we continue on maintenance or do we explore new fields and do new things?"

In answer to that, the board of selectmen asked Ms. McNulty to take a closer look at what she thinks the town's needs are.

Asked about the physical surroundings where she works, Ms. Nulty said that "we would like a window" but that generally the room is adequate for data processing. Even if the town chose a more sophisticated system, she said, a larger room would not be needed because the newer machines tend to be more compact than the older ones.

There are, however, problems with humidity and air conditioning which can sometimes cause the computer to stop working properly. More sopisticated computers are even more sensitive to dampness and improper temperature than are the simpler machines.

Ms. McNulty also told the board that she would like to see data processing contained within its own department and not under the administration of the comptroller's office as it is now. "It seems time to recognize the ten years we have had data processing in Winchester. We serve all departments, school, engineering, town clerk, collector, comptroller, police, fire and it seems that data processing should be a department unto itself, reporting to the town manager."

Ms. McNulty and the board of selectmen talked for about 45 minutes, with both sides apparently pleased with the tone of the discussion and the manner of presentation.

High school update

Wasted efforts?

By Gina Alfano

The curtain opens and the performers begin. The auditorium is nearly empty. Only a few seats are filled. Where is the audience?

The little support for art, music and theater events given by the students of Winchester High School contrasts with the great enthusiasm of these same students for athletic events. Why is there such a noticeable difference in interest? The time and effort it takes to perform a concert or a play, or to create a piece of artwork is equal to the time and effort that it takes to participate in a sport. Yet the efforts of a musician, an actor, or an artist are little appreciated by fellow students.

What arts does WHS have to offer? Throughout the year, the music department stages concerts which include the chorus, band and orchestra. The art department exhibits artworks at the Winchester Public Library. Also throughout the year, members of the Curtain & Cue present various productions and join the music department for their annual musical. These events are well supported by relatives and friends. Yet the overwhelming apathy of the rest of the school and the town for these efforts is discouraging.

Participating in an art of any kind is not considered "in" by many of the students. Quite often students involved in these activities are looked down upon by their peers and their efforts are generally treated with disrespect. How often do students groan when they see the band marching in the field? But how many of those students and townspeople actually listen to the band as they diligently play at every football game? Many art students find that their artwork has been defaced during an exhibit. How many people, excluding relatives and friends, plan to attend the theatrical performances at the high school?

There are those who do strongly support and appreciate the efforts of these students. But there are too many who don't. Spending an evening at a play or a concert is a small favor to ask for those students who spend so much time preparing for these events.

Maybe the apathy is the result of an overemphasis on sports. The school itself emphasizes the achievements of the athletic department with numerous pep rallies. The school committee allots an immense amount of money for sports and very little for other extra-curricular activities. Maybe the scornful attitude of the students is the result of this over-emphasis on sports.

But whatever the reason, the fact remains — those students involved in the arts are discouraged by the lack of support.

Does Winchester choose to be artistically dead?

UNICEF cards

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Board of Church Women United of Winchester would like to thank all those volunteers from the 10 churches of Winchester who are giving generously of their time at this busy season to staff the booths selling UNICEF cards and gift items. Sales at the Winchester Post Office went well, and we extend thanks to those who supported the sale and whose purchases will assist UNICEF in its work in providing good nutrition, health care, and education to the world's neediest children.

Sales will continue daily from 10:15 to 4:45 at the Star Market, Woburn Plaza, through December 16. Mrs. David Dettinger, Chairman, replishes stocks regularly, so that a full selection of all the attractive items is available. Proceeds from the sale of even one box of cards can enable UNICEF to provide vitamins to supplement a child's diet for a year.

We also thank The The Star for help in publicizing the dates and location of sales.

Frances Elliott

Bombarded

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

From now until Christmas we will be bombarded by United Nations propaganda emanating from fanatic, pro-UN outfits, including the United Nations Association of the USA, the Institute for World Order, and the League of Women Voters. Don't let them kid you!

People have been conditioned to think of the UN as the last best hope for peace. Not only is this pure bunkum, but actually the UN Charter is designed to promote war. The Honorable J. Reuben Clark Jr., former undersecretary of state and ambassador to Mexico, in an analysis of the UN Charter completed in August 1945, said:

"There is no provision in the charter itself that contemplates ending war. It is true that the charter provides for force to bring peace, but such use of force is itself war. . . The charter is built to prepare for war, not to promote peace. . . The charter is a war document, not a peace document."

Since the UN was founded, 367,745 American boys have been killed or wounded in two major wars, in Korea and Vietnam. That's more American men than were killed or wounded in the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, the Spanish-American War, and World War I combined. Over the lifetime of the UN, there have been at least 100 armed conflicts which it did nothing to prevent.

When you are pressured to buy UNICEF Christmas cards for "humanitarian" purposes, when the kids come knocking at your door innocently asking for money for UNICEF to "feed the starving children of the world," remember that UNICEF has bowed down to Marxist manipulation and now regularly gives millions of dollars to the most brutal communist dictatorships to use in any way they see fit, which most assuredly does not include feeding the starving children of the world!

Rupert W. Kuglin

Health to you!

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Winchester Board of Health, the Winchester Seniors Association and the Tri-Commnmunity Health Services, Inc. have united their efforts in providing a series of health education programs for Winchester citizens. The first meeting concerned itself with hypertension through lecture and films. Plans are underway for similar meetings pertaining to dietary foods, immunization, diabetes control, and other health related topics.

Appreciation is extended to the Aberjona Civic Association and the Sons of Italy for the use of the hall and the generous donation of refreshments; to Jack Rudolph for providing the projector and running the machine; and to Jane Tappia and Mary Manning for their services as instructors.

Publicity will be given to the next program in the series. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance of people of all ages. When the Jenks Senior Center opens, it is probable that meetings will be scheduled in the new facilities.

UNICEF sales continue at post office

Volunteers from the 10 churches of Winchester are joining in an effort to help the world's children through the sale of UNICEF greeting cards and gift items, with the sale continuing daily from 9 to 3:30 at the Winchester post office through December 3. Sales have been brisk, but Mrs. David Dettinger, chairman, has replenished supplies regularly so that an excellent selection remains.

Beginning Monday and continuing through December 16 Church Women United volunteers will offer a complete selection of UNICEF stationery, cards, and gift items at a second location at the Star Market, Woburn Plaza, from 10:15-4:45.

UNICEF cards are designed by leading artists from all over the world. There are many educational gifts for children as well. All proceeds go in a concrete way toward helping children in more than 100 countries.

Funds on hand for elderly to winterize homes

The Eastern Middlesex Opportunities Council, Inc., is reactivating its winterization program for the coming season.

This is a government-funded program geared to energy conservation through help with weatherstripping, caulking, pipe covering, installation of plastic storm windows, minor repairs, and other means of conserving heat. Money left in the old SCIP fund is to be used strictly for oil but does not include repairs on oil burners. Arthur Fonseca, a member of the Winchester Council on Aging, is the Winchester represenative to the Energy Conservation Project Advisory Committee. He reports that fuel oil will be available during the latter part of December.

Senior citizens whose incomes are less than $3712.50 per year for a single person and $4975 for two people are eligible for this assistance. Contact the office of the Council on Aging, 729-2111 to obtain an application. Do not delay action if you qualify for this Emergency Crisis Intervention Program. Money allocated for the project is going fast and winter storms and freezing temperatures are on the way.

Eleven complete Red Cross course

Winchester Chapter of American Red Cross has issued certificates of achievement to 11 persons who recently passed the vital CPR course (cardiopulmonary resuscitation).

The course was given at Winchester High School as part of the adult education program. Paul McLaughlin was the instructor.

The men and women certified in the recent course are: Rudy Bouhuys, Jane Hoffnagle, Linda Haugh, Wayne Haugh, George McHugh, Peggy McHugh, Carole G. Nijssen, Prescott Randlett, Paula Battinelli, Lesley McCumber and Jill Wagner.

The chapter also reports that Jean Ellis received her CPR certification in September; her name was inadvertantly omitted from a previous list published in The Star.

Another course in CPR will be offered at the second session of the adult education program at the high school beginning in early February.

Nursing services expanded

Winchester's school children will be receiving better nursing services in the near future, and it won't cost anymore than the present system.

Mn Monday night, the school board accepted a plan to reallocate personnel so that health aides take over much of the work now done by nurses, thus freeing the nurses to spend more time on first aid and health consultation.

The plan, which costs the same as the system currently in operation, was presented to the committee by Frank Bianco, director of special education and pupil services. Bianco undertook an analysis of the nursing services in the schools at the request of the school committee earlier this year.

The health services are provided for the school system by Tri-Community Health Inc. under a contract with the school department. Under the new plan, Tri-Community would continue to provide the personnel. The cost of the new program is $37,019, about the same as budgeted this year for regular health services. Chapter 766 (special education) services would remain as budgeted at $11,900.

Bianco estimated that about 30 per cent of the nursing time could be picked up by assigning health aides to perform tasks now performed by nurses. He said the aides could pick up half the time spent in administering vision and hearing tests, the 14 per cent of the nurses' time spent on record keeping, and the 15 per cent of their time spent administering first aid "without any loss of service."

This rearrangement would give the nurses more time for emergency care, more time in the schools, and more accessibility for teacher and parent conferences. Since the aides work for $4.10 an hour, versus $11.30 per hour for the nurses, expanded services could be provided without increasing the overall cost of the program.

Noting that there was "a concensus among the principals" that better coverage was needed in the schools, as opposed to more services, Bianco estimated the new plan would add 1482 hours of service to the program.

Under the current plan, each elementary school gets about four hours of the nurses' time each week. Said Bianco, "Four hours is clearly not enough." The new plan would increase that time to about five-and-a-half hours per week.

Board Chairman Robert Frank was skeptical of the need for expanded services, noting that he had heard no great demand for increases. "There is a question, in my mind as to whether the direction of the plan as a whole is ok," Frank said. He suggested that the 30 per cent of the nurses' time saved might be cut from the budget altogether. "We haven't heard the need articulated," Frank commented.

Elementary principals George Flynn and Clare Corcoran both commented on the need for better coverage in their schools and said the nurses provide "valuable support services" for the regular school personnel. Flynn suggested the program should provide for quicker access to the schools by medical personnel in the event of emergencies. "Keep it as it is and build it up, don't water it down," said Flynn.

"Either something is awry here, or I'm very obtuse," said committee member Constance Papas, "This is exactly what we asked for." She resisted Frank's idea to reduce the budget, favoring the plan recommended by Bianco.

When asked by Frank for more detail on how the nurses; extra time would be used, Bianco indicated that the report he had prepared was specific. He said he had spent 40 hours working on the plan, along with the staff from Tri-Community and other school personnel, and concluded, "I see no reason, other than management, why we couldn't implement (the plan) this year."

While the principals felt more time should be allocated for medical services, Bianco reported that "the majority of community members conversely felt that not enough was offered in the area of a health curriculum, sex education, drug usage, personal hygiene, etc." Bianco recommended holding off on addicg any nurses' time for those areas until a curriculum dealing with those issues is in place.

Bianco noted that alcohol use is on the increase, and he suggested that an educational program on alcohol "would be an appropriate shift of services and personnel."

A motion by board member Heinrich Holland to maintain the current plan was defeated 1-4; the committee then voted unanimously to adopt the new plan.

Hist. society field trip to Longfellow home

The Longfellow House in Cambridge will be the main attraction of the Dec. 4 field trip, sponsored by the Winchester Historical Soceity.

This house, built in 1759, is a fine example of Georgian Colonial architecture. It was the home of George and Martha Washington during the siege of Boston, and the home of Longfellow from 1837 to 1892. Many of his best known poems were written here.

One Society member has commented, "For years I've meant to visit the Longfellow House, and now I'm really going to do it." Anyone interested in local historical homes may join the members on Sunday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. at the archival center for the Cambridge trip. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Harold Gold, 21 Jefferson rd.

School board to meet with WHS parents

The Winchester School Committee is going back to school — literally and figuratively.

The committee has started a program designed to learn first-hand what problems in the schools parents are most concerned about. Representative groups of two members of the committee are going to each school in town at announced evening sessions just to listen to the parents in the schools.

The next meeting is scheduled for the high school on Wednesday, at 7:30 p.m. in the social studies area of the school. Robert Frank, chairman of the committee, and Heinrich Holland will be there to answer parents' questions — and ask some of their own.

Although much of the evening's discussion will undoubtedly center on the superintendent's proposal for restructuring the schools, the committee representatives also want the parents' thoughts on any other subjects. Such topics as the degree of discipline in the school, the seven-period scheduling, the Max-Ed program, the school's academic excellence, and the success of the new CLIP program will surely be reaised by the high school parents.

Chairman Frank responded to a question about the purpose of these visits by saying, "We on the school committee are residents of the town. We try to sense the feelings of the townspeople about school matters through all means available to us, both official and unofficial. But we feel it is necessary to go beyond the usual mechanisms to hear from parents. The formal, town-wide attitudinal survey four years ago was one attempt. The present committee wants to meet face-to-face with, and listen to, those whom it is serving most directly — the parents of the students in the schools."

All school committee meetings are open to the public, and many other channels are available for the public to register their opinions to the department. But the committee is taking this route to reach out beyond the normal means to listen to the public. It has already had similar meetings with the teachers in each school to hear about the classroom and curriculum side of various situations. It is now the parents turn to "educate" the committee. All those with ideas to share and questions to raise are urged to attend this meeting.

Friborg plays on NE All-star team

John Friborg, a graduate of Winchester High School and a senior at Williams College in Williamstown, was one of the New England Soccer League All-stars who played Nov. 20 at Eastern Connecticut State Collge. The New England Soccer League is the oldest soccer league in the United States.

His 18 goals and eight assists in three seasons make Friborg the second highest scorer in Williams soccer history, second only to John Buehler, an All-American in 1973.

Williams Soccer Coach Jeff Vennell says Friborg could be "counted on for aggressive play and the clutch goal. He's been a three-year starter, a consistently high scorer and generally one of the finest soccer players I've had the opportunity to work with."

For the All-Star game at Eastern Connecticut, the players were divided into a red and a blue squad. Friborg's team, the blue squad was the 3 to 1 winner.

At Winchester High School Friborg was captain and all-stte in soccer his senior year. He was also captain of his track team and all-state in the low hurdles. He is the son of John and Joan Friborg of 7 Penn rd.

..Deadline for news copy for The Star is Monday at 5 p.m. News releases should be typed, double-spaced if possible, and they should include the sender's name and phone number.

Is your home showing its age?

If your curiosity is stirred by the thought that your old house might have been a barn, or a schoolhouse, or was moved to make way for a new storefront, or library, or town hall, then you owe it to yourself to peruse the display case near the main desk at the Winchester Public Library during the month of December.

The Winchester Historical Commission is using the space there to show what's new with its inventory project. A survey of old houses in town, the principal goal of the inventory is to photograph and gather data on the town's historical assets so that there will be a base on which to plan community preservation.

One volunteer in this effort is Henry Simonds of Crescent road. He recently made a report to the commission at their November meeting on the research he has just completed. He presented a street by street list of some 2000 houses that appear on the Sanborn Atlas of 1916 and are still standing today.

In addition to this 102 page list of dwellings 60 years old or more, Simonds enclosed a separate list of dwellings that were moved, and barns and fish hatcheries and boat houses that were converted into dwellings, with appropriate dates, and a separate list of nearly 350 houses that age 100 years old or more.

Since beginning this research in April 1976, Simonds has spent 3000 hours pouring over town reports, maps, poll tax lists, old newspapers, and street directories, and reported that he found it immensely interesting and rewarding. He was quick to thank the historical society, Town Archivist Ed Galvin, and the many life-long citizens who provided him with a wealth of information.

Another volunteer, Marjorie McCann-Estridge of Glengarry road, arranged the library display to attract more residents like Simonds. Ms. McCann-Estridge is photography coordinator for the survey, and had worked earlier versions of Simonds' lists into map form, so that she could arm a small cadre of volunteer photographers with kits containing badges, film, address forms, and the town engineer's lot plans marked with houses to photograph. One third of the town has already been covered in this manner.

While volunteer support is still needed, some professional help can be obtained after January 1, 1978, when the commission will be in receipt of a $5000 survey and planning grant from the state commission. This grant will be matched by the town.

The library display, continuing all this month, contains more information on the grant, details on how anyone can help with the inventory at large, and ideas on how to research one's own house just for fun or to receive a plaque or certificate from the Commission for it.

Did you know that the homes of nearly one-third of the town's population are more than 60 years old? The locating and photographing of these dwellings for the Winchester Historical Commission's old house survey is well underway. Two of the volunteers at work on the project are Henry Simonds, left, and Marjorie McCann-Estridge.

Fortnightly to celebrate President's Day

Presidents' Day, the first in several years, will be celebrated by The Fortnightly Dec 12 beginning at 12:30 p.m. at Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Richard C. Shepoard, president of Fortnightly, will preside. Mrs. F. William Ahearn, recording secretary of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, will be specially honored, together with the presidents of women's clubs in the eighth district of the MSFWC.

A tea under the supervision of Mrs. Gerald F. Mosher and her committee, with Mrs. Harold Given and Mrs. Harold Bergquist pouring, will precede a program featuring the choral group, the Lynnfield Larks.

Newcomers plan Christmas party, dinner Dec. 10th

Winchester Newcomers Club has scheduled a Christmas dinner party as the principal social event for its 1977-78 season.

The party is to be held at 8 p.m. Dec. 10, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Peter Rotolo, 51 Westland ave.

Dinner will follow a social hour, during which cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be provided.

All club members and their husbands are invited to attend. But reservations must be made by Dec. 5 with Mrs. Rotolo or Mrs. Peter Biggs, 69 Beacon st.

Parkhurst 'Pops' is tomorrow night

The Parkhurst School will hold its holiday "Pops" evening tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at St. Eulalia's Church hall to benefit the enrichment fund. Music will be by the Waterfield Consort under the direction of Allen Hill.

Planning the event are committee members Claire Keane, Carolyn Vernaglia and Sue Sweeny. Hors d'oeuvres, champagne, coffee and pastries will be served. A bar will be available. For reservations call 729-3991.

Free oral cancer clinic at Symmes

Symmes Hospital will host a free oral cancer screening on Monday from 4 to 8. For appointment call the Lexington Board of Health at 862-0500, ext. 32 or 33 between 10 and 4. Anyone not having an appointment will be accomodated between scheduled appointments.

A team of dentists coordinated by Morton Olin, D.M.D. will be available for examinations which take only four minutes.

Who needs an oral cancer checkup the most? Over 24,000 people will have oral cancer diagnosed in one year. Everyone, particularly those over 35, should be examined. More than twice as many men as women are victims of cancer of the mouth. The disease appears to be related to heavy smoking and excessive alcohol intake.

Early detection of oral cancer can save lives and prevent disfiguring or disabling treatment. Symmes Hospital is sponsoring the December 5 free oral cancer screening in conjunction with the Minteman Unit of the American Cancer Society, the Arlington Council on Aging, the Lexington Department of Public Health and Tri-Community Health Services.

'Metamorphosis' is reading for lit group

The Winchester Literature Group will meet tomorrow at 9:15 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Joshua Vernaglia on at 119 Arlington st.

The reading selection will be "Metamorphosis" by Franz Kafka (optional: "The Castle"). New members are welcome.

Meeting Sunday for separated, divorced persons

A meeting for separated and divorced persons will be held at St. Mary's Parish Center, 162 Washington st. Sunday evening at 7:30 p.m.

Dr Leo Fahey of the Family Counseling and Guidance Center, Boston, will speak on "Now What Do I Do?" His talk will be followed by a question-and-answer period.

Dr. Fahey, a psycho-therapist, is affiliated with the VA and State Hospital Systems, the Middlesex Associated in Arlington, as well as being engaged in private practice.

Film program for children at library

Dec. 4 and 6

Little Match Girl: This is an adaptation of the Hans Christian Andersen story of the girl who is trying to sell matches on New Year's Eve.

Mr. Moto Takes A Walk: Mr. Moto, a monkey, and a young lady go through the zoo finding an animal for each letter of the alphabet.

The Story ABOUT Ping: Ping, a duck on the Yungtze River in China, becomes the captive of a young boy.

Flower Lovers: This is a cartoon story about flowers that are spectacularly exploding all over town.

On Sunday afternoon, the family film program is held in the Story Hour Room of the Junior Library and will begin at 2:30. It is requested that at least one adult accompany each group of children. There will be a Tuesday afternoon film program for school age children at 1:30.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth B. Smith

Diane Fiore, Kenneth Smith wed Oct. 29 at St. Mary's

Saint Mary's Church was the setting for the October 29 wedding mass of Diane C. Fiore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Fiore, and Kenneth B. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Saragosa of Medford.

Bishop Joseph J. Ruocco officiated at the 2:30 ceremony in which the bride's father gave her in marriage.

The bride wore a princess style satapeau gown with a high neckline and long traditional sleeves. The bodice was enhanced with re-embroidered alencon lace. A ruffled bottom also was enhanced with the re-embroidered alencon lace which fell into a cathedral style train. The original headpiece, designed by Albert Vincent of Marblehead, accented the gown in the alencon lace attached to a cathedral length illusion cloud veil.

Maid of honor for her cousin was Debora Fiore. She wore a hooded coat and halter dress made of qiana knit in a fall shade of yellow. She carried a cornucopia in a cascade of dried and silk flowers.

Bridesmaids were Cynthia and Patricia Fiore of Stonehan, cousins of the bride, Donna Smith, sister of the groom, and Gale Richardi of Revere. All were identically dressed in fall colors of copper, apricot, beige, and tahiti. They carried matching cornucopias. Flower girl was Lia Cintolo of Medford cousin of the groom. She was also dressed identically to the maid of honor in a fall shade of yellow.

Kevin Smith, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Paul and Timothy Smith, brothers of the groom, Harry Ventre of Stoneham and James Crewys of Woburn. They all wore tails, top hats, and canes.

Ringbearer was William Fiore of Arlington, cousin of the bride, also dressed in tails.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Hillcrest in Waltham. After a trip to Florida, the couple will make their home in Winchester.

Miss Marks married to Charles Morgan IV Nov. 26

Dr. and Mrs. George A. Marks of 32 Foxcroft rd. announce the marriage of their daughter, Anne Knight, to Charles Eldgridge Morgan IV.

The wedding ceremony took place on November 26 at Saint Mary's Episcopal Church in Barnstable.

Mrs. Morgan graduated from Winchester High School in 1955 and from Smith College in 1959.

Mr. Morgan graduated from Phillips Exeter Academy in 1954 and from Harvard University in 1958.

The couple will reside in Weston.

We did it on purpose to give you a beautiful Christmas tree this year

It started about eight years ago. Prime nursery stock was selected and carefully planted. Each succeeding year the trees were fertilized, shaped and protected against disease. Finally the trees reached their peak — fully shaped, fragrant and just the right height. Thirty-five million trees, out of nearly one-half billion Christmas trees growing on plantations throughout the United States, were selected for this year's crop. At the latest possible time, they were harvested and fast-shipped to assure you of a fresh tree.

We did it all on purpose to help make your Christmas real.

If you are concerned about the stump, please don't be. Next spring, it will be replaced by two new seedlings. The cycle will start all over again.

Deborah Stewart of Winchester won third honorable mention in the annual Citizenship Essay Contest at Northeast Regional Vocational School. From left: Northeast Superintendent-Director John Connolly; Judge A. David Mazzone, guest speaker; Deborah Stewart; and John X. Crowley, chairman of the social studies department at Northeast.

Local student wins award at Northeast

A Winchester student at Northeast Metropolitan Regional Vocational School was one of the ten winners in the school's annual Citizenship Essay contest.

Deborah Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Stewart, Jr. of 14 Myrtle st. won third honorable mention for her entry on the topic: Citizenship in School, Is It Important.

The winners were awarded certificates by Judge A. David Mazzone before an assembly of some 500 students and faculty, including the parents of the winners, on Nov. 16.

Northeast Superintendent-Director John Connolly welcomed the distinguishdd guest-presenter and parents and added his congratulations to the winners and the more than 300 student contestants.

This is the fourth year the contest has been conducted by the Northeast Social Studies Department. John X. Crowley, who heads the department, noted that the students are encouraged to draw parallels in areas of responsibility of student citizenship. As a result of student-contestants pointing out their own responsibility for public property, according to Crowley, there has been an increased awareness and marked decrease in vandalism among Northeast students.

Shattuck cited

Lewis A. Shattuck of 6 Dean rd., Executive Vcce resident of the Smaller Business Association of New England, Inc., Waltham, today was commended by the American Society of Association Executives for his comtribution to the society's association evaluation program.

The one-hour program will include Christmas music of Vittoria, Charpantier, Handel, Bach, Mozart, and Berlioz; Armenian Christmas Sharagans (hymns) by Gomidas Vartabed and Meykhanajian; and traditional Christmas carols.

The concert will be held at Holy Trinity Armenian Church in Cambridge at 7:30.

Quota Club to join in CARE project

The Quota Club of Winchester, under the leadership of President Leila-Jane Roberts of Stoneham, will join with others in District 29 in support of the Quota International-CARE "Key to Development" Program in Kenya.

Martha Bustin, Quota District Governor, reports that Quota funds will supply equipment such as pipes, water pumps, engines and other material to construct needed water systems. At present, 85 percent of the rural population in Kenya must hand-carry water from polluted streams, contributing to a high rate of disease and infant death.

Bustin noted that Quota International has a long history of generous support to CARE. In recent years they also supported a CARE-MEDICO Program involved in nurses training in Afghanistan.

Mystic Chorus in Thanksgiving concert

The fifth and sixth grade chorus of Mystic School presented their first Thanksgiving concert, initiated and directed by Jean Louden, music specialist.

The group gave a program of patriotic, folk and popular show songs. The student-parent audience took part in a sing-along.

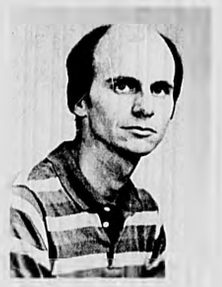

The chorus members who performed solo parts were - Fifth grade: Jana Furey, Pamela Getson, Pamela Harrington, Andrea Kenerson, Nina Khaund, Suzanne Milauskas and Jennie Purcell;

Sixth grade: Allison Bonnano, Vicky Bradley, Alyson Burgess, Jocelyn Hesse, Joyce Kohr, Celia Landry, Pamela Meyers, Eve-Laure Moros, Andrea Monson, Elizabeth Obbard, and Kerrie Price.

RCA SelectaVision

The greatest thing that ever happened to television programming was something called video tape.

Video tape lets the people who program television do it at their convenience. Because with video tape, shows can be stored and scheduled whenever they like.

Trouble is, what they like and what you like are often quite different. Because when they run your favorite program, you might have to be over at the Steckers playing backgammon. Or when one station carries something unmissable, there's usually a must-see on another channel.

Now, RCA has the distinct pleasure of introducing something every TV watcher will like. RCA SelectaVision Video Cassette Recorder.

SelectaVision hooks up easily to any TV set. Then, you can start using video tape to schedule those not-to-be-missed television events at your convenience. You can even record something and watch it again whenever you like. You can watch something you like while SelectaVision records something on another channel. Or you can have SelectaVision record automatically -- even when no one can be there.

There's more to like about the SelectaVision recorder. An optional camera with a built-in microphone so you can produce your own shows. A remote pause control so you can start and stop recording from the comfort of your easy chair.

And SelectaVision's unsurpassed capacity for up to four hours of uninterrupted recording and playback on a single cassette.

With SelectaVision, you can watch what you want. Whenever you want.

Think of the possibilities.

The two point conversion was completed as Davis bowled over a Tanner linebacker clearing the way for Allard. The score sat 14-0, but a little over one minute remained before the end of the half.

O'Connor's kickoff was fielded by Tanner Richard Clancy, who springed 25 yards before being dragged down by Craig Hanchett and Terry Costello

Clivio ran for six yards on a right sweep, but Ed Skeffington, replacing starting quarterback Mark Tully, was intercepted by Anthony Davis, who returned the ball eight yards to the Woburn 47 yard line.

Allard got things in motion with two passes- one to Wolf for 14 yards, and the other to Bellono coming out of the backfield for seven more.

Tom Murray and Anthony Davis followed with consecutive 13-yard gains to bring the Sachems to rest on the Tanner four yard line, but the touchdown attempt was thwarted as time ran out, leaving the score at the end of the half 14-0.

Third quarter action began with the mighty Tanners on the receiving end of O'Connors kickoff boot Clivio's ten yard return brought Woburn to rest on their own 40 yard line

Woburn Coach Peter J. Sullivans' halftime locker room talk must have done something, as quarterback Mark Tully directed the Tanners to the Winchester eight yard line, with Clivio and Massotta carrying a total of six times

Woburn was determined not to be shut out, and after three attempts Clivio punched over the goal line for the first Tanner tally

The extra point attempt by Stocker split the crossbars, and the Tanners had cut the Sachem lead in half, 14-7

The remainder of the quarter both teams exchanged punts until the Allard-Davis combo got rolling again: this time the Sachems sustained a 70-yard drive

Davis, Bellino, Murray, and Allard gained considerable yardage on each carry to spark the scoring drive, capped by Davis' second touchdown of the game.

The two point conversion attempt was good, with Davis blasting in from the two, and Winchester sat comfortably on a 22-7 lead as the quarter ended.

The fourth quarter failed to produce any tallies by either team, as good defensive play ruled the final minutes.

During this final stanza Dennie Bellino and Craig Hanche sackted Tully for losses of more than nine yards.

The closing victory "was satisfying, a good win", according to coach Manny Marshall, and no Sachem fan could disagree.

Congratulations to Wayne Maggio, John Della Grote, Bill Monson, Kevin Foley, Anthony Davis and Don Allard on an excellent game.

Wildcats win thriller to end 9-0 for season

The Wildcats captured the fifth and sixth grade girls' soccer title two Saturdays ago, completing an undefeated fall season. Their 9-0 record suggests a lack of competition, but this was not so, for every opponent gave the team a good fight. Several of the victories were squeaked out in the last few minutss of the game.

The highlight of regular season play was the last game against archrival second place Barracudas. The spirit of "friendly" rivalry was in the air long before that game started, with both teams yelling cheers back and forth and parading banners around the field. The game itself was hard fought as the teams played especially well.

At the end of the first half the Cudas were ahead 1-0, but during the second half, center halfback Patty Phillips scored two big goals to give the Wildcats the victory. The goal tending of Lauren Hartnett and Kristen McNamara was crucial to the win.

In the semi-final playoff game, the Wildcats faced the tough Tigers. During the first half, the Tigers completely outplayed the drooping Wildcats, but superb defensive play by Laurie Scherin, with the help of Jill Maryanski, Kate Harris, Jill Askew, and goalie Kristen McNamara, held the Tigers scoreless.

In the second half, the Wildcats snapped into action and played up to their finest ability. Laura Accardo and Patty Phillips each scored two goals, leading the Wildcats to a 4-1 win. Forwards Anna Riley, Anna Higgins, and Joan Fiore were also instrumental in the victory. Halfbacks Traci Feeley, Kim Hill, Laura McNamee, and Alison Hagge also played extremely well. Christine Dixon and Jane Nadeau were assets to the defensive line, along with second-half goalie Lauren Hartnett.

On the last Saturday, the Wildcats and Barracudas were again paired up, this time in the playoff finals. The two teams again built up an atmosphere of rivalry, and the play reflected the tension between them. Tough first-half action ended with the score 1-1, the Wildcats' goal scored by Laura Accardo.

The second half was also hard-fought, with neither team able to score. Wildcat defense led by Laurie Scherin, and the goaltending of Lauren Hartnett held the Barracudas at bay.

When two five-minute overtimes also failed to determine a winner, the game advanced to penalty kicks. Tension reached a peak as the teams alternated direct kicks on the goal, but the Wildcats emerged victorious as three of their five shots found the net, compared to two for the Barracudas.

Lauren Hartnett, Laura Accardo, Laurie Scherin, Anna Higgins, and Patty Phillips (complete with sprained ankle) took shots for the Wildcats, with the first three scoring. Goalie Kristen McNamara withstood the extreme tension and defended well.

Wasps sting Bees in third overtime of final playoff

The girls fall youth soccer program ended dramatically two weeks ago with the Wasps and the Bees in the final playoff. The Wasps, undefeated, played the Bees in a thrilling overtime game which saw Kathy Mahoney score the winning point for the Wasps in the last two minutes of the third overtime period.

Maria Montuori scored first for the Wasps in the first half of the game. Kim Donlon of the Bees tied it up in the second half. Maria again made the point, giving the Wasps a 2-1 lead. Again it was Kim's turn as she kicked in the tying goal for the second time, with just three minutes left in the game.

Babette Pelloux of the Wasps and Julie Derry of the Bees were excellent goaltenders and the game went into sudden death. Kathy Mahoney kicked in the winning goal for the Wasps.

The teams are: Wasps: Beth Abate, Anita Anderson, Liz Bracken, Kim Carpintori, Jeanne Dougherty, Janet Harrin, Kelly Keating, Karen Kirk, Kathleen Mahoney, Maria Montuori, Paula Papastathis, Susan Parkhurst, Babette Pelloux, Karen Rahmeier, Maria Saviano, Chris Schultz, Sally Warford, and Debbie Williams; coaches are Arthur and Bernadette Montuori, and Denis O'Leary.

The Bees: Eileen Conley, Tricia Corkery, Julie Derry, Kim Donlon, Mag Fallon, Cath Hanlon, Kate Japy, Erica Johanson, Betsey Keyes, Kathy Leonard, Pat Mahoney, Susan Mood, Louise Nazzaro, Adena Schultzburg, Meg Skehan, Alison Sughrue, Annette Todisco, Lynel Tully, and Jane Wiseman; coaches are Dan Hanlon and Barney Doherty.

Boys PeeWee soccer ends close season; Eagles on top

The fifth and sixth grade boys, who played this fall at West Side Field, completed ten weeks of play with two games on November 19. Teams comprised of top players in the league, as chosen by the coaches, played well and evenly, demonstrating the same good balance which was present among the eight teams competing in the nine-week Fall schedule. Teams to represent Winchester in the BAYS League, which plays in the Spring, have been selected from boys indicating a desire to play. These teams will compete in Class "C" with boys who were born in 1966 and 1967.

Special thanks are in order to all the Coaches who gave their time each Saturday and for practices during the week. Winchester High School players coached three teams and also filled in as referees on several occasions. These boys are Bubba Sandford, Gary Tedesco, Mark Mulvaney, George Casey, Mark McGoldrick, Jack Driscoll and Bob McInnis. Regular referees who gave hours of their time are Delip Bokil, Sol Gittleman and Jovan Djokovic.

West Side Field suffered damage to the goalposts each Friday night. This presented a problem which was solved with the cooperation of the Park Department. The goalpost sections were supplied by the Park Department and erected on Saturday mornings at 7:45 a.m. Men who dug the holes, assembled and erected the goals are Dom DiVicenzo, Dennis Merritt, Delip Bokil and Gerry Reidy.

During the fall season, the Pee Wee division teams proved that old cliche — "On any given day, any team in the League could beat any other team." The standings show how close the top five teams were, with a three-way tie among the Dragons, Eagles and Falcons going into the final game. The Eagles managed to pull off a 1-0 victory over the Dragons, while the Falcons fell to the Astros 3-0.

Jan Oehm places 16th in nat'l x-country meet

By George Parker

Last Saturday, Jan Oehm competed in the national cross-country championships, held in Los Angeles. Jan finished 16th overall, third for her team, the Liberty Athletic Club, which took the team title.

Jan came in behind Lynn Jennings, who won the meet in a time of 14:36, and Debbie Richie, who was only five seconds ahead of Jan's 15:36. Jan, who was hoping for a top 10 finish, was slowed by the desert-like conditions (a dry 92 degrees), and a bad start. Jan usually starts out fairly slow, but in this race she became stuck in the pack, and was in bad position at the mile and a half marker. At that point, her legs rebelled at the pace she was setting, and tightened up for the remainder of the race. Jan was also hampered by the remnants of the knee injury that kept her out of the New England Championships held two Saturdays ago at Franklin Park.

Jan was also honored on Tuesday by the Boston Globe, which named her to their All-Scholastic girls cross-country squad, along with Sandy Cullinane, Lynn Jennings and Darlene Beckford, all of whom are Liberty A.C. teammates.

I would also like to apologize for the omission of Michelle DeMars' name in the article naming the members of the Middlesex League All-Star squad.

Pee Wee AA's top Watertown

The Winchester Pee Wee Aa's, led by the scoring efforts of Steve Masiello and Mike Griffin, defeated Watertown last Saturday afternoon at Burlington.

With less than two minutes played, Watertown's Egan opened the scoring and Watertown took a 1-0 lead. The Hawks fought back and carried the play during the remainder of the period. At 9:24, Mike Griffin scored the first of his three goals after being set up by the good playmaking of Billy Eaton and Andy Guleserian.

During the second period, both teams battled evenly, with Watertown scoring midway through the period. The Hawks tied it at two as Mike Griffin scored from in close with a good assist to Steve Masiello.

The momentum generated by the Hawk offense continued to build during the third period, as Steve Masiello registered four unanswered goals within eight minutes, highlighted by some excellent teamwork and individual effots. Mike Griffin chalked up his hat trick to close out the scoring while the Hawks were Shorthanded.

The excellent forechecking of Scott Binding, Bobby Divencenzo and Jimmy Coppins as well as the backchecking efforts of Tim Donaghey and Sean O'Connor were contributing factors in the Hawk victory. Centers Paul Tucci and Ricky Parker bolstered their lines with good efforts deep in the corners and around the net.

Defensively, the Hawks put together their best effort of the season. Coley Wilson and Billy Eaton repeatedly took control and moved the puck well. Danny Sullivan, Andy Guleserian and Bobby Engel were strong around the net and were effective in keeping the play in the Watertown zone.

Goalies David Boyle and Pat Falla came up with excellent saves during the early periods to keep the game close. This year's team elected Coley Wilson and Mike Griffin captains and Paul Tucci and Billy Eaton as alternates.

Mites win 6-2 over Waltham; tied for first

The Winchester Mites continued their drive for the National League Division's top spot by adding a win over Waltham Friday night at the Burlington Ice Palace.

The 6-2 win over Waltham moved the Mites into a tie with Medford for first place.

First period action saw Winchester playing defensive hockey, which proved to be effective as they kept Waltham from scoring. Waltham had totalled 61 goals in eight league games prior to this game. After 14:52 of the period, Billy Coppins scored the only goal of the period after a scramble in front of the crease.

In the second period, Winchester's Petey Regan combined with Billy Coppins and scored the second Winchester goal. A minute-20 seconds later, Regan scored his second goal unassisted. Waltham's Dave Pergola scored unassisted with 3:26, and the period ended with Winchester ahead, 3-1.

With only 23 seconds played in the third period, Regan scored again with a wrist shot into the upper corner. Billy Coppins took a pass from Greg Winn and scored his second goal of the game, and then 10 minutes later Regan scored his fourth of the night.

The only penalties of the game were called on Sukjong Chung and Timmy Day in the second period. Kevin Boyle played outstanding goal, keeping Waltham from getting more than two scores. Many of Boyle's saves were made on breakaways.

Petey Regan was given the first star of the game for his defensive play and scoring. Kevin Boyle received the second star for his work in goal.

3 local men run marathon with Marines

Three local Marine reservists recently competed and completed the 26-mile, 385-yard Second Annual Marine Corps Reserve Marathon. The race, held Nov. 6 in Washington, DC, is on an AAU certified course and serves as a qualifier for the Boston Marathon.

Those competing included Lawrence H. Chandler, 16 Herrick st.; Saul Beaumont, 9 Ainsworth st.; and Michael J. Macdonald Jr., 92 Bacon st.

BOARD OF APPEAL
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

The WINCHESTER BOARD OF APPEAL will hold a PUBLIC HEARING at 7:30 P.M. on THURSDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1977, in the BOARD OF HEALTH CLINIC ROOM of the TOWN HALL on the following matters:

(1) PETITION NO. 2365 — That of HALCHAK HOMES, INC., 778 Main Street, Winchester, Massachusetts regarding LOT 2 and LOT 3 on JOHNSON ROAD, located adjacent to 25 JOHNSON ROAD. The subject matter of this petition, upon appeal, is the applicability and effect of the frontage, access, street numbering and building location requirements of the Z.B.L. as they relate to the proposed placement of a single family house upon each of these lots by the petitioner. Alternatively, the petitioner requests a dimensional Variance from the applicable provisions of the Zoning By-Law so as to permit the construction of a single family dwelling upon each of these lots, each of which proposed dwellings will face Plato Terrace, have their only physical access upon Plato Terrace and be numbered upon Plato Terrace. These lots are located within the RDA (Single Family Residential) zoning district, LOT 2 consisting of 20,080 S.F. and LOT 3 consisting of 23,363 S.F.

(2) PETITION NO. 2366 — That of WARREN G. and ANNE M. GAGAN regarding their premises located at 35 JEFFERSON ROAD. The petitioners seek a dimensional Variance from the fifteen (15) foot minimum rear yard setback requirement applicable to these premises so as to permit the continued maintenance of a porch that, as built, is 4.4 feet from the rear yard lot line. This property is located within the RDB (Single Family Residential) zoning district and consists of 13,985 S.F.

(3) PETITION NO. 2367 — That of the BOARD OF SELECTMEN regarding the TOWN HALL premises located at 17 MOUNT VERNON STREET. The petitioner seeks a Special Permit pursuant to Zoning By-Law Sec. 6.24 to reduce the forty (40) foot minimum front yard setback requirement applicable to these premises so as to permit the construction of an addition to the WAR MEMORIAL HONOR PLAQUE that will be located within 26.7 feet of Mount Vernon Street and 22.8 feet of Washington Street. This property is located within the S.C.I. (Conservancy-Institutional) zoning district.

(4) PETITION NO. 2368 — That of GERALD B. and GAYLE C. O'GRADY regarding their premises located at 18 BONAD ROAD. The petitioners seek a dimensional Variance from the fifteen (15) foot minimum side yard setback requirement applicable to these premises so as to permit the conversion of an existing open porch to an enclosed living area. Upon completion of such proposed construction, the left side yard setback will be reduced to 9.27 feet. This property is located within the RDB (Single Family Residential) zoning district and consists of 6,630 S.F.

(5) PETITION NO. 2369 — That of HILLSIDE REALTY TRUST, MATTEO GALLO, TRUSTEE, 506 Summer Avenue, Reading, Massachusetts regarding the premises located at 219 WASHINGTON STREET. The petitioner seeks permission to continue to maintain a common kitchen on each of the three floors of these premises. This property is located within the RG (General Residence) zoning district, consists of 20,860 S.F. and is currently maintained as a non-conforming thirteen (13) unit, lodging house use.

(6) PETITION NO. 2370 — That of LOUIS W. and DOROTHEA F. DEE regarding LOT 24 on OLD LYME ROAD, located adjacent to 2 OLD LYME ROAD. The petitioners seek a dimensional Variance from the 20,000 S.F. minimum area and the 120 foot minimum lot width requirements applicable to this lot in order that it may be utilized and built upon as a separate building lot. This lot is located within the RDA (Single Family Residential) zoning district, consists of 15,150 S.F., is approximately 110 feet wide and is currently held in common ownership with the adjacent LOT 23.

High Tar No Longer Essential To Taste.

Tests prove low tar MERIT delivers flavor of higher tar cigarettes.

For years, it seemed the only way to get real taste from a cigarette was to smoke a high tar brand.

High tar cigarettes had an "exclusive" on taste.

Today, all the standards are changing because of a new taste breakthrough called 'Enriched Flavor'™ tobacco.

MERIT is packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. Tobacco fortified with certain key flavor-rich ingredients isolated in cigarette smoke and proven to deliver flavor way out of proportion to tar.

© Philip Morris Inc. 1977

Kings: 8 mg. "tar," 0.5 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette, FTC Report Dec. '76
100's: 12 mg. "tar," 0.9 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

Test Data Conclusive

MERIT and MERIT 100's were both tested against a number of higher tar cigarettes. Thousands of smokers were involved.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of both MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested.

Cigarettes having up to 60% more tar!

Only one cigarette has 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

WHICH CLOSING COSTS DEDUCTIBLE?

Expenses connected with the sale of real estate over and above the selling price are known as closing costs. Some of these are deductible from your income tax, others are not.

Property taxes are usually pro-rated so that both the buyer and seller each pay the taxes for the portion of the year that each owned the property. Each may deduct this amount, and only this amount, even though one or the other pays the entire amount.

Another deductible item that appears in closing costs is interest charged to you on the mortgage up to the date of closing. Also deductible as interest is the amount charged as points-provided they are charged as a premium for the loan of the money, not when charged for services.

Non-deductible closing expenses are fire insurance, FHA mortgage insurance, and charges for rent for occupancy before closing.

Bay State roll call

"direct interest" in legislation; and claimed the amendment went too far and would not stop immoral influence, but rather would stop normal social interaction.

On the $50 limit for registered lobbyists, the opponents argued the amendment goes too far, is unworkable, does not even allow for the harmless interaction among legislators and lobbyists, and claimed the difference between $100 and $50 is not that essential.

By 115-105, the House defeated an amendment to the ethics code requiring members and candidates to file financial statements by June 30 in odd-numbered years, and at the same time they file their nomination papers in even-numbered years, and also moving the effective date of the code from Jan. 1, 1979 to June 30, 1978. Rep. S altmarsh voted for the amendment.

However the House did approve 130-98 an amendment moving the effective date of the ethics code from Jan. 1, 1979 to June 30, 1978. Rep. Saltmarsh voted for moving the date up.

By 186-39, the House defeated an amendment prohibiting former House members from being employed by the House for two years following their last day as a representative. Rep. Saltmarsh voted against the amendment.

The House finally approved the amended version of the ethics code, 222-4, with Rep. Saltmarsh voting for it. Key provisions of the code include:

—Disclosure of the source, but not the amount, of each member's income by June 30, 1978; of member's spouse's income if it benefits the member; and of member's parents' income if they reside with member and are dependent on each other financially.

—Prohibition of lawyer-legislators from representing clients before state agencies, except courts, but allowing them to complete pending cases if they notify the ethics committee.

—$100 limit on gifts (anything of value, including meals, beverages, and sports tickets) annually from registered lobbyists.

—A requirement that all House employees work full-time unless given a specific exemption.

—And a requirement of all House employees with salaries about $20,000 to disclose sources of income as well.

The House then defeated an amendment 189-35 which would have given the ethics committee the power to investigate alleged violations of other House rules and state law, in addition to violations of the ethics code. Saltmarsh voted against the amendment.

After two votes, the House has been unable to get a bill providing a meal tax exemption for senior citizens over 60 and the handicapped out of the ways and means committee. The move to get the bill out on the floor lost on Oct. 18 by 120-91 and lost again last week: even though last week's vote was 120-100 in favor of moving the bill onto the floor, it fell short of the necessary two-thirds majority. Rep. Saltmarsh voted in favor of moving the bill both times.

The House defeated 179-37 a move to suspend the rules to allow introduction of an order requiring the ethics committee to make its final report on their study of allegations and charges presented on WBZ-TV and to prepare written responses to the charges. Opponents argued the committee has been working on the ethics code and has not had adequate time to prepare a report. Rep. Saltmarsh voted against suspending the rules.

Both events will take place at the Blessed Sacrament Church Hall, 14 Summer st., Saugus. The dance will run from 8 p.m.-midnight, with music by Dick Brogna's Band. Refreshments will be served.

For more information, write the club at Box 978, Saugus, 01906.

Morgan involved in planning for DAV Hospital Day

Walter P. Morgan of Winchester, a past state Disabled American Veterans commander and currently national executive committeeman representing New England, is taking an active part in preparations for observance of DAV Hospital Day this Sunday.

The observance was established by the DAV shortly after World War II as a day to visit those in the hospitals and remember them with a little gift. The first Sunday in December was chosen for the observance because it was on the first Sunday in December in 1941 when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, marking the start of World War II for the United States.

The five Veterans Administration Hospitals in the area, in Boston, Bedford, Brockton, Northampton, and West Roxbury, and the two Massachusetts Soldiers Homes in Chelsea and Holyoke will be visited.

The Swiss railroads, like many European railroads have instituted a fare increase during the past year, but, fortunately, it did not change the cost of its Holiday Pass, which is one of Europe's better discount tickets. The Pass operates much like Eurailpass but only inside Switzerland. The holder of the Holiday Pass can travel anywhere in the country on government operated trains, buses, boats, without additional charge, for the life of the ticket. The Pass will also earn discounts of 25 to 50 percent on privately operated mountain railroads and aerial cableways.

ImmCon sodality party is Dec. 12

On December 12 at 7:30 p.m., the members of the Sodality of Our Lady of the Immaculate Conception Parish will gather for the monthly celebration of mass. Reverend William J. Cummings, spiritual director, and Mrs. Mildred Paoletti, prefect, will receive new members to the Sodality.

After mass, the old and new members will adjourn to the Parish Hall where a reception and Christmas Party will take place. The Hall will be decorated for Christmas and grabs will be exchanged.

The entertainment will consiste of "Styles Through The Yearrs," a fashion show presented by the Morgan Memorial staff for which costumes have been donated, through the years, some dating to 1832.

Refreshments will be served by a committee under the direction of Mrs. Kathleen McCarthy and Mrs. Margaret Keefe, chairladies.

Reservations for this party should be made today.

Young people at Second Cong. host dinner for seniors

The Young Adult Fellowship of the Second Congregational Church hosted the senior citizens of the church to a Thanksgiving dinner on the Sunday before the holiday.

The young people, with the assistance of Pastor and Mrs. Alan Ferguson, prepared and served the dinner and then joined their guests for the meal.

The seniors enthusiastically received the young people's generosity.

A total of 71 teens served as Volunteens during summer, and more than 40 received pins designating specific hours.

Sale at Epiphany Tuesday from 10-2

An invitation to lunch and shopping is extended to all by the Women of Epiphany, who are holding their Post-Allhallowtide Fair sale at Hadley Hall Tuesday from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m.

Visitors will be offered a selection of food, handicrafts and choice white elephant items.

At noon there will be a soup and chowder bar, including assorted breads, dessert, coffee and tea. Reservations may be made by contacting Hilda Hope by Sunday, Dec. 4.

Sodality meeting is this Tuesday

The next meeting of the St. Mary's Sodality will be at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. "Christmas in the Air" will be the theme.

There will be music with Jennie Morgan, Mary Catherine Reidy, and Fr. Mark Sheehan.

Mr. & Mrs. Club family event to feature puppets

St. Mary's Mr. & Mrs. Club will hold its annual family event on Sunday, at 1:30 p.m. at the school hall. The affair will feature Nancy and The Proppets — a marriage of props and puppets who come right on stage (no traditionl puppet booth) and into the audience with Nancy.

The act includes such notables as Glover, a red-headed, recycled glove; Akin Drum, a vegetable casserole; Mother Brown, a five-foot marionette; and Sunshine, a lovable fluff of a guy. Audience participation is encouraged in the clapping, singing and movements.

Santa Claus will make an appearance, and a sundae is the topping of the day! For reservations, contact June McInnis, Claire Kenney, Mary Ann O'Callaghan, or Eileen Moore by Dec. 2.

Miss Maravigna to talk mushrooms with Copley Society

Maria Maravigna, affectionately known as the "Mushroom Lady" of Winchester will be on hand at the Copley Society of Boston, 158 Newbury street on Saturday, 11 a.m. - 3 p.m., to meet and talk with fellow mushroom lovers.

Miss Maravigna's Mushrooms, created in ceramic sculpture on her own secret formula of clay and glaze, are botanically accurate. Her life work has been the study of live mushrooms, and she is an expert at identifying, cooking, painting and sculpting them. As an honorary life member of the Boston Mycological Club, Maria enthusiastically guides some of the mushroom walks.

During the month of December the Copley Society features gifts made by its artists-members in Christmas gift gallery. This opportunity to purchase original hand-made art work priced so reasonably also encourages the artists.

Miss Maravignas mushroom pins and sculptures in various sizes are also available. Each Saturday a special feature is presented by the Copley Society.

School Committee notes

Personnel

At their Nov. 28 meeting, the committee approved several new staff appointments and extra-curricular assignments.

Medeline D. Demetrion was elected as a teacher aide in the math department at McCall Junior High School, effective Nov. 29. Ms. Demetrion has a BS from Lesley College in elementary education in mathematics.

Mrs. Laraine A. Milauskas was added to the new early childhood special education program as a teacher aide, effective Nov. 29. The program is funded with federal Title VI monies. Mrs. Milauskas earned a BS from Bridgewater State College in elementary education. She has also taught as a tutor and a substitute in Winchester.

Coaching assignments were approved as follows: Mary Varley, Lynch Junior High Softball; Janet Keefe, McCall Junior High Softball; Joseph Cantillon, girls' spring track at the high school.

At the Nov. 15 meeting, the board okayed one staff election and one extracurricular staff appointment.

Sarah Sheehan was unanimously approved as an early childhood specialist (half-time) for the early childhood special education program at the Muraco School. Ms. Sheehan has a BA from Wheelock College and has extensive experience in working with young special needs students children.

Sally Murdock was approved as faculty advisor to dramatics at McCall Junior High. She earned her BA from Westbrook College and has trained at the New England and Boston Conservatories and at Emerson College in theater direction. She has starred locally in several musical and dramatic roles; she has also directed a number of plays, one of which won two awards, including that of best production, in New England competition.

The first time

"To the best of my knowledge, this is a first for us in Winchester," commented Superintendent William C. MacDonald. It is, in any event, a sign of the times.

Monday the school board granted a leave of absence (without pay) to Donald B. Latham, who's having a baby — or rather, whose wife is having a baby.

Latham, an art instructor at Lynch Junior High, was granted the leave under a clause in the WEA's contract which reads: "A leave of absence without pay will be granted upon request to any tenure teacher who is the parent of a newborn child." Latham's leave to help care for his child will last from Jan. 30 to Sept. 1, 1978.

Student evaluators?

Student representative Kathy Conley reported Monday night that the student council has been in touch with the Winchester Education Association (WEA) regarding the establishment of student evaluations of teachers.

She said the students have proposed a two-part survey, including multiple choice and essay sections. The results of the evaluations would be for the individual teacher's use only.

The proposal will be presented to the WEA at their general meeting Dec. 14. "It's in the preliminary stages now," said Ms. Conley, who hoped the program could be worked out by the end of the month.

Private school enrollments up

Supt. MacDonald has come up with some figures for private school enrollments. They're up for the past few years, but not just for Winchester: in fact, the percentage of children leaving public schools for private is smaller here than below the national average, according to board member Constance Papas.

In 1977, 296 Winchester students opted for private schools, while 176 attend St. Mary's. This compares with 250 in private schools and 193 at St. Mary's in 1976 and 214 in private schools and 146 at St. Mary's in 1975.

Private school enrollments since 1971 total: in 1971, 222; in 1972, 208; in 1973, 181; in 1974, 210. Figures for St. Mary's were not available for those years.

Where do the private school children go? The largest group is at Belmont Hill (56). The other most popular schools are Bartlett School (31), Austin Prep (28), Belmont Day School (24), Buckingham, Browne & Nichols (23), Children's Own School (19), Lexington Christian Academy and St. Sebastian's (both 17), Arlington Catholic (10), and Newton Country Day (9).

Specialists

Even though enrollments have dropped in the elementary schools from 2653 in 1974 to 2230 in 1977, the number of educational specialists in art, music and physical education has not substantially decreased.

This amounts, in effect, to an expansion of the program, and Supt. MacDonald defended that expansion Monday night. He read through a list of rationlizations which included:

—Educational specialists are assigned by classes, not students. Though enrollments have been dropping, the drop is spread over nine (now eight) schools and all seven grades (K-6). On a class by class basis, the decreases are too small to dictate dropping a whole class (the exception this year was in art, where half a position has been cut).

—The school department has been trying to initiate gym programs in as many kindergartens as possible.

—Time lost through release days has to be made up, increasing the demands on teacher time.

—Special needs children are being added to the regular art, music, and gym programs, including SEEM program students and kindergarteners.

—The administration is attempting to limit the number of buildings the specialists have to work in each day in order to reduce their time on the road between schools.

—"We could reduce the number of specialists," MacDonald said, "but we were asked to capture the loss from declining enrollments and turn it to a benefit for the children." The superintendent added that the expansion of the specialist programs was at least in part requested by the school committee.

While the total number of staff has decreased by only half a position, the number of classes in art and music has decreased since 1974 (art from 106 to 93; music from 112 to 104). While the number of physical education classes has increased from 95 to 103, MacDonald noted that the schools are still not meeting the time allotment for gym suggested by the state (90 minutes).

Thomas W. Dolan

Thomas W. Dolan, 71, a trust agent and accountant with the Cape Ann Tool Company of Rockport for 40 years, died November 18 at the Addison Gilbert Hospital, Gloucester.

Born in Winchester, he attended local schools and took special courses in business administration at Marvard and Boston University. Before starting his employment with Cape Ann, he worked with stock brokerage firms in Boston.

Mr. Dolan was a former director and member of the finance committee of the Gloucester Cooperative Bank for 23 years, a past Grand Knight of the Gloucester Council No. 215 of the Knights of Columbus, a former member of the Rockport zoning board, and a member of the Rockport Golf Club.

He leaves his wife, A. Winifred (Vays); a son, Thomas W. Jr. of Quincy; two daughters, Elizabeth A. Weaver of Millbury and Mary W. Moceri of Levittown, Long Island, N.Y.; a brother John J. of Winchester; and a sister, Sr. Constance (Ann) of the Convent of the Good Shepherd, Albany, N.Y.

A mass was celebrated November 21 in St. Joachim's Church, Rockport. Burial followed in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mary T. Fiorenza

Mary T. (Cotrone) Fiorenza, 36 Pickering st., a resident for 42 years, died Nov. 22 in Winchester after several months' illness. She was 68.

Born in Jersey City, N.J., she was the wife of Diego Fiorenza of Winchester and the mother of Carl J. of Cleveland, Ohio, Richard J., Robert C. and Mary Lou Fiorenza, all of Winchester, and Mrs. George (Ann) Bergin of Woburn.

She is also survived by six grandchildren. Mrs. Fiorenza was the sister of John Cotrone of Cambridge, William Cotrone of Waltham, Daniel Cotrone of Jamaica Plain, and Frank Cotrone of Plymouth, and Mrs. Ann Zirilli of Indian Harbor Beach, Fla.

Mrs. Fiorenza belonged to the Immaculate Conception Ladies Sodality in Winchester and was very active in the affairs of the church. A funeral mass was held for her Friday morning, with the Rev. George F. Murray officiating.

Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery. Arrangements were by the Lane Funeral Home.

Donations in her memory may be made to the American Cancer Society, 247 Commonwealth ave., Boston.

Mary T. Kerrigan

Mary T. (Quigley) Kerrigan died Nov. 19 at Massachusetts General Hospital at the age of 75. A resident of Woburn, she had formerly lived in Winchester and Medford.

Mrs. Kerrigan was born in Somerville and attended schools there. She was the widow of James J. Kerrigan.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Marcia McCourt of Chelmsford and Mrs. Barbara Cullen of Florida, a sister, Mrs. Margaret Modin of Maine, 10 grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral mass was held in St. Joseph's Church in Medford on Nov. 22. Burial was in Oak Grove Cemetery, Medford. Lane Funeral Home handled the arrangements.

Aldo R. Ungaretti

Twenty-two-year-old Aldo R. Ungaretti of 1 Newton st. died unexpectedly Nov. 22 in Carlin, Nev. A funeral mass was said Monday in St. Clements Church in Somerville by Rev. Gerald A. Kinsella of Holy Cross College in Worcester.

Mr. Ungaretti, who was born in Pittsfield Aug. 19, 1955, had lived in Winchester for 15 years and graduated from Winchester High School in 1973. He also attended St. Thomas Moore Preparatory School in Connecticut and was active in the local Little League. He was a student at the time of his death.

The son of Aldo N. and Roberta (Kinsella) Ungaretti of Winchester, he was the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. A. Ungaretti of Medford. He leaves two sisters, Elenie M. Ungaretti and Mrs. Melenie Barron of Winchester.

Burial was in Oak Grove Cemetery, Medford, on Monday.

Donations in his memory may be made to the Winchester Little League, care-of James A. Stewart, 7 Winslow rd.

The Lane Funeral Home was in charge of the arrangements.

Alfonso Aldorissio

A funeral mass was held at the Immaculate Conception Church Saturday morning for Alfonso J. Aldorissio, 59, of 14 Winter st. Rev. George F. Murray officiated at the service for Mr. Aldorissio, who died Nov. 22 of a coronary occlusion.

Born in Revere, where he attended local schools, Mr. Aldorissio was a Winchester resident for 25 years. For 38 years he worked at the General Electric River Works in Lynn, where he was a supervisor of the air craft engine group. He belonged to the management association of the General Electric River Works.

He leaves his wife, Stella L. (Evangelista) Aldorissio of Winchester; a son, Walter A. of Indianapolis, Ind.; his father, Louis, of Montclair, Calif.; a sister, Mrs. Lee Figlioli of Montclair, Calif.; and one grandchild.

Interment was at Calvary Cemetery, Woburn. Funeral arrangements were by Lane

Rev. John Suter

Rev. John Wallace Suter Jr., prominent Episcopalian churchman, died Sunday in Condord, N.H., after a long illness. Rev. Suter, 87, was born in Winchester and lived in Hopkinton, N.H.

He is survived by his wife, Alice (Elmer), a daughter, Mrs. Armistead B. Rood of Washington, and a son, John W. Suter of Fairfield, Conn.

Rev. Suter was the former executive secretary of the department of education in the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts and the executive secretary of the Department of Religious Education of the National Council of the Episcopal Church. In addition, he was dean of the Washington Cathedral in Washington from 1944 to 1950.

He was custodian of the standard book of common prayer, to which all prayer books of the Episcopal Church must conform, from 1942 to 1963. He also authored and edited many Episcopal religious books.

A memorial service will be held at 11 a.m. Saturrdy in St. Andrew's Church in Hopkinton. Burial will be in the spring at St. Paul's School Cemetery in Concord.

Victor Wolff

Victor Albert Wolff, a Winchester resident for 40 years, who remarried at age 80 and moved to Belmont, died suddenly in his home on Nov. 19.

Mr. Wolff, a WWI army veteran, was a second lieutenant in the first division, 6th field artillery in France. This division was the first one to fire in WW I. He was born in Waterbury, Conn. and graduated from Yale in 1919. A retired executive of the Clifford Manufacturing Company, he was also a member of the Winchester Country Club.

Mr Wolff leaves his wife, Eileen Altree Taggart, two daughters, Mrs. Remington A. Clark (Suzanne) of North Andover and Drake's Island, Me., and Mrs. Alexander Alexander Jr. (Denyse) of Palm Beach, Fla., a son, the late Marshal Linsley Wolff, and five grandchildren.

Funeral services were held on Nov. 22 in All Saints Episcopal Church in Belmont. Funeral arrangements were made by Short Williamson and Diamond Funeral home in Belmont. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetary.

Expressions of thanksgiving for Mr. Wolff's life may be made to the Yale Alumni Scholarship Fund.

John O'Donnell

John P. O'Donnell, 62, who lived in Woburn and Winchester most of his life until his retirement, died on Nov. 18 after a long illness. Born in Woburn, Mr. O'Donnell moved to Barrington, N.H. a year ago. He retired from Atlantic Gelatin Company after 41 years of employment.

He is survived by his wife, Betty E. Ericson, a daughter, Karen O'Donnell of Redding, Calif., and two sons, John O'Donnell of Spokane, Wash., and Richard O'Donnell of Everett. He also leaves three sisters, Mary Corcoran of Wakefield, Ruth O'Donnell of Acton, and Bernice Cowie of Newporrr N.H. He has five grandchildren.

Funeral services were held on Nov. 21 at St. Joseph's Church in Woburn. He was interred in Pine Grove Cemetery in Barrington, N.H.

Advent workshop is this Sunday

The annual Advent Workshop at the First Congregational Church will be held Sunday from 3:30-6 p.m. This event is sponsored by the board of Christian education, and the committee is Kitty Davis, chairperson, Mary Lawson, and Isabel Hart.

Its purpose is to provide Christmas gifts for the City Missionary Society and for "shut-ins" in the parish.

Workshop activities--decorating the City Missionary Society tree, making a variety of gifts and popcorn balls--will take place between 3:30-5 p.m. This will be followed by a half-hour Advent service in Ripley Chapel, with carol singing led by the junior choir. Between 5:30-6 p.m. a bag lunch supper will take place with hot soup and beverages provided.

Participants of all ages are invited to bring new, unwrapped gifts to be distributed by the City Missionary Society to needy families in Boston. Suggested gifts include warm mittens, hats, dolls, books, games. For the purpose of making surprise gifts for the "shut-ins" it is suggested that some of the following materials be brought: popcorn poppers, scraps of bright-colored fabric, ribbons, trims, bright yarn, old attractive Christmas cards, old costume jewelry, spools, sequins, coping saws, hammers, good scrap wood, chicken wire, scissors. Old clothing should be worn.

A dusting from the first snow of the year, along with chilly November winds, marked the end of the season and hinted at the winter to come. (Photo by D. Funkhouser)

Shelter for runaways gains support from local agencies

With the cooperation of the town's agencies and organizations, Winchester may have an emergency shelter for runaways, something many persons have been interested in starting for a long time.

On December 1, representatives from the school department, CONCERN, police, human services committee, Winchester Interagency Council, recreation department, and several others, attended a meeting to hear about this proposal.

The proposal is based on ideas which Larry Brown has effected in four emergency shelters in Wakefield, Stoneham, Melrose, and Reading.

"The idea would be to get a house, and the town has several properties and houses, and staff it with professionals or house parents," according to Ken Duffy. Duffy is a firefighter, member of CONCERN, and street worker with young people in town. The shelter would be funded with federal and state monies, although the town itself could contribute, Duffy says.

There would have to be close cooperation between police, school, mental health, and youth service organizations, and Duffy thinks the cooperation is there.

"We are making an effort to coordinate the different organizations within the community to make this work," he says.

Duffy opened the meeting last week by stressing the need for an emergency shelter in Winchester. According to police reports, there were 14 missing persons in 1975, another 34 last year, and up to August of this year, 15 adolescents have been reported missing. Duffy noted that the number reported is about half the total number of runaways.

One of the groups which Duffy works with is a five-member Community Resources committee which have been working with between 80 and 90 kids. Three of the members are street workers who deal directly with the young people. An all-volunteer organization, they hope to expand by next year.

Carla Massey from the Council for Children, reiterated Duffy's ideas. She added that the "runaway problem" is better handled by the community rather than by sending a young person somewhere else. Duffy said, "What we want to do is to keep the young people here." Massie also mentioned the lack of temporary shelters in the immediate area.

Frank Bianco, director of Chapter 766 (special education) seconded the need for a temporary shelter in Winchester.

Larry Brown attended the meeting and spoke at Ken Duffy's request. His four shelters hold 12 young men and women for 30 days, the maximum length mandated by by-law but subject to exemption or extenson. Basing the shelter on the idea of family living, house parents are in charge at the house and two sets of sub-parents are available on weekends.

The emergency shelter being considered for Winchester would house four to six young people.

The next step is for the persons interested in this project to form a non-profit organization in order to be eligible for funding. Duffy says that there are community leaders, lawyers, social workers, and psychologists who will be working along with the support of school guidance and administrative personnel, police, CONCERN, and other groups.

Public works has sand and salt for local residents

A sand and salt combination is available for Winchester residents at the transfer station to be used during winter storms for driveways and walks.

DPW Director Walter Tonaszuck says the sand and salt will be available throughout the winter.

In the dark, the lights look like a shower of falling stars, but the decorated trees serve as a reminder that the holiday season is fast upon us. To get us even more in the spirit, Fortnightly will sponsor its annual evening of music on Christmas Eve, as it has for the past 50 years in the town common. Everyone is invited to raise their voices in song to the accompaniment of music provided by high school students on this festive and joyous occasion. (Photo by Andrew McNamee)

School committee asks administration to pare high school curriculum

Faced with an increase in next year's high school budget, the school committee Monday night asked the administration to recommend where cutbacks in the curriculum could be made to reflect a projected decline in enrollment.

The request followed a lengthy discussion as the committee began to dig into next year's personal services budgets. The board also discussed the central office budget and other accounts under the high school budget

Though the enrollment at the high school is projected to drop by about 50 students next year, the budget offered up by the administration shows a 3.5 per cent increase. That adds up to a net increase of about 9.5 per cent before any negotiated increases are figured in.

The potential budgetary impact of enrollment decline was partially offset by additions to the high school program recently approved by the school committee. Another partial explanation is that the decline is spread over a wide variety of course offerings and therefore does not add up to enough to cut out an entire section of a course.

Though they did not back down on their approval of the additions for next year, the committee asked the administration to take another look at the high school curriculum and determine what sections and courses could be cut. "If we're going to stick to the increases, then we're going to have to find somewhere else to cut," said board Chairman Robert Frank.

The overall pupil-teacher ratio at the high school this year is 17-to-1. The committee asked the administration to maintain that ratio for next year.

(While the ratio of the total numer of students to teachers is 17-to-1, the ratio from class to class is closer to 20-to-1 because of the distribution of courses.)

Committee member Heinrich Holland suggested that any increase in the personal services budget should reflect only adjustments for account transfers and step increases in salaries. The committee requested the administration to identify six to eight sections which could be eliminated.

"Take a good, strong look at the curriculum, look at the strengths and weaknesses, and let us do the weeding out," recommended committee member Catherine Alexander. "I think there's a whole category of courses that are questionable."

High school Principal Vincent Larocco noted that he had several courses in mind, though he declined to specify right away what they were. Some of the potential targets include two social studies courses in African and Asian studies and some of the variety of English electives offered.

However, Larocco noted that, "If you go to people and ask them what courses could be cut out of the curriculum, the answer is 'none.' ". He said that, beyond a periodic review of the courses, deletions from the curriculum are generally done on the basis of how the courses populate.

Larocco's comments were affirmed by the assistant superintendent for curriculum, Dr. Walter Gleason, who said, "The response from the department staffs is, 'We don't have enough electives as it is.'"

The committee was critical of the administration for not recommending any cuts in the curriculum to reflect the declining enrollment. "I think if we can get the requests for additions in time (for budget preparation), we could get recommendations for deletions in time too," said Frank.

Frank noted two principal issues at hand: which courses to offer, and when to expand the number of sections offered for a particular course. Though it is impossible to say exactly how many students will request a particular course for next year, the administration did prepare the budget on the basis of projected section sizes. "You ought to look at the speicific loadings of the sections and see if any could be cut," commented Frank.

Frank also said the numbers populating a particular course should not be the only factor determining whether or not a course should be offered.

In a similar vein, committee member Constance Papas said, "The offerings should be cut back at the high school, not just to keep the budget in line, but because there are some serious questions as to the necessity of certain offerings. . .I think it boils down to the basic philosophy of what a high school ought to be doing. I think the high school is turning around to what I personally think it ought to be doing." Mrs. Papas was critical of the degree of specialization offered at the school, adding, "The purpose (of the school) is to give the kids a good foundation either to go out and work or to go on to college and specialize there...we kind of got away from all that in the 60s."

By proposing the cutback in electives, Frank said he hoped the administration would prioritize the offerings at the high school and "decide what is expendable."

The decline of about 50 students net year figures out to a proportional reduction of about three teachers. The additions approved by the school committee this fall — including one section of music, one section of accounting, one section of German, and three sections of science—amounts to about two-and-a-half teaching positions, according to the administration.

Board member Mrs. Papas conceded that the lack of cuts in the budget was not entirely the fault of the administration. "The school committee should have given some bottom line guidelines," she commented Tuesday; "we should have made some policy decisions. But we never really pushed for decreases until last night."

Choate approves plans for consolidation with Winchester and Symmes hospitals

Winchester, Symmes, and Choate Memorial Hospitals are one step closer to consolidating, though such a move is still a long way off.

The board of corporation of the Choate Hospital in Woburn voted unanimously Thursday to favor a plan to consolidate the three hospitals into one central facility.

The consolidation proposal, drawn up at the request of the the three hospitals by the consulting firm of Block, McGibony and Associates, has not been voted on by either Winchester or Symmes Hospitals.

The planners project that even if all agree to the plan, construction of such a facility may be as much as 10 years away. Cost estimates range from $30-35 million.

The three hospitals have been evaluating their needs and considering plans for upgrading their separate facilities for several years now. When they learned of each other's plans, the possibility of consolidation came up, and in March they hired the consultants to explore consolidation. In some instances, the hospitals will have to renovate their facilities sooner or later to comply with new, stricter state space requirements.

A report prepared by Choate Hospital on the consolidation estimates that "upgrading the three existing facilities will cost approximately the same amount of money (as building the new facility), yet still leave the three hospitals with serious site deficiencies and continued parking problems."

The plan lists a number of "major advantages" of consolidation, including:

—The new facility would totally conform to the new building codes and standards and would "meet the needs of the service area well into the future."

—The single facility would be better able to support a wider range of services and specialists and "provide a greater attraction for new physicians."

—Economies of scale would be realized by combining capital resources and reducing the duplication of services. The consolidation would no doubt lead to a reduction in the number of personnel employed by the three institutions, in some areas, says the report.

—"The combined resources of a merged institution can better establish and maintain programs in continuing education for physicians and support staff."

—The central facility could "better plan for future services for the entire area than three separate and competing institutions."

One motivation for considering consolidation is that the three hospitals have to have any renovation projects costing more than $100,000 approved by the state department of public health.

With medical costs rising and the demand for hospital beds falling below the supply, the climate for hospital expansion has become chillier in past years. The most current example is the legal battle over the granting of a certificate of need for the proposed Lahey Clinic in Burlington: a group of local doctors and administrators has joined together to oppose construction of the facility.

However, a consumer group in Burlington has been circulating a petition seeking 10,000 signatures in support of the Lahey project. The petition, which has the support of local officials in Burlington, is to be sent to the US Department of Housing and Urban Development to convince HUD to release a $70 million loan to get the project underway.

The money has been held up pending settlement of the litigation. Those opposed to the project claim the Lahey Clinic has expanded its plans beyond what was originally approved by the state. Some have expressed fears that the establishment of the Lahey Clinic in Burlington would force the closing of the area's small, local hospitals, including Winchester, Choate and Symmes.

The Lahey CLinic has already spent about $11 million in site preparation and planning.

The consulting firm brought in to explore the three-hospital consolidation estimated that renovations planned by the hospitals on their own would cost about $22 million. The consultants suggested the money would be better spent building a new, central facility. No particular site has been picked out for the proposed facility.

History for sale at public library

The two-volume History of Winchester, published as one of the town's bicentennial projects, is on sale at the Winchester Public Library. It comes in a slipcase displaying a picture of the town in 1845.

This makes an excellent Christmas gift for newcomers or for friends and family who have moved away. It is possible to arrange to have the boxed set mailed to the recipient of your choice.

Early deadline for Christmas

Due to the holiday, The Star will come out a day early the week before Christmas, on Wednesday, Dec. 21. Therefore, the dealine for copy for that week's paper will be the preceding Friday, Dec. 16 at 5 p.m.

Advertising deadlines for the Christmas week issue are as follows: classifieds, Monday by 4 p.m.; display ads, Monday by 5 p.m.

The news and advertising deadlines for next week's issue (Dec. 15) will be as usual: 5 p.m. Monday for news, 4 p.m. Tuesday for classifieds; and 5 p.m. Tuesdays for display ads.

Honor Society inducts 80

Eighty Winchester High School seniors were inducted into the National Honor Society on Tuesday, November 15, in an evening ceremony. Faculty advisor, Dr. Clifton Wheeler, conducted the old-fashioned candlelight ceremony.

Ellen Stoddard, a National Honor Society member, opened the ceremony by playing the Sonata in F Minor by Beethoven. Dr. Heinrich Holland, guest speaker, discussed the topic "Values of Education." Principal Vincent Larocco was also present for the festivities.

Tricia Welch, immediate past president of the Society, assisted Doctor Wheeler in lighting four candles which represented the principles of the National Honor Society. The principles described briefly as the candles were lit are character, scholarship, leadership and service. Each newly inducted member then received a certificate, a National Honor Society pin, a membership card and a candle. When the members were seated, the lights were dimmed and each student lighted the candle of another, thereby symbolizing the spreading of universal knowledge.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the cafeteria. Mrs. Alison Taber and Mrs. Mary Welch were responsible for the elegant arrangement and serving of refreshments provided by the newly inducted members

The National Honor Society will continue to be an active organization in and out of Winchester High School this year. In October the officers of the society travelled to Boston College to attend a convention of eastern Massachusetts National Honor Society members. There they discussed various functions of the society with representatives from other schools in the state. Plans for the coming year include a tutoring program in the high school, a party for senior citizens, a field day for elementary school children and a formal banquet at the end of the year.

MDC leans on speeders

The residents of South Border road were fed up. They petitioned the MDC to slow down the traffic and ticket violators and they asked the board of selectmen for help.

Last week the crackdown began and, according to at least one resident of the winding road, there has been "dramatic" improvement.

According to the MDC, there will be a car on patrol duty between 8 p.m. and 2 a.m. every Friday and Saturday until further notice. These nights appear to be the ones in which most accidents occur. There have been serious accidents, including two head-on collisions, on South Border road and the Mystic Valley parkway in recent weeks.

In addition to the weekend patrol, there will be "special attention" during the week on different days.

The selectmen have supported a petition signed by 16 residents of South Border road, and initiated by Ken Tully of 556 South Border rd. The board voted unanimously to send a letter of support to MDC Commissioner John F. Snedeker.

Apparently the added patrol is working. Figures from the MDC indicate the following citations (first number) and accidents (second number) reported since May:

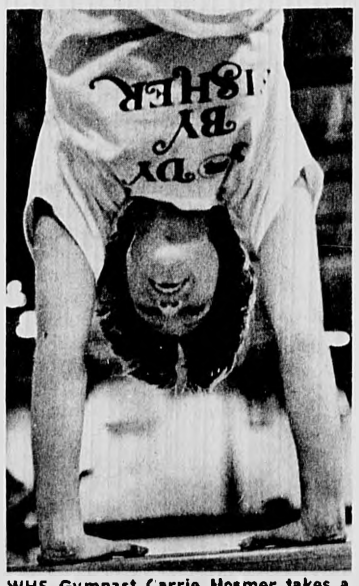

May 25 and 0; June 30 and 12; July 10 and 1; August 10 and 1; September 7 and 1; October 5 and 3; and November 37 and 2.

Police Chief John P. McHugh and Lt. James J. Cogan support the neighbors' efforts to have stricter enforcement of traffic laws in this stretch of road under the jurisdiction of the MDC.

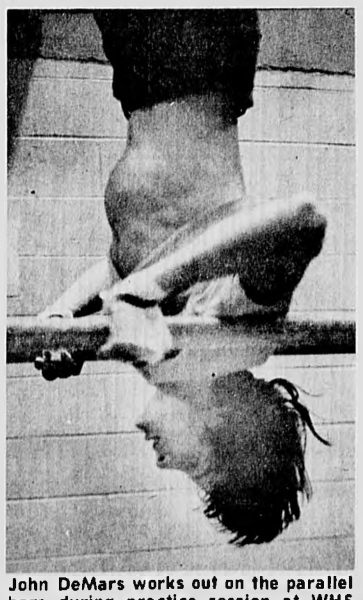

Lt. Cogan wrote, in a memo of support, that when a call is made to Winchester police headquarters about an accident on the road, officers "respond... administer first aid... take any emergency actions..." and then they have to wait for the MDC police to respond. At that point the MDC takes over reports and investigations.

Previous attempts at increasing MDC surveillance met with some success when South Border road residents last year asked MDC officials for their help in cutting down the number and severity of car accidents. Tully said, "The cooperation that we received did temporarily slow down the traffic and improve the road conditions enough to successfully reduce the tragic scenes that we witness so frequently."

This year, they will try again. Residents are particularly worried now that winter conditions have set in.

Screening committee asks $3000 to find comptroller

What has to be one of the faster-working committees in Winchester received its charge from selectmen Monday night at 8:30 and within the hour were ready for their first report back to that board.

The screening committee to evaluate candidates for position of town comptroller were asked to come up with three unranked candidates by March 1. Selectmen also asked the committee to work out a budget for advertising, printing, travel or other expenses.

In charging the six men, Selectmen Chairman Barbara S. Hankins noted that a residency requirement would not be imposed on the candidates, "although it would be desireable if the town comptroller lived here or would be able to move here."

Mrs. Hankins also noted that a candidate should have some knowledge of data processing, retirement, and investment, as the comptroller is involved in these three areas.

With their charge, the six men and a staff assistant, Diane Capstaff, retired to the park department room for their first organizational meeting. Within the hour their chairman, John G. McElwee, returned with a report.

The committee asked for $1500 from the finance committee with an earmark of an additional $1500 for expenses such as advertising and travel.

McElwee said that in order to meet the selectmen's deadline of March 1, the committee would need to have advertisements drawn up by December 14. He expects to advertise in 10 to 12 journals and newspapers.

He also expects to be in touch with the personnel board regarding salary.

The town cannot hire a town comptroller for more than the salary midpoint without the concurrence of the personnel board. The salary range now is $19,368 to $27,158, with a midpoint of $23,742.

The committee will be meeting Wednesdays from 7:30 to 9:30, with no meeting scheduled December 28.

In addition to McElwee, the members of the committee are secretary Paul F. Amico, David W. Donahue, John F. Mitchell, Sherman W. Saltmarsh Jr., and Lawrence T. Smith.

The selectmen will be rewriting the job description in the next few weeks, but they did indicate to the screening committee some of the changes they expect to be made.

With the majority of the board favoring transferring responsibility for data processing from the comptroller to the town manager, there could be a slight reduction in the salary scale for town comptroller. A large number of accounting records are on computer, however, and a knowledge of data processing would be of advantage to the comptroller.

Another change in the job description will be a requirement that the comptroller attend all regular weekly meetings of the board of selectmen and all town meetings.

Fresh water pearls mineral club topic

On Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the meeting room of the Winchester Public Library, Mrs. Josephine McInderwere, a lecturer on fresh water pearls, will speak to the members of the Winchester Mineral Club. The meeting is open to the public.

Advisory board meeting Tues. on special ed.

The education of high school and junior high school students with special needs will be the major agenda item at the regular meeting of the Winchester Advisory Committee on Special Education Tuesday at 7:30 at Sanborn House.

Frank Bianco, director of special education, will make the principal presentation, which will cover a range of issues from educational programs to necessary emotional supports for secondary school students. On the agenda will be a discussion of community participation and information. Budget needs of the special education program in Winchester will be discussed.

The advisory group, which meets the second Tuesday of each month, is charged by the school committee to advise on special education matters in Winchester and is composed of parents, professionals, and interested residents.

At the first meeting in November, Debbie Stewart discussed the high school resource room. At that meeting, Richard Cary und Dan Hanlon retired as chairman and secretary after two years of service, and were succeeded by Dr. Joel J. Alpert, chairman, Margaret Carayannopoulous, vice chairman, and Jean Mortensen, secretary.

Special education, largely funded by Chapter 766 funds, now benefits almost 20 per cent of Winchester school children. Similar programs can be expected in other states in response to the passage of Federal legislation (PL94-642) patterned after the Massachusetts program. Winchester's programs are considered among the strongest in the state, according to local administrators.

Bar association to host Paul Guzzi at dinner meeting

The Fourth Middlesex Bar Association is will hold a dinner meeting with Massachusetts Secretary of State Paul Guzzi Wednesday evening at 6:45 at the Holiday Inn, Commerce way, Woburn.

The discussion will focus on the role of the secretary of state's office and the practicing attorney.

Fire dept. 'in good shape'

The fire department is "in very good shape" Chief Robert W. McElhinney says. He has plans to make it even better next year.

Continuing their regular meetings with department heads, the board of selectmen Monday night invited the chief to give them an update on the fire department.

Of prime concern to the board was the attitude and efficiency of the men now that the fire department has taken over the ambulance service from the police.

The chief reported that there have been 250 ambulance runs since July 1 when the fire department started responding to medical emergencies in the ambulance. "It's worked out very smoothly," Chief McElhinney said. "We've had good cooperation with the police department."

There are now 22 emergency medical technicians (EMTs) on the fire department staff. The chief would like to see 28 members certified. "I would like to have seven EMTs on each of the four shifts," he said, "and I am hoping that next year we'll have that."

The back-up for the Winchester ambulance is the Woburn ambulance. The second back-up is the Winchester rescue truck. The state requirements for certifying an ambulance were too strict for the rescue, Chief McElhinney said, and the town purchased the ambulance. The ambulance itself was found to have 13 deficiencies on receipt, but they were corrected and the state certified the ambulance.

Pertaining to money matters, the chief said that the department's expenditures are running about as budgeted for the year and that next year's budget has been prepared. He has included money for insulating the third floor sleeping quarters at the station and for installing combination storm windows. The windows now used have been in the station since 1914.

Chief McElhinney said he would also like to replace a 1950 Mack pump.

Asked his hopes for the department in 1978, the chief reported that he would like to see more done in fire prevention and physical education. He also wants to look into the possibility of having a radio frequency for the exclusive use of the fire department.

"The public works department and the fire department are on the same frequency now," he said, "and on a stormy night when the DPW has to be in radio communication it is sometimes difficult for the fire department to get through."

Summarizing the year's activity, Chief McElhinney reported that there were more than 1300 runs, 90 false alarms, five two-alarm fires, and 30 "real workers".

The selectmen finished the time with Chief McElhinney by remarking on how well they find the department running.

Two hurt in car accidents; 2 arrested

Town and MDC police reported several automobile accidents this week, none resulting in serious injury.

In the first, an eight-year-old boy was struck by a car in front of his house on Pond street on the afternoon of Nov. 30.

His mother took the boy to Winchester Hospital where he was treated for arm and leg injuries and released.

The operator of the vehicle, who said the boy ran into the side of her car, reported the incident to the police.

A local man was arrested for operating under the influence following an accident on Wildwood and Church streets Friday. According to police reports, he ran a stop sign and another car struck his vehicle, pushing it into a garage door and side wall. The driver was admitted to Winchester Hospital and released that night.

Another accident occurred the following night when a car hit an Edison pole on South Border road. No one was hurt in the collision. Winchester firefighters arrived at the scene, disconnected the car battery, and swept away the debris on the street. Later on, the Edison company sent a crew to cut the wires from the pole.

Also on that night, at 11:30 p.m., a Winn Street Motors employee was involved in an accident with a customer's car.

The man drove off the road at High street. He returned to the garage, picked up a tow truck, and towed the car back to the station. On Sunday the owner discovered that his car was in worse shape than when he had left it.

The employee came into the police station to file an accieent report the next day.

In other police news, police made two arrests this week, one for disturbing the peace and one for idle and disorderly conduct.

At 4 a.m. Friday, a doctor was arrested for distrubing the peace on Irving street. Neighbors complained of loud noise resulting from an argument between the man and his estranged wife. Police arrested the man when he persisted in loudly badgering his wife and threatened to slash her car tires.

Another arrest occurred that night at 10 p.m. in the Ginn Field area. A local youth was arrested for idle and disorderly conduct.

There was one car theft reported in town this past week. A 1975 Ford was stolen from a driveway on Pierrepont road some time after 10 p.m. on Saturday.

Dept. responds to small fires, 6 false alarms

Firefighters put out several small fires this week and answered six false alarms in three days.

An illegal bonfire at the rear of the Swim club on Johnson road was extinguished late Friday night.

On Saturday afternoon, a man put out a fire in his own car with a bucket of water. Heat cracked the windshield of the car which was parked at the rear of the public library.

A fire caused by a clogged hose vent and heat build-up from a clothes dryer on Willowdale road was quickly snuffed by firefighters on Sunday.

Four sentenced 1 year, 3 months by Woburn Court

Four out of five local men arrested Nov. 19 following a disturbance on Main and Swanton streets were each sentenced to one year and three months in the House of Correction, Saturday in Woburn District Court. The fifth man did not show up for trial.

Bruce L. Boldoc, 21, of 965 Main st.; Arthur Reed, 19, of Medford; and Kent W. Bradley, 20, and Peter J. Cinq-Mars, 20, both of Malden, were each sentenced to one year in the House of Correction (three months to be served forthwith and the remainder suspended) for possession of a dangerous weapon. The four will also serve three months for idle and disorderly conduct.

In addition to the other charges, Boldoc was found guilty of operating under the influence of alcohol and sentenced to ten days.

A second Medford man, Kenneth Ulah, 19, defaulted. A capias (fugitive warrant) was issued for his arrest.

All of the men have appealed

Civil defense director needed

Winchester is without a civil defense director. By state law the town has to have one, but right now Police Chief John P. McHugh is acting director.

The biggest job of a CD director is planning and coordinating procedures in case of an emergency in Winchester.

According to Selectman Edward O'Connell, "this town is susceptible to being hit" with crises of this kind. He cites, for example, the recent drinking water problem and the floods of last winter.

The question of who should be in charge of this sort of planning was brought up at Monday night's selectmen's meeting when Fire Chief Robert W. McElhinney gave an update on fire department workings.

Selectmen had included the CD program on their docket at this time.

The chief was of the opinion, shared by the town manager and selectmen, that the civil defense director should be someone associated with and having an intimate knowledge of emergency service in Winchester. Town Manager Groux suggested that an assistant to either the police or fire chief might be a suitable CD director.

Selectman Arthur E. Dunbar asked if the manager himself might want to take on the job. Selectmen Chairman Barbara S. Hankins suggested "that is an interesting thought." O'Connell responded, however, "I am skeptical of a town manager who has to wear one, three, or 19 hats."

The board decided to look further into this question and suggested that the most qualified and interested person in either department could serve.

While mandatory by state statute, the position does not carry a salary.

Apologies due

The damage has obviously been done, and it is nigh impossible to retract something as bold as a headline. Nonetheless, apologies are due, and we will do what is in our power to correct what was, in retrospect, a blatant misjudgment.

The headline in last week's story about an arrest in connection with an assault charge was way out of line. The fact that the youth charged with the crime has a father on the police force has nothing to do with the case, and the information should have at least been left out of the headline.

The innocence or guilt of the young man will be decided in the courts. The profession of his father is not germane to the case; and as a young man of 19, the accused must stand accountable for his actions, as would any adult. The name of the youth was printed in the paper because it is the policy of this paper to print the names of those arrested in connection with a felony, as the alleged assault and battery with a dangerous weapon certainly is.

As a letter in this week's paper points out, Sgt. Amico has served this town for more than 21 years, and it is to him in particular our apologies go. — DKF

The spirit is there

The momentum is building. Events of the past several weeks are making it clear that there is a lot of support, plenty of spirit, and enough manpower in Winchester to make a recreation center work.

The proposals being discussed in private and in public range from an emergency community shelter for runaways to a teen center to a general community center. That so many ideas are being tossed around suggests there are a variety of needs to be filled.

At the very minimum, there is a stated need for some sort of local facility to provide for teenagers who, for one reason or another, can't live at home. Up to August of this year, police report 15 youths under 17 as "missing" or as runaways. Firefighter Ken Duffy, who works with kids in the street on his own time, estimates the number to be twice that.

Duffy presented his case for a shelter, modeled on similar programs in neighboring communities, at a meeting Dec. 1 attended by a wide variety of persons from private and public agencies. Among those present were representatives from CONCERN, WIC, the police department, recreation department, the human services committee, the school department, the Mystic Valley Council for Children, and other local groups.

The group heard Larry Brown talk about his work at Project 735, a series of "halfway houses" in four surrounding towns. ("Halfway" is a curious word: most take it to mean halfway between in and out of jail. It has another meaning: halfway between living at home and living out in the world.)

Another recent development is the recreational nights to be sponsored by the Winchester Rotary Club and the recreation department. Rotary is putting up some funds to set up the center at the Lincoln School on Saturday nights. The program will include table games, ping pong, music and dances, and a regular program of movies. Set to run from 7:30-11 p.m., the center will be under the direction of Jerry Ferro of the recreation department.

The center is what you might call Phase Two. The first step was the two dances for high school age kids held at Lincoln this fall. Both went smoothly, and students are working on their own now to plan more such activities. What came out of the dances was that the kids showed they could work together and make this kind of activity come off.

If the recreation nights at Lincoln work out, Phase Three might go into operation: a push for a permanent recreation center, either for the teenagers or for the community as a whole. With one or more schools likely to be closed in the next few years, the opportunity is there to make use of one of the buildings for such a center.

There are plenty who keep saying, "We tried it before and it never got off the ground." Quite true, but that's hardly an adequate excuse. We should learn from the mistakes of earlier attempts, take advantage of the momentum among various community groups, including the youth, take advantage of the underutilized school facilities, and try to make it work.

The problems in this community will not go away by sending them out of town. The energy and the spirit are there: let's deal with them at home.

School plans

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The long range, broad-gauge benefits to the Winchester school system and to the town as a whole presented in three optional plans last week by the Concerned Parents Committee to the school committee deserve thoughtful attention on the part of our citizens.

All plans provide for a four-year senior high school, a two-year junior high school, closing of the Lincoln School and recognition of the principle of neighborhood elementary schools as well as the need for further reduction in the number of elementary schools. Also included is a recommendation that the proposed use of any school scheduled to be closed be publicly announced before that school is tranferred to the control of another town agency

Although all three plans offered have merit, I especially favor the third plan because it provides for the optimum ultization of existing school buildings and simultaneously frees up valuable property that could be converted to broaden the tax base. If not required for public purposes, the Lincoln School could become an important addition to the taxable rolls in the center of town. Likewise, the sale to private interests of the former Marycliffe property, including the Ambrose School, could result in a welcome expansion of the tax base.

Community Resources

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I wanted to write this letter to let some people know just what Community Resources is.

Community Resources is a group of people volunteering their time and trouble to help young people find the right kind of help for their problems and to just be friends, to be someone to talk to.

We are not social workers or psychiatrists. We are just a few concerned people grouped together to help give young people a better chance at life. The point that I would like to stress very much is the fact that we are not here to solve the problem, but merely to find someone who can by using the resources of the community

Foster homes

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Currently there is a need for foster homes in this area. A number of young people who for one reason or another cannot live at home are looking for a family who can give them just a little attention and love.

We are a non-profit organization and need somehow to spread the word that families for children are needed.

Ideally, a new foster home will present a child with problems an opportunity to gain a better perspective and a happier life, resulting in gains for both him and the Community.

Queensmen alumni

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Since 1946 the Immaculate Conception Queensmen Drum and Bugle Corps and the Queens Cadetts Drill Team have been a viable activity in our community. Over the course of the past 31 years, many have participated in either or both of these units.

A group of former members has recently met with an idea to form an alumni association Hopefully, if organized, this association would serve to reunite many of those friendships developed over the years. The immediate plans of this group would be to sponsor a dinner-dance reunion in the near future.

In order for this endeavor to be successful, help is needed in locating as many former members as possible. If you can help with any names or addresses of past members, or if you have any program books from past Queensmen sponsored competitions, please contact

Unfair

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I am writing to express my strong objections to the article "Policeman's Son Arrested for Assault" in this week's Star. I am surprised that in a three-column spread of police department news, listing over 20 individuals, the only person mentioned by name was Michael Amico, who happens to be my son. Not only was he specifically identified, but done so under a headline proclaiming that his father was a police officer.

I have never before seen a parent's occupation mentioned in articles of this type, and fail to understand the reason for it in this one — does it sell more newspapers when a "cop's kid" gets in trouble than if his father were a doctor, a lawyer or a clerk in a grocery store?

This type of recognition is an unnecessary ego-builder for a boy of this type.

Why then persecute and embarrass his parents and other members of the family? Please understand that I do not write in defense of my son — he must defend his actions in a court of law, even tho' the Star has already announced his guilt. I write in defense of my husband, who has served the people of this town for more than 21 years, as a police officer, and done his job well. There must be a dedication to duty when one has to maintain a second job as well, in order to support a family of 8 children. (Incidentally, almost every police officer & fireman in Winchester must do the same, which certainly says something about Winchester's salary scale!)

I regret that The Star, which was once a fine town "family" newspaper, has had to resort to so many "anti-public servant" articles recently in order to sell papers. Many people who have devoted their lives to working for this town have been unfairly hurt or embarrassed by these articles; not only myself, but our recent town treasurer and town comptroller, the town manager, DPW administrators and personnel, members of the school department and school committee as well as members of our police and fire departments. Perhaps the time has come for The Star to be printed on "yellow" paper.

Jeanne M. Amico

Unnecessary

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Your headline "Policeman's son arrested by MDC on assault charge" was unnecessary and sensational. Had it been your son, would you have printed "Newsman's son arrested by MDC on assault charge"?

Thanks for time

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I would like to take this time to thank Carla Massey from the Council for Children, Frank Bianco, director of special needs (766), and Larry Brown, the executive director of 735 Inc. for their time and information at the Look at Youth Services meeting Dec. 1 at the high school.

I would also like to thank Kay Bigelow and the rest of CONCERN for sponsoring this meeting. Last but far from least, I would like to thank those people who took the time to come and listen. They include the members of the police department, school departmetnt, and human resources panel, also the Boy Scouts, Dr. Niblock, Mystic Valley Mental Health, church groups, and all the other organizations that attended.

Thanks again.

Send a card

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I lived in Winchester for 11 months; I am a 53-year-old disabled veteran of World War II. I was wounded three times in action in the Battle of the Bulge.

I had seven operations, had my left leg amputated and four more operations afterward. I had very poor circulation in my right leg and I had to have my right leg amputated just last year. I now have a liver infection.

It would make me very happy if you would please have my letter published in The Star. It would make me very happy to receive get-well cards and letters or Christmas cards to cheer me up these long, dreary days. Receiving mail makes me happy, and it gives me something to look forward to.

Thank you,

Town Watch...

Dateline: Winchester

By The Observer

Charles J. Riley, although nobody in town would call him Charles, has retired as editor of the Woburn Daily Times Winchester page after a quarter century.

Charlie has been seen at town meeting, through the corridors of Town Hall, down at the police station, the fire house, everywhere there was news of Winchester happening. He gathered his facts with a friendly persistence which has endeared him to the many officials who make this town run.

He was active in political affairs in Woburn, where he was born, and in social activities for the young people there. Charlie's gentleness and love for all people was apparent everywhere.

After 24 years, Charlie is relinquishing the editorship of the Winchester page to Brant Houston. Charlie will not be leaving the Daily Times, though. He's planning to give more time to features and other columns that he has worked on over the years.

As Charlie leaves the Winchester page and Brant comes on as editor, we wish both men the very best of success...and not too many scoops!

The Winchester high school winter concert is Wednesday night. You should not miss it.

The orchestra and concert choir will be combining to present Vivaldi's "Gloria" at the high school auditorium. The young people are very excited about this production and, from what the Observer sees, it will be a very worthwhile eveing.

Tickets are available from members of the orchestra and concert choir, and at the door. The performance starts at 8.

As is our tradition, we are sending holiday greetings to our sister city of Winchester, England.

The card, shown at Monday's selectmen's meeting, is a lovely photograph taken by Arthur Griffin. It is a view over the mill pond with Town Hall in the background. It's just lovely.

It's not only the photograph which makes this card special. There is some beautiful lettering done by another Winchester resident, Mrs. Katharine Connor of Highland avenue.

We should be proud to send such greetings to our English friends. And we, along with the selectmen, thank Mr. Griffin and Mrs. Connor for their artistry.

Selectmen and the town manager brought up the subject of purchasing the Winchester train station again Monday night.

In response to a memo from Town Manager Thomas J. Groux, selectmen suggested he "explore tentatively" the possible purchase of the station.

The selectmen are hoping to call in owner Richard Murphy to see if he is even interested in selling.

Selectman Harry Chefalo wondered what difference it would make in the amount of trash and vandalism if the town owned the station.

Chairman Barbara S. Hankins answered, "Harry, I'd rather own the station and have the same problems than have to get after someone else to clear them up."

Releases come into The Star office a couple of times a week from the registry of motor vehicles. Sometimes they're about expanded office hours, sometimes about schools in session.

This past week or so there have been pleas for safe driving on hazardous winter roads. Winchester is a very beautiful town in the winter. That drive down Church street from Cambridge street, the tortuous and elegantly lovely ride on South Border road are dangerous.

The registry reminds all motorists to have their cars checked for working windshield wipers, batteries, and headlights.

Drive slowly and carefully at all times and watch particularly for little children on sleds who may not be able to stop before they reach the street.

This town is too beautiful to be marred by accidents.

Firefighters were perturbed last week after reading a caption in The Star identifying one their own as a police officer. The firefighter shown climbing into the smokey warehouse on Holton street on Nov. 27 was actually Joseph Riga.

The photograph also shows Riga's fellow firefighters awaiting the arrival of police and their shotgun because attack dogs were reported to be guarding the building.

Even though no dogs were inside, firefighters showed common sense and stuck by the rules by not going in. Fire prevention rule No. 9, department of public safety rule No. 23 states that police must be notified in the presence of attack dogs.

The Winchester Archival Center is having an official opening in its new home.

After several months of moving and rearranging items of interest to Winchester buffs, the center will open in the Carriage House. Hours are Tuesday and Thursday afternoons 2-5 and Thursday evenings 7-9.

There are two new collections which should prove very exciting. One is a set of skating memorabilia and materials relating to the Vinson-Owen family.

It was in 1961 that champion skaters Maribel Vinson Owen and her two daughters were killed in a plane crash in Brussels. The collection, being catalogued by Jon Haber as a scout project, was donated by Frank Monkiewicz.

The other collection is from California where the Whitney family moved from Winchester in 1939. In the 1800s the Whitneys operated a mill in the center on the site of the old Converse mill from the 1600s. The family later owned the Whitney Machine Shop on Main street.

The collection contains maps, account books, photographs, and other items of value to those with an interest in the history of this town.

A "program of positive reinforcement" has been started by the Winchester Education Association.

The WEA is distributing brightly colored postcards to all classroom teachers so that the teachers can in turn send notices of good things their students are doing directly to the parents.

The WEA says, "Members of the WEA, who feel they have contact with parents only when there is something negative to report, are enthusiastic about the opportunity to share students' successes."

The first postcards have been delivered to the schools and should start coming home next week.

The town's two newest committees have named their officers and started the wheels rolling.

The ad hoc auditing committee to seek prospective auditing firms to do the town's books, has selected Stephen R. Parkhurst as chairman. Vice chairman is Joseph Bentley and secretary is John Padgett.

The comptroller screening committee to receommend candidates to that position have chosen John G. McElwee as chairman and Paul F. Amico as secretary.

Indications so far are that these two "blue ribbon" committees will succeed in a timely manner to fulfill their respective charges.

The 15-minute parking meters on Waterfield road in front of the post office will stay. In fact, enforcement of the rules will be stepped up.

A couple of weeks ago, Winchester Drug on Main street asked the traffic advisory board about having the meters in front of their store changed from two-hour to 15-minute parking. It didn't work and the meters are still two hours.

What did come of it, though, was the fact that the Waterfield road meters are the only ones downtown which are for 15-minute parking.

Selectmen are going to ask the police department to be stricter in their enforcement of meter feeding as well as overtime violations.

Goodnight, snowman

By Karen Whittlesey-First

The boots were still squeaky new and the laces were not yet frayed. The mittens fit, the scarf was tied in back, the stocking cap didn't quite cover all the soft brown hair. He looked, in fact, like the illustration for one of those charming children's books that you read when you were little and which you read now to the little ones, sometimes with a tear in your eye

So the snow came and out he went, plumped up like a pillow encased in his sweaters and winter jacket, which won't fit next year, his brown eyes marveling again at the whiteness of the world.

The white cat stood by him, twitching and swishing her tail, making light flakes dance like the flurries in those glass paper weights [illegible] you [illegible] ake and all the snow swirls around inside.

Then he started to work. He rolled and piled the snow, bigger and bigger, packing and smoothing until the first ball was just right. The boys next door asked him to go sledding but no, he was too busy. He rolled it in place and stood back to admire it. The cat watched a squirrel run up the oak tree.

Then he rolled another ball. And a third. His mittens were soaked and the sun was nearly down. The scarf had come untied and the boot laces were loose. His cheeks were rosy and his eyelashes were glistening. The cat was snug inside, curled like a snowball in front of the fireplace.

The blast of cold air roaring into the kitchen meant he had come in. The carrots were waiting for him and the worn-out mittens and scarf from last year's wintery days were ready for their new owner.

He remembered to close the door on his way back out. Little foot-sized puddles left a trail.

Then by the light of the porch lamp I saw him wave goodnight to his creation.

Saturday night rec. center sponsored by Rotary, town

The Winchester Recreation Department and the Winchester Rotary Club are teaming-up to provide a town run recreational center fo the many teens in town who are looking for a place to meet on a Saturday evening.

With monies and support from the Rotary Club and the blessings of Principal William Warnock of the Lincoln School, the recreation staff will conduct a semi-structured program every Saturday evening which will consist of ping pong, music, dances, table games, and selected movies.

The director of recreation, Donald L. Spinney, states that under the direction of Recreation Coordinator Jerry Ferro, the center will be open every Saturday evening from 7:30-11 p.m. Spinney also notes that if this program, is accepted by the teens and runs smoothly, it could possible set the wheels in motion for a permanent structure such as a community or youth center.

Coordinator Ferro, who noted that the kids have done a fine job on the dances and movies so far, said that this is another project by which they can show the town they are ready for a town sponsored youth center.

Enrollments at St. Mary's

St. Mary's School administrators were concerned over the enrollment figures released last week by Supt. William C. MacDonald. In a report to the school board Monday night, MacDonald said the numbers he had reported might have given people the wrong impression about enrollment trends at the parochial school.

The St. Mary's administrators sent a letter to MacDonald and the school committee expressing their feelings on the matter, and the superintendent felt obliged to clear up the problem at Monday's meeting.

Enrollments at St. Mary's have grown from 134 in 1974 to 215 this year. The mix-up came because MacDonald reported on Winchester children attending the school in grades K-12, which totals 179 for this year (last week's figure was off by three, 176).

The rest of the 215 enrolled at St. Mary's are either in the pre-kindergarten program (25 children) or come from out of town (11 children).

MacDonald regretted that his report last week, "may have had negative connotations regarding St. Mary's." He also noted that while he did not have the enrollment figures going back before 1975, St. Mary's does have those figures, contrary to what was implied in the original report.

"I think that St. Mary's School provides a real service to the young people of this community," added MacDonald.

Administration

Last year's cutbacks in central office staff are being felt outside the perimeters of the Sanborn House.

During a discussion of the central office personal services budget Monday night, the school committee learned that principals Dr. Clare Corcoran (Vinson-Owen) and Robert Fitzgerald (Lynch Junior High) are spending about 50 percent of their work days on central office administrative duties.

The two principals, along with the rest of the central office staff, have taken on the duties formerly performed by Assistant Superintendent for Personnel Henry Perry. Perry retired at the end of last year, and his position, if not his responsibilities, was eliminated in an effort to effect cuts in the school budget.

Fitzgerald and Corcoran handle most of the interviewing, hiring, and overseeing of school personnel; they are also repsonsible for much of the personal services budget preparation.

Committee member Jack Noble suggested that the two principals should not have to spend so much time on administrative tasks outside their schools.

"The central office cuts are being absorbed by pulling people out of schools, and I don't think that's what we intended to do," said Noble.

Commented board member Constance Papas, "I don't see how we can avoid that at this point."

Efforts to pare the budget have led to additional duties for two other principals as well: George Flynn is principal for two elementary schools, Noonan and Washington; and Ambrose Principal Robert Forest spends part of his day teaching.

Dec. 12 meeting

The next regular school committee meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the Sanborn House this Monday. Matters up for disucssion include:

— The relative advantages of moving to a four-year high school. The four-year system is an integral part of long range plans for reorganization of the school system proposed by the administration. It is also a part of alternative plans recently presented to the committee by parents at the Washington School.

— Alternate plans for reorganization of the school system. The impetus for reorganization comes from the steadily declining enrollments in Winchester's schools. Plans suggested to date involve the four-year high school, consolidating middle schools into one school for grades 7-8, and closing one or more of the remaining elementary schools.

The committee set Dec. 12 as a "target date" for receiving alternate plans. They have stated their commitment, however, to remain open to public input as the reorganization process moves along.

— A report on the English curriculum. The English electives program at the high school has been identified by the committee as an area where cutbacks might be made.

— Reports on Chapter 622 (the state law requiring equal educational opportunity for male and female students); student-teacher ratios (in particular, the relative costs of lowering the ratios for the primary grades); and approval of courses of study at the high school.

Other items on the agenda include routine personnel and business matters.

One item of new business on the printed agenda which has been put off until the Dec. 27 meeting is a discussion of the confidentiality of student records.

The quetion arose after a parent from the Vinson-Owen School requested a listing of students at the school, along with the names and addresses of their parents. The inital request was made of the school's parents' association and was refused. Subsequent requests for the information were made to the principal, Clare Corcoran, who referred the question to Superintendent William C. MacDonald.

MacDonald has refused to release the information without the formal consent of the school committee. The committee deferred discussion of the matter until Dec. 27 to allow the persons interested in obtaining the information to appear before the board.

Mystic School

Christopher Scanlon, who teaches sixth grade at Mystic took a course at Tufts this summer in "Principles of Guidance." This graduate course is taught by Dr. Jean Wellington.

Julia Pomeroy took a course called "The Teacher's Role in Educational Change" with Dr. Winter, chairman of the department of education at Tufts, towards her certificate of advanced graduate study. Ms. Pomeroy teaches fifth grade.

Marybeth Orr has completed a master's degree in reading at Lesley College with a recent course in "Children's Literature" at Lesley with Dr. Jocelyn Hayes and the "Teaching of Reading to Learning Disabled Children" with Dr. Susan Greenbeck at Regis College. Ms. Orr also teaches fifth grade.

Joanne Martignette, Rachelle Isserow and Anne Greenquist participated this summer in the Northeast Regional Early Childhood and Special Needs Institute at Tufts. The focus of the institute was on enriching the skills needed to individualize curriculum and understanding the developmental levels of young children. The approach was multidisciplinary, using lectures, workshops and observations of both typical children and those with special needs at the Eliot Pearson summer nursery and kindergarden (at Tufts). Ms. Martignette, who teaches second grade, earned six credits towards her master's degree. Ms. Isserow, an elementary speech and language therapist, took a course at Northeastern last spring in "Language Disturbances in Children." In addition, she has developed an expressive language kit to remediate syntax and developmental language lags. Ms. Greenquist is a special needs instructor.

Winchester High School

The WHS gym is again open to the public on Monday, Thursday and Friday evenings and Saturday and Sunday afternoons. The program is supervised by Francis Lane from Lynch Jr. High and Michael Marino of Washington School. They are assited by two high school seniors, Marjorie Paulsen and Deborah Arsenian.

Lynch Jr. High

On November 7, Gerard Edouard, a Haitian Chef, visited the ninth grade beginning French class of Andrea Tyler. M. Edouard spoke a little of cooking, compared the Haitian and French school systems, Haitian and French governments and, of special interest to the students, compared the differences in Parisian and Haitian French. Ms. Tyler teaches French and Spanish at Lynch.

Richard Conway, math instructor, and Walton Gagel, science instructor, both at Lynch, are in their third year as senior advisers for Boy Scout Troup 503 of the First Congregational Church.

This troupe, at 60 years one of the oldest in the United States, goes on four or five overnight trips each year. At the most recent campout in October, Troup 503 hosted Special Education Troup 333 of Washington School at Harold Parker State Park near Andover. Conway serves as assistant scoutmaster and advancement director. Gagle is committee chairman. The Troupe, which had 12 members three years ago, now has 45 and includes an Eagle, three Stars and eight first Class Scouts.

In-Service Course

During October the English curriculum council sponsored an in-service course in handwriting which was attended by 45 elementary school teachers.

Dr. Martha Grenzback served as chairman and conducted the workshop which included speakers, films and demonstrations. Methods of teaching handwriting were reviewed and critiqued, and a report and recommendations are being prepared for Dr. Walter Gleason, assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction.

Rev. H. Newton Clay is inducted as a Paul Harris Fellow by fellow Rotarian Fred McCormack, himself one of the select Paul Harris fellows.

Rev. Clay honored by Rotary Club

Rev. H. Newton Clay, past minister of the Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church, was honored recently by his fellow Rotarians when they bestowed on him their highest award, a Paul Harris Fellowship.

Rev. Clay was inducted into this select group of Rotarians by Fred McCormack, who was also chosen by the Winchester Rotary to receive a Paul Harris Fellowship at the club's recent 50th anniversary celebration.

Winchester Rotary now has seven Paul Harris fellows.

"Newt" Clay, as he is known to his many friends in Rotary as well as throughout the town, has been a Rotarian for 44 years, 19 of them in the local club. During this time, he has exemplified the Rotary motto, "Service Above Self" through the time and effort he has given to Rotary's many community projects and to the operation of the club as its chaplain.

Rev. Clay celebrated 50 years as an ordained minister in 1976, having been ordained on Christmas Day, 1926. His genuine smile and quick wit have been an inspiration to his fellow Rotarians over the years. This award was much deserved by a fine gentleman and Rotarian.

Noonan School Secretary Mrs. Marjorie Bergholtz got a surprise last week as she was named "Secretary of the Day" by Radio WHDH. (Staff photo)

Noonan students arrange surprise for Mrs. Bergholtz

Mrs. Marjorie Bergholtz, secretary at the Noonan School, saw the man come in with a bouquet of flowers and thought to herself, "Well, it must be someone's birthday. What a nice surprise!"

Little did she know, the flowers were for her: she won them by being named WHDH Radio's "Secretary of the Day."

It all started three weeks earlier, when Mrs. Mary Conley's fourth grade class, faced with a writing assignment, decided they wanted to write letters in to the radio station in praise of their school secretary. The original idea came from one of the parents, who no doubt is one among many who appreciate the myriad of duties performed by Mrs. Bergholtz in the course of the school day.

Eighteen children wrote in, and their work paid off Monday morning when a bouquet of flowers arrived. Mrs. Bergholtz also received a pair of dinner passes and two theater passes, along with other special prizes.

High school's winter concert is Wednesday

The Winchester High School Concert Choir and Orchestra will present their winter concert on Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. The orchestra, under the direction of John R. Woodworth, will perform traditional seasonal music. The concert choir, under the direction of Burton O. Cowgill, director of music, will join with the orchestra in the presentation of the "Gloria" by Vivaldi. The "Gloria" will feature several student soloists.

Tickets may be obtained from participating students as well as at the door on the night of the performance.

Gervein appointed to hospital staff

John R. Gerrein, Ph.D., of Winchester, has been appointed to the Special and Scientific Staff of the New England Medicwl Center Hospital (NEMCH) Department of Psychiatry and to the faculty of Tufts University School of Medicine as a clinical instructor.

Dr. Gerrein joins NEMCH from Michigan City, Indiana, where he was coordinator of addiction services of the LaPorte County Comprenensive Mental Health Center since August 1976. He was responsible xhere for overall management and coordination of inpatient detoxification and outpatient alcohol, drug and smoking reduction treatment services.

Dr. Gerrein was born in Kentucky and earned his A.B. degree from the University of Notre Dame, majoring in psychology. He received his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees, both with majors in general experimental psychology, from Tufts University.

Dr. Gerrein received internship training in the Clinical and Community Psychology Program, Harvard Medical School; Boston University School of Medicine and Boston City Hospital, 1974-1975. He served as a research psychologist for Harvard Medical School at Boston City Hospital 1974-1976.

Muraco School bazaar is Sat.

The Muraco School will be having their annual Santa's Bazaar on Saturday from 11 to 2 in the school auditorium. This year's bazaar is bieng chaired by Mrs. Rose Bella.

The bazaar will feature white elephant items, used toys, books, puzzles, costume jewelry, a bake table, plants, craft items and Christmas decorations.

As a special treat for the children, Santa will be present as well as a photographer for taking pcitures. Lunch will be served.

Ballroom dance classes begin

The Winchester Recreation Department, in association with Parker Dance Studios will hold 21 hour-long dance sessions with instruction in the fox trot, waltz, cha cha and some fun dances such as the hully gully and hustle line dance.

Director of recreation, Donald L. Spinney, says classes will begin Tuesday evening at the Muraco School at 7 p.m. A fee will be charged by the studio for the classes. Registration and information may be made by calling the recreation office.

Winton Club lines up crew for '78 Cabaret

The golden glow of autumn will have faded and frozen into a winter frosted scene when it is production time for the 1978 annual Winton Club Cabaret Show.

A Surprise: is the title of the 1978 show and a surprise! it will be — full of theatrical surprises all wrapped up in sizzling hot pink. Every cabaret show has its theme color or colors, dragon green, red, white and blue, rustic yellow; and this year's color is Sutherland's sizzling hot pink.

Mrs. John Sutherland, chairman of the 1978 Winton Club Cabaret Show has chosen Bunni and Gerry Roberts of the Chateau d'Ville of Framingham as producers of Surprise! The Roberts have arranged for Clint Hamlin of Randolph to be their director and choreographer.

This talented combination has been involved in many of the productions associated with the Chateau of Framingham and they were given special accolades for their "Bicentennial 1976." Hamlin has been appearing in and directing "Fiddler on the Roof" at the Chateau d'Ville in Framingham this fall.

This effort on the part of Winton Club members, volunteer singers and dancers, advertisers, and sponsors is all directed toward raising funds for the Winchester Hospital. All the proceeds from Winton Club's Cabaret Show and its hospital gift shop are used to help maintain the linen supply at the Winchester Hospital.

Two sing in Mozart opera

Jeanne Wells of 13 Madison ave. and Rebecca Downs of 11 Wildwood st. will be singing in the chorus of Mozart's Cosi Fan Tutte.

The opera, to be sung in English, will be presented by Community Opera at Tufts University at 8 on Saturday and 4 on Sunday in Cohen Auditorium, Talbot avenue, Medford.

Tickets are available by calling 628-500 ext. 282.

Students hit the streets to study urban environment

Students from Winchester High School recently took to Boston streets for lessons in history, geography, architecture and urban neighborhoods.

The group is part of a pilot urban environment program offered by Boston University's Human Environment Institute and the National Park Service. The curriculum is designed to enable students to appreciate the complexity, diversity and beauty of Boston.

Named Historical and Urban Environmental Studies (HUES), the program stresses conservation of the natural and cultural resources of the city. The program's creators hope to foster an understanding of the city from both historic and contemporary perspectives.

Students from Susan Nettle's 12th grade social studies class participated in the one-day program. Ms. Nettle said about the program, "It helped break down some of the sterotypes suburban students have about the city."

HUES is based at the former Charlestown Navy Yard, which is part of the Boston National Historic Park. Participants in future programs will be community groups and the general public as well as students and teachers. The program represents a shift for the National Park Service from its focus on rural and forest parks to areas more accessible to city and suburban dwellers.

Students investigated such aspects of the city as transportation, communication and commercial systems, Boston Harbor ecology, urban wild life and the history of Boston neighborhoods.

Knights plan dinner for local seniors

A dinner for local seniors will be held Dec. 18 at 2 p.m. at the Winchester Knights of Columbus Hall.

The event is being sponsored by the Winchester Council 210, K of C, and it will feature gifts and entertainment.

Reservations must be made for this Christmas dinner. Any senior citizens wishing to attend should contact the Winchester Council on Aging, 729-2111, by Dec. 16.

Naturally ...it makes sense
1. Natural Christmas trees make sense. While the nearly one-half billion Christmas Trees are growing on plantations across the United States (over 10 times the number harvested this year), they purify the air, produce oxygen, shelter wildlife and prevent erosion.
Environmentally, Christmas Trees make sense.
2. Natural Christmas trees make cents. The natural Christmas tree industry provides jobs for over 100,000 Americans. Christmas trees are grown on land that otherwise would be unproductive — marginal and surplus farmland that Christmas trees have put back on the tax rolls. Christmas tree growers, wholesalers and retailers pay taxes on their product at federal, state and local levels.
Economically, Christmas trees make cents.
3. Natural Christmas trees make scents. When you bring your tree home, you will know exactly what we mean.

Locals in drive for Phillips Acad.

Dr. Brian M. Golden of Winchester, an alumnus of Phillips Academy, and Mrs. Charles H. Dutoit, also of Winchester and an alumna of Abbot Academy, recently agreed to serve as chairman and co-chairman for the Winchester area in Phillips Academy's bicentennial campaign which marks the 200th birthday of Phillips Academy in 1978 and the 150th birthday of Abbott in 1979.

Other Winchester committee members working on the $50 million drive include Paul N. Anderson Jr., Leo H. Daley, Joseph Doblen, Mrs. David W. Ewing, Frederick D. Herberich, Mrs. Thomas Kneeland, and Mrs. John H. McClennan.

Subcommittee on retardation asks for public input

The Mystic Valley Mental Retardation Subcommittee of the Mystic Valley Mental Health Area Board will hold its monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 13 in the conference room of the Choate Memorial Hospital, 21 Warren ave., Woburn.

During the course of the meeting the subcommittee will solicit questions and concerns from citizens about mental retardation services in Winchester and the Mystic Valley area.

Children's films

Dec. 11 & 13

Little Drummer Boy: This animated film features the voice of Greer Garson and the singing of the Vienna Choir Boys.

Steadfast Tin Soldier: This enchanting fairy tale by Hans Christian Andersen features attractive dancing dolls accompanied by a beautiful musical score.

Christmas in the Village: This charming Christmas film will appeal to everyone at this holiday season.

On Sunday afternoon, the family film program is held in the Story Hour Room of the junior library and will begin at 2:30. It is requested that at least one adult accompany each group of children. There will be a Tuesday afternoon film program for shcool age children at 3:30.

Fooks inducted to International Dentists' College

Allan A. W. Fooks, LDS, RCS (Eng.), DDS, of Winchester, an associate professor of restorative denistry on the faculty of Tufts University School of Dental Medicine, has been inducted as a fellow of the International College of Dentists (FICD).

Dr. Fooks was one of 200 American dentists initiated into the honorary organization during its annual convocation in Miami, Florida, preceding the 118th annual meeting of the American Dental Association. Organized to recognize outstanding and meritorious service to the profession of Dentistry, the FICD has an international membership of about 4,000, including 2,700 in the United States.

The inductees received a plaque and gold key symbolic of FICD fellowship and for conspicuous service rendered to the arts and sciences of dentistry.

Dr. Fooks, a Londoner by birth, came to the United States in 1948 following graduation from the Guys Hospital Dental School in London and Northwestern University Dental School. He joined the Tufts faculty in 1955 as an associate professor in restorative dentistry. Dr. Fooks also conducts a general practice in Cambridge and Winchester. His wife, Wanda, is assistant to the director of continuing education at the dental school.

Dr. Fooks is a member of numerous professional organizations, including the ADA, American Academy of Dental Science, Pierie Fauchard Society and the American Dental Society of London.

Mrs. Ronald J. MacIntyre Jr.

Miss Barrett, Mr. MacIntyre married at St. Mary's Church

St. Mary's Church was the setting for the wedding of Maryellen Barrett of 284 Highland ave. and Ronald James MacIntyre Jr. of 811 Centre st., Jamaica Plain. Rev. John Fallon, cousin of the bride, performed the afternoon ceremony which united the daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Michael J. Barrett and the son of Mr. & Mrs. Ronald J. MacIntyre.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire gown of peau de soie with lace appliques accented by seed pearls. She wore a matching peau de soie cap with full length veil.

Mothers of the bride and groom were escorted down the aisle by the bride's brothers, Justin Jr. and Richard Barrett. Mrs. Barrett, mother of the bride, wore a mocha qiana gown with full length chiffon cape. Mrs. MacIntyre, mother of the groom, wore an aqua qiana gown.

Mrs. Katherine McNally, of North Attleboro, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were the bride's cousin, Mrs. Marilyn Sherman of Maine, Mrs. Nancy Kiley and Miss Kathleen Duddy, both of Waltham. All of the girls wore taffetta gowns of an iridescent-copper hue, scoop neckline trimmed with ecru lace and accented at neckline and waist with embroidered flowers. They carried baskets of fall-colored flowers with ringlets of coordinated flowers in their hair. The bride carried a shield of eucharistic lilies, babies breath, sprinkled with talisman sweetheart roses.

Peter James MacIntyre of Greenbay, Wisconsin was his brother's best man. Ushering were the bride's brothers, Michael J. Jr. of Winchester and Richard J. of Malden, Mark Foley of Scituate, Richard Boussey of Weymouth, and Fred Butler of London Derry, N.H.

The bride, a graduate of Winchester High, is employed as administrative assistant by Chandler Leasing Corporation. Her husband, a graduate of Catholic Memorial and Massachusetts Maritime Academy is employed by Sealand Services.

Ann McQuigan engaged to wed

Mr. and Mrs. John J. McQuigan Jr. announce the engagement of their daughter, Ann Barbaro McQuigan, to John J. Grieco of Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Grieco.

A May 20 wedding is planned.

More than 100 gather to note Drougas' 25th

A surprise 25th wedding anniversary party was given Oct. 29 at the Knights of Columbus Hall for Mr. and Mrs. John Drougas of 354 Cross st. More than 100 friends and relatives attended.

The party was thrown by their niece, Maria Athanasopoulos and their children, Sofia and Ernie Drougas. John Drougas, who has owned Randall's Restaurant for 11 years, married his wife 25 years ago on Nov. 16 at the Saint Vasilios Church in Peabody.

Among those at the party were the Drougas' best man and his wife, William and Anne Skouras; their maid of honor, Helen Jenks; Mrs. Drougas' mother, who came up from Florida; and Fr. George Tsoukalas of the Greek Orthodox Church in Woburn.

The Drougas' took a trip to Hawaii to celebrate their anniversary.

Local beauty queens in state SOI pageant

Many Sons of Italy Lodges throughout the state entered their candidates in the 1977 OSIA Beauty Pageant. Two beauty contestants were selected from Winchester on Aug. 15 at the Sons of Italy Hall.

Donna Marini, sponsored by the Winchester Women's Lodge 1592, was crowned "Miss Winchester" OSIA, and Carla Buzzotta, sponsored by the Winchester Junior Mixed Lodge 125, was crowned "Miss Winchester Junior," OSIA.

Judging was based on beauty, poise and appearance. Before they proceded to final judging, each of the candidates spoke generally about their intersts, hobbies, and amibitions. Final judging was based on a scale of one tc ten with regard to beauty, poise, appearance anc presentation. Each girl was afforded points in each of the four areas.

The judges were Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Nilo of Medford and Bob Bolduc, owner of Hairport, Winchester. The mistress of ceremonies for the evening was the 1976 Miss Winchester Junior, Joya Colucci, of Stoneham.

Both beauty queens were among the 31 contestants in the Grand Lodge of

Donna Marini

Carla Buzzotta

Massachusetts 1977 Beauty Pageant held on Sept. 11, at the Park Plaza Hotel in Boston. Some 300 members and guests were on hand to witness the crowning of Miss OSIA 1977. This pageant has been growing over the last three years, with this year producing a record high in contestants.

Marie Corea, sponsored by the East Boston Lodge was crowned Miss OSIA and was awarded $500 in prize money. All 31 contestants received a sterling charm on a chain, as a momento of the occasion.

Carla Buzzotta, a junior at Winchester High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mario Buzzotta of Winchester. Donna Marini, a junior at Woburn High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mario Marini, of Woburn. Both young ladies are members of the Winchester Junior Mixed Lodge.

Have better than bottled water quality at a fraction of the cost!

THE PERFECT CHRISTMAS GIFT FOR THE FAMILY

SPRING FRESH — CRYSTAL CLEAR — HYGIENICALLY PURE WATER

BY THE MULTI-PURE "SELF-SANITIZING" WATER PURIFICATION SYSTEM

THE GIFT THAT WILL ALWAYS GIVE YOU PLEASURE WHEN DRINKING WATER OR FOR FOOD PREPARATION

Spring Water is water that has been filtered through the ground which does not insure its purity because the ground is continuously being contaminated with chemicals, sewerage and viruses.

Purified water on the other hand is treated tap water that is filtered through a modern designed carbon filter which insures safe drinking water at all times. All bad tastes, color and odors are removed by filtering out toxic chemicals - organic contaminants - heavy metals - pipe corrosion - asbestos fibers - harmful bacteria - traps out viruses - removes chlorine and its dangerous chlorinated hydrocarbons.

Natural healthful minerals and fluorides (for tooth decay) are not removed with this system. This combination of removing what is harmful in tap water while not removing what is healthful is what makes purified tap water the ultimate in clean safe drinking water.

A Culligan reverse osmosis unit can be added for those who would like to remove the fluoride in their tap water.

Upgrading the quality of your tap water makes great sense because you can enjoy sparkling clean water for daily use while protecting your family's health.

Seeing is believing - For those who would like to see - taste and compare the difference between their tap water and sparkling clean purified water - a week's trial with a portable Water Purifier is available without any obligation.

INTRODUCTORY OFFER — "FREE" - with the purchase of a Water Purifier a special Shower Head that saves 60% of the water used in showering — it more than doubles the amount of showering time before running out of hot water — saves about $35.00 a year on water conserved and less hot water to heat.

NOW YOU CAN BE SURE YOUR SOURCE OF WATER IS PURE...

Bad Tastes, Odors

Few things are more miserable than smelly or terrible tasting water. Problems might be excess chlorine, rust, decayed vegetation. Water can seem musty, fishy, weedy. It can contain a great variety of impurities.

A MOST NEEDED APPLIANCE FOR THE 70's.

There are over 12 thousand chemicals on the market today. 500 being added yearly. Regardless of where you live, in the city or on the farm, some of these could be getting into your drinking water.

Therefore, we feel you should have two sources of water: one for watering the lawn, washing clothes and dishes, flushing toilets — the other for drinking and cooking.

Mr. & Mrs. Paul S. Kennedy

Lionetta-Kennedy take vows Oct. 9th at St. Eulalia's

Annette Lee Lionetta of 19 Windemere rd. wed Paul Stephen Kennedy of 32 Oak st. on Oct. 9 in St. Eulalia's Church. Father Peter Ugietto of St. Francis Xavier Church in South Weymouth and Father Edward MacIssac of Fall River conducted the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. William G. Lionetta. Her mother, and the groom's parents, Mr. and Thomas Kennedy Jr., also attended the wedding ceremony.

The bride wore an empire gown with a full skirt and attached cathedral train. The queen Ann neckline, skirt, and train were edged with a silk venise lace border. Matching venise motifs re-embroidered with tiny seed pearls adorned the bodice. Her matching camelot headpiece held a three-quarter length lace edge veil. White roses and baby's breath made up her bouquet.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Kenneth Femino, of 7 Outwood Reach, South Yarmouth. The matron of honor wore an empire blue qiana gown with handkerchief sleeves. She carried one long steam rose decorated with baby's breath and a long white ribbon.

The bridesmaids, dressed similarly to the matron of honor, were the bride's sister, Cynthia Lionetta of 19 Windmere rd.; Jane Errico, of 45 Loring rd.; Millie Anderson of Lexington; Judy Beriner of Billerica; and Barbara Lionetta of Arlington.

The groom's brother, Robert Kennedy of 32 Oak st., served as best man. Guests were escorted to their seats by nine ushers: Paul Resteghini and Richard Tambone of Winchester; the groom's brothers, Michael, John, and Christopher Kennedy, also of Winchester; Charles Erbafina of Somerville; Kenneth Femina of South Yarmouth; Thomas Kennedy III, brother of the groom, of Berlin, N.H.; and the bride's brother, William Lionetta of Arlington.

The reception was held at the Chateau de Ville and a wedding trip is planned to Hawaii.

The bride, a Star Market department manager, graduated from Winchester High School and Middlesex Community College. She has an associates degree in business management. Her husband, who is employed by Advanced Automation Company, also graduated from Winchester High School, and received a bachelor of arts degree in English and Secondary Education.

The couple plans to make their home in Medford.

Tri-captains (from left) Wayne Maggio, Donny Allard and John Della Grotte do the honors at the annual end-of-the-season WHS football team banquet Sunday. Their 22-7 victory over rival Woburn on Thanksgiving Day topped a 7-3 season. The three captains are all seniors at WHS.

Ex-Queensmen trying to form alumni association

A group of former members of the Immaculate Conception Queensmen Drum and Bugle Coips and the Queen Cadetts Drill Team are working to form an alumni association for the two units.

The Queensmen and the Cadetts date back to 1946, and the local alumni are attempting to contact former members. The group hopes to organize a dinner-dance reunion in the near future.

They are asking that anyone with information about names and addresses of former Queensmen and Cadetts members, and anyone with program books from past Queensmen-sponsored competitions, contact either:

Debbie Carroll, 5 Russell rd., 729-7881, or Marcia Parsons, 27 McHugh ave., Pinehurst, Mass., 01821, 667-8253.

Karen M. Kelliher, 190 Forest st., is on the women's tennis team at Suffolk University. A senior in accounting, she was graduated from Matignon High School in 1974. She is a member of the Gold Key Society, vice-president of the senior class, and treasurer of the student government association.

Rehab patients set to enjoy holiday festivities, dinner

Volunteers and staff members of the New England Rehabilitation Hospital are decorating and preparing for the holiday season.

Mrs. Patricia Krusell of Winchester, director of recreational therapy, is coordinating the many events, which include a special Christmas dinner to be served patients and their families, favors on Christmas breakfast trays, and the bringing in of musical groups during the holiday season.

The hospital's big party for patients, guests, and friends will be on Wednesday, Dec. 21. The "PJs" of Burlington, traditional entertainers each year, will present a unique program under the direction of James Pierce. Santa Claus is also expected to attend.

Flanagan earns varsity letter

Brian Flanagan, a senior forward from Winchester has earned a varsity letter with the Tufts University soccer team.

Pierce to lead UConn hockey

Senior defenseman Kevin L. Pierce of 53 Thornberry rd., has been named the captain of the 1977-78 University of Connecticut hockey team.

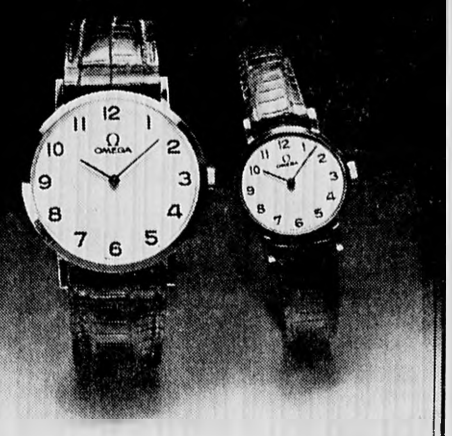

The 6-3, 210 letterman had two outstanding years on defense for the Huskies before being forced to sit out last year with an ankle injury. During the 1975-76 season Pierce scored one goal and had eight assists as a defenseman.

A three-year hockey letterman at Winchester High School, Pierce also letterd in lacrosse here. At Connecticut he is majoring in business.

Bantam AA beat Arlington 2-1; push winning streak to six

The Winchester Bantam AA's continued their winning ways Sunday night at the Burlington Ice Palace with a come-from-behind win over a highly-touted Arlington sextet, 2-1 in Middlesex League Play. The win is the sixth straight game in which Winchester has gone undefeated, with four wins and two ties over that span.

Arlington got on the scoreboard late in the first period on a good shot in close on goalie Steve Noble who had no chance at all.

Winchester got untracked early in the second period as John Boyle got his first of the night at the 3:30 mark when Brendan Nolan stole the puck, passed up to Jeff Lavey, who in turn made a nice pass to Boyle. Let go a fine wrist shot in close and tied the game at one. Up to that point Winchster goalie Steve Noble made some key saves to keep Winchester in the game, and the defense of Brendan Nolan, John Ferullo, Ed Ducharme and Steve Marino was outstanding, thwarting chance after chance against Arlington. Less than four minutes later, Boyle struck again in what proved to be the game winner, when he stole the puck, skated in and let go a beautiful backhander which beat the Arlington goalkeeper cleanly.

The third period was scoreless as both teams continued to skate up and down the ice relentlessly. Winchester goalie at this point was Bob Giarrizzo who was superb, as he stopped shot after shot that Arlington put on him. The line of captain Fran Murray, Ned Fortin and Doug Ross was a going concern all night as they swarmed around the Arlington end most of the night. The Bill Ferry, John Boyle and Jeff Lavey line figured in the scoring and the forechecking and back-checking of Chris Parker, Jeff Stackpole and Paul White was a key to the Winchester victory.

Attending the game and welcomed by his teammates was Tony Celli who is on crutches after suffering a leg injury a month ago. Tony hopes to return to the lineup after the first of the year.

With the win, Winchester has climbed into second place in the tough Middlesex League and is scheduled to play a powerful Melrose sextet this Sunday at Burlington. Game time is 5:30 p.m.

Regan scores 5 as Mites defeat Arlington, 6-4

The Winchester Mites battled Arlington in a see-saw game for a 6-4 win in a Middlesex Youth Hockey League game Saturday at the USA rink in Winchester.

In a very close game with both teams having several chances at each end of the ice, it was not until there were four minutes, nine seconds left in the final period when Petey Regan scored Winchester's sixth goal and gave the team the extra cushion it needed.

Billy Coppins opened up the scoring with only 18 seconds played in the game. It was a picture goal with Petey Regan carrying the puck down the left side and passing to Coppins for the tally. The second goal came with Coppins gaining an assist after setting up Regan.

Arlington tied up the game three times but the Winchester team never gave up. Petey Regan scored the next four goals giving him five goals and one assist for the day. Billy Coppins had one goal and two assists. Kevin Boyle played in goal making many key saves during the game.

Centers Greg Winn and Timmy Day helped their lines with good efforts around the net and winning face-offs. Forechecking of Derek Sullivan, Sukiong Chung, Ted Dever, Marc Falzano, and Matt Quill were contributing factors in the team win. Defensively, Scott Paine, David Butt, and Marc Todisco kept Arlington from penetrating the zone.

Next Saturday morning the Mites will play Medford who have one more win than Winchester, and now lead the National Division.

Mini-College

Every Wednesday after school at 2:30 in the cafeteria of the high school, the guidance office will be conducting a Mini-College Program to which all high school students and their parents are invited.

On Wednesday, December 14 the following institutions will be represented: Northeastern University and St. Miachel's College of Vermont.

On Wednesday, December 21, there will be no regular Mini-College Program. There will be a special "Christmas Re-Union" Program for the Class of 1977 and Class of 1978.

Winchester dog owners are now subject to a 24-hour dog leash law. Fines for first offense are $10; second offense, $15; third offense, $20.

Soccer players named all-stars by Boston Globe

Halfback George Casey of the Winchester High School Soccer team was named to the Division 1 All-star team by the Boston Globe.

Two of his teammates, Fullback Mark Mulvaney and Forward Jack Driscoll, were named to the Middlesex All-league team by the Globe. Willie Strazulla received an all-league honorable mention.

The team had a 9-4-5 record this year and made it to the state tournament.

Local boys lead Belmont Hill teams

Belmont Hill School recently concluded a banner fall athletic season with its football and soccer teams, both co-captained by Winchester boys, finishing in first place in Independent School League competition.

Co-captains of the undefeated football team were John Porell of Winchester and Terry Wilson of Boston.

The soccer team, with a 12-0-1 record, won the Gumere Cup by placing first in its league. Sharing the Former Captains' Award for "greatest contribution to soccer" were the team's co-captains, John Farrell of Wellesley and Pat Fortin of Winchester.

BOARD OF APPEAL
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

The WINCHESTER BOARD OF APPEAL will hold a PUBLIC HEARING at 7:30 P.M. on THURSDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1977, in the BOARD OF HEALTH CLINIC ROOM of the TOWN HALL on the following matters:

(1) PETITION NO. 2365 — That of HALCHAK HOMES, INC., 778 Main Street, Winchester, Massachusetts regarding LOT 2 and LOT 3 on JOHNSON ROAD, located adjacent to 25 JOHNSON ROAD. The subject matter of this petition, upon appeal, is the applicability and effect of the frontage, access, street numbering and building location requirements of the Z.B.L. as they relate to the proposed placement of a single family house upon each of these lots by the petitioner. Alternatively, the petitioner requests a dimensional Variance from the applicable provisions of the Zoning By-Law so as to permit the construction of a single family dwelling upon each of these lots, each of which proposed dwellings will face Plato Terrace, have their only physical access upon Plato Terrace and be numbered upon Plato Terrace. These lots are located within the RDA (Single Family Residential) zoning district; LOT 2 consisting of 20,080 S.F. and LOT 3 consisting of 23,363 S.F.

(2) PETITION NO. 2366 — That of WARREN G. and ANNE M. GAGAN regarding their premises located at 35 JEFFERSON ROAD. The petitioners seek a dimensional Variance from the fifteen (15) foot minimum rear yard setback requirement applicable to these premises so as to permit the continued maintenance of a porch that, as built, is 4.4 feet from the rear yard lot line. This property is located within the RDB (Single Family Residential) zoning district and consists of 13,985 S.F.

(3) PETITION NO. 2367 — That of the BOARD OF SELECTMEN regarding the TOWN HALL premises located at 17 MOUNT VERNON STREET. The petitioner seeks a Special Permit pursuant to Zoning By-Law Sec. 6.24 to reduce the forty (40) foot minimum front yard setback requirement applicable to these premises so as to permit the construction of an addition to the WAR MEMORIAL HONOR PLAQUE that will be located within 26.7 feet of Mount Vernon Street and 22.8 feet of Washington Street. This property is located within the S.C.I. (Conservancy-Institutional) zoning district.

(4) PETITION NO. 2368 — That of GERALD B. and GAYLE C. O'GRADY regarding their premises located at 18 BONAD ROAD. The petitioners seek a dimensional Variance from the fifteen (15) foot minimum side yard setback requirement applicable to these premises so as to permit the conversion of an existing open porch to an enclosed living area. Upon completion of such proposed construction, the left side yard setback will be reduced to 9.27 feet. This property is located within the RDB (Single Family Residential) zoning district and consists of 6,630 S.F.

(5) PETITION NO. 2369 — That of HILLSIDE REALTY TRUST, MATTEO GALLO, TRUSTEE, 506 Summer Avenue, Reading, Massachusetts regarding the premises located at 219 WASHINGTON STREET. The petitioner seeks permission to continue to maintain a common kitchen on each of the three floors of these premises. This property is located within the RG (General Residence) zoning district, consists of 20,860 S.F. and is currently maintained as a non-conforming thirteen (13) unit, lodging house use.

(6) PETITION NO. 2370 — That of LOUIS W. and DOROTHEA F. DEE regarding LOT 24 on OLD LYME ROAD, located adjacent to 2 OLD LYME ROAD. The petitioners seek a dimensional Variance from the 20,000 S. F. minimum area and the 120 foot minimum lot width requirements applicable to this lot in order that it may be utilized and built upon as a separate building lot. This lot is located within the RDA (Single Family Residential) zoning district, consists of 15,150 S F., is approximately 110 feet wide and is currently held in common ownership with the adjacent LOT 23.

Sign-ups for youth hockey coming in; teams to form

Applications are still being accepted for youth hockey each Sunday morning at the U.S.A. rink. New players and players from previous years are welcome to register Sunday Morning between 7:30 and 10:00 at the rink lobby. Boys shall supply and wear their own equipment and youth hockey will issue jerseys, which the boys may keep.

Teams will be formed and league play will begin soon. Players will be assigned to teams according to ability and age. As the emphasis is on fun while learning, there is no pressure and participants progress at their own pace.

A staff is available for anyone requiring skating and hockey instructions. The program will continue through March and all are encouraged to join the winter fun

FIRST-HOME MYTHS

A national study done by the Chicago-based Family Housing Bureau dispells a lot of myths about the buying of first homes. Here's a few.

MYTH: First-time home buyers have been driven out of the market by escalating costs. FACT: The survey showed that 44 percent of today's home buyers are first-time buyers.

MYTH: Young people cannot afford homes anymore. FACT: Eighty seven percent of first-time buyers are younger than 35 with the average age being 28.

MYTH: Costs for single-family homes have risen so sharply that most home buyers are turning to multi-family solutions. FACT: Ninety percent of first-time home buyers choose single family homes, 9 percent condos and only 4 percent choose multi-family homes.

MYTH: Most home buyers now spend more on mortgage payments than the recommended 1/4 of total income. FACT: One quarter of the current crop of first time buyers fall into the 1/4 rule of thumb category. Another 53 percent are even more conservative spending 20 percent or less of total income for shelter payment.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at ANN BLACKHAM & CO., 11 Thompson St., Winchester. Phone 729-1663. We're here to help!

Pack 524 has active season

Cub Pack 524 Met Friday night at Parkhurst School. Mrs. Pat Krussell led the boys in creating an enormous Christmas tree, based on the Twelve Days of Christmas, the partridge at the top, the 12 drummers at the bottom, to decorate the school gym.

Webelos activity badges were presented by Cubmaster Ed Field to David Bentley, Danny Cummings, Joey Gulino, Matthew Kennedy, George Lin, Kevin Olivieri, Brian Pothier, Charles Field, Richard Kazanjian, Eric Krussell, Chris Paravis and John - Rogers. The Wolf rank was given to Greg Wyler.

The pack cheered the Boston Celtics to a victory over the Houston Rockets on Thanksgiving eve. Space night skits and a hike in the Fells have been other activities this fall. On January 6 Parkhurst gym will be turned into a "motor speedway" when the Pinewood Derby will pit each cub with his five-ounce racer against the others.

Bill Kennedy is pack chairman. Joyce Cummings coaches den leaders Allan Rogers, Peter Olivieri, Pauline Tucci, Beth Duffy and Ginger Reid.

Propsective students and their parents are invited to the 7:30 p.m. dessert at the Porras home at 8 Robinson clr. According to Thomas J. Costin, director of admissions, Hebron students and faculty members will be at the gathering to answer questions.

Courses offered for council on aging and home care center staffs

The Mary Rank Gerontology Center of Middlesex Community College has received funding from the Mass. Department of Elder Affairs to provide two training courses for board members and staff representatives of Minuteman, Merrimack Valley, and West Suburban Home Care Corporations, Title VII Nutrition Project Councils, and area councils on aging.

The "board and advisory council training" courses will focus on the roles and duties of board members of social service agencies with elder clients. They will cover a variety of topics beginning with a thorough analysis of the 'aging network' in Massachusetts.

Once this foundation has been laid, the courses will examine specific issues of relevance to the agencies' Boards, including policy-making versus administrative prerogatives, legal and financial responsibilities, planning and advocacy techniques, budget preparation, and board mechanics such as new member orientation, committee structure, and policy manuals.

"Board training for home care corporations and nutrition project councils" will be taught by Scott Plumb (BA, economics; MSW), the executive director of the Arlington Council on Aging. Classes will meet Tuesday evenings from 7-9:30 p.m. starting Dec. 6 and running for 12 weeks. Class will meet in Room 74 of Arlington High School, and the course will earn participants two credits. There is no charge except for the registration fee plus a small fee per credit.

"Board training for councils on aging" will also be taught by Scott Plumb, and will meet Monday evening, starting Dec. 12, for 12 weeks. The time is 7-9:30 p.m and there will be additional hours at local agencies for problem solving (15 hours minimum.) This class will meet at the Lexington Council on Aging Office, 1875 Massachusetts ave. and participants will earn three credits.

According to Barbara Rubin, Coordinator of the Mary Rank Gerontology Center, board and advisory council members, as well as directors, coordintors, and staff representatives are invited to attend one of these courses relevant to their agencies. As there is a natural degree of content overlap, it is not advised for one person to attend both courses. If a board has several members attending, it might be beneficial to send them to different courses.

To register, call community services at Middlesex Community College, 275-8910, ext. 291 or 275-1590 and leave your name, address, phone number and agency as well as the title of the course desired.

Studio of Speech Picnic Workshop running Saturdays

Members of the Picnic Theatre Workshop are sharing more than sandwiches and scenes at the Studio of Speech in Winchester every Saturday.

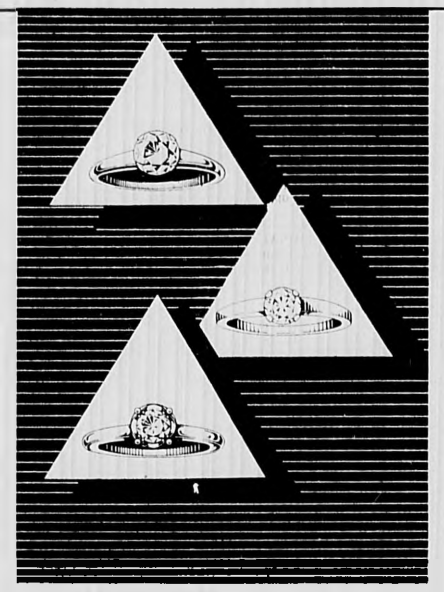

The four-hour theatre workshop, conceived as a "new Saturday experience" by director Connie Morrill, is geared to improve skills and increase casting opportunities for actors, both professional and non-professional.

The workshop also serves to aid directors in casting correctly at auditions and in giving understandable directions to actors during rehearsals. Fledgling playwrights, too, are encouraged to submit their scripts for testing and performance awareness.

The studio extends an invitiation to anyone interested in this new approach to visit the Picnic Theatre Workshop at 35R Thompson st., Winchester Center on Saturday. Just call the Studio of Speech and bring a sandwich.

Junior Leaguers at Children's Museum

Mrs Elaine Gurian of the Boston Children's Museum recently talked with members of the Belmont-Cambridge area of the Junior League of Boston, Inc. at the home of Mrs Sheila Galvani of Winchester

Mrs Gurian is the director of the visitors center at the Children's Museum She told of the various activities and the "behind the scenes" planning of the exhibits. Of particular interest was the special needs exhibit at which normal children were helped to feel the wants and frustrations of being handicapped

Among those attending from Winchester were Mrs. Ellen Browning, Mrs Ginny Laats, Mrs Kathy Sterling, Mrs Margaret McIndoe, Mrs Sheila Galvani, Mrs. Judy Parkhill, Mrs. Gretchen Racek, Mrs. Carolyn Vernaglia, Mrs. Kent Porter, Mrs Carolyn Harder, Mrs. Alice McCarter, Mrs. Susan Sawyer, Mrs. Mary Allen, Mrs Karen Holt and Mrs. Stephanie Hudson.

There were many guests present who were interested in learning more about the Junior League, an organization of women trained to provide volunteer services to the community of Boston and the surrounding metroplitan area Its purpose is educational and charitable.

Two serve as mounted stewards for Ledyard 77

Karen Vrotsos, 58 Swan rd., and Karen Pearson, 8 York rd., volunteered their services as mounted stewards at "Ledyard '77', the United States Open Three Day Event Championship held in Hamilton-Wenham in late October.

"Ledyard '77", an international competition, attracted top horses and riders from the United States, Great Britain, Canada, Holland, Ireland, Italy, New Zealand, and West Germany. Included in the U.S. delegation were Olympic medalists Mike Plumb and Tad Coffin, and World Three-Day event champion, Bruce Davidson.

Neil Ayer, chairman of Ledyard '77, and the United States Combined Training Association encourages young eventers to gain first-hand knowledge of international competition through participating in various activities relating to the organization of the competition. Both girls are members of the U.S.C.T.A., the U.S.E.T., and the Lexington Light Horse Club.

Grant E. Curtis, left, of 77 Lawson rd., receives an award for 28 years of service in the Tufts University financial aid department from University President Jean Mayer. Leonette Thibeau of 1 Town way also received an award for 22 years of service in the health service department. Awards were given out at the school's first annual employee recognition awards dinner.

Gloria Pearson named TriComm assistant director

New assistant director of Tri Community Health Services, Inc., is Gloria Pearson, RN, BSN, a former resident of Winchester for many years.

A former supervisor of Tri Community, Ms. Pearson was executive director of the Winchester VNA before the merger. Before this she was a staff nurse at Winchester Hospital. Ms. Pearson is a member of the Massachusetts League of Nursing and the Quota Club of Winchester.

Local appointed in Tufts fund

Mrs. Robert Cesari of Winchester has been appointed one of 200 area chairpersons in the 1977-78 annual fund drive at Tufts University in Medford.

Mary LaPage joins Trefrey Real Estate

Mary (Armato) LaPage recently joined the James T. Trefrey Inc., 14 Skillings rd., as a licensed real estate broker.

She is a lifelong resident of Winchester, presently residing at 66 Thornberry rds. with her husband and mother.

She is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts and Boston State Teacher's College. She was a former teacher in the Burlington and Winchester school systems.

She is a member of the MIT Matrons Club, Winchester College Club and the New England Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

Dr. Arnott to present medieval readings Sunday

Dr. Peter D. Arnott will present "Readings from Medieval Drama" during the 10 o'clock Family Service at the Parish of the Epiphany this Sunday morning.

This presentation is the third in an Advent series on "The Church and the Arts". Dr. Arnott will present selections from the English Cycle Plays. These are taken from manuscripts dating from the middle of the fifteenth century. They all deal with the Advent themes. Following the service, he will lead discussions in the Adult Class in Hadley Hall.

Dr. Arnott assumed the post as Chairman of the Drama Department at Tufts University in 1969. Before that he served as a member of the faculty at the University of Iowa. He is author of many books, the latest, An Introduction to the French Theatre, that was published last April. Others include The Byzantines and Their World, An Introduction to the Roman World, An Introduction to the Greek World, and An Introduction to the Greek Theatre.

Bloodmobile at St. Mary's on 19th

St. Mary's Church will host the first of the Red Cross bloodmobile visits to Winchester in anticipation of the holiday season blood needs. The bloodmobile will be at St. Mary's Hall on Washington Street on Monday, Dec. 19 from 2 to 7:30 p.m.

St. Mary's is one of the Winchester parishes that has given vigorous support to the Red Cross blood program. The spring and fall traditional visits of the Bloodmobile to the parish usually total nearly 200 donations.

This year, Pat Heuchling is in charge of recruiting the volunteers and Gertrude Rooney heads the committee to prepare the supper for the volunteers and the professionals staffing the Bloodmobile.

Appointments to donate may be made by calling Pat Heuchling, 729-4962 or Red Cross Office, 729-2300.

Jeanne T. Currier

Mrs. Jeanne Tourtellot Currier, 59, of Bethlehem, Pennsylvania formerly of Winchester, died November 29 in Bethlehem She was the wife of Charles E. Currier.

Born in Providence, RI, she was the daughter of the late Carl T. and Irene Laraway Tourtellot.

Mrs. Currier grew up in Greenville, SC and attended Furman University, Greenville. Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, VA. and Harvard University. After graduating from Katherine Gibbs, she became a secretary to former Gov. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts before her marriage in 1941.

Active in church affairs, she served on Altar Guilds of four Episcopal churches: Church of the Epiphany, Winchester, St. Francis, Holden, Mass., of which she was a founding member; St. John the Evangelist, Bingham, Mass., and Trinity Church, Bethlehem.

She was also a member of the Ladies Aid Society of St. Luke's Hospital, FISH, Historic Bethlehem, Inc., and the Bethlehem Area Chamber of Commerce.

Surviving with her husband are two sons, C. Wesley of Coral Gables, Fla. and Jonathan, a student at Gettysburg College; a daughter, Mrs. Donald Titherington, of Birmingham, Mich.; four brothers, Irving W. Tourtellot, of Vilas, NC, Carl T. Tourtellot, Jr. of Greenville, SC, Richard C. Tourtellot of North Hampton, NH, and Raymond B. Tourtellot of Winchester, and five grandchildren.

Memorial services were held at Trinity Church in Bethlehem on December 1. Burial was in Nisky Hill Cemetery in Bethlehem.

Memorials may be sent to the church or to the American Cancer Society.

Margaret Grace

Margaret Mary Grace, former Winchester resident, died Nov. 30 in West Covina, Cal.

Mrs. Grace is survived by her husband, James R., and daughters Margaret, Mary Strazzere, Althea Starble, and Mary Jane Grace, all of West Covina, brother William L. Hart of Massachusetts, four grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Grace was a member of the Catholic Daughters Court Santa Maria in Winchester. A Mass of the Christian Burial was said Saturday at St. Christopher's Catholic Church in West Covina, with burial at Queen of Heaven Cemetery.

Wilhelmina Twombly

Mrs. Wilhelmina B. Twombly, for 60 years a resident of Winchester, died November 28 in Louisville, Kentucky.

She was the wife of the late Elmer J. Twombly and mother of Dorothy F. of Woburn, Alice E. Marion of Louisville, Ky., John F. of Aiken, South Carolina, William E. of Laconia, NH, and Arthur J. of Madison, Conn. Also survived by 11 grandchildren.

Mrs. Twombly was formerly an active member of the Alliance in the Winchester Unitarian Church. A memorial service was held in that church on November 30. Interment was in Felchville, Vermont.

Ten pieces of equipment and 25 men responded to a two-alarm fire at 15 Pine st. on Tuesday afternoon. There was extensive smoke, water and fire damage to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Chen, who were not at home at the time of the fire. The fire is believed to have started in a second floor bedroom, where the floor was so weakened by the fire that the bed fell through to the first floor. (Staff photo)

Damage is extensive in Pine St. fire

A two-alarm fire Tuesday afternoon at 15 Pine st. caused extensive smoke, fire, and water damage to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Chen. The fire is believed to have started in a second floor bedroom.

Firefighters responded to the call at 3:18 when high school students Gail Pelletier and Meg Sutherland, both neighbors, reported a house fire. When the men arrived they immediately called a second alarm. Heavy smoke and fire were visible on arrival, but firefighters were not able to enter the house through the locked front door. They broke a living room window and found heavy smoke on the first and second floors, around the walls and partitions, and coming from under the eaves.

The living room ceiling caved in as a bed fell through the weakened floor of the upstairs bedroom. No one was reported injured.

No one was at home at the time of the fire, although Mrs. Chen and two sons arrived during the fire. The house had been empty since the morning.

Group 3, under the direction of Lt. Robert Swymer, and all apparatus responded to the fire. Engines 2, 3, 4, 1, Ladder 1, the rescue, ambulance, and alarm truck were on the scene with about 25 men. Woburn's Engine 3 also reported to the fire, while Stoneham's engine and Arlington's ladder covered fire headquarters. Recall was sounded at 6:46.

1st full-time chairman

John Larkin sworn in as alcohol commission head

John Larkin of 21 Ledyard rd. was sworn in Dec. 8 as the first full-time chairman of the state's Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission.

Larkin, who has served as executive secretary of the ABCC for the past two-and-a-half years, was named to the post by Gov. Michael Dukakis, who has replaced the old, part-time ABCC commissioners with one full-time chairmanship and two associate commissioners.

"It has been impossible in the past to handle all the requests (for hearings) promptly," explains Larkin, who says the ABCC is trying to grant hearing requests within 45 days. "In order to maintain that pace and accomplish all the administrative duties requires somebody on a full time basis."

Sworn in along with Larkin were associate commissioners Herbet Goodwin of Brookline and Fletcher Wiley of Boston. Larkin's term will be coterminous with the governor's, expiring in 1978, as will one of the associate commissioners. The other commissioner will serve until 1980.

The ABCC has a total staff of 54 persons, over whom Larkin will serve as administrative officer. He notes that having the chairmanship full-time "eliminates the possibility of a potential conflict of interest" which existed with a part-time chairman.

The roughly 600 hearings a year held by the ABCC include appeals from local authorities, protests concerning the issuance of a license by a local authority or some action of the local authority in imposing sanctions on a licensee, or violations uncovered by the ABCC's own investigations.

"One of the problems we have is that the Liquor Control Act was first put on the books in 1933, and many of the laws no longer serve a useful function," says Larkin. He said his office will be reviewing the rules and regulations with an eye to possible changes.

One change Larkin says he would like to make is to standardize the license application forms and procedures throughout the state so that the cities and towns will have "a tradition they can follow, even though the licensing authorities may change." Larkin adds that standardization would be particularly helpful to towns with no experience in issuing liquor licenses— like Winchester. He assures that the function of issuing the licenses will remain in the hands of local authorities.

Larkin served as assistant attorney general for Massachusetts from 1969-75. From 1941-66, he worked for the FBI. He has lived in Winchester since 1950, is a town meeting member, and served on the finance committee.

He lives with his wife Irene and has two children, William, a resident of Chelmsford, and John P. Jr., a resident of Chicago.

Lighting contest to turn on town Sunday, Monday

The Winchester Jaycees will hold their eighth annual Christmas Lighting Contest on Dec. 18 and 19. The format has been changed this year to include all homes in Winchester. In the past only those who entered were eligible.

All 88 miles of streets in town will be covered by the judges to determine the winner. Basis for judging will be the most effective use of lights and decorations to portray the holiday spirit.

Chairman John Hackett said the prizes will be awarded and winners' names published in The Winchester Star early so that all may have a chance to see the winners for themselves.

To be considered, make sure the lights are on from 6-9 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 18 and Monday, Dec. 19.

Timetable set: March deadline

School board focuses on five reorganization plans

A final decision on the reorganization of Winchester's school system may be at hand by March: that's the deadline the school committee set for itself Monday night.

As a first step in reaching that decision, they gave Superintendent William C. Macdonald two charges at the Monday meeting:

—They directed the superintendent to start firming up plans for the possibility of moving to a four-year high school;

—And they asked MacDonald to cost out five of the 13 different reorganization plans which have been proposed to date.

Between now and March, the school board plans a number of other steps along the road to reorganization, including setting up an implementation committee to consider the options and come up with a final recommendation for the whole system by mid-February; holding some seminars at the high school in mid-January on reorganization; and holding at least two public hearings, one in late January or early February, another in late February.

Supt. MacDonald and the Middle School Study Committee, charged by the school committee with coming up with a range of alternatives for reorganization, presented 10 different plans to the committee in November. Subsequently, parents at the Washington School, concerned that their school might be one of the schools to be closed as a result of the organization, submitted three alternatives of their own.

The High School

All 13 proposals assume implementation of a four-year high school. Noting that there is little if any hard evidence arguing for or against a four-year arrangement, MacDonald said that "among a majority of educators in secondary education, there is a very very strong opinion favoring a four-year high school."

Size of the student population and maximum utilization of the building and facilities were the major reasons cited by the superintendent in support of the move. He quoted 1000 as the "magic number' of students below which a high school program would become too inflexible.

If the three-year high school were maintained, the enrollment would, according to projections, drop below 1000 within a few years. In 1975-76, enrollment at the high school was 1337; with a four-year plan, enrollment would be 1333 in 1980, according to the projections.

MacDonald is looking to 1980 as the year to shift to the four-year setup. "All our numbers are geared toward 1979," commented the superintendent, "but I thought that 1980 was a more reasonable date." He siad that while the high school could handle the projected 1449 students in grades 9-12 in 1979, to do so would make the school "overcrowded to the point where it hurts."

MacDonald cited three major reasons for waiting until 1980 to go to the four-year school: for one, studies indicate that about 80 per cent utilization of the facility is the optimum level; a second reason was "we need a little rest to get people back into the task of educating the kids" and to alleviate the uncertainties tied to changes in the system; and finally, time is needed for adequate planning of the curriculum and building utilization.

There will probably be a few problems in the areas of curriculum use of space at the high school, however MacDonald said, "I don't see a dramatic cost involved there."

School committee member Heinrich Holland noted the enrollment projections, if followed well into the 1980s, show a drop to about 800 high school students, even with a four-year school. "Is it worth thinking that far out front," he asked MacDonald.

The superintendent replied that he was "uncomfortable" even taking the projections as far as 1982. "We're going to have to deal with the numbers we can project with some accuracy."

Committee Chairman Robert Frank pointed out that the high school students of the 1980s have already been born. "We can precict with some confidence, within five or 10 per cent, that there will be about 800 by the late 1980s," Frank said.,

"It does not impinge on the four-year move, but we may want to go to a six-year high school sometime in the 1980s," suggested Holland.

"I think you're getting a little far down the road," MacDonald responded. "You can do long range planning, but it has limits."

In his report to the committee on the four-year high school, MacDonald outlined what he saw as the advantages of moving to such a setup for curriculum, extra-curricular activities, building utilization, and other areas.

Though he has had some input on the reorganizations plans in general, he told the committee he has had no input at all from any group on the four-year high school.

Even though there has been no opposition voiced to the high school plan, the committee held back from making a final decision, directing MacDonald to start plans for "the possibility of going to a four-year high school." In addition, WHS Principal Vincent Larocco already has a committee at the high school working on what changes would have to be made.

Elementary and middle schools

Of the 13 alternative proposals for reorganization of the elementary and middle schools, MacDonald said Monday night, "I see clearly three plans, and maybe a fourth, which I feel are the major ones." He added "some of these (the 13) plans clearly will not work," and he asked the school committee to permit him to cost out and explore the implementation for three of the plans.

These three are:

—One of the 10 Middle School Study Committee's alternatives which was preferred by the superintendent at the time of the original presentation in November. The plan would close Noonan, Parkhurst, and Washington Schools; maintain six schools for grades K-6 — Lynch, Ambrose, Lincoln, Muraco, Mystic, and Vinson-Owen Schools; and consolidate grades 7-8 at McCall Junior High School. The plan also calls for moving the central administration to Lynch and disposing of the Sanborn House property.

A second alternative from the study committee's report. This plan would close Noonan and Parkhurst; maintain six K-5 schools—Ambrose, Lincoln, Muraco, Mystic, Vinson-Owen, and Washington Schools; and create two 6-8 middle schools at Lynch and McCall.

—One of the plans proposed by the Washington School parents, which would: close Noonan, Parkhurst, and Lincoln; maintain six K-6 schools—Lynch, Ambrose, Muraco, Mystic, Vinson-Owen, Washington; and conslidate grades 7-8 at McCall.

Committee woman Constance Papas noted the three plans encompass most of the major configurations contained in all of the other plans, excepting the K-8 and K-4 with 5-8

Selectmen's meeting

Excise tax delinquents may lose their licenses

Any resident of Winchester who doesn't pay his or her motor vehicle excise tax, is subject to a hearing for the loss of the driver's license.

Treasurer-Collector Carol A. Thomas informed the board of selectmen that under Massachusetts General Law Chapter 60A Section 2A, those tax deliquents who can't show that they paid the excise tax will lose their driving privilege.

Under the regulations, Ms. Thomas fills out a form (TX-1) listing the names and addresses of tax deliquents. She and the hearings officer agree on a date for the hearing and the tax deliquents are notified.

If the person defaults on the hearing or if the bill remains unpaid, the driver's license is suspended until payment.

Winchester will be allowed 10 hearings a month. According to a memo from Ms. Thomas to Town Manager Thomas J. Groux and the selectmen, "We plan to hold hearings to collect unpaid motor excise."

Other business Monday night included raising the ambulance fees. Effective January 1, in-town runs will cost $15 (up from $10) and out-of-town runs will be $20 (up from $12).

According to James Vanar, staff assistant for budget and purchasing, the ambulance makes about 550 runs a year. Out these, 500 are within the town and 50 are outside. About 50 percent of these runs are "emergencies" and-or "deaths on arrival" and are not billed.

Because of the costs involved in maintaining the ambulance and the fact that 99 percent of the persons served have some type of ambulance coverage, Vanar recommended the increase in fees.

Although he recommended charging for all runs, selectmen declined to go along with him on that. Runs in which the patient is dead on arrival or in emergencies will not be billed, as in the past. The board did indicate that emergencies should be viewed individually. They also said that the ambulance is a service which should be provided the residents and insurance coverage is no reason to up the charges.

The ambulance costs about $34,585 a year. With about half the runs billed, the net increase in income would be $1450 a year (based on 500 runs at $15 and 50 runs at $20). At the current charge the income is $2800 and with Vanar's recommended increase it would be $4250.

Selectmen renewed several common victualler licenses Monday night, but held off on five pending conformance with building or fire department recommendations.

Those establishments which were granted renewals are:

Dari-Maid, 275 Cambridge st.; LaRosa's Sub Shoppe, 620 Main st.; Randall's, 11 Mt. Vernon st.; Swanton Street Deli, Inc., 72 Swanton st.; USA Rink, 7 Conant rd.; Winchester Hospital Cafeteria, 41 Highland ave.; and Winchester Hospital Coffee Shop, 41 Highland ave.

New licenses were issued, subject to compliance with building and fire department regulations, to Main Street Food Shoppe, 533 Main st., now owned by Christos Vaaretimos and Leonidas A. Athanasiadis, and to Andrea's House of Pizza, 883 Main st., now under the ownership of Theo dore Macherides.

Those renewable licenses held back until compliance with building regulations were Bellino's Pizza, 878 Main st.; Brigham's, 530 Main st.; Joy Joy Restaurant, Inc. (China Hula), 797-801 Main st.; and Evans House of Pizza, 292 Washington st.

Those license renewals were withheld because selectmen did not have the building department's recommendations. The indications were that most of the violations were of the sign by-law.

Media interwoven with curriculum

One hears a great deal these days about the effect of television and other electronic media on America's young. But rarely does one learn anything about the effect of the young on the electronic media.

The current flows both ways in Winchester's schools. From filmstrips in the first grade to television production at the high school, electronic media have become interwoven with the curriculum.

At the center of it all is the audio-visual department at the high school, headed up by Jack Rudolph, director of library services. As his title implies, he coordinates the school libraries, as well as the aquiring of audio-visual equipment and software and management of the use of those materials.

The department has two offices, one a general office and supply room for the media hardware, the other a resource room for all the software, which includes films, filmstrips, sound filmstrips, tapes and records, film loops (short, single concept tapes, about 4 minutes long apiece), slides, sound slides, and multi-media kits on various subjects.

All of these materials have been placed into a media software catalog, put together this past summer with the help of the computer down at the high school. All schools have a copy of the catalog, which is annotated so that teachers can find out what a particular film or slide presentation is about, what grade level it is suited for, and how long it lasts. The whole catalog is printed on computer printouts, and so is easily updated.

The central resource room for the audio-visual materials was "kind of my baby," says Rudolph, who joined the school system four years ago. He has now developed a check-out system like the library's, and he has been inviting groups of teachers in for coffee hours to explain how the system works and to let them know what sort of materials are available.

As for the subject areas covered by the software, Rudolph explains, "Science and social studies seem to lend themselves better to these kind of materials." However, most of the other subject areas are covered, including the arts, mathematics, English, languages and the language arts.

Much of the material is rented, reflecting the constant changes in some of the schools' curriculums. Rudolph says the junior high school programs are particularly subject to change; the elementary curriculums are more standardized, therefore, most of the A-V department's permanent collection of software are elementary materials.

What materials does the department buy? With color films costing between $150-$300, "you have to be selective," replies Rudolph. "We consider heavily what the teachers want." Rudolph previews films before he buys them — "We don't want to spend a lot of money on a dud."

Much of the materials he has bought is paid for by federal grants under Title 4B aid to school libraries. Last year the schools received $8400 under the program, which makes available one-year, renewable grants for the purchase of books and audio-visual materials. Rudolph says he is working on obtaining a $12,200 grant for next year, most of it to go to the elementary libraries.

Noonan teacher Steve Gorrie video-tapes a lesson in building eco-models given by Matt Boland, right, Maria Puopolo, center, and Jaqui Burke, all sixth graders. Assisted by fifth grader Carrie MacDonald, they put together a film to be shown later to students in the outdoor education program. The models are used to help students understand the relationships of basic elements within different ecological systems. This is one of a variety of ways audio-visual equipment is becoming integrated into the curriculum. (Staff photo)

Fortnightly to sponsor caroling Christmas Eve

The annual community Christmas caroling, sponsored by The Fortnightly, will be held on the Common at 7 p.m. on Christmas Eve. Anyone who plays a musical instrument is urged to join with the senior high school band; children are asked to bring bells and all are invited to take part in the singing. Mrs. David W. Ewing will lead the singing and Mr. John Beyrant the band. Come join with friends and neighbors in this delightful Christmas celebration (and bring flashlights to read music by!)

Curriculum cut

Revised high school budget, course plan okayed by board

The school committee in two meetings this week finalized changes in the high school curriculum and finished off the high school budget for next year.

A number of courses have been deleted from the program, and the staffing has been cut back by roughly one teacher position to reflect some of the projected decline in enrollment.

At the request of the committee, the administration reported Sunday night on where they felt cuts could be made to maintain the current pupil-teachrer ratio of 17-to-1 at the high school. In addition, English department head Francis Russell on Monday night recommended the elimination of nine elective packages (including 12 separate courses) in order to reallocate more teaching time to writing workshops and student conferences.

Cuts made Sunday included : two sections in science, one section in personal stenography, one section of Latin III, one section of home economics II, and one section of African-Asian studies.

Recommended deletions which were retained in the curriculum by the committee were one section of music theory, one section of accounting II, and three-10ths of a position in the MaxEd program (which would, had it been eliminated, have effectively wiped out the MaxEd program).

One section of chemistry was tentatively added back into the budget Monday night after science department head Frank Finigan presented his case for adding courses in order to "level" classes in chemistry, physics and biology.

The expected decrease in enrollment is 53 students, the equivalent of three teaching positions at a strict 17-to-1 ratio. The cuts finalized by the school board total about one position.

★ School plans

middle schools arrangements. Another possibility would have one 6-8 school, one K-8 school, and six K-5 schools, an alternative the committee agreed was unrealistic.

Of the four-year middle school setup (5-8), MacDonald said, "I don't think its worth the effort" to cost it out.

Mrs. Papas requested that the K-8 arrangement be worked out in terms of curriculum by Walter Gleason, assistant superintendent for curriculum. The committee asked for a report from Gleason by mid-January.

After some discussion, the board agreed to add two plans to be costed out along with the superintendent's choices:

—Another Washington parents' plan which would: Reopen the Wyman School, close Ambrose, Lincoln, and Noonan; maintain Lynch, Muraco, Mystic, Parkhurst, Vinson-Owen, Washington and Wyman as K-6 schools; and put grades 7-8 in McCall.

—Another of the middle school study committee's plans which would: close Noonan and Parkhurst; maintain Lynch, Ambrose, Lincoln, Muraco, Mystc, Vinson-Owen, and Washington for K-6; put 7-8 in McCall.

MacDonald further requested the school board to direct him to set up an implementation committee which would investigate all of the proposed plans and make a final report back to the committee.

Though the superintendent said he was hesistant to serve on the committee himself to allow the group more "objectivity," the school committee insisted he be on it. He said he would choose the administrators to be on the committee, consult with the Winchester Education Association regarding teacher members, and consult with the parent associations regarding members from the general public. Board member Jack Noble encouraged him to obtain "a good geographic distribution."

The school board also questioned their role in the reorganization, but the superintendent told them, "I believe it should be a decision of this committee, which has been living with it."

Participants in the high school's Career-Life Information Program (CLIP) got hold of some Sachem t-shirts from the athletic department and sold them to fellow students during lunch hour. They managed to sell 295 of the 300 on hand, with the profits to go into another similar selling project. Sitting at the shirt stand are, from left, Raymond McCarthy, Christine Hollohan, and Maura McGeoghean; standing, from left, John Parsons, teachers Thomas Walsh, Katherine Bateman and Dave Miller, and Wayne Stevens. ## Power loss on Everett avenue affects 75 homes

About 75 homes in the Everett avenue area were without power for a brief period Sunday evening when a fuse blew out on Everett avenue.

Boston Edison was notified of the power failure, which occurred at 7:19 p.m., and sent a crew out to replace the fuse. Power was restored by 8:45, reports the office of public information at Boston Ed.

Last week's storm costs about $10,000

Last week's pair of storms on Dec. 5 and 6 cost the town nearly $10,000 for overtime and salt and sand.

DPW Director Walter Tonaszuck said his department treated the situation as two separaete storms, one on Dec. 5 and the second Dec. 6.

The total accumulation on the 5th was about four inches. At first all six of the town's sanders went into operation, and the plows started rolling around 7 p.m. Tonaszuck said he was reluctant to send out the plows at first because of early forecasts of rain. However, once the snow began to fall more heavily and the temperature began to drop, the plows went out.

The Dec. 5th storm ended around 2 a.m., and the men stopped plowing by 7 a.m. A total of 63 tons of salt and 154 tons of sand were spread on Winchester's streets.

On the 6th the snow began to fall around 2:30 p.m. and lasted until midnight, with an accumulation of an inch of wet snow. No plows were sent out, but the sanders spread 107 tons of salt and 107 tons of sand. The increase in the proportion of salt was due to the fact that the temperature was dropping.

Tonaszuck reported 75 persons on the job from 8 p.m. on the 5th through the next day, with a total of 11 hours of overtime, for a cost of about $6000.

Senior Service Line telephone hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Call 729-2111.

Ambulance out for 2 accidents

The fire department's ambulance was sent out twice on Friday to administer medical assistance to accident victims.

At 12:18 p.m. two cars collided at the intersection of Main street and Mystic Valley parkway. Firefighters assisted the ambulance crew with two injured persons.

The ambulance and rescue crews began resuscitation and cardio-pulminary resuscitation at 3:20 p.m. on a Ridge street resident found unconscious under his porch where he had been fixing a snow blower.

In other news, the fire department ejected smoke from a Canterbury road house on Dec. 6 after the delayed ignition of an oil burner caused heavy smoke in the basement and first floor, and light smoke on the second floor. The occupants were alerted by a smoke alarm.

What the elementary libraries have been lacking in is adequate staffing: many of them are unable to remain open all day, simply because there isn't anyone around to supervise the operation. The volunteers who used to staff them are getting harder to come by. This fall the school committee approved, then scrapped a proposal to add a number of clerk-aides at the elementary level to keep the libraries open.

(Some of the federal money is going to St. Mary's School as well for similar uses.)

The overall budget for the libraries system-wide for last year (fiscal year 1977) was $7496. It rose to $13,678 in FY-78. Some of the increase is accounted for by the fact that the permanent building committee, which had been providing money to purchase books for the libraries, has run out of money for that purpose; so now the money must come out of the library budget. Rudolph estimates the budget for elementary schools went up by about $1 per pupil this year.

The audio-visual budget in FY77 was $24,408. It's down slightly for FY78— $24,365.

The schools aren't the only ones using the audio-visual materials: Rudolph also lends some of the equipment out to local organizations and churches. "Let's face it," says Rudolph, these are the people paying for it, the taxpayers. . . to deny them the use of the equipment, that would be a slap in the face."

One of the more popular pieces of equipment is the video-tape recording system, purchased last summer. The unit has been used in a teacher training project at the Washington School; to tape a meeting of the community school association; and for taping student projects.

The department's equipment — ranging from the video-tape system to cassette recorders to projectors — has varying degrees of durability. Some items that get a lot of use wear out in a year or two; other pieces last as long as 10 years before they need replacement.

Rudolph says there isn't much of a problem with equipment being stolen or lost: "A very small amount in this system is stolen or lost; we haven't had that much equipment stolen since I've been here. It's the same with library books — we lose some every year, but compared to a lot of other places, it's not a big problem.

While the tools of electronic media are being used to mold minds throughout the curriculum, students at the high school are learning how to mold the radio and television media.

Winchester High School has what Rudolph believes is "if not THE oldest, one of the oldest high school radio stations in the country." WHSR-FM has been in operation since 1956, giving students an opportunity to learn about broadcasting. There are no classes offered in the subject, but "we would love to do something along those lines," adds Rudolph.

The radio station is under the stewardship of David Frary, who also serves as television technician and equipment repairman. The station's first class engineer is John Williams, a member of the finance committee who works for a "minimal stipend," according to Rudolph. In order to participate in the broadcasting, the students go out on their own and obtain the third class licenses required by the FCC.

As far as Rudolph is concerned, the station is a good investment. "It costs little to operate, and we get a lot of contributions for it, he says, noting the services the town gets from the station in return, including town meeting coverage and, when possible, high school sports coverage.

There are also two courses at the high school in television production, run by the English department. The television station was built into the new high school, and there are cable hookups to every major department in the building.

Rudolph says he has seen a lot of high schools with TV stations — "They're a dime a dozen"— but of Winchester's set up, he comments, "We do it as well as anybody I know and do as much with it as anyone I've seen."

Students in the TV production courses build up their skills, starting with a 60-second, visual-only spot. Next, they put together a 60-second commercial, then a three-minute drama, which they write and direct themselves. Finally, the entire class gets together to work on a 30-minute show.

This year, the classes (about 36 students) produced a news program. In past years, the class has done a sports program and a play.

The TV studio has other uses: various departments tape programs for reshowing to classes; the departments tape their own programs for use in classes; students in the self-paced chemistry course use TV tapes to catch up on their work or move ahead when they are ready; and students use the equipment to cover home basketball games.

The A-V systems at the high school are not without their problems: the acoustics in the TV studio aren't all they could be; the potential of the school-wide TV hookups have yet to be fully realized; and the air time for WHSR has been cut back because of the switch from the eight to a seven period school day, which leaves students less time for the station.

But the facilities are providing students with access to some of the most important tools of our time, radio, TV, and video-tape, and the results are encouraging, at least in terms of continued interest:

Rudolph says he knows of 20 students who are now completing or who have already completed broadcasting courses beyond high school in the past five years; and he knows of at least three others now at work in the broadcasting industry. Of course, given the power and influence of the media, one can only hope for even more of the same in the future.

Speak your mind

The process of developing a long range plan for reorganization of Winchester's schools is underway, and there has been surprisingly little input from the public.

Superintendent William C. MacDonald told the school committee Monday night that he has heard from only a few sources on the proposed changes in the school system — which include closing schools, consolidating grades 7 and 8 into one school, and moving to a four-year high school.

The most responsive group has been the Washington School parents, who have come up with some alternative proposals of their own. They should be commended for the time and effort, and for the concern, put into preparing their case.

MacDonald said a survey of Noonan parents, received from the president of the parents' association there, was "quite supportive" of some of the proposed changes. However, beyond that, the superintendent has heard from two other persons.

The superintendent is doing his part: he has vowed to remain open to public input (as has the school committee), and he has agreed to go to the Winchester Education Association and the school parent associations in search of members for the implementation committee which will be examining the various proposals. He has been in touch with the selectmen to see how they feel about what should be done with any buildings that are closed.

The final decision is still a long way off — the school board hopes to make a final decision by the end of March. There will be public hearings and workshops and more reports in the meantime, and we hope the citizens of Winchester will keep a close watch on what goes on. It's your tax dollars, your schools,and most importantly, your children who will be affected.

Don't wait until it's too late. Attend the meetings, read the proposals, and speak up.

(But be reasonable)

We received a letter this week that deserves some response. We aren't going to print it because we have told you who knows how many times that we have to have not only a signature but an address and phone number as well in order to verify the letter.

The letter begins cheerily enough, "What on earth is wrong with your reporters? They certainly do some terrible and incomplete reporting. Your paper completely misses many items that are of great importance to the townspeople."

Yes, we know. First of all, be advised that when you say "your reporters," you're talking about two (2) persons. If we were Buddha and Krishna, we'd have no problem discorporating and floating our numerous incarnations all over town to cover the news. Alas.

The letter does not specifically say what is terrible, so we'll ignore the insult for now.

Two incidents are cited by the letter writer as examples of our ineptitude: the story about the National Honor Society last week, and our coverage of the St. Mary's CYO show as compared to our coverage of the Children's Theatre.

As for the Honor Society induction in November, it was a well-kept secret as far as we're concerned. Much of the time we have to take what we can get, and this time we got nothing until three weeks after the event. The letter writer further berates us for not including the names and a picture. Well, no one supplied us with the names, and really, young lady, have you ever tried taking a picture of 80 persons in one spot?

The CYO show may be a more valid case. However, the Children's Theatre did provide most of their own publicity, including the review of the show. As for the pictures — the ones of the Children's Theatre came out better, so what can we say?

So, in defense of our efforts, we give this paper all we've got, and after all's said and done, we're no more or less perfect than "Susan Smith" who left her address off the letter, and I'd venture to guess we try just as hard as she does to get things right the first time.

Bring a flashlight!

By The Observer

For more than 50 years the Fortnightly Club has sponsored a lovely tradition, that of gathering around the lighted tree on the Common to sing Christmas carols and ring bells.

Once again this year we will be able to take part in this community celebration. The high school young people will be playing, children will have bells, and the whole town is invited to sing.

The caroling begins at 7 on Christmas Eve.

Dress very warmly and bring a flashlight if you can to help with score-reading.

The caroling is one of the nice things about living in Winchester.

Speaking of The Season, we have to note that Santa Claus will be at the A.R. Paint and Wallpaper store at 7 Thompson st. on Saturday.

The visit of St. Nick to this store is unique because there is no commercialism attached to it. A few people have asked if Santa would be there again this year and it's a good feeling to know that his afternoon stop is not connected to selling products and pushing toys.

Nearly 300 students at the Northeast Regional Vocational School got to question Inspector William E. Nash of the Winchester Police Department on community problems and the police.

The gist of the meetings, which were held December 2 and again on the 9th, was the function of the police and their association with youth.

Seems like a timely discussion and a valuable one.

In case you haven't already discovered it, the Montvale Avenue Bridge over the B&M Railroad in Woburn has been closed off to all traffic (as of December 1 ). Pedestrians are being allowed to use the bridge.

The bridge is closed for repairs and is being worked on by the state DPW. The work is expected to last about two months.

Winchester great Joe Bellino was formally inducted into the Football Hall of Fame the other night in conjunction with the naming of this year's Heisman Trophy winner.

Bellino himself joined football's elite group of Heisman winners in 1960 and made Winchester a town the whole country heard about.

The formal induction was at New York's Touchdown Club Banquet.

We congratulate Bellino on his success.

High school update...

Know your rights

By Chip Norton

In our society of complex rules and regulations, there is little time for an average student to learn about his or her legal rights. There is a general lack of awareness of legal privileges granted to young people— the majority of young people do not realize that they are protected under the Constitution as much as their parents or any other adult.

Of course, there are different degrees of penalties and consideration given to a minor, but the basic privileges are guaranteed to every person, regardless of age.

Before discussing some of the rights given to a minor, one must define what a minor is:

According to Massachusetts state laws, a minor is a person who is under the age of 18. When the person is under 16, he or she is a juvenile and can only be tried in juvenile court. When a person turns 17, he or she is still a minor but can be tried in a criminal court.

A question often asked by youths is, when can you be arrested?

A police officer may arrest you when he sees you commit a violation of the law, or if he sees you try to commit one. Also, if a felony or certain misdemeanor has been committed, and if the police officer has reasonable grounds to believe you did it, he may arrest you even if he was not there at the time the crime was commited.

This leads one to ask, can an officer just arrest you if he thinks you did something wrong? The answer is no; he must have what is called a warrant.

A warrant is an order signed by a judge after he has heard a complaint by someone, usually the police, which charges that you have committed a crime. The warrant can only be signed if the judge thinks there is "probable cause" that you committed the crime. The warrant specifies what you are being charged with and gives the officer the right to arrest you. You do have the right to see the warrant, and the officer is obligated to show it to you.

When an officer is arresting you or serving you a warrant, he has the power to use "necessary force" to arrest you if you resist; but if you don't resist arrest, he cannot use force to apprehend you. He also may not use force after he has arrested you.

After you have been arrested, you are granted the right not to make statements about the crime; but if you do, they can be used against you in court. You have the right to a lawyer for legal counsel. If an officer makes threats against you to answer a question, that officer is himself breaking the law. All these rights are part of the US Supreme Court's Miranda vs. Arizona decision (1966). This decision has to do with protection of personal rights and liberties. Minors as well as adults are protected under this decision.

Another interesting question youths often ask is, can an officer stop and search you?

A police officer may not stop and search you unless he has reasonable cause to believe that you have committed or are about to commit a crime. Nonetheless, you may be searched without apparent cause, and certainly you should cooperate in this type of situation to avoid making matters worse. Any evidence a police officer may take in this latter situation is not admissible evidence against you in court.

Another situation in which questions often arise is, may a police officer stop your car and demand to search it?

The officer may not search your car unless he has a warrant or unless he has reasonable cause to believe that you have committed a crime or are about to commit one. The officer has the right to seize something that is illegal and in sight. He may not enter the car and look around and then find something illegal. Again, you may be searched with no apparent cause, but you should not physically resist, because any evidence taken in an illegal search is not admissible evidence in a court of law.

These are just a few of the privileges given to youths and adults under our legal system. These rights have been set up to protect our welfare and safety and should be respected and only used when necessary, not as a means for giving an officer a hard time.

The police department and police officers in Winchester are for the most part very understanding toward the youth of the town, and they have often shown consideration in the handling of juvenile offenders.

Even though we have good police in this town, it is still the right of the youth to understand and exercise their rights in necessary situations.

Be generous

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I would like to report to the citizens of Winchester that the United Way Campaign is now at 57.9 per cent in our community. With a good final effort, I know we can reach our goal.

To contributors, I extend my sincere thanks. To those who have yet to give, I ask you to consider the vital services which United Way member agencies provide.

In Winchester, three agencies receive United Way support: Red Cross, Mystic Valley Mental Health Center, and the North Metropolitan Homemaker Home Health Aide Service. Many other agencies are located in neighboring communities, and they provide services to residents throughout our area. In fact, United Way agencies help one out of four people in the Mass. Bay area.

How much of what you give goes to those who need it? Out of every dollar, 88 cents goes directly to agencies to provide services. That's quite a percentage!

So if you haven't given to the United Way, please be as generous as your means allow. There's no need to give a lot if everyone gives a little. During this holiday season, we must remember to give thanks for what we have. And we should also remember the spirit of sharing.

Contributions may be made payable to United Way and sent to West Region Office, United Way of Mass. Bay, 31 River st., Wellesley 02181.

Giving to the United Way is a good way to make our community an even better place to live. It's also a good way to remember the spirit of sharing.

Thomas Dickenson
Winchester United Way
Chairman

Wrong school

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Last week a complimentary article about my son appeared in the Winchester Star, saying that he'd been named a Charles A. Dana Scholar at Colby College, Waterville, Me.

The article in its last sentence said he was a graduate of the Wilbraham-Monson Academy in Wilbraham, Massachusetts. Just what the source of this last bit of information might be, I don't know, but it is incorrect.

My son graduated from Winchester High School, and I would like to give credit where it is due, since both he and we, his parents, feel so strongly about the quality of his education and preparation for college. We have three more children at Winchester High School and in every way appreciate what the high school is doing for them.

J. Drennan Lowell, MD

(Editor's note: the incorrect information concerning Dr. Lowell's son was based on a press release from Colby College.)

Very busy day

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Today was bright, clear, and cold with few clouds in the pale, wintry sky. A strong wind from the north made the "chill-factor" a good excuse for most people to stay indoors and look out the windows. Several inches of snow lay on the ground, the last two days having been wet and stormy, with alternate rain or snow and the snow winning out in the end.

For those two uncomfortable days the birds had hidden themselves from the elements and few, if any, had ventured anywhere near the feeders.

Today they were ravenously hungry, and were out in force. At about one o'clock we had at least a dozen blue-jays criss-crossing our back-yard. I had taken down the main feeder, a flat, rectangular platform of about two square feet, enclosed with nylon covered wire mesh, with large holes on all sides (to discourage pigeons and other large birds as much as possible,) and had scraped the snow off with a putty knife. Under the snow there was quite a bit of feed that they had not been able to reach, and that now lay on the frozen lawn with the scraped off snow.

I set up and refilled the feeders and went back in the house. It did not take long before the hungry birds had discovered the seeds on the lawn. I say "about a dozen" blue jays, because they are so active that it is impossible to count them. They swoop in, grab a seed, and are gone, almost in the same unbroken motion. I did manage to count five jays at the pile on the ground at the same instant, but a moment later they were gone. There is about 100 yards of open space, an arena, between the trees of my yard and that of my neighbor, and everywhere I looked there came a blue streak, like a flying arrow, swooping down toward the feed from the ring of trees. As the newcomer approached, the birds already on the ground took wing and replaced the new arrival in the trees. The yard was a blue blur of action, and I just had to guess the best I could as to how many jays were there.

There were also four cardinals, two sombre females, and two brilliant males — each as round and red as a ripe tomato. We had several pairs of tufted titmice, 3 or 4 pairs of chickadees, a male and female purple finch, juncoes, starlings, grackles, two upside-down nuthatches, three mourning doves, sparrows beyond count, white throated, song sparrows, tree sparrows, English sparrows, etc. a couple of grey squirrels, and a few pigeons. Altogether, a very busy day for the birds; and me!

Taking The Confusion Out Of Our Drinking Water

Why Purify Drinking Water Now

1. Man has polluted his world more in the last 50 years than all of time in History and most all air and land pollution ends up in our waterways.
2. The EPA has recently discovered that chlorinating water produces new and dangerous chemicals. Natural occuring compounds in water by themselves are harmless but once the chlorine is added, they become carcinogens (cancer causing).
3. The Public is being poisoned by metal pollution from many toxic pipes used in the distribution system which releases metal particles and dangerous fibers into the drinking water. Copper poisoning from copper pipes is becoming more serious as it is making many people ill from the build up.
4. Harmful bacteria - micro organisms - viruses and small insects are a constant threat to health from unfiltered water supplies. Just adding chlorine to the drinking water is not sufficient water treatment.
5. Federal water experts are concerned about the long-range dangers to health that can result from years of exposure to impure drinking water. "We are not dealing with just acute impacts, but long-term buildups," says the EPA's James McDermott." "We are finding bacteria, viruses and trace metals in drinking water now because we just started looking for them."

Ralph Nader calls impurities in drinking water "a major silent form of violence that will affect future generations."

Water Pollution

Activated Charcoal

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency recently reported that granular activated carbon (charcoal) is the best available method for filtering water.

As a matter of fact, many cities across the United States have instituted charcoal filtration systems for their drinking water supplies.

WHY USE CARBON FILTRATION

Carbon has a high capacity of removing organic contaminants in water. Carbon can remove cancer causing agents along with reducing pipe corrosion and trapping out viruses.

WHY NOT USE ORDINARY CARBON FILTERS

Five micron Taste and Odor Carbon filters can remove many of the impurities and chemicals in water but while correcting one problem it causes another. Bacteria can build up in the cartridge unless they are changed frequently. Carbon filters do not use any disinfecting protection.

A MODERN DESIGNED SILVER CARBON FILTRATION

Home carbon Water Purifiers use a super fine sub micron filtration that filters smaller than the size of bacteria which is filtered out.

Silver is impregnated into the carbon that sterilizes the carbon from harmful bacteria which makes it self-sanitizing. The cartridge is also polarized which acts as a magnet pulling out impurities much smaller than its pore size. This polarizing system greatly improves the ability of the carbon to reduce pipe corrosion and trapping out viruses. Water Purifiers restore water to its natural condition making it crystal clear and sparkling clean without removing its natural minerals or fluoride.

Persia - 600 B.C.

Cyrus the Great, when going to war, took boiled water in SILVER flagons or jars loaded on four-wheeled carts drawn by mules

SILVER TO DISINFECT WATER

Silver is the oldest bacteria killer known to man. One part per billion to 500 parts per billion of silver is sufficient to sterilize water. At such dosage rates, silver is non irritant and has no toxic action to humans. Prior to 1962, there was no standard on silver nor does a standard exist in Europe today. In 1962 a standard was set at 50 parts per billion to control the amount of silver used in Home Water Purifiers.

A EPA booklet issued on March of 1977—Silver—This metal should pose no problem. It is sometimes used in disinfecting water. The maximum amount of silver allowed in drinking water by the national standard is 0.05 milligrams per liter of water. (50 parts per billion)

The Multi Pure water system uses only 10 parts per billion of silver which is 1/5th the amount allowed by the standards.

WATER SOFTENERS

Water softeners should not be confused with Water Purification for they only soften water for better washing ability in hard water areas. The process is done by adding salt to the water and is not recommended for drinking. A by pass of this unit should be made for drinking purposes.
Both the Winchester Water Supply and the MDC water on the West Side of Town have very soft water.

Hard water contains dissolved rock that's hard on almost everything it touches

In its long, long journey from the clouds to your faucets, water dissolves and carries with it some of the objectionable elements it contacts

HOME WATER DISTILLERS

Water distillers may remove all impurities in water but also removes important natural minerals and trace metals your body needs for good health, besides it leaves water tasteless and flat. Carbon filtration in comparison removes what is harmful and leaves what is useful. For example, the carbon removes most of the excess metals in water but leaves trace amounts that the body needs for a balanced body chemistry. Safe carbon filtration is the ultimate in water purification for it gives as close to perfect water quality as possible today.

WHAT ARE WE DOING TO OUR SPRING WATER

Spring water is also being overtaken by man's pollution. The Crystal Springs in Stoneham have contaminated water signs as does the Blue Hill Springs in Randolph. The Pocohontas Spring Water Company in Lynnfield now uses a Millipore bacteria filtration system to remove harmful bacteria from the bottled water they sell in the North Shore. The famous Saratoga Springs in New York has also posted warning signs to the danger of their spring water.

THE MULTI PURE HOME WATER PURIFIER is by far the best way in removing harmful impurities in water because it is done at the end of the line. Here it gives you all kinds of protection in reducing pipe corrosion. The chlorine and its dangerous by products are also removed with this system

Why should the Public be paying the price with their health for all the mistakes in the past with the use of many toxic pipes and the wrong disinfecting chemicals in our water. Foot dragging to correct these problems and not getting information out to the public is fast becoming a great American scandal.

Read the current issue of the Health Prevention Magazine which explains the problem with drinking water and the cure quite clearly. Digest copies of the article are available at our Apothecary.

Bay State roll call

November 21-25

A controversial Senate bill which would legalize Laetrile to treat cancer victims was tabled 20-18, and thus defeated, in the Senate this week. Sen. Sam Rotondi voted for tabling the bill, and thus for its defeat.

Another bill gave initial approval 22-8 to a measure creating a separate bargaining unit for state lottery employees. Sen. Rotondi voted against the bill.

The Senate gave final approval, 25-6, and sent to the House a bill allowing the Motor Vehicle Liability Appeal Board to issue restricted licenses to persons who have had their licenses revoked or suspended and are finding such revocation a hardship. Sen. Rotondi joined the majority in voting for the bill.

The Senate overrode 36-1 Governor Dukakis's veto and passed a measure establishing a separate collective bargaining unit for the MDC police. Sen. Rotondi voted for the measure.

He also voted for a bill making several major changes in the organization, structure, and operation of the state court system. Senate Bill 1965 provides, among other things, for state assumption of the $100 million annual court system charges now assumed by the counties.

Although voting for the package, Sen. Rotondi voted against two amendments to the deal, one which would have scaled down several pay raises for judges, clerks, and other court personnel, and the other in which the state would assume 50 percent of the costs of the courts on July 1, 1978, instead of on July 1, 1979.

The Senate held 12 roll calls this week, raising the session's total to 321.

In the House during the week, representatives overrode the governor's veto of a bill creating a separate collective bargaining unit for the MDC police, as in the Senate. The vote, 205-24, included Rep. Sherman W. Saltmarsh's "yea."

In other roll call votes, the House refused to reconsider its earlier passage of bill making agency fees, in collective bargaining for public employees, equal to the union membership fee. Rep. Saltmarsh voted to leave the bill passed and not to reconsider.

He voted with the majority of representatives to give approval to a measure providing tax relief to Massachusetts life insurance companies by repealing the one percent gross investment tax over a seven-year period, and replacing it with a 45 percent net income tax. The vote was 160-62.

The House defeated a bill establishing a ceiling on state spending. The vote was 121-83 and Rep. Saltmarsh voted for the bill.

On a measure increasing from six to ten the number of months which the DPU has to rule on rate hike requests, the House first approved 118-85 and then rejected 130-94, House Bill 2195. Rep. Saltmarsh voted for the six month period both times.

The House approved an amendment to a measure requiring training in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) in public health courses. The amendment would add "local option," which means the CPR training need be offered only if a majority of the local school committee approves it. Rep. Saltmarsh voted to make the program mandatory only after acceptance by local school committees.

There were 12 roll calls in the House last week, bringing the total this session to 631. Despite a broken foot, Rep. Saltmarsh has maintained a 99 percent attendance record, being present for every roll call last week. Sen. Rotondi has had 100 percent attendance for every roll call this session.

Week of Nov. 28 - Dec. 2

THE HOUSE. The House held 35 roll calls last week. Most House action this week centered around a controversial court reorganization plan. Key areas of debate included method of selection of a chief administrative justice, who would be responsible for the day to day operation of the courts; pay hikes for judges; pay raises for other court personnel; and the right of the chief administrator to transfer judges to other courts to help with case backlogs. On several roll calls dealing with judges' pay hikes, some legislators who are attorneys preferredto vote "present" to avoid the appearance of any conflict of interest in the matter.

OPEN NOMINATION AMENDMENT (H 6804) - House defeated 139-87 and then by a 136-82 margin an amendment allowing every judge to nominate another judge or himself for the position of chief administrative justice, and then submitting all these names to the Supreme Judicial Court justices, who would then choose the nominee.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted for, then against the measure.

CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE JUSTICE (H 6804) - House approved 220-10 a key amendment providing for the selection of a chief administrative justice. This system requires each department of the trial courts to select by secret ballot three nominees to the Supreme Judicial Court which would then choose the Chief.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted in favor.

JUDGES' TRANSFER (H 6804) - House defeated 131-100 and then almost reversed its decision, but still defeated in a tie 114-114 tally an amendment allowing the chief administrative justice to transfer any judge to another court to help speed up the judicial process when necessary. The amendment also provides for an appeals process to the Supreme Judicial Court for any judge who thinks his transfer is unfair.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted against the amendment both times.

STRIKE PAY RAISES (H 6804) - House defeated 145-65 an amendment which would delete all the pay raises for judges, registers, clerks, and other court personnel in the package.

Saltmarsh opposed the amendment.

OTHER PAY RAISES (H 6804) - House defeated 127-79 an amendment striking various different pay raises for registers, clerks, recorders, and their assistants and replacing it with a $3000 raise over two year ($1500 per year).

Bay State roll call

Rep. Saltmarsh voted with the majority.

JUDGES' TRANSFER (H 6804) - House first approved 120-111, then defeated 122-109, then barely defeated 107-104, an amendment removing the provision that a judge may refuse to be transferred by the chief administrator of another court. The amendment does not change the provisions that restricts the chief from transferring any judge for more than 90 days without the judge's consent and also prohibits the chief, in any case, from transferring more than 15 percent of a department's judges.

Saltmarsh voted against the move all three times.

THE SENATE. The Senate held a total of 13 roll calls last week, raising the 1977 total to 334.

STATE POLICE - Senate unanimously approved 39-0, resolutions urging Governor Dukakis to upgrade salaries of the Massachusetts State Police.

SWEARING (S 619) - Senate completely reversed an August roll call and voted 26-13 to kill a measure repealing the law which prohibits the crime of blasphemy, commonly known as swearing or cursing. Last August, the Senate had approved repeal of the law by a 30-7 tally. The 280 year old law prohibits cursing the name of God or the government and provides a $300 fine or one year in prison.

Sen. Rotondi voted for repeal in August, against it this time.

POLICE FIREARMS (S 956) - Senate approved 24-13, but failed to gain the two-thirds margin necessary to override the governor's veto of a bill which gives policemen the right to refuse to enter a prison or other building without firearms or "proper weapon."

Rotondi voted to override.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION - The House and Senate sat together in a joint session as a Constitutional Convention Nov. 30 and held four key roll calls on amendments to the Massachusetts Constitution.

CITIES' AND TOWNS' COSTS (S 811) - Constitutional Convention approved 257-8 an amendment prohibiting the legislature from imposing certain costs on cities or towns, unless it is approved by the cities or towns themselves, or the state funds the law, or it is approved in both branches by a two-thirds margin. The amendment prohibits imposition in costs through changes in the regulation of compensation, hours, status, conditions or benefits of municipal employment.

The amendment must be approved by the 1979 - 1980 legislature and will then go on the ballot. Both Saltmarsh and Rotondi voted for the measure.

BOND LIMIT (S 1382) - Constitutional Convention first approved 212-55 and then rejected 168-102 an amendment prohibiting the state from issuing bonds of more than 30 years duration, requiring equal payment of bonds each year, and requiring repayment to begin within one year from the date of the loan.

Rep. Saltmarsh supported the amendment prohibiting the state from issuing bonds of more than 30 years duration, requiring equal payment of bonds each year, and requiring repayment to begin within one year from the date of the loan.

Rep. Saltmarsh supported the amendment both times; Sen. Rotondi favored, then opposed the measure.

VOTER BOND APPROVAL (H 2396) - Constitutional Convention rejected 201-68 an amendment requiring bond issues of more than $10 million to be approved by a majority of voters at a referendum.

Rep. Saltmarsh favored and Sen. Rotondi opposed the amendment.

Week of Dec. 5-9

THE HOUSE. With the end of the 1977 session in sight, the House, focusing on final passage of the court reform package, held 29 roll calls last week, raising the session's total to 695. Many of the roll calls on amendments to the court reform package were either exactly the same or similar to amendments previously proposed.

ABORTION VETO (H 6595) - House overrode, 151-66, 153-69, 153-67, and 154-68, Governor Dukakis' vetoes of four separate, but similar in nature, anti-abortion amendments to the supplementary budget. The four amendments would outlaw public-financed abortions for Medicaid recipients, active and retired. state workers, retired teachers, and legislators themselves. Dukakis had vetoed the anti-abortion amendments a few weeks ago, after the Supreme Judicial Court had advised him he could veto them separately, and still sign the budget which included the state workers' raise.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted to override four times.

LIMITED TRANSFER (H 6804) - House approved 132-95, a court reform amendment allowing the chief administrative justice to transfer any justice of superior court, district court, or Boston Municipal Court, to any other department where they are needed for any length of time.

Rep. Saltmarsh opposed the move.

PAY HIKE AND TRANSFERS (H 6804) - House defeated 127-99 another court reform amendment giving the proposed pay hikes only to judges who give written consent to accept transfer anytime by the chief administrative justice.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted against the amendment.

OTHER PERSONNEL TRANSFER (H 6804) - House defeated 160-56, another amendment allowing the chief administrator to transfer non-judicial personnel to other departments without their consent, and requiring the chief to only "consult" with the presiding judge or head of the particular department. The amendment also creates an appeals process, allowing any aggrieved employee who thinks his assignment is wrong, to appeal his case to the chief justice of the Supreme Judicial Court.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted with the majority.

COURT COSTS (H 6804) - House approved 150-76, a court reform provision requiring the state to assume all court costs by July 1982 at the latest.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted in favor.

FLOOR APPROVAL (H 6804) - House gave final approval 170-27 to its version of the long-debated court reform package. Supporters argued the package was basically a good one and would help modernize the courts and cut backlog, while opponents objected to a variety of provisions included. The $100 million package to reorganize the state's court system includes setting all judges' salaries at $42,500; pay hikes for other court personnel; nomination by judges and final selection by the Supreme Judicial Court of the chief administrative justice who is responsible for the daily working of the entire court system; state assumption of all court costs by 1982; and limited transferability of judges and court personnel to other departments.

The recently Senate-passed package's major differences with the House version is that it allows the Supreme Judicial Court alone to select the chief administrator; makes all judges subject to transfer by the chief without their consent; and gives much lower pay hikes to nonjudicial court personnel. A House-Senate conference committee will work out a compromise version for House and Senate consideration.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted for the package.

CERTIFICATE OF NEED (H 6674) - House refused 183-28 to reconsider its earlier passage of a measure making several changes in the state's determination of need law for public and private health facilities. The law presently requires health care facilities spending more than $100,000 on equipment or construction to receive Public Health Council approval prior to doing the work. The bill would hike that amount to $150,000 and would exempt private doctors or groups of doctors and research facilities from having to comply with the law.

Saltmarsh opposed the reconsideration.

TAX DELINQUENTS (H 5789) - House approved 143-62, a bill directing the Commissioners of Corporations and Taxation to make public a listing of delinquent taxpayers who have owed Massachusetts back taxes for more than six months.

Saltmarsh favored the bill.

The Senate. As the 1977 session begins to draw to a close, the Senate held 7 roll calls last week, making the long session's total thus far 341.

Elderly Property Tax (H 6600) - Senate gave final approval 33-0 to a bill increasing property tax exemptions for persons over seventy years old. The measure allows an increase from $350 to $500 in the amount of an abatement a person over seventy can apply for, and also provides for state reimbursement of municipalities.

Capital Outlay Amendment (S 1990) - Senate defeated 23-1, an amendment to cut out of the capital outlay budget $12.5 million for the controversial Park Plaza development project. Sen. Rotondi was against the amendment.

Hospital Closings (S 1990) - Senate rejected 21-3 another capital outlay budget amendment prohibiting the closing of any mental health or public health hospital without the approval of the legislature. Sen. Rotondi voted against the amendment.

Prison Conversions (S 1990) - Senate approved 29-0 another capital outlay amendment prohibiting conversion of any mental health or public health hospital to a facility for use by the corrections department without legislative approval.

Three cars stolen, one attempt

There were three cars stolen and one attempted car theft in the past few weeks in town, along with the usual incidents of breaking and entering.

Five local youths were arrested by Lexington police on Dec. 5 for using without authority a car stolen from the Lynch Junior High School parking lot. Three of the youths were from Lexington, one was from Arlington, one was from Winchester

A 1975 Ford Mustang was stolen on the night of Dec. 3 from Pierrepont road. Five days later a 1973 Ford Mustang was stolen from Winchester and recovered in Somerville.

Thieves attempted to steal a car from a garage on Lakeview terrace sometime during the last two weeks. A garage window was broken and the car roofed slashed to gain entrance. The ignition was tampered with but the car could not be started

Besides cars, police reported such items as silverware, jewelry, and coins stolen from Winchester homes during the past week.

On Saturday evening, a man was only gone 20 minutes from his Blossom Hill road home, but when he returned he found that someone had broken in through the cellar window and ransacked the bedrooms. Nothing was missing.

At about the same time that night a Sailsbury street resident discovered his bathroom window had been smashed and one room ransacked. Some half dollars were taken from the bedroom dresser

Two instances of breaking and entering were discovered on Dec. 5, one on Lincoln street and one on Westley street. Burglars got into a Lincoln street house that afternoon through a front porch window. They took silverware and jewelry. Building No. 4 in the Westley street housing development was entered sometime between Saturday afternoon and Monday morning. A custodian found that a cardboard box had been burned on the kitchen floor. The building was unoccupied

Earlier, on Nov. 29, a watch, wedding ring, and coins were taken from a Walcott road home. The thief is believed to have been scared off by the returning owner because valuable items were left behind.

Also on that night, a Brook street cellar window was kicked in and a monkey wrench and screwdriver wwere found by the window. Nothing was missing but a six-pack of beer and an empty gin bottle were found inside.

Anderson's Jewelry store, Lynch Junior High School, and Wildwood Cemetery also reported breaking and enterings.

A metal milk case was thrown through the display window of Andersons, 529 Main st., on Dec. 7 at 1:14 a.m. Watches and rings were stolen from the window, but police believe the thief was scared off by the store's alarm system. An empty pillow case was found on the sidewalk outside

A window was broken but nothing taken from Lynch Junior High sometime on Sunday.

The following day an employee of Wildwood Cemetery discovered abroken office window. A telephone was the only item missing.

Saltmarsh predicts relief for property owners if MBTA bill passes in 1978

Rep. Sherman W. Saltmarsh Jr. predicted this week that local property owners would be granted some welcome relief from the crushing tax burden of the annually burgeoning MBTA deficit if the Legislature passes in 1978 a bill to effect changes in the financing, administrative structure and regulation of services of the MBTA.

The legislation, in large measure the work of Rep. Louis R. Nickinello, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Transportation, was filed last week. Saltmarsh, a committee member, co-sponsored the bill.

"Winchester's current MBTA assessment is $342,101--a figure that would drop to $40,457 with the adoption of the new legislation," Saltmarsh said. "Woburn's assessment of $552,205 would be reduced to $72,543.

"The savings on local tax rates would result from the state's assumption of the major costs of the transportation system," Saltmarsh explained. "The formula would shift some 40 million dollars from the property taxes of the 79 MBTA communities to the State's tax base."

The structure to achieve this change would come about through the establishment of a core area that would include Arlington, Belmont, Boston, Brookline, Cambridge, Chelsea, Everett, Lynn, Malden, Medford, Milton, Newton, Quincy, Revere, Somerville, Waltham, Watertown and Winthrop.

The other communities in the system would be assigned to seven subregions. Winchester would be in Subregion Three which would also include Woburn, Melrose, North Reading, Reading, Stoneham and Wakefield.

The board of directors would remain a five-member group with the chairman serving as general manager. It would retain its existing duties, but some of its powers would be subject to approval by the secretary of transportation. Certain budgetary decisions would require the approval of the advisory board budget committee.

The advisory board would continue to comprise the mayor, city manager or chairman of the board of selectmen, or a designee, representing each city and town. Officers would be elected by a simple majority vote. Each community would have one vote on the board, plus additional votes and fractions thereof determined by assessments made by the state treasurer.

The advisory board chairman would appoint a 15-member budget committee, eight of whom will come from core communities and seven from the subregions, one from each. The advisory board chairman would be one of the 15 members and would also serve as budget committee chairman.

The budget committee will be given some post audit responsibility that would include establishment of quarterly allotments for the MBTA which cannot be exceeded without budget committee approval.

The secretary of transportation would be required to approve all federal grant applications.

Saltmarsh said a particularly significant change would result in the area of regulation of common carriers. "The MBTA currently regulates its competitors by approving or disapproving any new service within the area. The new legislation would allow any carrier denied the right to operate to appeal the decision to the Department of Public Utilities," he explained.

"Also the DPU would be required to review annually all certificates of public convenience and necessity to see if routes are being served. If a certificated route has not received service for more than a year, the certificate would be automatically revoked. This procedure would help eliminate barriers to more desirable local services."

The State's financial obligations would include:

1. 100 percent of the net cost of express service, provided that the amount to be paid by the Commonwealth in any year shall not exceed the previous year's net cost of express services by an amount greater than the percentage increase in the cost of living index determined by the U.S. Department of Commerce. Any remaining portion of the net cost of express service would be assessed upon the 79 cities and towns of the MBTA in the proportion that each community's population bears to the total population in the Authority.

2. 100 percent of the net cost of service of commuter railroad passenger service provided, or controlled by the Authority.

3. 25 percent of the net cost of core service (local bus service). The remaining 75 percent would be assessed upon cities and towns receiving the core service in the proportion the loss attributable to routes in each city and town bears to the total core service loss.

4. 50 percent of the net cost of interregional service. The remaining portion would be assessed upon cities and towns on the basis of population and the location where actual losses occur.

Saltmarsh said the subregional advisory board structure would enable municipalities to exert greater local control over MBTA costs.

"Within 60 days after passage of the act the board would meet, elect a chairman and a secretary," he stated. "Within six months of the first meeting, the subregional advisory board would be required to submit a subregional plan for local service to the secretary of transportation for his approval.

"This must include the level and type of services recommended; the estimated cost of such service to each community within the subregion; recommendations of what portion of the service shall be publicly bid, what portion should be contracted with an existing private carrier without bid, and what portion should be contracted with the Authority," he continued.

"Once the plan is approved by the secretary, a town meeting or city council must convene in 120 days for the purpose of appropriating the estimated costs of the subregional plan for local service.

"No reduction in local service provided by the Authority at the time of the act can occur until the subregional plan has been approved by the secretary and the community has appropriated the estimated costs. Thereafter, local service operated by the Authority may be reduced or eliminated by the subregional advisory board.

"If a plan is not approved within one year of the effective date of the act, or if funds are not appropriated, then each city or town within the subregion may contract for local service with a private carrier or the Authority. The subregional board must approve and review all contracts and requests for payment involving private carriers or the Authority."

Rep. Saltmarsh has been Winchester's designee to the MBTA Advisory Board since 1964 when the Authority was first established.

"This bill would do much to eliminate outdated, inequitable assessment formulas that are laid on us by the MBTA. It would give us a hand in our own financial destiny by allowing us to introduce some efficient business practices at the subregional level," he concluded.

Society to do architectural barriers survey

An architectural barriers survey by the Massachusetts Easter Seal Society is underway locally to help physically handicapped Winchester area persons by employing them while improving accessibility to buildings and jobs.

This project is made possible in part by a grant contract from Medford subgrantee CETA, under Title VI of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, which provides funding for the wages of eligible unemployed persons engaged in public service.

Easter Seals will provide this same public service in the other 11 Medford CETA consortium cities and towns. The complete consortium membership is: Burlington, Everett, Malden, Medford, Melrose, North Reading, Reading, Stoneham, Wakefield, Wilmington, Woburn and Winchester.

Handicapped people, the primary target group to be employed, according to Joseph Sarno, consortium director, frequently are highly capable persons who have difficulty finding employment because of architectural barriers.

"We like the concept of putting handicapped people to work in this project because they're sensitive to the problems of architectural barriers," Sarno said.

The Easter Seal Society, with its established reputation in helping communities to eliminate both architectural and attitudinal barriers for physically handicapped and aging people, will train the local project staff on architectural barriers, federal and state architectural regulations, and survey procedures. An Easter Seal staff member will direct the survey in each community.

The survey will cover public and publicly-used buildings. These range from local government buildings such as a town hall to support facilities such as restaurants.

Richard A. LaPierre, Massachusetts Easter Seal Society executive director, emphasized that the survey is in no way a threatening undertaking. It will document accessibility and provide help to cities and towns to meet state and federal requirements for barrier-free design.

The project, LaPierre said, is another Easter Seal public service to help handicapped people move toward the mainstream of life through access to housing, education, jobs and recreation.

The Doves of Peace
The dove-like pieces on this delicate necklace are exact replicas of those found inside every sand dollar. Legend has it that the markings on the sand dollar tell the story of Christ's suffering and His glory. And when the shell is broken open, five tiny, bird-shaped pieces emerge. These represent the five Doves of Good Will and Peace of Mind. From J & C Ferrara.

Restitution program mending kids, cleaning up Horn Pond

By Karen Polowchena

Up until last July, the Horn Pond area in Woburn was a pit. Ask any of the neighbors whose homes face the pond. They will tell you about the litter, overgrown brush, and gangs of teenagers who partied nightly.

Today you can walk around Horn Pond without seeing a trace of a beer can. The teenagers have gone elsewhere to loiter and litter. And the neighbors now enjoy an uninterrupted view of a beautiful pond.

The credit for this transformation goes to nine delinquent youths working in a restitution program under the direction of the division of youth services and Woburn District Court.

This restitution program is federally funded by the Medford CETA office under Title VI of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act. Charles Boardman, regional director of youth services; John J. Calhoun, commissioner of the Massachusetts Division of Youth Services (DYS) Judge Francis P. Cullen and Joseph Conlon, community representatives of the department of youth services designed the program to benefit the victims, the community, and the youths.

Restitution programs are not new in the state, but they have traditionally been for adult offenders. Each boy works 40 hours and earns $136 a week. One-third of the pay goes towards restitution. Many of the boys are high school drop-oputs; but those who are in school work after school about 10 or 12 hours each week. There is also a SEEDY program in the summer in which all but a few dollars of the delinquent's pay goes toward restitution.

Although all of the boys are eager to pay back their debt to society, none of them seems in a hurry to be back in the ranks of the unemployed. According to Edward Been, the work foreman, the boys work together well and he has had no problem handling them. The boys, aged 16 and 17, have very little time off and must punch in at 7:30 each morning. Some hitchhike to work from North Reading and Stoneham. One of the youths is from Winchester.

Been, who has worked with teenagers out of the Elks, says he likes the boys and that they are very cooperative. "On my days off, they come down here and work alone," he said. Been is originally from Somerville and now resides in Woburn.

Charles Boardman thinks that it may be too early to eavluate the program, but as of now it may be the most successful project undertaken by the DYS. The boys, who volunteer for the program, are either on probation or are committed to DYS by the court. If they were not in the program, they would be at home on probation under the supervision of case workers or in institution for juvenile delinquents. To be eligible for this CETA program, the youth must be committed to DYS or his family must be on welfare. Many of the boys are from welfare families.

The DYS in Woburn received a grant of $95,342 for the restitution program from July 1977 to July 1978. The work projects are outlined by the public works department, which also supplies tools. Judge Cullen initiated the plan and has given it great support from the beginning. Conlan submitted the original proposal to gain the funding. Out of 58 applications, Medford CETA accepted 18. The applications then went to Boston, where three more were rejected.

Conlan is proud that his proposal was accepted out of the competitive rush for funding. "We're not going to stop here. We soon hope to see programs like this in Somerville, Cambridge, and Lowell." Conlan noted that programs such as this one have been very successful in other states.

Although three of the slots are vacant as of now, there are 12 positions available in Woburn's restitution program. Conlan felt that this number would be suitable for one work supervisor to handle. After restitution is made to the victim, the boy may choose to remain in his position and donate funds to boys' clubs, schools, and other worthy causes.

Now that the weather is too unpredictable to allow outside work, the boys will work indoors, painting the city's machinery. The city has offered to pay the boys over-time this winter (unrelated to CETA funding) and not one of them has refused the work.

Watching the boys hard at work tossing beer cans into a wheelbarrow and piling up tree limbs, Conlan said "This program gives the kids a chance to wipe the slate clean. This work involves the community, the victim, and the youngster. This may be the first time they have ever felt authority. Everyone feels better for it." He said if he had to give a one-word description of the boys in this program, it would be "failure." For many who have never had any responsibilities, it is significant that they show up for work on time and work very hard. Conlan blames today's permissive society for many of these boys' problems.

The boys were reluctant to discuss their work, but Been said that they were all proud of the job they had done. "They cleaned up over a mile and a quarter of garbage along here in 95 degree heat last summer. We killed about 20 rats while swarms of flying insects attacked us."

Been admits he does not pull any punches with the boys and has established a good relationship with them. Last summer he often took them fishing after work at Plum Island. Some of them had never been fishing before. The Horn Pond project is complete for the season, but Been will return with the boys in the spring for one last clean up.

The neighbors are told that the boys work for CETA, but they are not told that they are juvenile delinquents. One neighbor, who had nothing but praise for the boys' behavior, gave them coffee every morning and allowed them to keep their tools in her garage.

A local doctor said said that the pond looked like it did years ago when, "It was one of the beauty spots of Boston." The elderly man recalled when he used to pick blueberries out on an island in the pond, and when they used to cut ice out of it. He said, "These boys have literally uncovered the pond. They found a park that we didn't even know existed."

All of the youths want to continue working after they have paid back their victims. Donlan said that he hopes to find jobs for them in the public sector once restitution is made.

Some of the boys have plans to buy cars with the money they make working. Some have attempted to go back to school but still find it difficult to adjust.

Conlan said that three Winchester youths will be entering the program to pay back $3,800 each in restitution for vandalizing Wildwood Cemetery. Since all three are in school, they will participating the SPEDY program. The amount of restitution owed is a mutual agreement between officials, victims, and the offenders.

Prior to the restitution program, according to Conlan, juvenile offenders were given, "a slap of the hand" and victims were left holding the tab. The program not only pays back the victim but provides great psychological benefits besides. John Swanson of the DYS said, "It's not just getting kids jobs. It's mending them."

Three attacked on parkway

No arrests were made, but MDC police and town inspectors are investigating a case of assault which occurred Saturday on the Mystic Valley parkway. Three Winchester youths were standing alongside the parkway near Highland avenue when a green sedan pulled up and six juveniles got out, some carrying hockey sticks. One Winchester youth was struck in the head with a hockey stick and required six stitches at Winchester hospital. The victims were not able to determine the registration number of the sedan that night.

A 20-year-old Woburn man was arrested Nov. 30 by Winchester police for complicity in two breaking and entering incidents on Sept. 20 and 21.

Donald J. McPhee surrendered himself to police and admitted taking rifles, jewelry, and several small articles from a Harvard street home. The rifles were recovered.

Another arrest took place Dec. 2. A man was apprehended for failure to appear in Lowell Superior Court.

A Winchester resident observed swerving while driving on Washington street was stopped on the Mystic Valley parkway and arrested for operating under the influence of alcohol. The incident occurred on Dec. 6.

Fire department offers holiday tips

Gift-giving and decorating the house and the tree are some of the more joyful aspects of the holiday season. The Winchester fire department offers these holiday safety tips so that no one's joy is marred by tragedy:

Do be careful when buying your tree.
When purchasing your Christmas tree this year, buy a firm, fresh tree. Store it in a cool place with the base of the tree in water—until ready to be decorated.

If you are buying an artificial tree—be sure to look for the Underwriters Laboratories Label which tells you it is classified as flame resistant.

Do make a check of the decorations you use.
Remember to check the decorative lighting strings for frayed wires, broken cords, and loose socket. These conditions pose potential electrical hazards. Use only light strings that bear a UL Label.

When trimming the tree, avoid using candles or other decorations that may ignite easily. Keep the tree away from the fireplace, radiator, and the T.V. set—any source of heat may cause the tree to become dry, thus creating a fire hazard.

Don't overdo it.
Be sure not to overload the electrical circuits in your home. The wires that carry more current than they can handle may overheat and cause a fire. Read manufacturer's instructions on lighting strings carefully and do not use more than the recommended number of lights in one circuit.

Christmas decorations are beautiful. However, when you leave your home or retire for the night, turn off the light sets, colored spot lights, or other decorations.

Don't settle for the unknown—
When purchasing gifts for the people you care about take time out to check for the UL Label. Gifts of electric food blenders, hair dryers, hot combs, and the like are tested for safety by Underwriters Laboratories.

Student Union works well at the high school

What is the Student Union? It is the form of government the student body at Winchester High School has been using for three years. Although in the beginning its impact was slight, this well organized government is now working well.

The Student Union is composed of several standing committees. These committees represent a specific area of the Union's activities. Each class has a committee that serves for all their functions. There are also committees that serve specifically for dances, fund raising, and publicity.

Each committee is governed by the Student Union constitution. Any of their actions must be within the legal framework of the constitution. Before proceeding, they must bring their proposal before the Union at a monthly meeting. The proposal is then voted on as to whether the committee may go ahead with their plans.

All the meetings are conducted by President Craig Bradley. Each month the results of the meetings are posted on the Student Union bulletin board in the library. The library has also donated space for a centralized office. All of the Student Union materials are filed in this office.

So far this year, the Student Union has assisted the Recreation Department with two dances and has held one on their own. These dances have been a great success and many more are planned for the future. The class committees have already started with fund raising such as bake sales and car washes, to support their separate functions. With all this enthusiasm, the Student Union is in for a prosperous year.

Creative drama workshops set to begin in January

The recreation department is holding creative workshops beginning in January for senior citizens as well as for boys and girls from third grade through junior high. They will be conducted by Paulett Taggart, whose Winchester Drama Workshop is just now finishing an adult education program with a demonstration. She is also supervising a workshop series for students and teachers at Roxbury High School assisted by actors of Theater Workshop Boston.

As a non-competitive, physical activity that improves coordination, the drama workshop adds a nice balance to the town's many organized sports. At the same time it supplements the cognitive learning of the school classroom.

Registration will be open to all, regardless of experience, including newcomers, theater veterans, and those with no stage ambitions will enjoy exploring individual creativity.

Further information may be obtained from Director Donald L. Spinney, Jerry Ferro or Mary Klug of the recreation department, or from Paulett Taggart, 17 Ridgefield rd.

Positive and negative space are explored in the Winchester Drama Workshop co-sponsored by the town recreation department. Among those in the acting ensemble are (rear) Betsy Thomas, Kathleen Looney, Anita Anderson, and Tania Islam; and (front) Brian Milauskas, Beth Davidson, and Peter Allison. A new series of workshops will be open to Winchester residents in January.

North Suburban Y offers holiday camp

The North Suburban YMCA has plans now underway to provide a well organized camp experience for boys and girls 5-9 years of age. # Winter track starts Saturday against Melrose

By George Parker

The Winchester High School winter track team, after three weeks of intensive practice, will start their season off this Saturday gainst Melrose.

The team's prospects are quite bright, for many of last year's stars are again competing. These include Charlie Larkin in the 600, Brian O'Connor in the shotput, Scott Farrar in the dashes, Ed Kirkpatrick in the 1000, Tim Morgan and Scott Kajander in the hurdles, and Andy Wilsack in the mile. Among the many athletes that came out for track, the following are also sure to be competitive: Reilly Atkinson in the high jump, Jackie Driscoll, Phil Monson, and Tom Wilsack in the 300, Feza Koprucu and Pat Murphy in the 600, George Parker in the two-mile, and Paul Mafera in the high jump.

Wth such an array of talent, the team has good reason to believe that they can be in the thick of things in the Middlesex League this winter.

Davis, Allard, DiBlasi named Globe players

Three Winchester High School football players have been named to the Boston Globe's Middlesex League All-Stars, culminating a season which saw the Sachems win seven games while losing three.

Running back Anthony Davis, quarterback Don Allard, and tackle Gerald DiBlasi, all seniors, were cited for their contributions to the team and the sport.

UNEMPLOYED PERSONS!!

The Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) has opportunities for unemployed persons. If you have been unemployed for 30 days or 15 weeks please go to Winchester Town Hall, December 20 between the hours of 9:30-1:30.

Personnel from the Medford CETA office will be on hand to explain the CETA program and to take applications.

Applicants should bring the following income information (to avoid delays) pertaining to all members of the household in which they reside; this is a requirement which cannot be waived. Also, where applicable, one or more of the following must be presented:

1. Veterans—A copy of your DD Form 214
2. Handicapped person-notarization
3. Law Offender—Letter from parole or probation officer
4. Divorced Persons—Copy of decree, alimony payment child support
5. Notarized Statement when previously self-employed or employed out-of-state.
6. Separated Persons—Copy of decree, separate maintenance payment
7. Persons unemployed 15 weeks
8. Persons whose family is receiving AFDC including unemployed fathers under Title VI of the Social Security Act.
9. Positive identification required, such as drivers license, utility bill, or other ID with your name and address.

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER.

Dexter scores game-winner

Ann Dexter of Winchester fired the game-winning shot to lead the Carleton College field hockey team to a third place finish in the Minnesota State Tournament this fall.

The Carleton team ended the season with a 9-9 record.

Dexter, a Carleton sophomore, started as striker in the left-inner position all season, and led the Carls in scoring with 12 goals. Dexter also plays softball at Carleton, and will join the team as a right fielder in the spring.

Ann, a 1976 graduate of Winchester High School, is the daughert of Richard and Dorothy Dexter, 10 Warren st.

24-hour dog law

Winchester dog owners are now subject to a 24-hour dog leash law. Fines for first offenses are $10; second offense, $15; third offense, $20.

Girls' b-ball to open season on December 27

By George Parker

The Winchester High School girls basketball team will start off their season this year on Dec. 27 — all are encouraged to come and support the team.

This years' varsity has high hopes, as it is composed, for the most part, of returning letterpeople. Coached by Barbara Hollis, the team conists of Terry-Burns, Diane Cullen, Kathy Day, Christine Driscoll, Kathy Driscoll, Marcia Desanctis, Kelly Gately, Carol Holohan, Barbara Jacobs, Linda Pierce, Holly Stevenson, and Laurie Redmond.

This fine varsity is backed up by an equally talented JV squad. This team is coached by Mrs. Crowley, and the following are on the roster: Debbie Bosco, Sara Fotsch, Darcy Fitzgerald, Mary Grassi, Kathy Heffernan, Lisa Lavey, Lori McGovern, Barbara Myers, Beth Noble, Gail Oram, and Mary Russo.

Excise tax must be paid

In compliance with Chapter 60A Section 2A of the Massachusetts General Laws, all residents of the Town of Winchester who owe motor excise tax and have not paid will be subject to a hearing for the loss of their license. Any person questioning whether they owe any bills should contact the collector of taxes, Carol A. Thomas, at Town Hall.

Mites play their best game to tie leader Medford at 4

The Winchester Mites tied the leaders of the National Division, rival Medford, in a game played Saturday morning at the Burlington Ice Palace. The final score was 4-4, but Winchester puck chasers played their finest game of the season. They kept the play in Medford's end, but seemed not fortunate enough to get a lucky bounce to pull out a win.

At the end of the first period, the lone goal scored by Medford's fine center Dave Sacco gave them the lead. Greg Winn picked up a loose puck at center ice and brought Winchester back into the game with only 3:27 played in the second period. Medford came back with two additional goals in the period to take a 3-1 lead.

Petey Regan put on one of his finest displays of stick handling and shooting, scoring his hat trick goals in the third period. Regan's final tying goal came with 1:04 left to play in the game.

It was a fine showing of team effort by the Winchester Mites. Coaches Winn and Regan had new lines working for this game. First line had Greg Winn centering Marc Todisco and Billy Coppins. Second line had David Butt at center with Derek Sullivan and Sukjong Chung on the wings. Third line had Timmy Day centering Marc Falzano and Matt Quill.

Playing on defense were Petey Regan, Ted Dever, Scott Paine, and Ronnie Settipane. Excellent goaltending by Kevin Boyle gave him second star of the game. First star went to Greg Winn.

Two enlist in US Air Force

Christopher Chandler and Michael Donnellan have enlisted in the United States Air Force.

Chandler, the son of Mrs. Virginia Chandler of 132 Forest st., selected training in the general area. The 1977 Winchester High School graduate will be leaving for Lackland Air Force Base near San Antonio on December 28.

Donnellan, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Donnellan of 110 Church st., will receive training as an aircrew egress systems mechanic after basic training. A 1976 WHS graduate, Donnellan will leave for Lackland Air Force Base on February 10.

Early Birds

The Doves in the Winchester Early Birds bowling league have taken over the first place position. Team members are Mary Jane Brooks, Jo Vacca and Mary Sullivan.

The Starlings are now in second place. Team members are Elaine Binding, Marilyn Kelly and Ann D'Avoli.

The Pheasants are still maintaining their third place position. Team members are Heather Bask, Diana Couture and Rose Pasquariello.

High individual single game was earned by Maria Nicolai with 189. High individual three games was earned by Rose Bezjian with 486. High team single game was earned by the Larks with 453. Team members are Rose Bezjian, Delia DeMarzo and Maria Nicolai. High team total was earned by the Ravens with 1209. Team members are Bea Tonello, Ann Matrandola and Viola Duros.

Congratulations to Tina DePaulis, a new bowler who bowled two high scoring strings of 130 and 132.

New bowlers are most welcome and should contact Diana Couture, 21 Old Colony rd., Arlington.

Couples a go-go

It was a good evening for the Couples bowlers! The Rolls team is still tied for first place with the Peerless team with 12 points each. Both teams better watch the Volvo team who are only one point behind!

Special credit goes to Guy Pollino who is the captain of the Volvo team. He was the only member of that team to show up for bowling. He managed to win 3 games for his team! Guy also had high mens' single, 190 and high series, 548!

Al Hart bowled a 170 game. Womens' high games were Angela Pollino, 168 and Vi Vangell, 150.

Bowlers of the evening go to Angela Pollino bowling 59 pins over her average and Gayle Pothier, 54 pins over her average.

Improvement in averages after seven evenings of bowling: Mimi Walters, and Gayle Pothier, 4 pins each. Nancy Watts, Kathy Pawlak and Guy Pollino, 2 pins each. Bob Pawlak, Elliott Walters, Bill Kennedy, Walter Armstrong, Vi Vangell and Al Hart, one pin each.

Bill and Jill Kennedy were hosts after bowling.

Foley president of student association

Lorraine Foley, a 1974 graduate of Winchester High School, has been elected president of the student government association of Massachusetts College of Art, Boston, for the academic year 1977-78. Ms. Foley is currently a senior art history major.

As well as this position, Ms. Foley is the representative for Mass. Art in the student advisory commission of the Massachusetts State College System, and a member of the Mass. Art Charlestown Campus Planning Committee.

For the past year and a half she has been assistant teaching at Winchester High School, and has recently been appointed director of the winter-spring arts and crafts program sponsored by the Winchester Recreation Department.

Clifford S. Sundberg, former sports editor of the defunct Boston Herald Traveler, has been appointed publicity director for the New England Harness Raceway by co-owner Edward R. Andelman. Sundberg, a long time resident of Winchester, makes his home at 67 Pond st. with his wife, Dorothy, who is a well known free lance writer and lecturer in gardening.

Chamber orchestra to play on Saturday

The Mystic Valley Chamber Orchestra is presenting an all-Mozart program for the second of this season's concert series. Performances are Dec. 17 at 8:15 at the Arlington Town Hall and Dec. 18 at 3 at the First and Second Church, 66 Marlborough st., Boston.

The Mystic Valley Chamber Orchestra was founded in 1976. It performs each of its programs at the First and Second Church and schedules an additional performance in a community north of Boston.

Tickets are available at the door or by calling 868-7318.

Winchester dog owners are now subject to a 24-hour dog leash law. Fines for first offense are $10; second offense, $15; third offense, $20.

SMOKE ALARMS

Every one's talking about something that's sweeping the country and being featured in newspapers, magazines, and on radio and television. To look at one, a person might wonder what the excitement is all about, because it's rather small and unobtrusive. But fire protection and public safety officials are hoping every dwelling will have one or more installed.

It's called a smoke alarm, and it offers a measure of protection out of all proportion to its low cost, efficiency, and ease of installation. Considered the best form of fire warning for a family, a smoke alarm "discovers" a fire in its earliest stages. Smoke will be evident from a fire much sooner than heat, and will trigger the alarm waking sleeping occupants.

Two types of alarms are available. One is called the ionization detector and the other the photoelectric detector. Information on which to use and where to install them can be obtained from fire protection groups, fire departments, and consumer organizations. So join the rest of the country in a massive effort to reduce injuries and fatalities from fires. Install smoke detectors in YOUR home!

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at ANN BLACKHAM & CO., 11 Thompson St., Winchester. Phone 729-1663. We're here to help!

Dave Berman, left, physical education instructor at WHS, demonstrates the correct way to perform cardiopulmonary resuscitaton for his students. Four local organizations, including Winchester Hospital, the Jaycees and Jaycee-ettes, and the Red Cross, are helping the school department sponsor the course.

CPR course at high school sponsored by local groups

The Winchester School Department is conducting a course in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) for sophomore students at Winchester High School, with four local organizations — Winchester Hospital, Winchester Jaycees and Jaycee-ettes, and the Winchester Chapter of the American Red Cross — helping to sponsor the course.

Required for all sophomores, the course teaches skills for reviving the victim of a cardiac arrest and for giving emergency assistance to someone whose breathing has stopped. In order to be certified in basic life support, each student must demonstrate the correct resuscitation techniques on a life-sized mannequin, and pass a written exam covering material learned in lectures, films, and home-reading assignments.

The first group of students will complete the course this week. Other sophomores will have the opportunity to take the four-week course when it is repeated throughout the year. Juniors and seniors may elect to take the course, taught by WHS's physical education instructors, who have been given special training in CPR.

Jan Dolan, director of physical education for Winchester Public Schools, said the course will be offered to each year's sophomore class. "We feel this is a valuable program," she commented, "and the response from students and teachers has been tremendous."

Austin Prep names eight to honor roll

The following Winchester students were named to the first semester honor roll at Austin Preparatory School in Reading:

First honors: Freshman Mutahar Shamsi.

Second honors: Senior John Vanderbilt; juniors David Brown and Sean McCarthy; sophomores Kenneth Goodrow, Gregory Hanes, and Seth MacDonald; freshman Timothy Isaac.

MacArthur receives Air Force award

U S Air Force Master Sergeant Ronald P MacArthur, brohter of Neil B MacArthur of 60 Canal st., has been given a $860 cash award at March AFB, Calif., for his military improvement suggestion.

Sergeant MacArthur recommended a suggestion to save money and improve methods of teaching an Air Force course concerning corrosion prevention and control. The suggestion is part of the continuous Air Force resources conservation program.

Sergeant MacArthur, a 1958 graduate of Winchester High School, is presently attending Riverside (Calif.) community College. He serves as a structural superintendent at March with a unit of the Strategic Air Command. His wife, Hazel, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs Joe Scates of New Mexico.

Children's service donates gifts for foster children

Mrs. Susan DiMarzo of Winchester, an adoptive parent and member of the Corporate of Boston Children's Service Association, enertained neighbors and friends at a Christmas Coffee last week to benefit children in the care of that agency.

Mrs. DiMarzo's guests contributed gifts which will be distributed to foster children as part of Operation Santa Claus, the Agency's effort to provide 500 children and teenagers with clothing and toys at Christmas.

Mrs. Richard Kazanjian, also of Winchester and an adoptive parent, and a member of the Board of Directors of Boston Children's Service Association, spoke to the guests about foter care and other services offered by New England's oldest child welfare agency.

Established in 1800, today BCSA offers residents of Greater Boston a variety of services including foster care placements, adoption, emergency care of families in crisis situations 24 hours a day, and counseling of children referred by Juvenile Court, emotionally distrubed children, and single mothers.

Mrs. Kazanjian has been instrumental in organizing community based "Friends" groups to support the work of Boston Children's Service Association.

Donohoe honored for health work

The Corporation for Ohio Appalachia Development Senior Nutrition Program recently honored seven student health team members who participated in the summer screening program for Vinton County senior citizens.

Among those honored was Winchester resident Paul Donohoe, emergency medical technician.

St. Mary's staff ready for Monday bloodmobile visit

For the visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile to Winchester next Monday Pat Heuchling and Helen Quinn of St. Mary's Parish have recruited a long list of volunteers to staff the opration.

Mrs. Heuchling is also scheduling volunteer donors who may call her at 729-4962. Or one may call the Red Cross Chapter House, 729-2300, for an appointment.

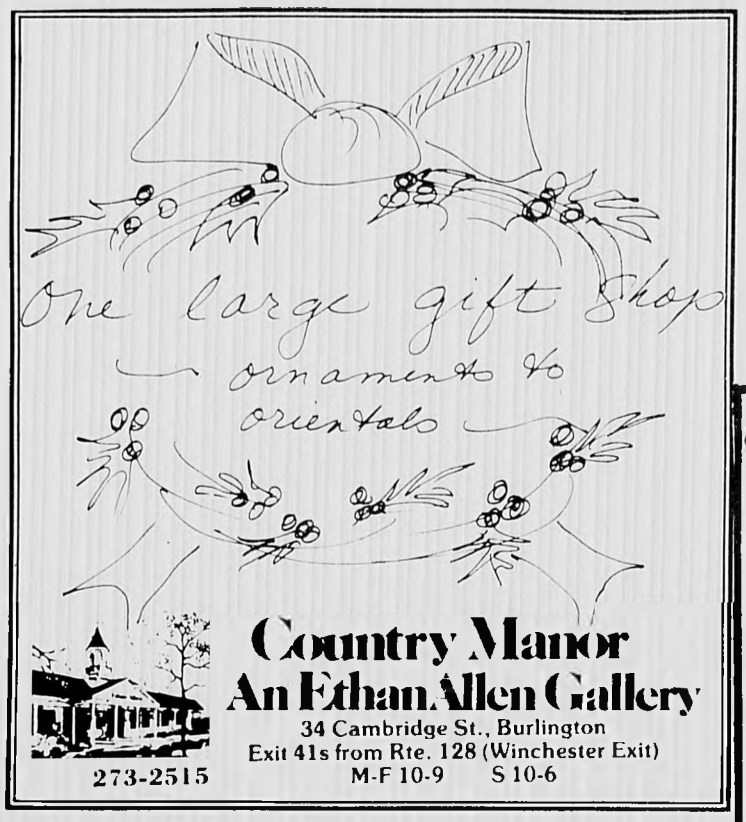

The hours that the Bloodmobile will be in operation at St. Mary's next Monday are from 2 to 7:30 p.m.

The call will soon go out from the Red Cross Blood Centers in Boston and Peabody that the holiday season is making its usual drain on the Massachusetts blood supply. "Give the gift of life" becomes a realistic slogan for the Christmas season.

The Bloodmobile next Monday is not limited to parishioners of St. Mary's Church. In fact other donors regularly give at St. Mary's because of its convenience.

The volunteers who will staff the bloodmobile appearance at St. Mary's are: co-chairmen: Pat Heuchling and Helen Quinn; supper chairmen: Gerturde Rooney and Virginia O'Grady; Medical history nurses: Jean Ellis, Kathy Kirkpatrick, Helen Quinn, Pat Skehan, Kay Sullivan, and Dot Ulwick; temperatures: Nancy Burgatti and Lou Maroney; typing: Lillian Costello, Mary Dileso, Mary Ferrari, Jean Fitzgerald, Margaret Kennedy, Ruth Stevens, Eleanor Yore;

Donor room: Louise Appleton, Angela Dyson, Grace Mahoney, Loretta Pharo, Helen Porrell, Madeline Sullivan; canteen: Alice Ambrose, Mary Brennan, Mary Celli, Pat Coppins, Jean Donahue, Eleanor Duffy, Gertrude McPeake, Kay O'Rourke; registration: Betsy Brickley, Margaret Torres; aide: Ted Heuchling; babysitting: Scout Troop 484, Mrs. Fiorello, scout leader.

Travel Along with Mavis

Tropical islands have a built-in mystique. Dream of days on a shimmering beach edged with palm trees, the perfect spot on earth for the perfect vacation. Travelers flying the airways of Southeast Asia are the luckiest—their "dream island" is only air minutes from Singapore en route to Bangkok. Like several other exotic island, it was once called the Pearl of the Orient, but on modern maps, the name is Penang.
You will want to take a camera along on a vacation planned through MCGRATH TRAVEL SERVICE, 14 Eaton Avenue, Woburn. Explore the other side of the world. It's the perfect place to vacation. Lavish landscapes that rival paradise and plenty of time for swimming, skin-diving or just plain lounging under the warm sun. It is an idyllic setting. Call 935-0600. Open Monday-Friday 9-5, Saturdays and evenings by appointment.
TRAVEL TIP:
Pictures are an important part of traveling; your camera should be well understood before you leave home.

Caretisa Castagno

Caretisa Castagno, 89, wife of the late Emidio Castagno, died at Winchester Hospital on Dec. 11.

She was born in Carreto Sannito, Benevento, Italy, and came to this country in 1909. She made her home in Northampton for many years, where she was active in many organizations, including the Daughters of Isabella, the Holy Family League, the Italian Ansonia Club, and the French Society.

In recognition for her work in World War II, President Farnklin Delano Roosevelt presented Mrs. Castagno with an award. She worked for the William Filene Company.

In Winchester, Mrs. Castagno was active in the Sons of Italy Women's Lodge and the Columbus Club.

Mrs. Castagno leaves a son, Jim Castagno of Winchester, a daughter, Frances O'Neill of Arlington, and grandsons Mark O'Neill of Arlington and James Castagno of Winchester.

Funeral services were held yesterday at St. Mary's Church with Rev. Mark S. Sheehan officiating. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery in Northampton. Lane Funeral Home was in charge of the arrangements.

Syndey Elliott

Sydney Elliott, a lifelong resident of Winchester, died last Tuesday at Winchester Hospital. A resident of Pond street, Mr. Elliott was 77 years old.

Born on February 23, 1900 and one of nine children, he was educated in Winchester schools. For many years he was associated with his brother, Alfred Elliott, noted builder and former town assessor, and later was a private contractor.

Mr. Elliott was an active participant in town affairs and was a former town meeting member. A member of the Winchester Rotary since 1949, Mr. Elliott was an active supporter of Rotary projects and will be remembered for his work with the annual Rotary auction. He was honored by the Rotary Club with a lifetime honorary membership for his efforts and was named by the club to the international Paul R. Harris Fellowship award for dedication and outstanding community service.

Mr. Elliott was the husband of the late Florence M. Elliott. He is survived by his sons, Robert L. and Richard W. of Winchester; his daughters, Dorothy J. Peterson of El Paso, Texas, and Marcia E. Fuller of Boxford; sisters Sophie Coulter of Clearwater, Florida, Helen Walters of Winchester, and Dorothy Warden of Oxford; and by eight grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Friday at the Parish of the Epiphany, with interment following at Wildwood Cemtery. Norris Funeral Home handled the arrangements.

Mary E. Gilberti

Mary E. (Amicangioli) Gilberti died at Winchester Hospital on December 7. A resident of Winchester for 30 years, Mrs. Gilberti was 57 years old. She made her home at 526 Washington st.

Mrs. Gilberti was born in Malden and attended schools there. She was a member of St. Mary's Sodality in Winchester.

She leaves her husband, Antonio P. Gilberti, daughters Mrs. Barbara Murray and Joyce A. Gilberti, both of Winchester; a son, Anthony Gilberti Jr. of Winchester; her father, Dominic Amicangioli of Melrose; a brother, Roy Amicangioli of California; four sisters, Mrs. Anne Walsh of Medford, Mrs. Margaret Labedz of Winchester, Mrs. Jerry Davis and Estelle Amicangioli, both of Melrose; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning at St. Mary's Church and burial followed at Calvary Cemterey in Woburn. In lieu of flowers contributions in her memory may be made to the American Heart Association, Boston Chapter, 112 Cypress st., Brookline. Lane Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Frances M. Harding

Funeral services were held in Revere on December 9 for Frances M. (Griffin) Harding of St. Petersburg, Florida. Mrs. Harding was a resident of Forest street for more than ten years before moving to her winter home in St. Petersburg.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Griffin of Revere, Mrs. Harding was born in that city and attended schools there. Upon completion of her education she went to work for the Metropolitan Coal Company in Central Square, Cambridge. At the outbreak of World War II she went to work for General Electric in the payroll department at the Lynn River Works. When the Everett plant was opened, she became head cashier there.

Following her retirement, Mrs. Harding moved to Winchester. Her summer home was in Newburyport.

She is survived by her husband, John E. Harding; two nephews, Adm. William C. Turville and Robert D. Hamilton; and three nieces, Mrs. Joseph Dubiel, Mrs. Jacqueline Bergin, all of Florida, and Mrs. Henry R. Delaney Jr. of Winchester.

Interment was in Glenwood Cemetery, Everett.

Ivan J. Larisey

Ivan J. Larisey, 62, died December 11 at his home at 2 Park ave. Mr. Larisey had lived in Winchester for eight years.

Born in St. John's, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, he was a coordinator for Raytheon in Wayland for 24 years.

Rev. Roger C. Cormier officiated at funeral services at St. Mary's Church, where Mr. Larisey was a member.

Funeral services are scheduled for this morning at 10 at St. Mary's Church.

Mr. Larisey is survived by his wife, Elizabeth B. Clear; four daughters, Joyce E. Starkgraf of Litchfield, Elaine B. Porter of Arlington, Carol F. McDermottroe of Woburn, Dona M. Baione of Reading, and Joan P. Brian of Winchester; sisters Kathaleen Tefft of Jamaica Plain and June Goguen of Westford; and six grandchildren. Lane Funeral Home handled the arrangements.

Hiram F. Moody Sr.

Hiram F. Moody Sr. died on Monday at the age of 80 in Norwalk, Conn., where he had made his home for the past 14 years.

Before his retirement in 1963 Mr. Moody was president of Moody Motor Sales Inc. of Winchester for 15 years. He had also held a variety of sales positions with the Pontiac Motor Division of General Motors, including that of zone manager for the Pontiac Division of New England.

Born in Stoney Creek, Conn., Mr. Moody was a 1923 graduate of Colby College in Waterville, Maine. He was a member for more than 50 years of the Masonic Lodge of Warren, Maine.

Mr. Moody leaves his wife, Helena (Hinckley) Moody, a son, Hiram F. Jr. of New York City; a brother, Harold of Waldoboro, Maine, three grandchildren, and two nephews.

A memorial service will be held Monday at 1 p.m. in the Raymond Funeral Home, 5 East Wall st., Norwalk, Conn., with the Rev. John W. Moody, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church on the Hill (Ossining, N.Y.) officiating. Interment will be at Riverside Cemetery in Norwalk. Contributions to Colby College, Waterville, Maine, would be appreciated by the family.

Raymond Stillman

Raymond B. Stillman of 150 Ridge st. died Dec. 18 at his home. Mr. Stillman, who was two weeks from his 67th birthday, had been a resident of Winchester for 25 years.

Born in Olean, New York, he attended Pennsylvania State University where he pursued an interest in mechanical engineering. He retired from Sylvania Electric after 37 years of service.

Mr. Stillman was a member of the Quarter Century Club of General Electric and Sylvania, past Master of Emporium Lodge No. 382 F & AM., past High Priest of the Royal Arch Chapter No. 227, member of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite, and of the Coudersport Consistory in Coudersport, Pa.

Mr. Stillman leaves his wife, Loretta Lloyd Stillman, sons Lloyd R. of State College, Pa., and Mark J. of the University of Indiana, Indiana, Pa., and two grandsons, Michael and David.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at Crawford Memorial Methodist Church, where Mr. Stillman had been a former superintendent of the Sunday school. Dr Leon Hatch officiated at the services. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery. Norris Funeral Home handled the arrangements.

Hearing Jan. 12

Ullian sends application for apartments to appeals board

The Winchester House Company, the firm that is proposing to build 111 units of low and moderate income housing for the elderly off Waterfield road, has submitted an application to the board of appeals. A hearing date of Jan. 12 has been set by the board to review the application.

The board of selectmen received a copy of the application for consideration at their Monday meeting, and they are expected to provide input for the appeals board in January.

The Winchester House Company is the firm set up by developer Arthur D. Ullian, who first proposed the project earlier this year. His proposed apartment complex would include 100 single and 11 two-bedroom units in one building 69 feet high. The structure would be located off Waterfield road by the old railroad station.

Ullian has applied to the US Department of Housing and Urban Development for leasing subsidies to finance the project. The estimated cost is about $2.9 million.

Though he does not yet hold title to the property (1.97 acres), Ullian has entered into a purchase and sale agreement with the present owners, Richard Realty Trust and Waterfield Associates.

Should the appeals board deny the application altogether, Ullian could go to the state department of community affairs to appeal his case, and the state could override the local decision. The key to the state's authority in this case is Chapter 40B of the Massachusetts General Laws, the "anti-snob zoning" law. Under the guidelines of this law, Winchester falls short of the required low and moderate income housing; in such cases, the state may override the authority of local boards and zoning regulations.

In light of the appeals board's lack of power to block the project, Town Counsel Douglas Randall suggested to the selectmen Monday night that they take a positive approach and "deal with the application in a realistic manner."

Randall noted that if the appeals board rejects the plan outright, then Ullian may go to the state and have the project approved anyway.

However, said Randall, if the project is conditionally approved by the board of appeals, then Ullian must either comply with the conditions or prove to the state that the conditions would make the project uneconomic.

The proposed housing, located in both Central Business District and Residence District B zones, varied from the existing requirements for the residential (RB-20) zone in three areas:

—The permit calls for a side yard of eight feet, while the RB-20 regulations specify 15 feet.

—The height of the building would be about 70 feet; RB-20 calls for a 45 foot maximum height.

—Proposed off-street parking would total 31 cars, which, the application points out, exceeds HUD guidelines and "is more than sufficient to meet its needs" according to the experience of similar developments in the Boston area. However, RB-20 regulations call for space for 83 cars.

In addition, neither RB-20 nor the CBD zoning permit multi-family housing, so the application would override that restriction as well.

In his application, Ullian argues that there is a substantial need for such housing in Winchester. The application states:

"The housing authority reports a waiting list of 150 persons who are qualified for the authority's facilities. In addition, there are another 240 persons who cannot qualify due to the income limits. Net income must be less than $6000 per year and personal assets cannot exceed $10,000. Many elderly Winchester citizens own their own home, but have incomes which are not sufficient to meet their needs. Under the Section 8 program proposed for Winchester House, there are no asset limits and the income limits are higher. Consequently, many of the 240 persons on the waiting list would be eligible for housing assistance," concludes that part of the application.

The public hearing on the application, required by law within 30 days of receipt, will be held in the meeting room of the public library Jan. 12. The board of appeals has sent copies of the application to the principle boards in town and is seeking their recommendations regarding the housing project.

Jaycees name contest winners

From the Winchester Jaycees come notice of their annual Christmas lighting contest with Charles McLaughlin announced the winner

Chairman John Hackett sent the following note: neither rain or snow, sleet or hail could keep the judges of the eighth annual Jaycee Christmas lighting contest from completing their task.

All 88 miles of streets were covered and the beauty of the new snow added to the spirit of the season.

This year's winner was Charles McLaughlin of 3 Edgewater pl. His home had a multitude of lights and the snow made it like a winter wonderland. Second place went to Paul Duffy, 19 Dennett st., and third place went to Gibson Busfield, 21 Hollywood rd. A special mention should also be made for 4 Black Horse terr.

Chairman Hackett expressed thanks to the homeowners who had taken time to have lights on Sunday and Monday when the judging was taking place.

The Jaycees also remind the town that they will be picking up Christmas trees for the 17th year on Saturday, January 7.

Caroling on the Common set for Friday at 7 p.m.

For more than 50 years the Fortnightly Club has sponsored an all-town caroling for Christmas Eve on the Common.

Once again this year, high school musicians, children with bells, and townspeople with voices raised in honor of the season, will be joining their neighbors around the town tree.

The time is 7 p.m. The Fortnightly asks that you bring a flashlight if you can to assist in the reading of the music.

Town urged to start pension fund to cover rising retirement costs

Faced with a liability of $10 million in retirement benefits, Winchester may be starting up its own pension fund this year.

Calling the situation "a very bleak picture," Selectmen Chairman Barbara Hankins suggested at Monday night's meeting that the town start this year by matching employee contributions for retirement and set aside at least $200,000 for such a fund.

The issue of retirement funds was raised rather suddenly last week when resident Carmen Elio, chairman of the state retirement law commission, met with local officials and the finance committee to argue for establishment of such a fund.

Since the current benefits program was set up in 1946, the town has been paying benefits through employee deducations, interest on investments, and an annual appropriation from town meeting.

Citing the dramatic increase in retirement pay and benefits over the past several years, and noting that Winchester already has an outstanding liability of $10 million in pensions, Elio told the gathering, "There is a financial strain coming." He warned the FinCom that as employee contributions make up less and less of the total of benefits due, the burden would fall increasingly on the community, adding that this would have an impact on Winchester's ability to borrow money.

Until this year, Winchester could not have set up such a pension fund. However, under a new law, Winchester may set aside up to $744,000 (five per cent of the tax levy) this year, and continue to build a fund annually up to a ceiling of $33.4 million (10 percent of total valuation).

Elio explained that if Winchester followed a plan suggested by his board, the town would start by putting aside $22,284 this year. Employees would also be contributing to the fund. The town's share would grow larger for the first several years, to a high of $508,000 in five years.

The commission chairman said the fund would be self sustaining in 30 years, and the accrued liability would be eliminated.

The need for the fund was explained a number of ways. Payments to town employees have risen by 26 percent in the last five years, according to Elio. In addition, the length of retirement has increased slightly in the past 30 years; the number of employees collecting retirement pay has increased; and the type and cost of benefits have increased since the original program was set up in 1946.

A majority of the selectmen said Monday night they were in favor of setting up the separate fund this year. Of her own suggestion, Mrs. Hankins commentd, "$200,000 is peanuts, but it's a start, and it may lessen the impact a few years down the road."

Selectmen Richard Wilsack and Edward O'Connell said they concurred with the need to start right away. However, board member Arthur Dunbar noted the complexity of the subject and said, "This needs a great deal of analysis. I don't see how we can get it done for this year."

Another potential problem is that if the town does not establish the fund on its own, either the state or the federal government may mandate it.

"I believe we're better off than many towns are," commented temporary Comptroller Alphonse Faggiano to the selectmen. He likened the fund to "setting up our own insurance company" and noted the law allows for more liberal investment opportunities under the separate pension fund.

For retirement payments this year, the town has a $550,000 appropriation, $260,000 in payroll deductions, $220,000 in collected interest, and $60,000 in maturities, reported Faggiano. On the other side of the equation, between $600,000-$700,000 is going out for benefits, $30,000 for expenses, and $25,000 for refunds for employees leaving Winchester for another system, leaving about $350,000 left over to reinvest.

The impact of Mrs. Hankins' proposal would add between $1-$1.25 to the tax rate next year. The board plans to discuss the question further between themselves and with the finance committee, and an article will probably be coming up before the spring town meeting.

Bloodmobile at Red Cross House Monday from 11-3

Monday, the day after Christmas, Winchester will have the distinction of being the only city or town in the Northeast Red Cross District, with the exception of Boston, to entertain a Red Cross Bloodmobile that day.

"Since Monday is also a holiday, we hope that many Winchester blood donors will take advantage of the long holiday weekend at home to register timely support for one of Red Cross's most humanitarian programs," Said Walter Armstrong, chairman of the Winchester Red Cross Chapter blood program.

The chairman explained further that a special invitation is being extneded to donors representing the Winchester Unitarian Church, the First Congregational Church, and the Church of the Epiphany.

Donations for this day are accepted by appointment only. The hours are 11 a.m.-3 p.m. at the Red Cross Chapter House, 39 Church st. For an appointment, call before the weekend, 729-2300.

The children of the Lincoln School presented their holiday program for parents and friends Thursday night in the auditorium. Cymbals, maracas, drums, and xylophones joined with the children's voices to wish holiday greetings from the Lincoln School students Thursday night. (Staff photo)

Footprints discovered

Nine break-ins reported

Police are investigating a series of house breaks which occurred over the past week, and they believe at least some of them may be connected.

On Friday, three break-ins occurred in an area around Cambridge street, apparently in sequence. On Everett avenue, a resident came home about 12:40 p.m. after being out for just over an hour to find the cellar door open and the house ransacked. Three cameras were reported stolen.

A break-in was discovered much later on Taft drive. The residents had been away all day and returned home around 8:30 p.m. to find the cellar door open and the house ransacked. Nothing was reported missing. Police believe the break occurred earlier in the day. They report finding footprints in the snow leading from the Everett avenue home down to Cambridge street; the prints then disappear.

At the third break-in site, at a home on Aristotle drive, police found footprints identical to the ones found on Everett avenue. In this case, the residents had been out less than two hours, returning home around 2:45 p.m. Watches, jewelry, and coins were stolen, and the house was ransacked. Entrance was apparently gained through the garage.

In all, six other breaks were reported this week. An estimated $3000 worth of jewelry, was taken from a home on Forest street between 11 a.m.-3 p.m. Dec. 13.

On Dec. 14, jewelry and silverware were stolen from a home on Garfield avenue; stopwatches, spoons and silver articles, along with 30 Hummel figurines, were stolen from a Hemingway street house; and a home on Laurel Hill lane was found to have been ransacked while the owner was away.

Another break on Laurel Hill lane was discovered in the early afternoon of Dec. 15. Entry had been through a screen door and by breaking door glass, and the house was ransacked. The time of the break was not established.

Money, jewelry, and $40-$50 in half-dollar coins were stolen from a Lawson road house Friday. Entry was through a cellar door.

An attempted break-in on Lawson road was reported Saturday. A resident found a broken pane of glass in a doorway; however, the prowler apprently cut himself while breaking open the door, and a large amount of blood was found in the breezeway by the door, leaving a trail down Lawson to Jefferson road, out to Highland avenue, where the trail disappeared.

Three arrests were made in connection with car accidents during the week.

On Friday, a Woburn resident was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol around 10:50 p.m. after his car hit a parked car in front of 17 Cross st.

A Winthrop resident was arrested by Winchester police Sunday for driving without a license. The man's car skidded into a fire hydrant on Canterbury road around 7:30 p.m. The man has also been charged with leaving the scene of an accident after damage has been done.

Another man was arrested Sunday after his car ran into a light pole by 75 Church st. around 2:20 p.m. An Arlington resident, he was charged with operating under the influence of alcohol.

A hit-and-run accident was reported Friday night at 10:27 on Main street. A station wagon owned by Turner Sunoco was hit, and, based on parts found at the scene, police believe the other car was a Cadillac.

In other police news, a car stolen in Arlington Friday was discovered abandoned on Pepper Hill drive; the car's ignition had been popped.

At Woburn Court last Thursday, Kenneth Berdett, 18, arrested Nov. 28 and charged with breaking and entering in the nighttime in connection with an incident at Cumberland Farms on Main street, was found guilty and sentenced to three months in the House of Correction, suspended, and assessed a $50 cost of court.

25-year-old man found hanged in police station cell

A 25-year-old Winchester man who had been taken into protective custody by police was found hanged in his cell late Friday night.

Dennis O'Donnell, of 28 Lebanon st., was a CETA employee for the town who had worked at the dog pound for several months.

Officers William Saraco and Franklin Bartlett took O'Donnell into custody at his home shortly after 9 p.m. Friday in response to a call complaining about his behavior. He was brought to the police station, booked, and put up in cell no. 2 for the night.

Around 10:15, a young woman called the station asking about O'Donnell; the police reported finding him asleep. Chief John McHugh said the normal routine is to check on prisoners once an hour.

While in the process of locking up another man around 11:30, officers found O'Donnell had hung himself with his shirt. The medical examiner and state police were called in, and O'Donnell was pronounced dead by strangulation.

A funeral mass was held Tuesday in St. Mary's Church, celebrated by Rev. Mark Sheehan. Burial was at Calvary Cemetery, Woburn.

O'Donnell was a lifelong resident of Winchester who had served two years in the army. He graduated from Winchester High School in 1970.

He was the son of Eileen R. (Welch) O'Donnell and the late Hubert H. O'Donnell of Winchester and the grandson of Mrs. Catherine Welch of Winchester and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert O'Donnell of Rockport. He was married to Jane (Martell) O'Donnell and was the brother of Mrs. Eileen R. Oliver of Malden, Helen E. O'Donnell of Tewksbury, Maureen C. and Mary E. O'Donnell of Winchester.

Memorial donations in his memory may be made to the American Heart Association, 112 Cypress st., Brookline. The Lane Funeral Home handled the arrangements.

Tips offered for safer driving in ice and snow

While most of the winter's cold weather is still ahead, the lousy driving is already upon us, and it's never too early to review some of the recommended measures for handling bad driving conditions.

Winter driving research is conducted annually by the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards. NSC skid test recommendations on how to start, go, turn and stop on ice and snow are endorsed by the International Association of Police Chiefs and by a lot of the folks on road service crews who spend plenty of time pulling stranded motorists out of snowbanks each year.

The way to go: Pulling traction is the way your car is able to start and keep going in snow or on ice; and pulling traction is directly related to the kind of tires or traction aids you use. NSC test findings have established these facts:

—Conventional snow tires offer only a 28 per cent improvement in pulling traction power as compared with regular highway tires on ice; but they provide half again as much traction as regular tires on loosely packed snow.

—Studded snow tires (where permitted) are about three times better than regular tires on ice.

—Reinforced tire chains pull four times better than regular tires on snow, seven times better on ice.

If you're stuck in snow, turn your front wheels back and forth to push snow away from your tires. Shift to the highest gear; and, with a gentle foot on the throttle, try to ease out without spinning your wheels.

The way to stop: Stopping also depends on tires or traction aids.

—Conventional snow tires offer NO advantages over regular highway tires in stopping on ice.

—Studded snow tires offer a 19 per cent improvement on ice.

—Reinforced tire chains are best, cutting braking distance in half on glare ice.

Regardless of traction aids, pump your brakes to slow or stop. This technique helps to maintain steering control.

The way to steer: Don't be over over-confident just because you have special tires or chains on the rear wheels. Traction aids are of little value in cornering unless they are used on all four wheels. Otherwise, the front end skids out and you lose steering control.

The way to steer is steady and smooth, anticipating all maneuvers well in advance. Sudden lane changes or turns can put you into a spin.

In no case can speeds on winter-slick roads begin to approach those on dry pavement, regardless of the traction aids you use. Driving speed should be adjusted according to the road and weather conditions, and not just by the posted limits.

Sighted by Columbus and settled by seafaring Scottish farmers and shipwrecked buccaneers, the Cayman Islands, today, are unspoiled Caribbean islands that attract diver tourists to its shores and waters. Wrecks along its reefs, underwater vertical walls, plus numerous and organized diving facilities, guides and package tours contribute to its diving popularity. Facilities include diving guides, boats, scuba tanks, and all sorts of additional help at the fine hotels in the area. The Islands waters are crystal clear from 125 to 200 feet visibility.
These islands are so beautiful. No matter where you travel, come to MCGRATH TRAVEL SERVICE, 14 Eaton Avenue, Woburn. Venture to Santo Domingo this year. Here you'll find the Caribbean beaches of your dreams, vast stretches of unpeopled and unspoiled coast and sea, mountains forested in mahogany and pine and an island with a necklace of beautiful coral reefs.. # CLIP raises $200 to give Globe Santa

The work study program at the high school, Career Life Information Program (CLIP), has started a campaign to raise funds for Globe Santa.

In one week the students have collected more tn $200 and hope to raise even more before deadline.

The CLIP students would like to see this cause become an annual event. Monies raised for Globe Santa help underprivileged children enjoy a meaningful Christmas.

Call the Youth Job Clearing House at 729-4515, ask for Doris Nash.

Fire calls

With the onset of winter weather, the fire department has been busy with seasonal problems as well as routine calls.

On Dec. 14, firemen answered a call to Chestnut street around 8:45 a.m. to aid a resident with a broken pipe. At 4:21 that afternoon, an investigation revealed a transformer wire burning on McCall road. At 5:35 another wire was discovered burning on Longfellow road. In both of the latter cases, firemen stood by until the Edison repair truck could arrive. Also on the 14th at 9 p.m., a caller reported a smell of smoke on Hancock street, and firemen found a fuse had overheated and burned out.

A Forest street resident had problems with an oil burner and called in the fire department at 5:44 p.m. Dec. 15. Firemen used a smoke ejector to clear the house of smoke caused by delayed ignition.

Also on the 15th, the department doused a fire on the railroad tracks around 8:30 p.m. near Purity Supreme on Shore road. A water problem on Lebanon street was reported at 11:58 that evening. Firemen responding found a broken pipe in a second floor bathroom which had resulted in water damage to the ceiling and walls of the first floor and the basement.

All units went out to a reported house fire at 40 Elmwood ave. early Friday morning. Box 411 was struck, and Group 3, under the command of Lt. Robert Swymer and Lt. F.B. Welch responded. The men found a mattress and clothing burning in the yard. The occupants had thrown the burning articles out of the window. The fire was extinguished and the smoke ejector used to clear smoke from the second floor.

At 6:35 in the evening of the same day, an oil burner problem on Fairmount st. smoked up a residence and firemen were called in to deal with the problem.

Engine 3 went out at 12:24 Saturday morning to assist the ambulance crew with a medical emergency. Also one same day, a false alarm was struck at 12:58 p.m.

A local mutt took a cold bath on Saturday, slipping into the river in back of the senior center building. Firemen took out a boat and rescued the pooch, who was turned over to the pound.

A brief power failure was reported at 7:47 p.m. on the 17th at Gardiner place.

Senators Rotondi, Amick invited to meet with council

The Mystic Valley Council for Children has invited Senators Carol Amick and Samuel Rotondi to their January board of Directors' meeting. There will be a discussion of the up and coming reorganization of children's services in Massachusetts.

The legislative committee of the Council for Children has arranged this speaking engagement and will facilitate the dialogue between the senators and their constituents.

It is hoped that both parties will gain a greater understanding of the important issues within the reorganization plan that will effect the lives of children across the state.

The meeting will take place Jan. 19 at 8 p.m. at the First Congregational Church, 21 Church st.

For more information call Carla Masse at 729-4350. The public is invited to attend.

U.S. Rep. Edward J. Markey (left) was presented with a plaque recently from the Central Middlesex Association for Retarded Citizens for his efforts in securing federal funds to open a new vocational training facility for the mentally retarded in Woburn. The new facility will serve Burlington, Winchester and Lexington as well as the Woburn area. Offering the award is Chet Sewell, executive director of the association.

Rehab dedicates new bus for handicapped

The New England Rehabilitation Hospital, Woburn, dedicated its new mini-bus for the transportation of wheelchair patients at a buffet meal recently.

Mrs Albert Maggioli of Winchester, long-time treasurer of the Volunteers Association of the Rehab, was praised for her initiative in heading the campaign for the van. Others participating at the fall meeting of the association were Winchester residents Catherine Walsh, vice-president; Mrs. Loretta Stillman, recording secretary; and Mrs. Paul Keleher, auditor.

Dreaming of what?

Judging by the overload on the commercial end of Christmas this year, one can't help but wonder if the white stuff falling this week was ordered in July as part of a massive publicity campaign for mucklucks and earmuffs.

The sight of television advertisements appealing to the soft underbelly of one's conscience the day before the Thanksgiving feast probably had more effect on the nation's eating habits than anything else. A sly psychological trick that one.

And what happens to the anticipation, fostered so delicately in youth by those Advent calendars which open up to reveal small surprises one day at a time, when Chris Kringle and his 42nd Street miracles start arriving on evening television three weeks early?

What of the image of poor old Mr. Claus? His role is wrenched from him by the likes of Fat Albert and the Grinch, while on "Police Woman" a nice old man dressed up like Santa gets the cuffs slapped on him for robbing banks and using the money to buy presents for the elderly poor and alone.

And the toys. Ever since Star Wars hit the local matinee scene, one has to understand advanced physics to figure out what the little tykes are asking for. No longer will an American Flyer sled suffice. Gone are the days of a baseball bat and pair of skates. Now you have to head for the nearest inter-galactic 5-and-10 and search for a multi-phasic strobomicron stunlaser (batteries not included). Dolls that wet are supplanted by robots that do your math homework.

An even stranger sign of the times is a toy "action figure" put out by one of the toy companies: the Oscar Goldman doll. For the uninitiated, OG is the man on television who spends most of his time sitting behind a desk telling super-hero (they're all super these days) Steve Austin, the Six Million Dollar Man, what to do. Oscar is a pretty low-key fellow, managerial type, and he comes complete with shiny black shoes, brown sport coat, and an exploding briefcase. The superheroes used to have minds of their own.

Of course it's difficult to knock all the advertising, considering its role in the general economy. Without ads, no newspaper, no job, to put it on the basic level.

There are even signs that the Christmas spirit is none the worse for all the heavy promotion. The kids are still lining up for a visit with Santa Claus at the department stores. They have a way of believing what they want to believe, and they probably know better than we the difference between television and reality. No matter what the stimulation, nothing beats the feeling when you first open your eyes on Christmas morning when you're a little kid.

There seems to be a bit more consideration than usual among the shoppers out there, a willingness to say "Excuse me" and smile, or at least not growl. Folks go out of their way to send greetings to long lost friends, even casual aquaintances. For many of us, family ties are nursed over a cup of cheer next to a warm fire.

Most of the year the flesh is weak, as they say, but at Christmas time especially, the spirit is willing.

No matter when the promotion begins, Christmas still ends up with a mad session of last-minute shopping and wrapping, with tree-trimming and turkey-roasting, and with a flock of carols sung beneath the trees on the Common Christmas Eve.

Giving itself is a gift, and no more of a promotion than the snow heaped on the trees outside. Make the most of it and have a Merry Christmas. —DKF

Christmas in 1879

As reported in the Winchester Star, all the churches were active as Christmastime. At the Unitarian Church a party was held and, "the wife of Santa Claus...entered with presents, and began to bestow them on the little ones. The melody of a music box indicated the presence of fairies, and three little sprites tripped in out of the snow and distributed bon-bons. The jaunty caps which they contained were soon perched on merry heads and a Christmas dance closed the festivities.

At the Methodist church a benevolent tree of ample proportions and well loaded with Christmas gifts, was the sight that made the Children audibly smile. No one was forgotten, not even the minister, Rev. Mr. Cheney... The children were also given a Christmas supper. Everybody was happy, and even the tree looked pleasant. The children sang some beautiful music, appropriate to the occasion.

There was a large attendance at the Congregational Church, Thursday evening, the children in costume marching and singing. Mr. Swett with a stereopticon, added to the evening's pleasure. A Bear was led around, and St. Nicholas gave each child a bag of candy, and a box to the older ones. A collation of ice cream and cake was much enjoyed by the little ones.

At the Baptist church, Thursday evening, there was a Christmas tree, shadow antomim and singing by the children. There were presents for all, and all were happy."

Para hablar espanol!

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

There seems to be a notion prevalent that schools don't teach anything today. It may be true that little Johnny can't read or write-or even do his fractions; but however, that may be with little Johnny-or his little sister-I am sure that it does not apply to those Seniors who are enjoying a couple of evening hours each week trying to catch up on some of those things they may have missed when they were younger.

For instance, let us take the "Conversational Spanish" class which I have attended Tuesday nights for about a half dozen weeks. I can truthfully say that I have benefitted greatly from those few short evenings and have had a lot of laughs and giggles in the bargain.

Here is the sort of thing we turn out, with the aid of a Spanish-American dictionary, of course. I put this one together, word by word, like a kid building a house with blocks on the living-room floor. I never "took" Spanish in my life and, as anyone can see, am totally unfamiliar with the Spanish verbs, conjunctions, adverbs, or adjectives, whatever those things may be.

"Ringo"

"El gato por mi casa, se llamos "Ringo", (alias, "Carne Cabezo") es muy obeso y indolente. El dormir todo el dia y todo la noche tambien. El trabaja nada, nunca. Es sin valor, inutil, despreciable. El no cager mais, nada!

Es muy viego. E. tengo nueve anos, y pesar dieciseis libra. El comer dos lata de alimente de gato por dia. Los color es anaranjado con annillos por le cola, por tanto se llamos "Ringo".

El es muy perazanto y indolente, pero es muy intelligente, muy vivo y ingenioso.

Ringo (Carne Cabeza) es el gato de mi esposa. Ella tener mas afection a Ringo que ella estar por mi. Ella dispositivo de alimentation a Ringo a primero, a mi secundo. Ella hacer habla infantile con el, pero nunca hablar infantile con mi. Yo es secundo todos, en mi casa proprietario!

Now, for my reader who might have trouble deciphering the meaning of this tale of woe, I still have the Dictionary that I used to put it together and I will be only too happy to sit down with him and we can go over it together and find out what, if anything, it says! (Furthermore, as must be obvious to anyone who is fluent in the language, I could use some help!)

Clarence Borggard
22 Franklin rd.

P.S. We have a lot of fun. If you have any flair for languages at all, why not join us when the school semester begins about a month from now. Never mind about missing the first semester you can catch up with us. There are no grades, no tests, no nothing. At our time of life, it is not that serious, and if I can get something out of it, surely you can, too. Come on, join the club! We will welcome you aboard!

Knows no season

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Christmas is a time of giving, but President Donald Van Roosen of the Minuteman Council, Boy Scouts of Amercia, pointed out in a Christmas message that giving to Scouting — by individuals, businesses, and other institutions — "knows no season."

In his message, Van Roosen said, "In serving the youth of Middlesex County, it is only this dedication to voluntarism that enables us to offer quality programs for boys and young men and women from age 8 through 20.

We are especially grateful, at this holiday season, to the leaders of our Cub Scout packs, Scout troops, and Explorer Posts and ships for the tremendous effort they have put forth during the past year. They work with youth on a regular basis and give of themselves and their time, so that our young people may grow into valuable adult citizens serving our community and nation. The value of the time they give to this effort is invaluable.

We are grateful, too, to the many organizations and institutions that provide the facilities in which the programs are carried out, and to the mahy businesses and others who support the Scouting movement financially. They prove, year in and year out, that giving to Scouting truly knows no season."

Robert H. Hempe

Minuteman Council

Give-away

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Unless the people put a stop to the Panama Canal give-away, one of our most vital shipping and defense waterways will be in the complete control of the antiAmerican, pro-Marxist dictator, General Torrijos.

The treaty is a blueprint for potential disaster for our country. If it is ratified, it will mean the US can't build a new sea-level canal in or out of Panama without the express written permission of the Panamanian government. In the process of treasonously giving up our canal, Carter has also surrendered our rights to build a new canal!

We will have no guarantee that our naval fleet will have the right of priority passing in time of war. Now our navy depends on safe, secure, unrestricted passage. If we lose this short cut from the Atlantic to the Pacific, we'll lose the flexibility and quick response we need to protect our country and our allies.

Panama's foreign minister has said flat out that "the US does not have the right to intervene to defend the canal" in the event of ratification.

We will have to close down 10 of our military bases, our American citizens in the Canal Zone will be under Panamanian, not American, law, and we must pay Torrijos an extra $50 million more a year to use the canal!

These treaties will cost Americans millions of dollars in payments to Panama. Plus, we'll pay even higher prices on all the goods shipped through the canal due to higher tolls.

Today, over 70 per cent of the ships using the canal go to and from American ports and many will carry Alaskan oil we must have to heat our homes and run our factories.

If the treaty is ratified, we'll be giving up everything in exchange for nothing. Carter negotiated this treaty without consulting Congressional leaders, and then, to head off public opposition, turned the whole treaty signing ceremony into an elaborately staged media event.

This is not a partisan issue. Every major opinion poll shows the overwhelming majority of Americans oppose this outrageous give-away. Even many Congressmen and Senators from Carter's own party are shocked at the treaty terms.

Your representative should hear from you on this vital issue.

Rupert W. Kuglin

New hope

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Another winter is upon us, and with it comes the growing apprehension for the "north-of-Boston" rail commuter. Continuously deteriorating equipment and facilities practically guarantee erratic schedules and embarassing late arrivals at the office.

Following two such occurrences on successive days, I recently prepared and circulated a pointed letter of complaint through two cars of a morning commuter run. Eighty-one passengers eagerly endorsed the sentiments expressed in the letter, which I addressed to Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh. I arranged to deliver the letter personally, and found he was well aware of the problem and would certainly follow through with the complaint. And so he did.

On the following day, I received a copy of the cover letter sent by our representative to R. Kiley, chairman of the MBTA, re: "petition by 81 commuters." Further, of the 10 cars currently being "refurbished," and 25 new cars contracted for by the MBTA, "some hopefully may find their way into our area," according to the representative. And once again, hope springs eternal

My thanks to our representative and all concerned commuters. Merry Christmas.

Charlotte Wasel
Winchester Commuter

Terrific job!

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I would like to congratulate the Winchester highway department for the terrific job they do during the stormy winter months.

Living on the Winchester-Arlington border, I am in a position to compare the Winchester and Arlington highway departments. This is a hilly, slippery area. Winchester is

Don't hold your breath

By The Observer

For those of you waiting for the stop signs to be put up on Wildwood street, don't hold your breath.

As a result of complaints from residents in the area, the police and selectmen worked out plans to try to slow drivers down and prevent accidents along the windy path of Wildwood street.

A request to put up four-way stop signs at the intersections of Wildwood and Woodside road, Palmer street, and Wickford road was sent to the state DPW.

In a letter to Town Manager Thomas Groux, the request was denied, on the grounds that, "The department of public works does not recommend the practice of using neither multiway stop signs, nor the installation of any stop sign, for the use of speed control, as suggested by a Wildwood street resident at the selectmen's hearing Sept. 19."

The DPW letter contends that use of stop signs for this purpose "would tend to result in loss of respect for this type of regulatory device and lessen its effectiveness at all locations."

The note does say, though, that the state concurs "with Chief John McHugh that a stricter enforcement be developed to alleviate this problem."

The school board has okayed the curriculum handbook for next year at the high school, and, considering all the changes, students may want to start looking at the possibilities as soon as they can.

A number of electives, particularly in the English program, have been cut, and several new courses have been added (including music theory and an extra chemistry course).

There will be fewer fun and games at some of Winchester's clubs this holiday season. The selectmen put off until their first meeting of the new year the renewal of licenses for "automatic amusement devices" at the K of C, the Elks Lodge, the VFW, and the Sons of Italy.

The board noted some ambiguities in the terminology which left open the question of exactly what kind of machines are permitted. Town Manager Thomas Groux said machines which were removed from the K of C "could have been considered gambling machines." Groux noted, however, that all of the clubs are now in compliance with the law regarding the machines.

Board Chairman Barbara Hankins suggested that all four clubs be notified that as of Jan. 1, their machines would be unlicensed. The board meets again Jan. 3.

The police department has two new permanent members: Robert Palmer and James Gallant were approved by the selectmen as permanent patrolmen with the force, effective Jan. 1. The appointments were made by Town Manager Thomas Groux.

Both men have been employed by the town off and on since January 1976. Off. Palmer, who lives in Winchester, has worked with the Wakefield Police Department and the B&M Railroad. Off. Gallant lives in Woburn and has police experience in the private sector.

The selectmen appointed two of their members to committees Monday night.

Harry Chefalo was named to serve on the sick leave pay-back committee; and Richard Wilsack was chosen to serve on the police meritorious service award committee, which meets annually to choose a member from among the ranks to be honored for service in the police department.

The gremlins of omission are at it again. In last week's list of honor students from the junior high schools, we left out Tremaine Atkinson, an eighth grader from McCall who made the honor roll this term.

Monday's snowstorm may not have been a stopper for the selectmen, but the school committee decided to take a night off from their weekly meetings, which have been going on ever since they started digging into the budget for next year.

The next regular meeting of the school board is set for Dec. 27 at 7:30 p.m. at Sanborn House. Among the items on the agenda:

— A report from the superintendent on writing labs during the summer session for those students who fail the course during the regular school year.

— A curriculum report regarding a request for approval for the second term's courses and instructors in the adult education program.

— And the usual reports from the school committee subcommittees, student's report, personnel and business matters.

Five restaurants found in violation of the sign by-law were granted license renewals Monday night by the selectmen. According to Manager Thomas Groux, all have either complied with the by-law restrictions or have filed with the board of appeal for a special permit.

The restaurants whose licenses were renewed include Brigham's, Evan's House of Pizza, Andrea's House of Pizza, Bellino's Pizza, and China Hula.

Two requests for sidewalk snowplowing were granted by the selectmen this week: for the south side of Mt. Pleasant street and the south side of Clematis street. Both the DPW and the police department recommended the action because there are a number of school-age children who walk on the streets to and from school.

As city street decorations go up, colored Christmas lights go on, and Santas everywhere make their seasonal appearance, Registrar of Motor Vehicles Alan Mackey would like to share part of his Christmas list with the public.

"People are always looking for 'stocking stuffers'," he said, "and I have a few items in mind that are just right."

As Mackey sees it, everyone who owns or drives a car should not be without a snow brush, ice scraper, windshield de-icer, or windshield washing fluid. "These should be standard equipment for winter driving," he stated.

Next Mackey focused on bicycles and said, "if you are buying gifts for a bicyclist the choices abound." He explained that "the best approach is to have safety in mind when shopping.

"Anything that makes a bicycle and rider more visible at night is a good buy," he said. "Fluorescent or reflectorized vests are excellent in this respect," he continued, "as are reflectorized tires, front-rear-side reflector kits, reflectorized tape, and virtually anything that will mirror light." Mackey also suggested helmets, rear-view mirrors, horns, and bells are other good gift ideas.

Expressing his feeling that "sometimes the best gifts are free" Mackey said that youngsters who don't buy gifts but would like to give something nonetheless could "gather clean rags for use in the car, or offer to clean the headlights from time to time." In conclusion Mackey said that "inexpensive gifts such as these are practical and useful, and certain to be appreciated during the cold months."

A poem for Christmas

We Thank You, O Holy God

Holy God, this night we praise your name,
We thank you, Lord, for those near to us,
Even though we do not have them with us.
Our hearts are joyful for those tremendous gifts you have given us:
The laughter of our younger children,
The health of Mom and Dad,
The joy of love.
Our hearts are sorrowful for those whom we have lost to death—
May they find the peace they so valiantly sought in this life.
May they find hope where they found only the darkness of long, unending nights;
May they find their faith in you.
As I stare out my bedroom window watching the snow fall gently on the lonely hillsides,
I can not help but wonder about the many who have not found the loyalty of friends, the kindness of those who love us deeply,
the warmth of families sitting together celebrating this feast day.
Almighty God, I pray truly your grace to stand strong in the face of adversity and ill times—
That I shall never stoop to compromise my example of upbringing, and cause others to falter in their faith of you.
Almighty god, please grant me, this most Holy Night, that those closest to me may realize the simplicity and humility of sensitivity—Learning to love their fellow man as your son gave his life to save all mankind—
Almighty God, please grant to those alone this night, that brief, shining moment when all of Christiandom kneels in worship of a child in swadling clothes lying in a manger so many miles away, so many years ago.
May they feel your mercy this night, dispelling their lonely moments and renewing within themselves that age old prayer:
My Lord and My God thy greatness Shines,
That Except the Lord keep thy city,
The watchman waketh in vain.
Good night, Lord—
And thank you, thank you for everything.

effective and thorough. Arlington is irresponsive and poor.

From Pepper Hill drive to the Arlington line ending at Skyline drive, Winchester is tops! The roads are plowed on time and well-sanded.

Arlington, on the other hand, gives tokenism effort. Poor plowing and sanding, and, in general, a lousy job.

To sum it up, praise to the men of the Winchester highway department for a good job.

Perhaps the Arlington highway department may pick up a few pointers.

Satisfied customer

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As I bid a fond farewell to the halls of ivy forever (at last!), I would like to give credit to those who made it all possible.

Thanks Dave, Karen, Dot, and everyone else at the Star for making my last semester of graduate school one of the best. Working at the Winchester Star through the student internship program at Simmons College provided the practical journalistic experience I needed to compliment my academic studies. The editors' advice and encouragement helped build my self-confidence as a reporter.

Not only did I have the opportunity to work with a multitude of friendly people (upstairs and down) at the Star, but I also met, through interviews, many interesting townspeople. Each week I would look forward to my visits with Police Chief John McHugh, Mrs. Ross of the fire department, and others.

Winchester people, and especially those at the Star, are great, and I am going to miss working with you. I am looking forward to my new job - a reporter for South Shore Magazine, but I will not forget my first journalistic experience at the Star.

Thanks again, Karen and Dave, and good luck for the future.

Karen Polowchena

(Editor's note: As far as we're concerned, the thoughts and feelings are mutual.)

Better lighting

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The lighting on the major roads of Winchester is extremely insukficient. The great number of accidents that occur at night attest to the need of a better lighting system.

Does a person have to sustain mortal injuries before some action takes place? Main st. and the corner of Stowell rd has been the scene of an increasing amount of serious accidents; better lighting should be installed before a really tragic occurrance takes place.

Robin Getson

More lunch time

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I am writing about the school lunch periods at Winchester High School. At least everyday I rush to eat lunch. I would appreciate it if we had 45 minutes to eat. Then I could digest my food right while relaxing at the same time.

We are supposed to have 30 minutes, but if you subtract the four minutes from the bells ringing, 10 minutes standing in the lunch line, a minute finding a table to sit at, and going to your locker, that doesn't leave you much time to eat lunch. I hope you could help me and many others.

Gwenis Nelson

Beneficial

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As a student of Winchester High School, I feel the recent program to admit adults to classes will prove to be very beneficial.

I believe parents should have the chance to experience the course and classroom obligations that their children must meet each day

I hope this program will help parents to better understand the nature of our courses, school commitments, and other aspects of the high school.

Rec center needed

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I am a young citizen of Winchester and I believe something has got to be done about the lack of youth recreation facilities.

Just about a year ago, the Winchester Theater was closed down. The sign that was put up on the front of the building read, "Temporarily Closed." Today, more than a year later, the sign, a little battered, still reads "Temporarily Closed."

Rumor has it, the building is going to be torn down and the main branch of the Winchester Savings Bank is going to be built in its place.

A town with more than half-dozen banks doesn't need any more; especially if it will involve tearing down the movie theater.

Winchester youths have, as of now, for recreation only a bowling alley. They need more than that. There have been many complaints of vandalism in this town. If the youths had more to do with their spare time, then maybe the amount of vandalism would decrease.

Nancy Maiullari

Equal funding

EDITOR OF THE STAR

Winchester has recently been constructing many new buildings throughout the town. The most recent is a senior center for the elderly. In fact, most of the new buildings are for the elderly.

For as long as I have lived in Winchester there has never been any center or place to go for Winchester's youth. The only place they could go for entertainment was the movie theatre, and for the past two years, it has been closed down.

It is not that I am complaining about the elderly in the town, but that there should be equal funding for entertainment spots and other such places for the town youths.

As part of a writing assignment, Mrs. May Burgess' sixth grade class at the Mystic School composed letters to the editor of The Star. Mrs. Burgess thought enough of them to bring them down to the office, and herewith are some samples:

Temporary?

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I would like to know what temporary means in this town. I am speaking of our one and only movie theater that has been "temporarily" closed for over a year and doesn't look like it will open again. Is this town ever going to have another movie theater??

Michelle Stolow

Priorities

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

While going down High street, my mother was given a ticket by a policeman. She was driving 34 mph. While the policeman was giving her the ticket, three cars went by doing at least 50 mph. Drivers should be able to go 5 mph more going down hills.

Actually, the police should be out catching kids setting off firecrackers or throwing snowballs and rocks at cars.

A Concerned Citizen

Open theater

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I am writing to ask about the Winchester Movie Theater. It has been "closed temporarily" for over a year now, and it is obvious that it is not going to reopen. I have heard that they are going to build apartments there, and I am sure that many people, including myself, would not like that to happen.

Many of my classmates are asking if a mall or a McDonald's could be built there.

I know that I definitely would not want a mall built there. My reasons are: that Winchester would be full with cars and also, we have a mall in Burlington, and if you don't have a car you can hop on a bus.

A McDonald's would be okay, but it would be nice if they opened the movie theater again, using more discipline.

Elizabeth Obbard

Waste of gas

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I would like the theater to open up. It's a waste of gas just going to Woburn or Medford theaters. If there were a theater again, I could walk down town.

David Tonaszuck

Vandals strike

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I am one of the many soccer players that played this fall. The coaches and players had to put up the goals at West Side Field every Saturday morning and take them down in the afternoon because of vandalism.

They were to stay up all fall. Put up once and taken down once. However they were ripped out by vandalists and taken apart and thrown all over the field. I am mad that they couldn't stay up because a bunch of kids were having their "fun." I don't think they should have had to be put up and taken down every Saturday.

John Reidy

Street trouble

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I live on Madison avenue and I am quite upset by the condition of the left side of the street going uphill. Twice I have almost sprained my ankle. I hope that this news will reach the DPW and they will check on it.

Charles Wechsler

Two complaints

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I have been wondering why the Winchester High School does not have a swimming pool. Because if it did then everybody in Winchester could use it.

I have another complaint. We should have a fence, not just a painted white line around the Mystic Lakes for bikes. There has been a lot of people killed by cars hitting bikes on the road.

Signe Ulwick

Poisoned?

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I have heard that there is a law that allows dogs to be poisoned or killed. I would like to know if this is true or false.

Only a few weeks ago a dog that lives up the street from me was poisoned and killed. Why?

Steve Moros

Loose leash law

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I am writing in regard to the leash law. Ever since it was passed, the leash law has rarely been enfoiced. I have seen dogs in my back yard time and again with continuous threats to call the dog pound. The schools are beginning to look like animal shelters. Also, I don't think it's fair to let cats run around when dogs are (or should be) tied up.

Jocelyn Kesse

Needs a plow

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I am a resident of Fenwick road and I wonder why the department of public works doesn't ever use the sidewalk snowplow. It never goes down Fenwick road. All the children and I, who walk up and down Fenwick, would like to see this changed. We would also like to ask Mr. Tonaszuck and the whole DPW to change this.

Nathan Legvold

Loitering

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I think it's about time that someone did something about the teenagers loitering on the bridge down town.

A while back, I heard that the chief of police said anyone sitting on the bridge would be punished. If this is true, why are they still there?

My suggestion is to try and get them into different activities.

A Concerned Student

Great coaching

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I'm in the sixth grade writing to tell how much I appreciate having a soccer coach in the fall. This year I had an excellent soccer coach and I learned a lot and this year I got to play good positions. I think it's good to have some people do it. I would like to especially thank my last two soccer coaches: Mr. Swazey and Dr. Richardson. I think they're great.

Joyce Kohr

Burgers & dogs

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

There are two things I am very concerned with. First of all I would like to ask why couldn't Winchester make the old movie theater into a McDonald's. The nearest McDonald's is in Medford.

Second of all I would like to complain about the 24-hour leash law for dogs. I have a dog myself, named Ralph. He used to be able to run free and then the leash law came, and when you put Ralph on the leash he whines. After all you know the saying, "You can't teach an old dog new tricks."

Andrea Monson

Lights are nice

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I think that the Christmas lights downtown look very nice. Compared to other towns, Winchester looks good, especially around Christmas time. Most towns are underdecorated, but I think that Winchester is perfect. Since the Christmas lights have been put up, I love to go down town at night.

Priscilla Clarke

More recreation

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I would like to see more recreation in the Town of Winchester. I feel that more recreation would help solve the problem of teenage drinking, smoking and loitering. I suggest a movie theater or athletic classes for both girls and boys.

Julie Stein

Vague memory

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As a sixth grader I'm disappointed in the town because the movie theater is closed. As you know it says temporarily closed up on the marquee. People can't even read it because of vandalism. It has been almost a year now since the movie theater has been open and probably won't open again. I can vaguely remember seeing a movie on a Saturday afternoon.

Sarah Richardson

No sidewalks

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I am complaining about the lack of sidewalks. I am a resident of Canterbury road and from the time I've moved here until now there has not been sidewalks on my street and I also think the sidewalks on Grove street should be paved.

I have a little brother of five who is constantly running up and down the street almost getting hit by cars. He also walks to school alone. I am very worried.

Sharon Kennedy

Bad for bikes

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I would be very glad if someone would improve the bike-route. There is glass, beer cans, and other pollution all over it. If you ride your bike there, you're bound to get a flat tire! Try it yourself! Thank you.

Eric Fieleke

Poor condition

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

This town is fine except for sand and snowplow conditions.

One morning, as I was getting into a neighbor's car to go to school, the car was stopped halfway up a small hill on Wickham road. We had to go down the hill in order to go up it. As we turned the corner we skidded down the unsanded hill on West Chardon road. This is the same road that my father slipped on that same morning on his way to Wedgemere Station.

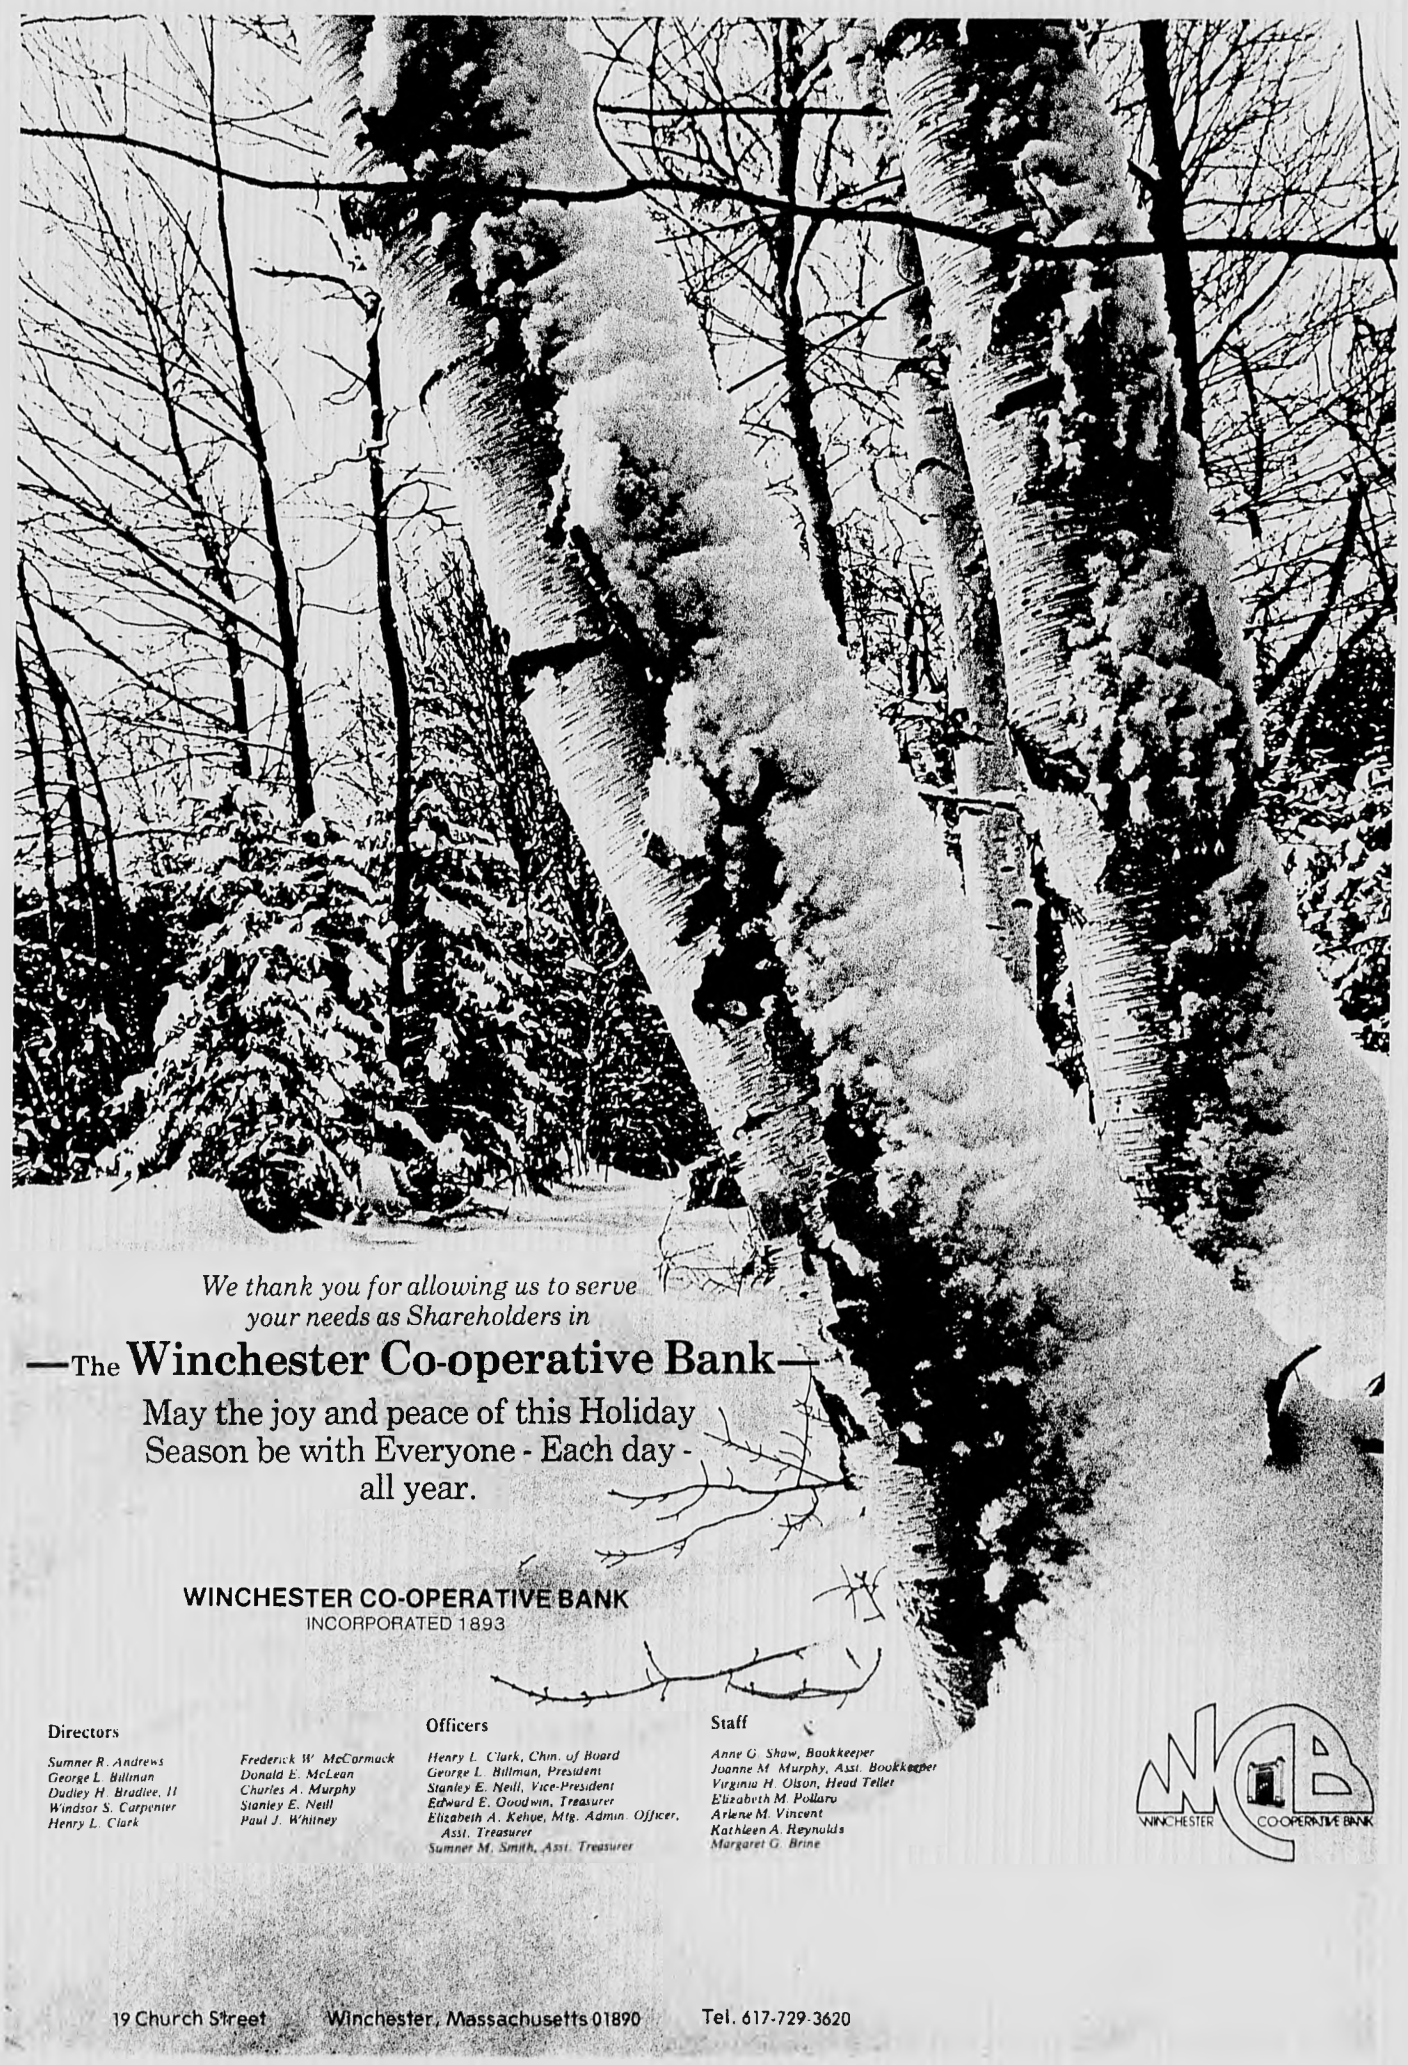

As for snowplowing, it's terrible. I remember times last year, when, if we wanted to get out of our driveway we had to call the highway department and tell them to send someone to plow us out.

Also, the plowdrivers never seem to care where they dump their snow. They pile snow in driveways, and cars parked in the street are often snowed in. Some people have to get to work in the morning and when their car is snowed in it is no help at all.

If you noticed, throughout this letter, I used sand instead of salt, which I am totally against. Salt kills roadside trees, pollutes drinking water, hurts animals' feet, and rots the metal in cars.

I purposely left out sidewalk plows, but try walking down Grove street every morning and you'll see my point.

Museum to review American history

An overview of American history, from 1898 to th 1930's, has been planned for the vacation week at The Museum of Our National Heritage in Lexington.

The film series called "Looking Backward, America," starts Wednesday and continues through Dec. 31. There is no charge for admission.

Each day, a different film focusing on America's past will be shown in the auditorium at 3 p.m., beginning with "1898" from the award-winning series, "The Saga of Western Man."

This film covers the Spanish American War, land development, the contrast of wealth and poverty, the demise of the Indian, and the rise of labor unions.

The series continues Dec. 29 with "The Innocent Years, 1901-1914," an NBC-News production which shows the nation's emergence as an affluent society and a world power.

It focuses on Teddy Roosevelt, Rockefeller, Carnegie, and Morgan as forces of change, and continues with Taft, the suffragette movement, the invention of motion pictures, and the domestic and international problems that ended the age of innocence.

"The Golden Twenties" to be shown Dec. 30, recaptures the fashions, fancies, and feelings of the jazz age, and also focuses on politics, sports, business, and entertainment.

The film reviews the personalities of Rudolph Valentino, Red Grange, Pres. Harding, and Sinclair Lewis.

Dec. 31, two films will be shown. "American Time Capsule," breaks the time barrier of US History by flashing on the screen over 3,000 scenes, covering two hundred yeras, in a three-minute film.

"Life in the Thirties," a Project 20 film, begins with the Depression, and follows the 1932 campaign, the election of FDR, and the action taken by the government to restore economic stability to the nation. The scene then shifts to Europe and the rise of Hitler and Mussolini.

The Museum of Our National Heritage is located at 33 Marrett rd., Lexington. Hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Sundays, noon to 5:30 p.m. Admission is free.

Registrar urges early MV registration renewal

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Alan Mackey urges motorists not to delay renewing their registration.

"To avoid last-minute lines and processing complications, begin the process as soon as you receive the notice in the mail," he urged.

Mackey explained that the registration renewal card must be stamped by the company insuring the vehicle and taken to a Registry office with a check, the amount of which varies according to the vehicle, class, duration of registration, etc.

"Insurance companies know these amounts and many times will mail the card and check to the Registry," he said.

He also said that an individual may renew a registration by mail providing that the card is stamped by the Insurance COMPANY AND A CHECK IN THE CORRECT AMOUNT ACCOMPANIES IT.

However, Mackey suggested registration renewals be handled in person "to avoid complications." He added that mail transactions must be started three weeks in advance if they are to be processed and returned by January 1.

Mackey stated that December is the month when many classified registrations have to be renewed, together with a full complement of regular passenger car registrations Thus, almost one-half million renewals must be processed between December 1 and January 1.

The main office of the Registry at 100 Nashua st., Boston opens at 8:00 a.m., Monday thru Friday, for license and registration renewals only.

All Registry branch offices, as well as the main office, open for Reigstry business from 8:45 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. every Monday through Friday.

Resident offers classes

The Chinese cook is booked

By Karen Polowchena

How can you enjoy a gourmet Chinese meal for two that would cost between $20 and $30 at a restaurant for just $5.? Make it yourself

This is the advice of Jeanne Tahnk, Winchester resident and gourmet Chinese and Japense cook, who demonstrates her culinary expertise each month on television Besides appearing on Woman '77, Ms. Tahnk teaches classes in Japanese, Chinese, and Szechuan cooking She is also working on a cookbook.

"Every day is a busy day for me," said the petite, friendly woman Students travel from as far away as New Hampshire, Hyannis, and Marblehead to attend the weekly classes held in Ms. Tahnk's home She limits the number of students to eight or 10 per class, and has no trouble filling her classes "There won't be an opening in any class until March," she said.

At a time when many cooking teachers are having difficulty finding students, how does Jeanne Tahnk do it? She explained, "I love to teach I don't just give step-by-step instruction on how to prepare a dish I show my students how to serve the food, and provide them with the cultural background and history of the meal."

According to her brouchure, her teaching techniques are designed to present chinese cooking as a healthful yet inexpensive way to feed a family using ingredients that are available at the local market. Mrs. Tahnk, who travels to Boston's Chinatown weekly to stock up on ingredients, also conducts field trips to the area. Her students recently visited a bean sprout factory and were shown where to shop for particular grocieries.

The oriental cook stressed that Chinese food is not only good for you, it is also energy conserving. "It is common to prepare a dish in as little as ten minutes," she said. It takes only two or three minutes to stir-fry vegetables in a wok. Today, when free time is hard to come by, many busy working-people are eager to learn how to cook an impressive gourmet meal quickly.

Whereas cooking classes used to be made up mainly of housewives looking to please their husbands' palates, Mrs. Tahnk's classes contain bachelors, single women, and husband and wife teams, as well The two-hour classes are offered during the morning, afternoon, and evening to suit everyone's schedule. The five-week sessions are available throughout the year with continuous enrollment, and private lessons with student participation are offered to groups or individuals with recipes chosen by the students.

Classes begin with a cup of tea and a discussion about last week's meal. Before the cooking begins, Mrs. Tahnk provides her students with a printed recipe and gives them a lecture and demonstration. Afterward, everyone sits down together to sample the results of the lesson. Her students are encouraged to practice at home and to call their instructor at any time for advice. Along with the popular fried rice, sweet and sour pork, and won-ton soup, her students learn to prepare such exotic-sounding dishes as Buddha's Delight, Oyako Domburi, and Ants Crawling on the Tree. They also learn to cook seasonal food such as rice stuffing for a Thanksgiving turkey or an appetizer for Christmas.

Mrs. Tahnk moved from Taiwan, where she was born and raised, to the United States, seven years ago. She has lived in Winchester five years. While in China, she worked extensively with private chefs and attended four gourmet cooking schools.

This active woman, who not only teaches classes, demonstrates on television, and collects for her forth-coming cookbook, but also lectures to women's groups, does catering, and finds time for her family, says that most of her time in spent in the kitchen. "But I don't eat Chinese food every day," she said. She and her American husband, who also cooks, enjoy American and French cooking, as well.

Being able to watch her children grow is important to this mother of two young children. This is one reason why her classes are held in her home. But sometime in the future, she would like to open her own cooking school. Even though her days are often hectic, Jeanne Tahnk is relaxed in her attitude toward cooking. "I do not see cooking as a job. Food is for everyone's enjoyment."

YMCA has new back exercise prog.

The North Suburban YMCA is offering a new, special exercise program designed for people who suffer back pain.

Studies show that about 80 percent of back pain is attributed to a combination of muscle weakness, stress and tension. For further information contact the North Suburban YMCA at 935-3270.

Discussion group on heart problems at Rehab. hospital

If you are troubled about your heart, start the New Year right: enroll in a series of Thursday evening discussion groups at New England Rehabilitation Hospital, Woburn, starting January 5.

The program will be designed for those who have suffered heart attacks, for those who worry about heart attacks, and for those who have had a history of heart ailments and worry about continuing with their daily activity.

"People who have suffered heart attacks sometimes disable themselves more through continuing anxieties and fears than the heart attack," says Richard Johnson, Certified Clinical Social Worker, who will head the program. Mr. Johnson holds a Master's degree in social work and has had extensive experience.

Doherty named

John N. Doherty of Northboro has been promoted to personnel manager for customer services in the field personnel headquarters organization in Maynard for Digital Equipment Corporation.

Doherty joined the company four years ago and has had assignments as employment representative and senior personnel representative. Before joining Digital, he was a sales representative for UNARCO, Inc.

The Winchester native completed his undergraduate studies at Northeastern University where he received a bachelor of science degree. He also received a master of business administration degree from Suffolk University.

Through sounds of Christmas bells in the winter air, through all the friendships of the season, The Directors, Officers, and Employees of the Bay Bank Winchester Trust extend to one and all the warmest of Season Greetings.

Bay State roll call

Week of Dec. 12-16

The Senate held 18 roll calls last week, bringing the December total to 359.

Court Reform (S 1965): The Senate rejected the House version of the court reform bill and substituted its own version. Sen. Sam Rotondi was among those voting for the Senate version.

Among changes from the House court reform bill, the Senate version would have the supreme judicial court elect the chief administrator to coordinate the court system. Other differences would allow judges to be transferred by the chief without their consent, and would give smaller pay hikes to non-judicial court personnel.

The vote on S 1965 was 32-7 to substitute a Senate version for that of the House.

Abortion Vetoes (H 6596): The Senate voted four times on the governor's veto of anti-abortion amendments to the 1977 supplementary budget, but each time fell short of the two-thirds needed to override. The votes were 22-16, 21-16, 22-16, and 22-16. Sen. Rotondi voted each time to allow the public funding of abortions.

The amendments under consideration outlaw public funded abortions for Medicaid recipients, state workers, teachers, and legislators. Gov. Michael Dukakis vetoed the amendments after a supreme judicial court decision advised him that a veto of these amendments would still allow the budget to be signed. Included in the budget were pay raises to state workers.

Chief Medical Examiner (H 5939): The Senate rejected 29-7 an amendment to a bill which establishes a medicolegal investigation committee and creates the position of chief medical examiner to oversee medical examiners and related activities in the state. The amendment would prohibit the chief medical examiner from practicing medicine as outside employment. Sen. Rotondi voted against the amendment.

Redlining (S 30, S 34): The Senate rejected 31-8 one version of a bill prohibiting "redlining" by banks, and then gave unanimous initial approval to another version.

Sen. Rotondi voted both times to prohibit redlining, geographic discrimination used by banks in granting home mortgages.

Beano (H 838): The Senate approved 35-2 a bill increasing the amount and size of prizes a licensed beano establishment can give away in beano games. Sen. Rotondi voted for the increase.

Welfare Audit Veto (H 6573): Sen. Rotondi voted with the majority of senators to override a Dukakis veto of a bill making most of the positions in the Bureau of Welfare Auditing under civil service law. The bill also makes employees appointed without civil service tests before Sept. 22, 1975, permanent employees without passing any civil service requirements.

The House brought its total roll call votes to 720 for the year with 25 votes taken during this week.

Bonin Resolution: There were several votes to suspend rules to allow consideration of various resolutions. One, which lost by just seven votes, would have urged Chief Justice Robert Bonin to suspend performance of his official duties until investigations into alleged activity are complete. Rep. Sherman W. Saltmarsh Jr. voted against suspending rules.

Another move to suspend rules to consider House sessions was first barely defeated 121-107, and then crushed 133-58. Rep. Saltmarsh first voted for the rule consideration and then against it. The House also denied suspending rules to consider Adjourn roll calls — an order requiring a roll call vote on any motion made to, adjourn a formal session of the House for the remainder of the 1977 legislative year. Rep. Saltmarsh voted against the rules suspension. Another vote to suspend rules was defeated 176-47 with Rep. Saltmarsh again voting against suspension. This order would reform a House rule regarding Bill discharge from the House ways and means or counties committees.

Audit jobs (H 6573): The House overrode the governor's recent veto of a measure placing Bureau of Welfare employees under civil service. The Senate also voted to override. Rep. Saltmarsh voted in favor of the bill.

Tax deposits (H 4573): The House approved 195-28, but Rep. Saltmarsh voted against, a bill requiring banks to pay interest, at a rate equal to 80 percent of the highest interest rate allowed on regular savings accounts, on all deposits held in escrow accounts for real estate taxes.

Trust companies (H 969): The House gave initial approval 119-85 to a bill allowing trust companies to open branch offices outside their home-based counties under certain conditions. Rep. Saltmarsh voted against the bill.

Joins Brooke's staff

Barry F. Johnson, '31, formerly of Winchester, has recently joined the Washington, D.C. staff of Senator Edward W. Brooke as Minority Counsel for the Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs' Subcommittee on International Finance.

Before assuming his new position, Johnson was employed at the First National Bank of Boston as Assistant Regional Coordinator for the bank's Latin American division and as a loan officer for the Loan Administration and Urban Marketing Departments.

His new responsibilities with Brooke include covering issues relating to export and foreign trade promotion and international economic policy. As such he will have responsibility for all legislation regarding the Export-Import Bank Act, Bretton Woods Agreements Act and Trading with the Enemy Act. He will also work on matters relating to U.S. participation in the International Monetary Fund.

Johnson obtained his BA in history from Harvard in June 1969. While at Harvard he was a member of the varsity hockey team as well as student director of intramural sports. In June 1973 he graduated with an MBA from Northeastern.

Wells named to counselor post at Tufts Univ.

William H. Wells of Winchester recently has been appointed counselor to the president at Tufts University.

Before his new appointment, Wells was assistant to the president for governmental and community affairs at Tufts. He first came to Tufts as director of community and public relations in 1965.

Wells holds an A.B. degree in English and history from Tufts and an LL.B. degree from the Columbia University School of Law.

Before coming to Tufts, Wells was a legislative lobbyist for the United Federalist and a reporter, editor and editorial writer for several eastern newspapers, including the Boston Globe. From 1962 to 1965 Wells was administrative public information and legal service officer for Action for Boston Community Development.

Wells also is the author of numerous articles and papers on legal services and education in Boston.

Dr. Chung on Tufts pediatric staff

Kung Ja Chung, MD, of Winchester, has joined the fulltime staff of the New England Medical Center Hospital (NEMCH) Department of Pediatrics (Cardiology Service) as an assistant pediatric cardiologist and the faculty of Tufts University School of Medicine as an assistant professor in pediatrics.

Dr. Chung went to NEMCH from the University of Wisconsin Medical School where she had been an assistant professor in pediatrics (pediatric cardiology) since 1973.

After earning the MD degree from Ewha Woman's University Medical School in Seoul, Korea, Dr. Chung came to the United States to serve a rotating internship at Riverside Methodist Hospital in Columbus, Ohio. Pediatric residencies followed at Milwaukee Children's Hospital and Boston City Hospital.

Dr. Chung was appointed in 1970 to the faculty of the University of Rochester (N.Y.) Medical School as an instructor in pediatrics, simultaneously serving a clinical fellowship in pediatric cardiology at the University of Rochester Medical Center. Two years later she undertook a research fellowship in pediatric cardiology and echo-cardiology at the same institution.

Tot Finder decals may be picked up at the Central and West Side fire stations. Their purpose is to help firefighters locate children in homes which are afire. For more information, contact the Winchester Fire Department.

Austin Prep plans for reunion Wed.

All alumni of Austin Prep are invited to a reunion party next Wednesday at 7:30. The party will be held at Austin Prep.

This will mark the fourth such general reunion that Austin has held in recognition of the need to promote communication and fellowship among its alumni. At the reunion, alumni will have the opportunity to renew friendships with one another and with faculty, past and present. Plans have been devised for the reunion over a period of several weeks so that this year's get-together is expected to be an even greater success than last year's.

Beth Ann Kimball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Kimball of 4 Norwood st., was married to Thomas Wright Kimball, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kimball of Lexington.

The ceremony took place December 2 in Burlington, Vermont, where both the bride and groom are students. The bride, a Winchester High School graduate, is a student at Champlain College. Her husband is a student at the University of Vermont at Burlington.

The two attendants were Kathy Regan of 22 Churchill rd. and Robert Kimball, brother of the groom, of Lexington.

The couple will be making their home in Burlington following a wedding trip to Montreal.

Mystic choir gives senior concert

The bowling league of the senior citizens of Winchester held their annual Christmas celebration at the new Knights of Columbus Hall on Dec. 16.

After the buffet meal, the Mystic School chorus, under the direction of Jean Loudon, presented a Christmas concert. The children wore specially prepared red gowns trimmed with white.

Ed Sharkey, chairman of the luncheon, paid a special tribute to Mrs. Martha Grenzeback, school principal, and to Miss Loudon, "for the excellence attained in the training of their students and the ability to bring out the proper vocal effects for this wholesome Christmas program."

The new Indian Ridge Country Club in Andover will be the scene of Massachusetts' first American Cancer Society Walter Hagen Tournament next September. J. L. "Tex" McReynolds (left) and Robert Graves of the Winchester Country Club are among those representatives who recently met at Pier 4 with State Cancer Crusade Chairman Anthony Athanas (right) to discuss the golf tournament.

Children's films shown at library

December 29

Angel and Big Joe: This film tells of a Mexican-Puerto Rican boy who tries to adapt to the United States.

Madeline and the bad hat: Madeline persuades Pepito to release the animals that he has captured that are kept in small cages.

Quebec-Ski: Canada invites the skier to the cold and inviting ski country north of Montreal.

On Thursday afternoon, the children's film program will be held in the meeting room of the Winchester Public Library. The Dec. 25 and Dec. 27 programs will not be held, and this special holiday show will begin at 1:30.

History for sale

The two-volume History of Winchester, published as one of the town's bicentennial projects, is on sale at the Winchester Public Library. It comes in a slipcase displaying a picture of the town in 1845.

This makes an excellent Christmas gift for newcomers or for friends and family who have moved away. It is possible to arrange to have the boxed set mailed.

Ambrose students present program

On Dec. 14, the Ambrose School presented a holiday program of song, dialogue, and scenes from Dickens's Christmas Carol. Every student of the school participated in the program.

The primary level featured songs from many cultures accompanied by various rhythm instruments and the xylophone played by students on that level.

The intermediate level presented scenes from A Christmas Carol and sang many old and new songs of the season.

The program was directed by Nancy Peterson Thorne and Jean Loudon, music specialists of the school, in cooperation with other members of the staff.

There were more holiday celebrations as the parents association sponsored a sherry party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Plowman.

Ambrose faculty and staff joined parents in sherry and hors d'oeuvres prepared by members of the board.

Sacred mountain photos on display

Fifty-eight of the thousands of photographs the late Koyo Okada took of Mount Fuji, Japan's sacred mountain, are now on display at Boston's Museum of Science.

An acknowledged artist with a camera, Okada made photographs that resemble Japanese brush paintings, as well as photographs celebrating his technical virtuosity.

The display is a portrait of the mountain in relation to its environment — clouds, sunrises, moon-lighted sky, and reflections in a lake. The mountain is seen principally as a serene presence, which is elusive in its distance and in the varied cloud formations that frequently encircle it.

The poet Robert Lowell said, "But we must notice — we are designed for the moment."

With creative intensity Okada noticed everything about the mountain, particularly the clouds. He chronicled them all, from thunder and cirrus to the more imaginative "ominous," and "prop-serous."

He paid attention to the kinds of trees and flowers that could frame Mount Fuji in many moods. There are lush cherry blossoms, lonely fronds bent by the rain, protective, snow-covered branches and spirited red leaves.

When Okada died in 1972, he had spent 60 of his 70 years on this photography.

Okada's 380,000 photographs of the mountain are probably unequaled, Museum director Bradford Washburn believes. This is their first public showing in this country.

To remain through February 19, the exhibition is sponsored by The Flying Tiger Line, Inc., Los Angeles, with assistance from Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Kinsey, Los Angeles, and Miss Michido Matsumoto, Osaka.

Children's theatre has new home

The Board of Trustees announces the change of location of Boston Children's Theatre, Inc. from 263 Commonwealth Avenue, to 791 Hammond st., Brookline, effective Jan. 1, 1978.

This move was necessitated by the sale of the American Legion building which has housed the theatre's activities for the past twenty years.

Performances will be given as always at New England Life Hall, Copley Square, but all other activities — office, classes, and rehearsals will be held at the new home in Beaver Country Day School facilities.

The production, "Aladdin," will be performed at New England Life Hall daily during school vacation week, Dec. 27 through 31 at 2:00 p.m.

Tracksters squeeze out win first meet against Melrose

By George Parker

The Winchester Winter Track team barely took their opening meet, defeating Melrose 44-42. The meet was highlighted by several record-breaking or equaling efforts.

In the 45 yard dash, Scott Farrar equaled the school record of 5.3 seconds in a closely contested race, as the second place man had the same time.

In the 600, Charlie Larkin easily outdistanced the field as he ran to a 1:16.2 time, a very large improvement on last year's excellent times. Ed Kirkpatrick also won easily, coming in three seconds in front of his next competitor in the 1000 yard run, with a time of 2:28.3

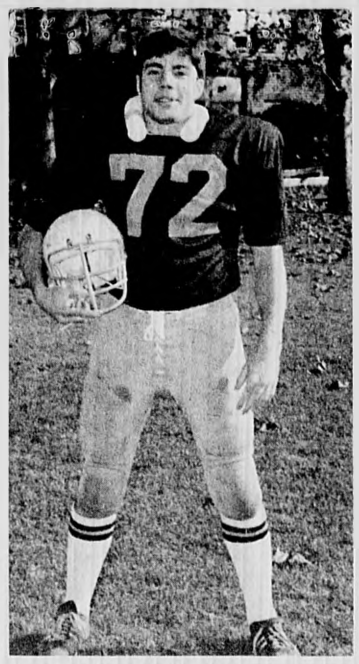

In the mile, another record fell, as Andy Wilsack had the excellent time of 4:37.3 taking 10 seconds off the old record!

In the shot put, Brian O'Connor started his season with a 49' 2½" heave, taking first place by two feet. In the same event, Paul Sylvester had a 34' 5½" effort, good enough for third place, and one more precious point. In the other field event, Reilly Atkinson placed second, with a leap of 5' 4". Reilly took second because he had fewer misses than his opponent.

In the hurdles, Scott Kajander and Tim Morgan placed one-two, with times of 6.4 and 6.5 seconds. On a totally different subject, George Parker was fortunate to place third in the two-mile, with a time of 11:15. Also coming in third was Jackie Driscoll, with a time of 37.4, in the 300.

Thus it all came down to the relay, as the two teams were tied 39 all. Whoever won the relay won the meet. Scott Farrar started it off for the Sachems, and lost a great deal of ground to his opponent. Then Ed Kirkpatrick took the baton and made up some of the lost ground before handing off to Andy Wilsack.

Andy burned up the track, for when he handed off to Charlie Larkin the two teams were nearly equal. When Charlie received the baton, he fell behind for two laps, then blew by his competitor on the last corner and took the race, and the meet. The final time was 3:41.7, the final score was 44-42.

Mark Pasillo

Mark Pasillo named all-star in prep league

Mark Pasillo, an outstanding offensive and defensive tackle for Buckingham Browne and Nichols School in Cambridge for the past two years, has been selected by the league coaches to the 1977 Independent Private School League team.

Pasillo, who is 17, weighs 205 pounds and stands six feet one inch. He is considered a good college prospect by head coach John H. Etter and his staff. He has attracted the attention of numerous college scouts.

In the summer of 1976 Pasillo was given a trophy at Joe Namath's football camp at Nichols College, Dudley, Mass. as the outstanding senior division lineman.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Pasillo of One Parker rd., Pasillo's ambition is to play Ivy League football.

On Saturday, December 24th, both offices of the

Winchester High's outstanding athletes for fall 1977

This week the The Star sports staff puts together the first fall selection of most valuable players for high school sports

The choices were made, in consultation with coaches and players, by the writers, who compiled the information and put these pieces together

This fall, the staff writing for us at the high school included Jon Kalman, who covered most of the football games; Bill Murphy, who covered in Jon's absence; Kelly Gately, who managed to be in two places at once, covering field hockey and soccer; and George Parker, who wrote up the cross-country meets for us. Laurie Grant, who supplied us with information on the swim team all fall, was chosen the top member of the swim team, and teammates Maryellen Kennedy and Lynn Foden wrote up her section

George Casey & Jack Driscoll

Although Winchester High Boys' Soccer team was knocked out of play-off contention in the first round, they did make it to the state tourney finishing their season wiah a 9-4-5 season record. The team was led by seniors George Casey and Jack Driscoll, who are The Star's outstanding sports performers for soccer.

George, playing at center halfback, scored 10 goals during the season and was one of the top scorers in the Middlesex League. Known for his heads up llay, George assisted on many goals while also playing a strong defensive game.

Many of his goals came on penalty kicks ranging from 10 to 30 yards. One of his most exciting goals was his long shot against Lexington which gave Winchester a 1-1 tie playing with only 10 men. He also had a three goal game against Watertown.

George was also selected to the Division 1 All-Star team as well as the Middlesex League All-Stars.

Jack, positioned at inner on a 4-man offensive line, scored 13 goals to lead the team in goals scored and he also was a top scorer in the Middlesex League. He set up many of his own goals with his excellent dribbling skills. He also set up other goals with his aggressive play and accurate passing.

He scored at least one goal in 10 of 18 regular season games. He also had a three-goal game against Woburn. Jack and George combined scored almost half of their team's goals, 23 out of 50. Jack was also chosen as a Middlesex League All-Star.

The two combined give Winchester such a powerfull offesive attack, that they were only shutout twice before their 4-0 loss in the tourney.

Anthony Davis & Gerard DiBlasi

The Sachems compiled an impressive 7-3 record this season, and one of the key reasons was the outstanding play of lineman Gerard DiBlasi. Gerard, a two way starter for Coach Manny Marshall's gridiron club, anchored a strong defensive front comprised of Bill Monson, John Della Grote, and Brian O'Connor. This defensive unit, known as "The Goal Line Defense," terrorized opposing runners, and helped secure several of the Sachems' early wins.

Gerard first appeared on the Winchester football scene as a sophomore, "and after a lot of help and encouragement from the coaches," secured a spot and considerable playing time on varsity.

At the end of that season, the next year's prospect for starting both ways on varsity appeared bright, but unfortunately never materialized when three days before the season he broke his leg.

Gerard tried to play the last two games of that season, but reinjured the leg in practice and was forced to wait until his senior year to return to the field.

When the 1977-1978 season opened agaisnt Natick, Gerard was ready to play, and quickly served notice to the rest of the league that the Sachems defense unit was not going to 'give an inch.'

Gerard continued his outstanding play throughout the season, stopping the opposing runners on defense, and clearing a path for his own runners on offense.

The capping of his fine season was his being honored as a Middlesex League All Star.

Gerard DiBlasi

Anthony Davis-high school star, honor roll student, dedicated, friendly, competitive. These are just a few of the many accomplishments of this gifted athlete and student.

Anthony was one of the main components of the Sachem's potent offensive unit. Together with expert quarterback Don Allard's heady leadership, the two made the most feared combo in the Middlesex League.

And the fear was justified, as AD romped for 14 touchdowns and over 900 yards in nine games to lead the Sachems to a 7-3 season.

The preseason polls all placed the Sachems chances on this one-two combo, predicting, "as Davis and Allard go, so go the Sachems." They were essentially right, but who was to know that AD would be one of the top three runners and scorers in the Middlesex League, and Allard would become the best quarterback.

Anthony Davis' consistent heroics on both offense and defense resulted in his being named Star of the Week in the Boston Globe, and being named to both the Globe's and the Herald's All-Scholastic second team as a defensive back.

A just reward for an outstanding athlete.

Anthony Davis

Laurie Grant

The girl's swim team. Have you heard about them? Probably not, yet while they have quietly been storking through their season, they have accumulated a winning record, 5 and 3. Impossible you say? Not so when you have one girl on your team whose name is Laurie Grant and is the same person who can pull the team together, swim in events which need strength and always exhibit true "Sachem Spirit".

Since you probably have not read much about the team's season, it's now time for a review. The girl's team has strengthened in the past few years, pulling out squeakers such as the meet against Haverhill, but still needs considerably more depth to overcome the powerhouse teams of Lexington and Marblehead. Laurie Grant throughout the '77 season has swum in a variety of events ranging from her favorite, the 50 free, to the grueling 500 free (two laps vs. 20 laps), and practically every race in between. Her skill stretches even further than that however, as can be seen in her past season accomplishments. Laurie in the Eastern meets early in November placed an outstanding fifth (26.1) in the 50 free and a 12th (59.1) in the 100 free. She also, along with teammates Kathy Connoly, Bitser Dexter, and Jaqui Hart, stroked to a close second place in the medley relay (2.00.007), being outtouched by the Marblehead swimmers. Later in the State meet, Laurie placed eighth in the 50 free and fifth in the 100 breastroke (1.12.7), and the Sachemette relay swam to a third in the medley. The Winchester girl's swim team has come a long way.

Laurie Grant, however, is more than just the team's official "point-getter," she's much more. She, along with the other two tri-captains, Lisa MacDonald and Bitser Dexter have been great enthusiasts and leaders. By helping Coach Vin Palumbo throughout the 4:30-6:30 practices at the Northeast Vocational School, their spirit has encouraged the swimmers and, even though it may not make the 60' water any warmer, it does help to make the sessions more enjoyable. Laurie Grant is an outstanding swimmer in the true sense of the word, a person who stands out from all the others. And just think, she's only a junior!

Andy Wilsack & Jan Oehm

Jan Oehm

It must be some measure of the progress of the status of women's sports: this fall's MVPs in cross-country are Jan Oehm and Andy Wilsack.

Andy had an excellent season, losing only two races, to Reading's Bill Morrison and Wakefield's Peter Johnson. He also placed high in the league and state championships.

Andy started his running career as a freshman, practicing with the track teams, but not competing. When he was allowed to compete in his sophomore year, he immediately was up in the top five runners. After this season, all one can say about next year is— Watch out!

Jan Oehm had an incredible season, winning every girls' meet except for the state and national championships, and consistently placing high up in every boys' meet she competed in.

Jan was named to the Globe All-Scholastic Girls' cross-country squad and to the Middlesex League All-star squad. The Woburn Times named her female cross country runner of the year for the Winchester-Woburn-Burlington area (Wilsack was also named by the Times).

Jan well deserved these honors; she is ranked 16th in the nation, second in the state behind the national champion, Lynn Jennings.

Liz Fuller & Kelly Evans

Liz Fuller

Kelly Evans

"They're both super players," was the comment given by Coach Marge Harvey regarding field hockey's two senior co-captains Kelly Evans and Liz Fuller, named The Star's outstanding sports performers for field hockey.

Although they had a disappointing season (3-9-1), Kelly and Liz kept team spirits alive and played like every game was the state finals.

Kelly, positioned at center halfback, led the defense by turning away opponent's drives and also playing an excellent offensive game assisting on many goals.

"It's a key position, you need to be thinking every second to anticipate and intercept passes. Kelly was very dependable on and off the field," explained Coach Harvey. Kelly was also given honorable mention by the Middlesex League Allstars.

Liz, on the other hand, led the offense. Playing at a wing position, which usually doesn't score much, she scored one goal during the season which gave the team a 1-1 tie with Lexington, who was undefeated at that time. She has good dribbling skills and set up many goals for her team.

"Liz is one of the best wings in the league. She has very good ball control and plays the ball well. She and Kelly were great leaders for our team," remarked Coach Harvey.

Kelly and Liz have really proven to be outstanding players for field hockey.

Sports awards banquet held

The third annual fall sports awards banquet was held Dec. 8 at Winchester High School, and the captains for next year's fall sports teams were announced.

Chosen tri-captains for the 1978 Sachem football squad were Sam Bellino, Tom Murray, and John Shattuck. Head Coach Manny Marshall made the announcement, following the distribution of varsity letters to the team members.

This years's winner of the Doc Hines award, given to the player on the football team who exhibits the most team spirit, was senior lineman Gerard DiBlasi. Anthony Davis and John DellaGrotte won the recreation department's awards for best back and best lineman at the Thanksgiving Day game against Woburn.

Members of the various teams received their letters at the ceremonies, and the other team captains were named for next year.

In soccer, Coach Gene Bouley named Bubba Sandford and Willie Strazzullo as co-captains.

Nella Barrow, Kathleen Driscoll, and Beth Noble were chosen tri-captains for the '78 Sachemette field hockey squad.

Named captain of the cross country squad for next fall was Andy Wilsack.

Wilsack, along with Jan Oehm from the girls' cross country squad and soccer players George Casey and John Waite, were presented with matted portraits of themselves by the Woburn Daily Times, which named the four in their tri-city players-of-the-year awards.

Early Birds

The Starlings in the Winchester Early Birds bowling league are back in first place. Team members are Elaine Binding, Marilyn Kelly and Ann D'Avoli. They are having a see-saw battle with the Doves for this position, who are now tied with the Pheasants for the second place position. Doves team members are Mary Jane Brooks, Jo Vacca and Mary Sullivan. Pheasants team members are Heather Bass, Diana Couture and Roseann Pasquariello.

Rose Bezjian had a terrific morning, capturing both the high individual single game of 210 and the high individual three games series of 482. The Bluebirds also captured both the high team single game of 449 and the high team three game total of 1249. Team members are Marie Palumbo, Tina DePaulis and Rosemarie Vita.

Congratulations to many people this morning. Two new bowlers had a very high scoring game, Jo Vacca with 163 and Roseann Pasquariello with 167. Tina DePaulis made the most difficult 3-9-10 spare and Marie Palumbo made the most difficult 5-7, 5-10 spares.

New bowlers are most welcome and should contact Diane Couture, 21 Old Colony rd., Arlington.

Habitat courses explore winter's natural history

Starting at the end of January, Habitat Institute for the Environment will be offering more than 20 courses for both adults and children at its 26 acre sanctuary near Belmont Center.

Many of the courses are designed to explore the natural history of winter - the trees, traces of animals and summer weeds, snow crystals and stars. Other courses use art and drawing techniques to study natural forms.

Special programs include a winter vacation day camp during the February school vacation week and a cross country skiing weekend in New Hampshire.

For more information about these programs, contact Habitat at 10 Juniper rd., Box 136, Belmont, 02178, or call 489-3850.

Bantam AA's win 5-2 over new Topsfield team

The Winchester Bantam AA's got back in the win column Sunday night with a hard fought 5-2 victory over a MASCO team which joined the league 3 weeks ago. MASCO is made up of boys from the Topsfield area.

Winchester got on the board at the five-minute mark of the first period on a blistering shot by Bill Ferry with assists going to Ned Fortin and Brendan Nolan. With less than three minutes remaining in the period, Jess Stackpole scored on a beautiful backhand shot with an assist going to Brendan Nolan. MASCO get their first with less than a minute to play in the period, on quick slapshot which eluded goalie Steve Noble.

The second period scoring for Winchester came with just 11 seconds gone, when Ned Fortin rifled a wrist shot from in close and Fran Murray assisted. MASCO scored what was to be their last goal at the six-minute mark on a scramble in front of Goalie Bob Giarrizzo. After that goal the period remained scoreless.

Winchester's Captain Fran Murray opened the third period scoring on a perfectly deflected shot by Ned Fortin past the surprised MASCO goalie at the two-minute mark. Less than six minutes later Murray struck again for Winchester's fifth and final goal on a fine pass from John Ferullo. The hard work of John Boyle, Doug Ross, Jeff Lavey and Chris Parker up front, and the solid defensive game played by Steve Marino, John Ferullo, Brendon Nolan and Paul White, along with the good goal tending of Steve Noble and Bob Giarrizzo, made it a total team victory. Winchester's next game is New Year's Day against the undefeated and untied Stoneham sextet, game time 3:10 P.M.

Mills sinks 33 as hoopsters win first against Lynn

Captain Glen Mills led the WHS Sachem basketball team to victory Friday against Lynn English, scoring 33 points. It was their first game of the season, and the Sachems won 64-55.

The first home game of the season is Friday against Concord-Carlisle at 6:30 p.m. at the high school.

Score is 5-3

Mites continue drive to top, beat Lexington

The Winchester Mites continued their drive to gain top spot in their division by beating Lexington 5-3 at the Burlington Ice Palace on Saturday morning.

In a very tight division, Medford is at the top with 19 points, Waltham is second with 18, and Winchester is third with 17 points.

The Winchester team was led by Captain Petey Regan, who earned the first star of the game. Lexington scored first but Regan responded with an unassisted goal three minutes later and the first period ended with a 1-1 score.

Greg Winn opened the second period with a goal after receiving a pass from David Butt and Sukjong Chung. Marc Todisco earned the second star for his play in the game passed up to Regan for his second goal. Regan unassisted scored his third goal and put Winchester ahead going into the third period 4-2.

The third period action was up and down the ice. Regan scored his fourth goal of the game unassisted in the third period. Kevin Boyle made some key saves in the period, keeping Lexington off the scoreboard until 59 seconds were left in the game.

Helmet decals were awarded to all the team members for their excellent effort in last week's tie with Medford. Those members receiving decals were Captain Petey Regan, alternate captains Greg Winn and Kevin Boyle, Timmy Day, Sukjong Chung, Scott Paine, Ted Dever, Derek Sullivan, David Butt, Billy Coppins, Marc Todisco, Matt Quill, Marc Falzano, and Ronny Settipane.

Next week's game will be played against Newton, who is chasing Winchester for third place. Newton currently has 14 points.

Christmas decorations like the greenery on this home are all over town, making the spirit bright for the holidays.

A Christmas poem

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house, not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse; when down through the chimney, all covered with soot, came the "Spirit of Fire," an ugly galoot

His eyes glowed like embers, his features were stern, as he looked all around him for something to burn
What he saw made him grumble— his anger grew higher— for there wasn't a thing that would start a good fire

No door had been blocked by the big Christmas tree:
it stood in the corner, leaving passageways free. The lights that glowed brightly for Betty and Tim had been hung with precaution, so none touched a limb.

All wiring was new, not a break could be seen, and wet sand at its base kept the tree nice and green. The tree had been trimmed by mother insistent that the ornaments used should be fire resistant.

And mother had known the things to avoid, like cotton and paper and plain celluloid. Rock wool, metal icicles, and trinkets of glass gave life to the tree— it really had class!

And, would you believe it, right next to the tree, was a suitable box for holding debris— a place to throw wrappings of paper and string, from all of the gifts that Santa might bring.

The ugly galoot was so mad he could bust, as he climbed up the chimney in utter disgust, for the folks in this home had paid close attention to all of the rules of good fire prevention.

(Note: the above verses were submitted by a local resident and had their origin in the Randolph Fire Department.)

Francis Finigan named to science training panel

Francis X. Finigan, of Belmont was recently named by the National Science Foundation to the Student Science Training Program Review Panel.

Finigan is an educator in the Winchester Public School System. He has been president of the National Science Supervisors Association and chairman of the National Committee on the Supervision of Science Teaching.

According to the foundation the basic goal of the program is "to provide talented students with science learning opportunities above and beyond those normally available in most formal science education programs.

The panel reviews proposals for funding from colleges throughout the country for projects ranging from studies in experimental psychology to field archaeology.

For his contributions to science education Finigan was named a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

In addition to his duties in the Winchester Public Schools, Finigan is also senior lecturer in national science at Northeastern University and associate director of the Boston College Massachusetts Elementary Science Implementation Project.

Finigan and his wife, Ann, are the parents of three children, Tom, Joe and Nancy.

REALTOR

HOME BUYER PSYCHOLOGY

Buyers buy homes by comparison. The average buyer is no slouch. He'll shop a particular neighborhood and home type. He'll rarely buy the first one he visits. It's too big an investment to be nonchalant. He will then compare prices against comparative value. He'll quickly throw out any obviously overpriced homes.

If the buyer really likes one of these overpriced homes, he may make a counter offer at a lower price - closer to its true value. But history shows that he'll probably make his offer for one already realistically valued.

A Realtor can save the home seller much chagrin because he has accurate knowledge of what similar houses in his neighborhood are selling for, which have been taken off the market because of overpricing. Doesn't it make sense to work with documented facts instead of guesswork. Who knows, you may even be planning to sell your house for less than you should. Why not drop in and find out? We have the facts.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at ANN BLACKHAM & CO., 11 Thompson St., Winchester. Phone 729-1663. We're here to help!

Winchester High School

Susan Austin is new to Winchester and teaches English and German at WHS. Ms. Austin, who spent a year in Germany between high school and college as an American Field Service exchange student, now heads this region's screening committee for the AFS. In addition, she is trying to start an exchange program through the Goethe Institute, a cultural institute located in major foreign cities to further study and interest in German language and culture. The exchange, called German-American Partnership Program, would provide host families for German students to live and study in Winchester 4-6 weeks and for Winchester students to live in Germany and study there after the end of the school year here. German schools are in session into the summer months. Ms. Austin arranged a similar program in Satellite Beach, Fl.

Alfred Duhamel, in his eighth year of teaching foreign languages in Winchester, spent seven weeks of the summer of Middlebury College Graduate Summer School in Middlebury, Vt. Dunhamel, who already holds a master's degree in French from Middlebury, has begun master's degree study in Spanish. At Middlebury the master's program is carried on only in the target language, and all students are pledged to speak only that language for the duration of the summer session. Professors are native speakers and the program includes movies, lectures, seminars in many areas including Latin American politics and economic conditions, as well as regular class work and study.

Lourde Alvarez is herself a native Spanish speaker. She was born in Cuba but has lived in the United States since she was 11 years old. Mrs. Alvarez, who relates media techniques to the teaching of Spanish, is in the midst of her study at BU in a media program leading to a master's degree in public communications. Last spring Ms. Alvarez, a teacher of advanced Spanish courses at Winchster High, and advisor to the Spanish Club led, with co-advisor Doris Click, a group of 24 students and 10 adults to Spain where they visited Madrid, Toledo, Avila, Segovia, Granada, Torremolinos and Malaga. Ms. Alvarez is exploring the possibilities of leading a group to Mexico in April.

Doris Click who holds an MA in Spanish from BU, has recently completed a course in Caribbean Literature. Ms. Click has found this course particularly helpful in teaching the literature in her Spanish 4 course.

No all-night parking allowed

Beginning around Nov. 1, police will be enforcing all-night parking regulations more strictly. Because of bad weather and the possibility of snow, no on-the-street parking after 6 p.m. will be tolerated by the police department. Vehicles parked overnight on all streets, except private ways, will be ticketed, according to Police Chief John P. McHugh.

First Church Christmas service
On Saturday evening at 6, the First Congregational Church School will present a Christmas Pageant titled "The First Christmas." Children of all ages from kindergarten through high school will take part.
This is a Family Service for all ages, and the community is invited to attend. The service will be held in the sanctuary, and it will end in time for those present to take part in the carol sing on the common at 7.
The committee responsible for this family service consists of Mrs. Barbara Jopling, director of Christian education, Mrs. Leslie French, Mrs. Elizabeth Sayre, and Mrs. Sandra Wahl, teachers in the church school.
At 11 p.m that same evening the annual service of carols and communion will be held in the sanctuary. This service is planned and conducted by the joint efforts of the senior minister, Walter B. Davis, the Forum young people, and the deacons.
The Christmas worship service on December 25 will be held at 11 a.m. with Walter B Davis preaching. The chancel of the church will be decorated with poinsettias, which will be delivered after the service to shut-ins and sick persons. A coffee hour will follow the service. The New Year's service the following Sunday will also be held at 11 a.m., followed by a coffee hour.

Christmas music at St. Mary's Church

Music for 7:30 Christmas Eve and 10:15 Christmas Day at St. Mary's will include organ prelude: "How Brightly Shines the Morning Star" of J.S. Bach; choir: "Sing We Now of Christmas" arranged by Zgodava; solo "A Savior is Born" by G. Carissimi with alto Mary C Reidy; and choir: "Break Forth O Beauteous Heavn'ly Light" by Bach.

Further music for the mass include "O Come All Ye Faithful"; offertory: Tollite Hostias" by Saint-Saens; communion: "Jesus, Jesus Rest Your Head" arranged by Schroth; "A Christmas Candle" by Warren with soloist Jennie Morgan, soprano; meditation: "A Christmas Carol" by Dello Joio; recessional: "Hark the Herald Angels Sing"; and choral recessional: "Alleluia" from Bach's Christmas Cantata.

The 9 o'clock Christmas Eve music will include "He Shall Feed His Flock" from Handel's Messiah, and "A Savior is Born" by Carissimi, with alto Mary C. Reidy singing the solo.

The 11:30 music will be "Come Unto Him" from Handel's Messiah, and Jennie Morgan singing the soprano solo of Warren's "A Christmas Candle".

Parent to Parent

Parents of children with special needs also need support and understanding, whether their child's special need is permanent or temporary, connected with birth or occuring later.

Parent to Parent, a service sponsored by the March of Dimes, brings together parents who have gone through similar experiences and problems. It also sends out literature, a newsletter, and information on workshops and socials.

Parents needing this kind of support and parents able to offer this understanding may join Parent to Parent at 21 Chestnut st., Pembroke, Ma. 02359 or by calling 293-5201. All information is held in strictest confidence.

Fire dept. has guidelines for wood stove use

As a result of the energy shortage, many people are seeking alternative sources of energy. They are turning to coal, wood burning stoves, and fireplaces as alternative sources of heat.

Unfortunately, very few people know how to select, install, operate and maintain solid fuel heating equipment, according to Fire Chief McElhinney. The Fire Department has regulations for the installation of wood burning stoves and the State Building Code requires certain safety standards be met:

A. Persons must apply for a permit from the Building Inspector.

B. Section 2109:15 State Building Code states: "The stove must be approved by an approved testing agency."

C. The stove must be vented into its own flue, not to be vented into a common flue with other heating appliances.

E. If there is no flue liner in the chimney, do not use it for a wood burning stove.

F. Stove must be located 36 inches from a combustible wall, 18 inches if noncombustible material is placed on the wall.

G. Stove legs should be at least four inches long and set on a floor protector.

H. A floor protector must be used - it should extend six inches from all sides of the stove and 18 inches from the side where fuel is inserted.

Notification of all installations should be given to the Fire Department for final approval and inspection.

Much of the printing plant building looked like the bombed out ruins from a war. The old mill building was three stories high but most of it collapsed in the fire. ## Newspaper printing plant burned out; others give aid

A seven-alarm fire Christmas Eve destroyed the printing plant in Lowell where the Century Publications, Inc. newspapers, The Arlington Advocate, The Winchester Star and The Belmont Citizen, have been printed for the past two years.

Today's issue was printed by the Southbridge Evening News, located about 60 miles away, which geared up to help out on short notice. Publisher C. Peter Jorgensen, who was visiting relatives in Pennsylvania for the holidays, said, "I knew The Southbridge News had the press capacity and mailing facilities to handle our papers so I called their publisher, Loren Ghiglione, about 10 Christmas morning, wished him a happy holiday and then explained our plight."

The Southbridge News immediately gave a commitment to get the papers printed and addressed this week. Jorgensen said "I want to publicly thank Loren and the News' General Manager Ron Ellis for their support and assistance in this time of emergency. We also want to recognize the cooperation of their department foremen, Mark Ashton, Paul Julian, Jim Dunlop and Dick Cechauski and all Evening News employees."

Two other newspapers which are printed at the Southbridge plant changed their schedules so that Century's papers could get out on time. They are the Amherst Record published by Mike deSherbinin and the Wayland-Weston Town Crier published by Bob Schuette. Jorgensen said he wanted to express his appreciation to these men for their understanding and accommodation.

"Our own employees have been terrific," Jorgensen said. "Several came in on Monday to get a jump on production even though it was a holiday, and the editorial, advertising and production employees all pulled together to adjust schedules and get the papers out on time."

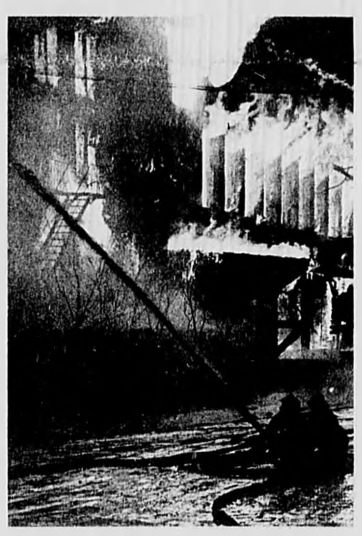

The destroyed Lowell plant was owned by Minuteman Publications of Lexington and printed seven papers published by that company plus several others. Minuteman papers are being printed this week under an arrangement with the Milford Daily News, with the papers then being trucked to Nashua, N.H. for addressing and mailing.

Other papers normally printed at Lowell are being handled by various plants in Eastern Massachusetts with available press time.

Publisher Jorgensen said he would also like to thank the newspapers which called with offers of assistance including The Memorial Press Group, Plymouth, the Malden Evening News, the Chelsea Record, and The Daily Transcript, Dedham. The Woburn Daily Times also pitched in to handle a rush printing job on Tuesday, printing a newspaper for which Century does the typesetting and composition.

According to Bill Frye, publisher of Minuteman and president of the burned out Central Middlesex Printers, some of the equipment may be salvageable, and they are hoping to relocate. The roof, upper stories and many walls of the building collapsed, but the immediate pressroom area which suffered heavy water damage, was physically intact.

Salvage operations are being conducted by John J. Kennefick and Company of Arlington, insurance adjusters and fire loss recovery specialists.

Fiscal '79 school budget totals $9m

The school department has released a preliminary version of the entire school budget proposed for fiscal 1979. A summary of the budget, program by program, follows.

The school committee has not yet approved the entire budget and is working at the various aspects one figure at a time. Says Jack Fallon, assistant superintendent for administration, whose office put the budget together, "It is likely that the final budget will be slightly lower" than that which appears below.

The total budget adds up to $8,986,984, up $370,339 from last year, about a four per cent increase.

The bulk of the rise comes in personal services, up $240,243 to $7,453,781. The cost of administration is down $14,000, along with the cost of support services (-$386). The cost of police services is down as well by $325.

Under the budget for instruction under personal services, only the specialists' account is down, by $14,196. Increases in the other categories total $202,727.

In the other expenses account, the increase totals $111,088. The bulk of this increase shows up in the budgets for utilities and contractual services.

The athletic budget is up by $33,407 to $197,517, most of it in salaries and stipends. The actual increase in this budget is offset by a cash balance of $17,000 and estimated receipts of $6000, leaving a total of $174,517.

The school lunch budget is also up, by $6437 to $369,883. Less estimated receipts ($254,000) ($257,560) and a cash balance ($31,000), the budget appropriation totals $81,323, up $10,827 from last year.

The school-community program budget is down by $3677 to $25,900, all of which goes for personal services costs.

The school committee invites comment by citizens of the town with respect to the budget, and supporting details are available for inspection at the office of the superintendent at 15 High st.

A public hearing will be held at 7:45 p.m. Jan. 11 in the auditorium at McCall Junior High School. The committee expects that it will approve a budget on or about Jan. 30.

Footnotes for the budget are as follows:

(1) Reflects a reallocation of the salaries of two principals to reflect their central office activities (i.e. the roles of Clare Corcoran and Robert Fitzgerald in handling personnel).

(2) Results from salary step increases.

(3) Increase caused by significant salary increase from current annual salary rate.

(4) Reflects budget allocation for a maximum number of sabbaticals (six). If the committee does not grant that number of sabbaticals this item will decline. In fiscal 1978 two sabbaticals were granted.

(5) Increase caused by the fact that actual utilization of custodial overtime services is substantially greater than budgeted sums for custodial overtime.

(6) This budget reflects only a five per cent increase over FY1977 experience.

(7) Reflects anticipated increased busing needs for kindergarten. (8) This results from changes in budget procedure regarding capital expense items.

Tonight the school board will meet with the finance committee to go over the proposed budget.

Looking back over 1977

Storms, tranquility punctuate year

Winchester managed to weather several storms this past year, not all of them of the snow variety. As we look ahead to a new year, we pause to consider what has gone on in 1977, a year of beginnings and endings in many facets of town life.

What follows is a compilation of the events in Winchester's life during the year 1977. It is not complete. It is one person's view.

For sure something important to one person has been left out and something trivial to someone else has been included.

It's been a full year, a busy one.

One of the biggest stories this year was the acceptance by town meeting of the reorganization of the department of public works — a step mandated by the charter — and consequent problems within its ranks.

After extensive press coverage of complaints and dissatisfaction of several town employees in the DPW, the board of selectmen held two public forums in the late summer-early fall to bring the grumblings into the open. Only a handful of persons attended the first meeting and about 30 went to the second.

Because of possible grievance procedures, discussion was limited. From the talks, however, a number of complaints were aired publicly and were followed up by the selectmen, the town manager, and the DPW superintendent.

Subsequent selectmen's meetings dealt with the questions raised by employees. While there are some grievances now under way, the public aspects of the DPW complaints have been quiet. It was, however, a difficult transition into the new reorganization.

Another difficult beginning split the town as the Wyman School was closed, finally and officially, after months of attempts by Wyman parents and others to keep the school open.

The April 21 Star opened its Wyman story: Despite the referendum vote of the town last fall and despite the election of two new school committee members who ran for office on the platform of retaining neighborhood schools, the Wyman School will not open in the fall.

The next month the town meeting took the matter into its own hands: The long-awaited last-ditch effort by Wyman parents to save their school on the floor of town meeting was soundly defeated by a greater than 2-1 margin.

So the school closed and the majority of its students were enrolled at the Lincoln School in the center. The Bartlett School, a private elementary school based in Arlington, leased the building from the town and in the fall opened its doors to private students.

A third storm to churn up the residents of Winchester happened in October this year when a drinking water ban was ordered for the first time in the town's history.

The story wasn't as simple as that, however, as the state, the board of health, the DPW, and the town officials tried to figure out who gave what order to whom and when. Some of the 1500 residents within the contaminated area never did find out about the order to boil their drinking water until the order was lifted. Others questioned the timing of the order and its reason.

The source of the contamination was traced to the standpipe at the south reservoir, but the cause was not known. Selectmen called for a public meeting with the state officials in an attempt to sort out the confusion and the reasons for "boil orders".

There was praise on one side for the way the entire situation was handled and grumbling on the other about the lack of coordination.

Month by month, there were stories which brought the town together in different ways. Most of the news was good, but a couple of sad stories also made the front page.

The first woman in the state to become an Episcopal priest was ordained in January at the Church of the Epihany. Jeanne Sproat made history as she took her vows in Winchester before television cameras, news photographers, and reporters.

The Winton Club presented its "Almanac II" at the Town Hall in February delighting theatre goers and providing a much needed respite from last winter's snows and ice.

That month also saw the Rotary Club give a very generous $15,000 check to the seniors for their new center. The senior center is expected to open in the next few months.

Theodore Yeanacopolis was named the recipient of the meritorious police award for his apprehension of three armed robbers at Salvy's Bakery the previous October.

And in sports, the Winchester basketball team crushed Burlington in what The Star called "the upset of the year" with a score of 86-62.

In March fewer than 25 percent of the 15,000 registered voters of Winchester turned out for the annual town election. Arthur Dunbar and Richard Wilsack were elected to seats on the board of selectmen and Heinrich Holland and Catherine Alexander were named to their first terms on the school committee.

In March the town manager announced his six-year $7.5 million capital improvements plan. It marked the first time the town manager has provided a long-range plan under the stipulations of the town's charter.

In the spring the new Knights of Columbus Hall on Mount Vernon street was dedicated. On May 1 a concelebrated mass began the day-long festivities in the new building across from Town Hall.

With the good weather in May, the EnKa fair came to town, complete with rides and a parade. The parade this year commemorated the 75th anniversary of the service organization. Another tradition, this one newer, also came in May as the mini-marathon through town was run for the fifth time.

The youth job bank was announced in May as many local persons worked together to provide a clearing house for young people looking for work. Working through the seniors, the program got started in the fall and is still going strong.

June marked another tradition, as more than 400 Winchester High School graduates received their diplomas under cloudy skies. Rains threatened to cut the graduation exercises short, but they held off as School Committee Chairman Robert S. Frank and High School Principal Vincent Larocco congratulated the young people.

Conservationists received a setback in June as town meeting rejected a proposed purchase of land on Cambridge road. The Moss property was up for sale at $530,000 but the meeting found the price too high. That same tenth session of the spring town meeting also voted to apply $400,000 of general revenue against the tax rate. The tax rate was set in September at $76.40, down 20 cents from last year.

In July former Fire Chief I. Francis Amico died after 40 years of service to the town. The chief had been retired for two years.

Also in July, two school administrators announced their retirements. W. Howard Niblock, former WHS principal and then director of pupil services, and Henry Perry, assistant superintendent for personnel, both stepped down. In July also, Joe Bellino,

Art students at Winchester High enter art contest

Students from two art classes at Winchester High School have put their talents to the test to design the advertisements which appear in this week's special supplement to The Star.

Twenty-five finalists in the competition have their work on display in the special section, and readers are encouraged to mail in the ballot and register their vote for the best ad. The winners will be receiving $150 in savings bonds put up by the merchants involved.

Prizes include two $50 and two $25 savings bonds. Take a good look, make a choice, and send your ballot in as soon as possible.

Winton Club tryouts Jan. 4 for 'Surprise!'

Talent Night, the first step in creating the Winton Club's annual cabaret, is planned for Jan. 4 at Town Hall. The tryouts for "Surprise!" start at 7 p.m.

Mrs. John Sutherland is this year's show chairman. Assisting her is the talent committee headed by Mrs. Paul Gleason and including Mesdames Craig, Holt, McGovern, Santos, and Sorger. They will all be at the Town Hall to answer questions and sign in prospective cast members.

The director of "Surprise!" is Clint Hamblin of the Chateau de Ville productions. He will briefly sketch out the scenes of the show, demonstrate some of the dance steps, and then begin casting. Winton Club needs dancers who can tap, cancan, flamenco, jitterbug, apache and gypsy, as well as those who can sing solo or with duets, quartets, and choruses.

There is ample parking behind Town Hall and across the street. Dancers should wear medium heels, leotards, soloists should bring their own sheet music of a brief arrangement.

All proceeds from Winton Club activities are used to help maintain the linen supply of the Winchester Hospital.

For the tenth season, sounds of a summer night drifted over the mill pond as community musicians joined under Fred Murray's baton.

Seven breaks reported

Burglars find houseful of gifts on Highland ave.

One local home was cleaned out and a lot of Christmas presents were stolen in seven breaks reported this week by police.

A Highland avenue home was burglarized Dec. 22 and oriental rugs, silverware, andirons, antiques, Hummel figurines and a floor safe were stolen.

The burglars apparently took off a storm window and broke the interior window glass to enter the house. Evidence showed the thieves went through the house from attic to cellar looking for goods.

"It was not a hit and miss job," commented Police Chief John P. McHugh, "they picked this job."

The safe, which contained personal papers, was recovered the following day in Wilmington. The residents of the house had been away for the holidays at the time of the break-in.

Two other breaks this week were connected by footprints. Both occurred Dec. 20.

A home on Grant road was broken into sometime during the day. A window on the rear door of the house was smashed and presents, jewelry, and a pair of woman's black leather boots, size eight, were stolen.

Out back, the police found two sets of footprints, size seven and nine.

The other break happened in the evening between 7:30-9 on Bellevue avenue. An Admiral television set was stolen. Police found the same pair of tracks in the snow leading to the cellar door, where entry was gained through a window.

On Dec. 26, neighbors of a Park avenue resident spotted a television at the front door, heard footsteps out on the back porch and called police around 2:45 p.m. The intruder had disappeared by the time the police arrived, and they suspect he was on his way out when the neighbors, who live in another section of the same house, heard the footsteps.

A thief with a quick eye broke the glass of a window at the front of a Sheffield road home, reached in, and stole a Nikon camera and lens valued at $600 off a table around 11 p.m. Sunday night.

The residents thought at first that the broken window was simply an act of vandalism they discovered the next morning that the camera, which belonged to a house guest, had been sitting on the table and had been stolen.

A neighbor reported seeing a youth run from the front porch at the time of the incident and saw the youth get into a car. No further description was available.

An estimated $400 in Christmas gifts, all wrapped and ready to deliver, were stolen from a parked car on Highland avenue near Sargent road on Dec. 22. The thief broke a window on the driver's side of the car.

A building used for storage by the Scandia Trading Company on Lowell avenue was broken into in the early morning of Dec. 19.

Police officers on routine inspection discovered the casing from a window lying in the bushes and a slashed screen. They found no one inside, and an employee from Scandia, called to the scene, could not tell immediately if anything had been taken.

Police also reported three accidents and several related arrests over the past week.

An Arlington man was arrested Friday evening and charged with operating under the influence of alcohol and leaving the scene of an accident. The man appreantly ran into a parked a car at Church and Bacon streets.

Another hit and run accident occurred Saturday evening on North Main street. Two cars collided and one took off. No one was injured.

Witnesses provided police with the license plate number and a description of the car, and the owner, a Hudson resident, was identified and issued with a summons for leaving the scene of an accident.

The damage has yet to be figured out in a bizarre accident which occurred at the China Hula Restaurant on Christmas Eve.

A car owned by a Burlington resident was parked in the lot; the driver and one passenger went inside to get some food, while another passenger remained in the car. When the two came out of the restaurant, the man in the car reached over, turned on the ignition, and stepped on the gas to start the car.

The car accidentally was knocked into reverse; the passenger tried to hit the brake, but hit the accelerator instead, sending the car crashing into the wall of the restaurant. No one was seriously hurt.

Two local boys were placed in protective custody Monday evening. The two were picked up by police around midnight in the square.

A woman called police Dec. 20 to report that a man walking along Washington street had exposed himself to her and her daughter. He was described as about 25 years old, blond, with a navy blue trench coat.

The Christmas season was celebrated with sounds of tubas, flutes, trumpets, and voices as the town gathered around the Christmas tree on the common Saturday evening. (Staff photo)

At selectmen's meeting

Parking on Raymond place sparks resident complaints

Residents of the Raymond place-Columbus road area have complained to the selectmen that parking conditions on Raymond place make it "impossible" to pass through the street in the winter time.

The problem focuses around use of the Christopher Columbus Club on Raymond place. Speaking for many of the residents at the Dec. 19 selectmen's meeting, Mario Buzzolta, 24 Raymond place, explained that increased membership at the club has led to crowded parking conditions in the area. Other residents at the meeting complained that they sometimes could not get in or out of their driveways; and the selectmen questioned whether a fire truck or ambulance would be able to pass through the street.

The board finally passed the matter to the traffic advisory committee for review. They declined to act on a recommendation from Safety Officer John McKinley to close off one side of the street to parking altogether.

McKinley had suggested "no-parking" signs be placed along the northerly side of Raymond place. But Gus Baldacci, 4 Raymond place, pointed out that more spaces are available on the north side and argued that restricting the south side would be more appropriate. Baldacci said he had never had reason to complain about parking conditions, and said the restrictions "are really going to hurt these people (in the Christopher Columbus Club), maybe put them out of business."

Along with another Raymond place resident, William Robinson, Baldacci said the problem could be solved if the club members would use the lot available to them behind the club.

Club President Anthony Cirurso was on hand to hear the complaints, and he asked that the board consider closing off the south side of the street so more spaces would be available.

Some residents were more insistent than Baldacci that there is a problem on the street.

Domenic Fazio, 19 Columbus rd., called the one-side parking ban a partial solution. "You're just going to move the bubble around," he said. He pointed out that the club is no longer a neighborhood organization, and that the larger functions held there draw around 40 cars; he estimated there were no more than 20 to 20-30 parking spaces available in the immediate area.

Another complaint was that some of the cars are being parked on the grass plots alongside the road. The neighbors in the area work during the year to keep up the appearance of the plots, and Buzzotta complained the cars were digging up the plots.

Phillip Muraco, 42 Harvard st., said, "A lot of nights I can't get into my driveway," and suggested increased police enforcement of existing parking regulations would alleviate the problem.

Baldacci, who owns land on both sides of Raymond place, said he would prefer to see no restrictions put on parking.

"Sometimes we all have to make some sacrifice to maintain public safety," commented Selectmen Chairman Barbara Hankins.

The parking issue will come up again at the Jan. 9 selectmen's meeting.

Fees set for amublance runs for emergencies

A complicated discussion two weeks ago at the selectmen's meeting resulted in an erroneous report last week about the new ambulance fees going into effect Sunday.

The board has increased the fees for out-of-town runs from $12 to $20 and for in-town runs from $10 to $15.

The board will continue the policy of not charging for service in the case of a death. They will, however, be charging for emergencies and accidents.

The discussion was so complex that even the selectmen's secretary had trouble following the train of thought.

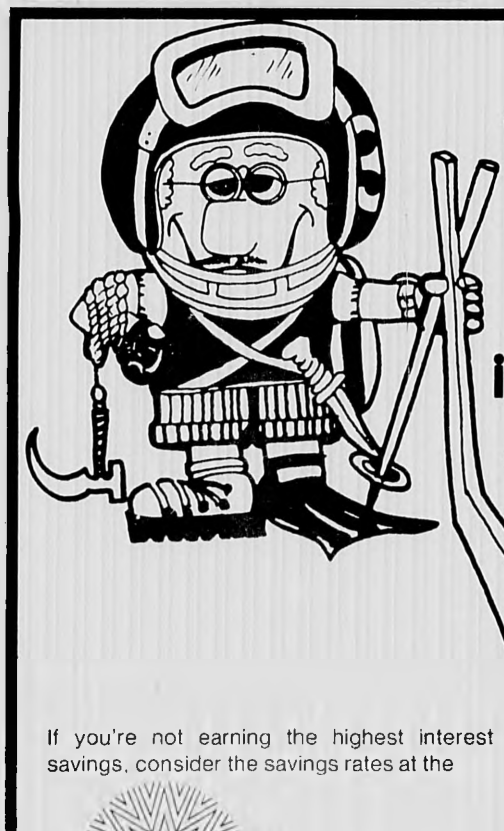

The crux of the matter was whether accidents and emergencies should be charged or kept free. About 50 percent of the ambulance runs are of this kind and the town has traditionally not charged for them.

Christmas spirit

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

One of the nicest Christmas presents my wife and I received this season on a cold and snowy evening this week was a visit by a group of high school students, caroling outside our Christmas-lighted front door. They carried lighted candles, and their "Silent Night-Holy Night..." Stille Nacht-Heilige Nacht"-sung in German (all three verses) was most enjoyable.

We asked the group who they represented and were told, "The German Club of Winchester High School."

Through the Star we would like to thank and praise these young people who despite the inclement weather truly had the spirit of Christmas, and thanks to their teachers at Winchester High School.

Sincerely,
Mr. & Mrs. V. F. Erhard
194 Washington st.

Great party!

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

On Sunday, Dec. 18, the Winchester Council of the Knights of Columbus hosted a Christmas party for the senior citizens of this town. To say it was very much appreciated is an understatement. The large group in attendance thoroughly enjoyed the delicious roast beef dinner prepared and served by the Knights and their ladies. Delightful music was provided for carols and dancing and many of the more agile seniors demonstrated the latest dance steps including the Hully Gully and Hustle. A jolly Santa Claus distributed gifts and left everyone in a happy frame of mind.

The Knights outdid themselves in hospitality and showed a charitable concern for our elderly citizens many of whom live alone or are handicapped and look forward to occasions such as this to meet others and partake of the Christmas spirit.

All the seniors are deeply appreciative of the kindness and generosity shown to them by the Knights of Columbus and also by the various groups and organizations in Winchester who have contributed in so many ways to bring happiness into the lives of others during this past year. May the coming year be a happy, healthy and prosperous one for all.

J. Raymond Murphy, President
Winchester Seniors Association

Congratulations

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

It seems most inadequate for one to merely be able to say, CONGRATULATIONS, for the initative, perseverance, and accomplishment of a small group of our high school students who conceived and ran a semi-formal dinner dance at Anthony's Pier 4 in Boston on Dec. 23. Despite opposition of the high school school student union and administration and unavailability of assistance from Town Hall, these young men and women carried off a function attended by some 300 of their handsomely dressed and generally well-behaved classmates.

Those students who organized this function deserve public commendation for the credit they bring to themselves and to the high school. And their classmates are to be commended too for demonstrating that the student body is not entirely composed of vandals, leather jackets, and malcontents.

For guidance, the students had outstanding help from Jerry Ferro, who implemented the students' wishes in contracting for the ballroom, meal, band, etc. Oh that Anthony's had been as efficient in preparing and serving the meal as Jerry and the students in arranging it! Mr. Ferro, several of his personal friends, and some parents donated their evening as chaperones since the town and school were not officially involved.

Winchester is fortunate to have people like this and would be even more fortunate if more parents took as much interest in their students as did these people. Those parents who did take the opportunity to spend the evening with their offspring should have been well rewarded by the experience.

In sum, these young people demonstrated a degree of purpose, organization, and maturity too seldom ascribed to them. I personally applaud and support their initiative and encourage them to use this experience as a model for future similar ventures.

No leash law

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I am writing in regard to one of your letters in last weeks paper about the leash law.

I'm totally against this because it is very cruel and inhumane for a dog to be locked up, tied up, and isolated from everything except a backyard. A dog should be able to roam around where he pleases, without a leash, at least during certain hours of the day (or night).

I hope that this letter will encourage people to fight against this law.

Go to it!

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I hope I don't sound too much like a broken disk, but once again I have been asked to set the record straight in regard to the "funding" of Winchester's new Jenks Senior Center.

I had thought that every person in town knew by this time that our senior center was financed by private donations only, and not by public tax money.

However, a letter in this week's Star deplores the fact that, whereas the seniors will soon have a beautiful new center for their own use, there is no similar project under construction for the young people of the town. The writer "feels that there should be equal funding" for such a youth center.

I agree with him, and I am sure that every senior in town agrees with him, too. But "equal funding," in this case, will require that the youth of this town organize and work together in order to raise all the money necessary for their project, without recourse to public tax money.

Unless I misread the temper of the voters and taxpayers of this town, there is little likelihood that the town meeting will appropriate funds for another try at a youth center, in view of the unsatisfactory results obtained from both previous attempts to found such a center. Lack of interest, lack of cooperation, rowdyism, vandalism— all these things ruined the last two attempts to found such a center (and closed the theater, too!).

So, it's up to you, young people! Go to it, and go with our blessings. Organize, and learn to work together. Find odd jobs to do, shovelling snow, whatever, and earn money, and put your own hard-earned money on the line, the way we did! After you have earned enough to prove to us that you mean business this time, instead of just sitting back, whining and complaining, I am sure that you will soon be pleasantly surprised at how quickly the very seniors whom you envy now, will rally to your support. You may count on me and my wife for a contribution when, and if, you prove to us that you mean business. I cannot speak for other seniors, but I am certain that they will be only too glad to help, once you begin to take positive action to bring your dream to reality.

Begin by getting all those most interested together; hold meetings, organize, elect officers, appoint committees, hold discussions, learn to compromise (you cannot have everything!), and, finally, make your decisions and put them in tangible form. Then, go to work to bring about those things that you have decided to settle for. There is no other way.

Good luck!

P.S. Please remember that when I say "tangible form" I mean that it will not be sufficient for your group to come to the conclusion simply, "that you need and want a new youth center." That is not enough!

You must decide what kind of center you want, where you want it to be built, of what material, how large, at what cost, how the money is to be raised, etc. etc. etc. There are countless details like these to be ironed out, and only extreme diligence and perseverance will carry your project through from start to finish.

Those of you who have the guts to work it out will benefit immeasurably from the experience!

Clarence Borggaard

Detrimental effect

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Although I agree with the principle behind publishing the names of honor students, I believe that its overall effect is essentially detrimental to the quality of learning in the Winchester school system. I do feel that it is important for the town to know of the positive achievements of its students. However, I believe that this policy of publishing names contributes to an unhealthy atmosphere of competition in our schools. There is enough pressure on students to bring home good grades, without adding this kind of public exposure. The grades at the end of the quarter rarely reflect the true achievements of the student. Much as the honor student may deserve this distinction, there are others who are no less deserving. Many students feel that they have to get an "A" or "B", regardless of whether or not they are actually learning anything.

While such pressure may encourage some students, it tends to discourage some, and others resort to such means as cheating. It is surprising how much cheating occurs in classes where every student is a "good student," but the pressure for grades is such that they must insure their own chances with a look at their neighbor's paper. The student who feels that he must cheat to get ahead loses respect, not only for his own potential, but also for the entire system.

I feel that this policy of publication of students' names will serve only to encourage even more of this kind of competition, and even less concern for true learning. Adolescence is a difficult enough time, and society's preoccupation with grades only serves to increase the difficulties for the majority of students. Thank you for allowing me to express my opinions.

Warmth & cheer

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Tri Community Health Services Inc. would like to take this opportunity to thank the Winchester En Ka Society for gifting community residents who are homebound patients with holiday plants.

En Ka has for many years provided the warmth and cheer of plants at Christmas and Easter for Winchester patients — and these have been distributed by our visiting nurses.

This is one of the many ways both En K and Tri Community serve the people of Winchester.

Disco dance Friday night at Lincoln

The Winchester Recreation Department and the student union will be co-sponsoring the third disco dance of the year tomorrow night. The dance will be held at Lincoln school and will start at 8 and run until 11:30.

The outfit known as "Distronics" will be supplying the music and special effects. The same rules and regulations will be enforced as in the past.

WEA sponsoring bloodmobile Jan. 5 at the high school

The Winchester Educational Association is sponsoring a Red Cross Bloodmobile visit to Winchester January 5, from 2-5 p.m. The visit will be at the Winchester High School cafeteria.

Chris Scanlon, representing the teacher's organization, will be in charge of recruiting the volunteers to donate blood. Blood donors will not be limited to the teachers. Anyone interested in giving blood at this time should call Winchester Red Cross, 729-2300 for an appointment.

THIS HOLIDAY SEASON, CRASH HERE INSTEAD.

Right now, your chances of having an accident have never been better.

Traffic is heavy. Road conditions are unpredictable. Kids are out playing in the snow. And people are doing a lot of partying.

During the holiday season, it's very important to everyone that you drive carefully. That you don't take chances. That you watch out for kids. That you take it easy.

And if you've been drinking. Or if you're tired. Or if driving conditions are hazardous. Don't even think about driving. Consider the price and consider the risk.

Be smart. Crash here instead.

Firefighters were plagued with an unusually high number of brush fires this year. One in the Fells in August tied the department up for 10 hours.

A flower for the graduate — more than 400 young people received diplomas at this year's commencement exercises.

Anthony Davis says it all as the Sachems beat the Woburn Tanners in the Thanksgiving Day classic this year.

The girl scouts celebrated their 60th birthday by marching in the EnKa parade in May.

Highlights of 1977

former high school and Navy athlete, was named to the Football Hall of Fame. The formal induction took place in December.

The first public inklings of new apartment housing in the center were heard in July as developer Arthur D. Ullian took his preliminary plans for a seven-story building to the selectmen. Ullian hopes to have subsidized housing for the elderly on Waterfield road. His application for a Housing and Urban Development grant is still in process.

August brought numerous brush fires which plagued the fire department throughout the month. One fire in the Fells tied up the department for more than 10 hours. In four months, until August 1, the department had responded to 261 brush fires, far above normal. The fire chief attributed much of the unusual activity to arson.

The tenth season of band concerts behind the library ended in August with the traditional playing of the 1812 Overture. Bells, cannons, and fireworks were planned as a surprise to the town as Fred Murray conducted the community group.

Sad news appeared on page one as the town mourned the death of long-time concerned citizen Arthur Hewis. Mr. Hewis had spent a lifetime alerting the town to potential and actual problems on the floor of town meeting and through the letters column of this newspaper.

Traffic problems concerned several groups of citizens in the fall as they took their complaints to the selectmen. One area was the Wildood street section of town, where a number of residents petitioned for a way of slowing down traffic there. The outcome was a request to the state for installation a four-way stop signs.

Another group on South Border road also asked for assistance in cutting down the number of speeders and accidents on that street. The MDC, which has jurisdiction of the road, has stepped up its surveillance and the number of tickets issued has risen accordingly.

Two major events happened in October. Town Comptroller James J. Costello resigned over "a difference in style" in the handling of $200,000 in bills which the town held. Costello's resignation led to the formation of an ad hoc committee to screen candidates for the position. The committee will be making its recommendations to selectmen early next year.

A two-alarm fire at the end of October caused more than $100,000 damage in the center. The Murray and Quill block of shops and offices was the scene of heavy smoke as apparatus from Woburn, Stoneham, Arlington, and Medford responded to a mutual aid call.

The fall session of town meeting got underway in November. The members voted to reject hiring consultants to look at ways to revitalize the center. They also denied a zoning change which would have relaxed restrictions to allow apartment buildings in the Vine street-Main street area of the center.

The meeting did pass an article asking the state legislature to put the question of a restaurant liquor license on the ballot as a referendum next year.

As the holiday season approached and the town started to settle down for winter and another year, the high school football team defeated Woburn in the Thanksgiving Day traditional game. The trees in the common and on the rotary were decorated with lights, and a group of townspeople gathered around the tree downtown to sing Christmas carols.

Sunday a new year will begin. It will bring with it new beginnings and maybe new endings.

A record number of entrants took part in the annual Kiwanis fishing derby this year.

In January, Jeanne Sproat became the first woman in the state ordained to the Episcopal priesthood. Ms. Sproat is at the Church of the Epiphany.

Vandals hit the cemetery hard this year, knocking over and destroying about 100 gravestones during one spree this summer.

More than $100,000 damage resulted from a two-alarm fire in Winchester Center in October.

400 dogs were vaccinated at the annual rabies clinic sponsored by the board of health in early April.

Amy A. Anderson

Amy Anderson to be bride of John P. Bishop

Mr. & Mrs. Paul N. Anderson Jr. of 11 Sheffield West entertained at their home December 27 to announce the engagement of their daughter Amy Ann to John Phillips Bishop, eldest son of The Rev. and Mrs. John J. Bishop of 7 Glengarry rd.

Miss Anderson graduated from Winchester High School and is a junior at Oberlin Conservatory of Music where she is majoring in voice performance. Mr. Bishop is an accomplished organist and well known in this capacity to Winchester residents. He is a graduate of Winchester High School and will graduate in June from Oberlin Conservatory of Music majoring in organ performance.

A June 1979 wedding is being planned.

Learn ballroom dancing starting on January 3rd

The Winchester Recreation Department, in association with Parker Dance Studios, will hold 20 one-hour long dance sessions with instruction in the Fox Trot, Waltz, Cha Cha and some fun dances such as the Hully Gully and Hustle line dance.

Director of recreation Donald L. Spinney says classes will begin Tuesday evening, Jan. 3 at the Muraco School at 7. Spinney also states that a fee will be charged by the studio for the classes.

Registration and information maybe made by calling the recreation office immediately.

Smith College to hold party for WHS girls

The Winchester Smith College Club invites 11th and 12th grade girls interested in Smith to a parfait party on Thursday afternoon, Jan. 5, at the home of Mrs. Andrew L. Nichols, 10 Oxford st.

Students currently at Smith will be there to talk about the college and answer questions. Call Mrs. Nichols if you would like to attend

Lynne J. Anderson married to George R. Benson here

St. Paul Lutheran Church, Arlington, was the setting of the November 26 wedding of Lynne Janis Anderson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Anderson of Winchester, to Mr. George Robert Benson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Benson, San Angelo, Texas.

The six o'clock candlelight service was performed by Reverend Daniel Carlson.

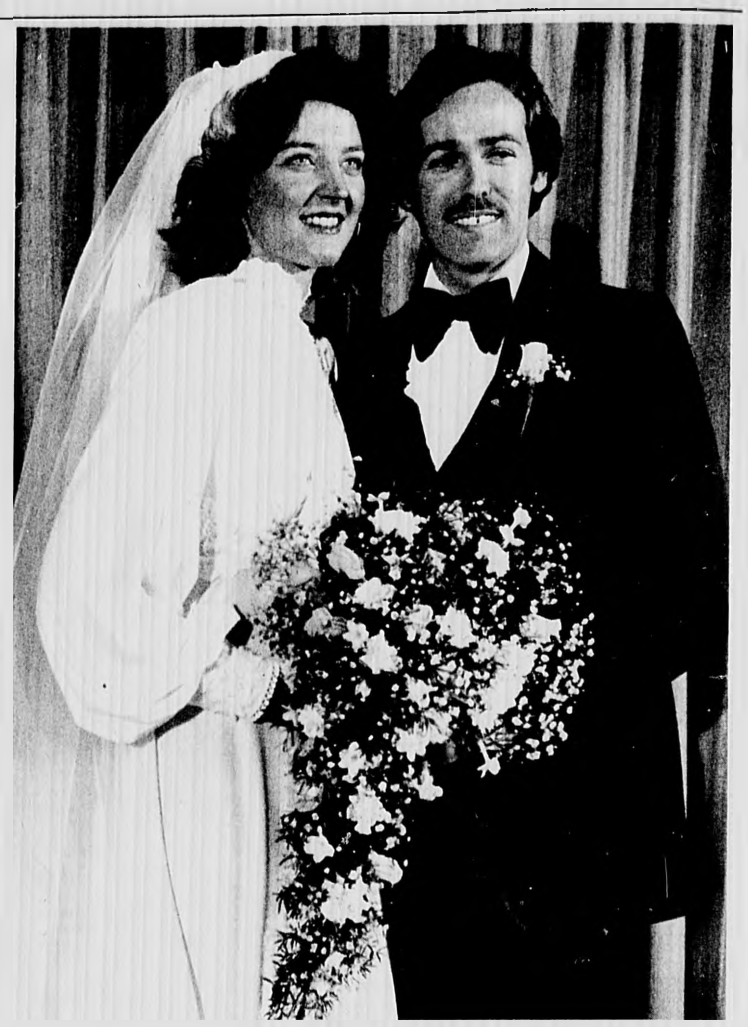

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal white gown of soft qiana. Her gown featured a sheer neckline with wedding band collar of Venice lace and pearls, full bishop sleeves, full lace edged skirt, which continued around into chapel length train.

Miss Michelle DeLeo of Washington, DC was maid of honor. She wore a peach qiana gown with matching jacket and her floral headpiece matched her autumn floral bouquet. Similarly attired in copper color gowns were bridesmaids Mrs. JoAnne Anderson of Arlington, sister-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Marsha Oot of Wakefield, and Mrs. Joseph O'Connell of Norwich, Conn. Their floral headpieces also matched their bouquets. Dr. Richard Anderson, the bride's brother, was best man. Assisting as ushers were Mr. Richard Barrett of Malden, Mr. Edwin Oot of Wakefield and Mr. Mark Downing of Winchester.

Mrs. Benson, a 1970 Winchester High School graduate, attended Northeastern University and is now in electronic distribution with RV Weatherford Electronics Co. of Dallas.

After attending San Angelo High School, Angelo State University and University of Texas, Mr. Benson is also employed by RV Weatherford Co. as a sales engineer.

Following a skiing honeymoon in Colorado, the couple will make their home in Dallas, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Benson

Bridge lessons for seniors to begin 5th

A new series of bridge lessons for Winchester seniors will start Jan. 5, at 10 a.m. at the Unitarian Church, Winsor Room (Mystic Valley Parkway, rear entrance).

All senior citizen card players are welcomed. New players learn the game. Present players learn to improve bidding and play.

Lessons start Thursdays at 10 a.m. At 11 a.m., challenging hands will be bid, played and discussed. Lunch is at 11:30 a.m. - bring sandwiches - coffee and tea will be served. Then from noon to 3 p.m. participants play cards. All are welcome at 10, 11, 11:30 or noon.

Mystic Valley area board meeting in Arlington Jan. 4

The Mystic Valley Mental Health and Retardation Area Board will hold its regular monthly meeting Jan. 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the Arlington Town Hall.

The Area Board, made up of citizens from each of the six communities in the Mystic Valley Area, including Arlington, Burlington, Lexington, Wilmington, Winchester and Woburn is charged with the responsibility for management and oversight of mental health and mental retardation services provided in the area. During the course of the meeting, the Board will solicit questions and concerns from citizens about mental health and mental retardation services in Arlington and the Mystic Valley Area.

Winchester residents currently serving on the Board, members of which are appointed by the Commissioner of Mental Health, are Mrs. Deborah Cary and Mrs. Katrin Cooper. The Board rotates its meeting place among the towns it serves and allots time at each meeting to hear the questions and concerns of citizens.

Travel Along with Mavis

Tunisia is still a fine place to visit. One of the most favorite places to be found is the Sousse Monastir resort area, where a number of beachside hotels invite the traveler to come, rest, enjoy the sun, the sand, and the water. Monastir is the native town of President Bourghiba and boasts of everything convention center, stadium, government handicraft store, as well as fine beaches. It is a fine place to stay, not only for the rich, but for those who travel on a more modest budget as well.

No matter where you want to go, come to MCGRATH TRAVEL SERVICE, 14 Eaton Avenue, Woburn. ## Warm weather, warm spirits

By The Observer

The weather was unseasonably warm, the sky was clear with an almost full moon beaming down on the several hundred people gathered on the Winchester Common to take part in a 50-year ritual.

The Fortnightly had once again gotten together some musicians, some singers, and loads of spirit for the annual Christmas Eve caroling around the town's official tree.

It was a social occasion as neighbors and friends smiled as they sang the familiar carols which make each Christmas special in some way.

The Star thanks the Fortnightly for this tradition. It's a good way to celebrate Christmas.

* * * * * * * *

Looking back over the year 1977 we found quite a few newsworthy stories, but one of them didn't make the front page...at least not all at once.

Town Counsel Douglas A. Randall called to point out that the board of selectmen has been working steadily all year and has, in fact, gotten almost every single one of its dozen regulations and rules brought up to date.

The handbook for appointed committees is out. Rules and regulations for tennis courts, parks, playgrounds and traffic are current. Licenses are up-to-date.

Children's films

January 3

The Astronauts: The neighborhood gang converts an old boiler into a space ship, and, unknown to them, a crane lifts them into "outer space."

In, Out, Up, Down, Over, Upside Down: A happy group of children with a puppy and a frog play in their back yard playhouse.

Litterbug: In this Disney film, Donald Duck portrays the role of the indestructible pest, the litterbug.

On Tuesday afternoon the children's film program will begin at 3:30 p.m.

Mites outscore Newton, 8-6

In a high scoring game played Saturday morning at the Burlington Ice Palace, Winchester Mites kept Newton in fourth place by winning 8-6.

It was a very close game, with both teams doing plenty of scoring. Ted Dever broke his scoring drought by scoring Winchester's first goal on a tap-in from Greg Winn and Petey Regan. Marc Todisco scored his goal of the game with an assist to Petey Regan. Greg Winn set up Petey Regan for the third goal and gave Winchester a 3-2 edge at the end of the first period.

Winchester increased the lead in the second period on a goal identical to that in the first period with Ted Dever tapping in a Petey Regan rebound. One minute later it was reversed as Ted Dever fed Petey Regan at center ice and Regan shot a quick 60-footer for a goal. Second period ended with Winchester leading 5-3.

Marc Todisco took a pass from Regan 26 seconds after the third period face-off and scored his second goal of the game. Regan scored his hat trick goal unassisted to make the score 7-4. But Newton responded with two goals in less than one minute and put their team back in the game. It was not until Scott Paine passed up to Petey Regan with 1:25 left in the game and Regan scored his fourth goal, that the win was assured.

Newton pulled their goalie, but good defensive effort and goal tending by Kevin Boyle kept the scoring at 8-6.

Keeping the Newton rushers from penetrating the zone up front were David Butt, Billy Coppins, Timmy Day, Marc Falzano, and Derek Sullivan.

Sachems make it 2-0 against Concord-Carlisle

The Sachem basketball team socked away their second victory of the season in a non-league match-up against the Concord-Carlisle Patriots Friday night, winning 48-32.

Key to the win was guard Bob Brosnan, who scored 10 points (four buckets and a pair of foul shots) and stole the ball four times. Two of his baskets came at the start of the third quarter, giving the Sachems an eight point lead and the momentum they needed.

Don Allard at guard scored 18 points, with three field goals and 12 foul shots, and forward Anthony Davis added eight points toward the win.

The WHS hoopsters met Reading in their first league game Tuesday night; and they'll be hosting Melrose tonight at 8 p.m. in the high school gym.

Watertown hands harriers first loss of the season

By George Parker

Watertown handed the Winchester track team their first loss last Saturday, as they outpointed the Sachems 49-37.

The main cause for this loss was a definite lack of depth. This will almost certainly be the deciding factor in all of the remaining meets. This lack has been clearly demonstrated in the last two meets.

Against Melrose, the Sachems had seven first places, and only two second and three third places to back up these firsts. In the last meet, the team had six firsts, one second, and four third place finishes. Obviously, the track team will be walking a very thin line for the rest of the season, for if one or two competitors are upset, the team will have a very good chance of losing the met.

The upsets last Saturday came early in the meet, as Scott Farrar, who again tied the school record, was just beaten in the 45-yard dash by Watertown's top sprinter, who had a time of 5.2 seconds. Following these two was Winchester's Macmillan, in a time of 5.8 seconds.

In the hurdles, Scott Kajander again won (6.4 seconds), but Tim Morgan was just beaten out of second place as he came across with a 6.5 second effort. In the last dash, the 300, the Sachems could put no one in the top three, resulting in a nine point gain for Watertown.

The 600 was typical, in that Charlie Larkin easily won, with a time of 1:17.5. However, there was a pleasant surprise in that race, as the Sachem's Kirk came in with a third place finish, with a time of 1:22.3.

In the 1000-yard run, Ed Kirkpatrick again won, finishing with a 2:26.3.

In the mile, Andy Wilsack lowered the school record to 4:38.2 as he beat out a closely-following opponent in the last two laps. Unfortunately, the two-mile, like the 300, was swept, adding nine more points to Watertown's tally.

The relay was a remake of the last meet's, as Scott Farrar was again matched up against a very fast competitor. This resulted in a large loss of ground, despite Farrar's excellent effort (a 55 second quarter). Ed Kirkpatrick made up some of this deficit before handing off to Andy Wilsack, and, as in the last meet, Wilsack gained a considerable amount of ground, so that Charlie Larkin was in a favorable position. Larkin made full use of the advantage given him by Wilsack, waiting until the last lap to pull by his opponent and come across a full second ahead of him, with a 3:41.2 minute time.

Thus ended this meet, a loss, unfortunately, ending up 49-37 in Watertown's favor. The next two meets, however, should be slightly different.

Top Medford team outclasses WHS girl gymnasts by 90-69

By Kelly Gately

Winchester High Girls Gymnastics team ran into some problems against a very strong Medford team. Number one in the state last year, losing by a score of 90.45 - 69.75.

They were more concerned however, about the loss of co-captain Maureen McCabe for an indefinite period of time when she injured her ankle during her floor routine. The team is coached by Pam Rufo.

Medford jumped out in front right at the start by clearly dominating on the uneven parallel bars. Jasie Lemmi, Medford's all-around who totalled an excellent 31.05, led everyone with an 8.0, with teammates Janet Lemmi and Cheryl Dixon finishing with scores of 6.8 and 6.0, completing Medford's score of 20.8. Laurie Vincent, who is also a co-captain for Winchester, guided her team to a total of 15.95 with a 6.4 followed by Peggy McCabe, 5.25, and Maureen McCabe 4.3.

Medford greatly increased their lead on the beam, outscoring Winchester 22.05 to 13.75. With Roxanne Phillips score of 7.6 along with a 7.4 and 7.05 by Joanne Jensen and Carla Vara, Medford easily took the beam. Winchester's best was Peggy McCabe's 4.55 followed by Maureen McCabe's 4.25 and Carrie Hosmer's 3.95.

Winchester tried to come back in the vault which was their best effort during the meet. Medford did however edge out a victory. Winchester's Laurie Vincent received the highest score in this event with an impressive 8.45. Maureen McCabe's 7.7 and Anne Bird's 6.65 rounded out the scoring. This also was Medford's best event as Diane Calo led her team with an 8.1 with Jasie Lemmi right on her heels with an 8.0. Carla Vara finished off with a 7.9.

Medford drove the final nail into Winchester's coffin beating them 23.6 to 17.25 in the floor exercises. Jasie Lemmi again achieved the top position with an 8.15 with Diane Calo and Carla Vara clinching the last two spots with a 7.9 and 7.55. Peggy McCabe's 6.0 was Winchester's best as Carrie Hosmer, 5.85, and Teri Allard, 5.4, finished up the scoring.

Winchester also had another non-league meet against Salem earlier in the week, but it was never completed on account of a late arrival by Salem. The score with Salem lacking scores from the uneven parallel bars was 68.6 to 55.4, Winchester leading.

Peggy McCabe took high honors on the beam leading all scorers with a 5.9. Maureen McCabe and Teri Allard wound up the scoring with a 5.0 and 4.8 respectively. Salem's Kelly Rantz led her team with a 5.75 while Maureen Paine, 5.65, and Lisa Mazza, 5.1, combined for Salem's 16.5, Winchester finishing with a total of 15.7.

Salem clearly took the decision in the vaulting with a score of 21.9 to Winchester's 16.5. Ruth Millard's high of 7.7 along with Kelly Rantz 7.6 and Linda Mazza's 6.6 produced the 21.9. For the Sachems, Laurie Vincent's 7.5 combined with Joyce Fryklund's 4.9 and Lisa Melilli's 4.1 completed the scoring.

Winchester dominated in the floor exercises with Maureen McCabe leading everyone with her 6.5 with Laurie Vincent right behind with a 6.4. Teri Allard Captured the final spot with a 5.5. Lisa Mazza received a 6.2 as her team's best with Christy Delorenzo and Ruth Millard finishing up with a 5.5 and 5.3.

Although Salem didn't compete on the bars, Winchester combined for a total of 18.0. Laurie Vincent's 7.35 led the team followed by Peggy McCabe's 5.8 and Maureen McCabe's 4.85.

The Winchester squad only consists of nine members. They are co-captains Maureen McCabe and Laurie Vincent, Carrie Hosmer, seniors; Teri Allard, Anne Bird, Peggy McCabe, Lisa Melilli, juniors; Joyce Fryklund and Eileen McCabe, sophomores.

Julie Quinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Quinn of 9 Buckman dr., is a member of the varsity field hockey squad at Hartwick College in Oneonta, NY. Julie graduated from CDS of the Sacred Heart in 1975 and is a junior at Hartwick with a planned major in nursing.

Boy gymnasts drop opener to Burlington, 84.0-65.85

By Maureen McCabe

The Winchester High Boys Gymnastics team lost to defending league champion Burlington in a tough season opener last Wednesday.

Burlington's victory, however, can be attributed to the intensive training provided by the recreation department. The Sachems final score of 65.85 to Burlington's 84.00 reflects this training program, but it also indicates a strong Winchester team. Although Burlington dominated all events, the Winchester team gave some impressive performances.

The floor exercise event was highlighted by a full twisting back layout somersault performed by the Red Devils' John Knowles. His routine merited a 5.9 to add to the previous scores of 4.3 and 3.75. The Sachems were led by Pete MacDonnell's 4.15 in addition to Jon Belinowiz's 3.3 and Steve Campo's 3.0.

In the next event, side horse, the Sachems could gain only 8.35 points to Burlington's 12.25 score. Winchester's Paul Selvitelli and Pete MacDonnell each received a 3.0 with Steve Campo's 2.35 completing the scoring for the Sachems Burlington's John Wright led all scores with his 5.4

Winchester's Pete MacDonnell gained the highest score, 4.45 in the high bar event. Mark Mulvaney received a 3.05 and John deMars a 2.4 to round out the Sachem scoring. Burlington however gained a score of 11.3 to increase their margin.

On the parallel bars the Sachems were able to muster an additional 9.25. A 3.75 and 3.1 were received by Pete MacDonnell and Mark Mulvaney respectively and John deMars a 2.4 completing the score with a 2.4. The event was led by the Red Devil's John Wright whose 4.35 aided the Burlington's 10.75 score.

Vaulting proved to be the highest scoring event, but it was again dominated by Burlington, who added another 21.05 to their lead. Winchester's 18 points were achieved by MacDonnell's 7.05, Mulvaney's 5.7 and Anders Bjarngard's 5.1.

The final event, rings, was another strong event for the Burlington team in which they gained 14.70 to complete their 84.00 point win. The Winchester team was led by Pete MacDonnell's 4.35 with Al Class' 3.15 and Anders Bjarngard's 2.4 which gave the Sachems a final score of 65.85.

Growing number of smokers abandoning high tar favorites for Low Tar–'Enriched Flavor'™ cigarette.

REGULAR and MENTHOL

Kings: 8 mg "tar," 0.6 mg nicotine av. per cigarette, FTC Report Aug. '77
100's: 12 mg "tar," 0.9 mg nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

It used to be only high tar cigarettes could deliver rich, satisfying tobacco flavor. Used to be—until MERIT.

Recent reports on 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco—the new taste technology of smoking—show most MERIT smokers are making the move directly from high tar cigarettes.

Many from brands they've enjoyed for years and years.

It seems MERIT is filling the taste void for these smokers, the most hard-to-please critics of low tar cigarettes.

Taste tests among thousands of smokers show why.

Merit Matches Higher Tar Competition

Both MERIT and MERIT 100's were tested against a number of higher tar cigarettes.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of both MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the higher tar cigarettes tested.

Cigarettes having up to 60% more tar!

Only one cigarette has 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. And you can taste it.

Real Estate

by Ann Blackham

REALTOR

NEVER ARGUE WITH SUCCESS

There is a sound philosophy based on the premise: "Never argue with success." If you have the urge to invest in real estate, listen to what some of the most successful investors have to say about it.

Andrew Carnegie: "Ninety percent of all millionaires become so through owning real estate. More money has been made in real estate than in all industrial investments combined. The wise young man or wage-earner invests his money in real estate."

Marshall Field: "Buying real estate is not only the best way, the quickest way, and the safest way, but the only way to become wealthy."

John D. Rockefeller: "The big fortunes in the future will be made in real estate."

John Jacob Astor: "He's a little more specific." "Buy on the fringe and wait. Buy land near a growing city! Buy real estate when other people want to sell. Hold what you buy."

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at ANN BLACKHAM & CO., 11 Thompson St., Winchester. Phone 729-1663. We're here to help!

St. Mary's plans seminar sessions for couples, others

St. Mary's religious education center is sponsoring meetings for engaged couple and for separated, divorced, and re-married persons.

Rev. David P. Bailey, JCL, of the Archdiocesan Marriage Tribunal, will be speaking Sunday evening, Jan. 15, about how the church is reaching out to the separated, divorced, and the re-married. The meeting will be at St. Mary's parish hall, 162 Washington st., at 7:30.

For those who are engaged and those who are dating seriously, a seminar for couples has been planned for five Sunday evenings beginning January 22.

Among the subjects to be considered will be communication and marriage, covenant and contract, the art of loving, we can't afford it, and will your marriage last forever?

There will be panels of couples, talks by experts, question and answer periods, as well as discussion and sharing in an informal atmosphere.

Sessions will take place at St. Mary's parish hall between 7 and 9:30 p.m., Jan. 22 through Feb. 19. Couples who are interested in marriage as well as those who are newly wed are invited to the seminar.

St. Mary's holds Christmas tree liturgy Dec. 21

On December 21, at 1:00 p.m., School Chaplain Fr. Curley celebrated mass in the school hall at a special Christmas Tree Liturgy held to give the children the understanding of the meaning of the Christmas tree.

The altar boys assisting at mass were Ricky O'Herron and Robbie Fiorillo. Two eighth grade girls, Mary Fiorillo and Lorraine Powers, were readers. The music was provided by the St. Mary's School Choir, directed by James Profirio.

87 come in out of the rain to donate blood

In spite of the unfavorable weather on Monday, the 19th, St. Mary's parish chalked up an excellent record at the scheduled Red Cross Bloodmobile semiannual visit. Eighty-seven men and women volunteered to donate blood with a record 77 pints collected.

Fifty-five St. Mary's parishioners volunteered to staff the bloodmobile's operation as well as the supper provided for visiting and local staff members under the chairmanship of Gertrude Rooney.

Pat Heuchling and Helen Quinn, in charge of the Bloodmobile visit, expressed hearty appreciation not only to the donors, but to all who assisted.

Those volunteering to donate are:

Visitor makes Christmas trip to Epiphany

Col. Howard G. Hill

Something out of the ordinary formed part of the Christmas celebrations at the Parish of Epiphany last Sunday morning. Colonel Howard G. Hill, a consulting engineer from Bladensberg, Maryland, returned to the parish to sing in the choir on Christmas morning - something he had done 70 years earlier in his life on Christmas Day, 1905, 1906, and 1907.

Three weeks ago, the Rev. John J. Bishop, rector of the Parish, received a phone call from Col. Hill, asking if it were possible for him to join the choir on Christmas Day. "That would mean more to me than anything in this world if I could." In making the request, he noted how as a boy of 10, he attended his first choir rehearsal on March 29, 1905. The three years that followed were most important ones in his life, and his personal commitment to the worship of the church and his love for church and classical music were rooted in that early boy choir experience. He recalled with enthusiasm the ministry of the Rev. John Wallace Suter, founder and first rector of the parish.

Mr. Bishop, in inviting Col. Hill to join the choir for Christmas Day, noted that the church he knew then was not the same today and went on to list some of the changes so that the guest would not be too surprised upon his arrival here.

Early Christmas Eve, Col. Hill phoned from a neighboring motel to report his safe arrival and to say that he would not be able to make the midnight service but that he would be on hand in the morning. He had driven from his Maryland home, dropped his wife off in New York City for a visit with her sister, and then continued on to Boston. By 10 on Christmas Day, he had been received by the organist and choir master of the parish, John H. Corrie, and was ready to join other choristers in the processional.

Worshippers greeted the Colonel with warm applause during the exchange of the peace, and he acknowledged their greeting from his place in the balcony. Mr. Bishop, speaking for the parishioners, thanked him for the gift he had given to the parish that would make Christmas, 1977, as memorable for those present as Christmas, 1905, 1906, and 1907 obviously had been for him.

Raymond Terhune

Former Winchester resident Raymond C. Terhune, 82, died at Heritage House in Winthrop, Maine, after a lengthy illness.

Mr. Terhune, who made his home in Hammonds Grove, Manchester, Maine, was born on June 25, 1895, in Newark, NJ, the son of Frank Terhune and Addie Hopper.

He graduated from Barringer High School in Newark, and was discharged from World War I in 1916 as a second lieutenant in the 101st Field Artillery.

Mr. Terhune sold real estate in Newark until he went with the Texaco Oil Company in the real estate department, at which time he made his home in Winchester.

He covered the New England area for 25 years with Texaco until his retirement to Maine.

Mr. Terhune was the husband of the late Norma Phillips Terhune who died in January 1971. Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Robert (Marion) Diepenbrock of California, Mrs. Ralph (Elnora) Buechler of Wisconsin, and Mrs. Frank (Ginny) Hersom of Augusta. Mr. Terhune also leaves two brothers and one sister, 10 grandchildren, three great-grandchildren, and several nieces.

Committal services will be held at a later date at Wildwood Cemetery. Leon C. Roberts and Sons, Inc., of Winthrop, Maine, were in charge of the arrangements.

J. Joseph Duffy

A funeral mass was planned yesterday at St. Eulalia Church for J. Joseph Duffy, Mr. Duffy, a retired Internal Revenue Service employee, died at his Thornberry road home at the age of 78. Mr. Duffy was born in Boston and had also been a resident of Arlington. He was a group supervisor in the Boston office of the IRS. A member of Bunker Hill Post 26 of the American Legion, Mr. Duffy was also a member of the Bunker Hill Knights of Columbus and the St. Vincent dePaul Society. He is survived by a daughter, Rosemary Collins of Winchester, a sister, Madeline A. Graham, also of Winchester, and by two grandchildren.

Lucile A. Bates

Lucile A. Bates of 200 Swanton st. died Dec. 21 in a nursing home in Reading. She was 84.

Born in California, Mrs. Bates had resided in Winchester for 12 years. She is survived by two sons, Dr. Frank Bates of Winchester and Edgar A. Bates of California.

Funeral services were held in California. Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society.

Norris Funeral Home was in charge of the arrangements.

Bonnie J. Blondin

Bonnie J. Blondin of Sunnyvale, Cal. died Dec. 22 at the age of 32.

Mrs. Blondin was born in Arlington and resided in Winchester for 25 years. She graduated from Winchester High School and Chandler Secretarial School.

Services were held Tuesday at the Second Congregational Church, of which Mrs. Blondin was a member. Burial followed at Mt. Pleasant Cemetery in Arlington.

Mrs. Blondin is survived by her husband, David F. Blondin of Sunnyvale, a son, Robert G. Brine of Winchester, and her mother, Margaret G. Brine, also of Winchester.

The Norris Funeral Home handled the arrangements.

Donald R. Wilkins

Donald R. Wilkins of 8 Clematis st., passed away Dec. 19, at Fairlawn Nursing Home in Lexington after several weeks' illness. He is survived by his wife Olive Seller Wilkins, a daughter, Mrs. Richard (Marjorie) Rogers, three grandchildren, all of Natick, a sister, Mrs. Ethel Lord of Winthrop, Me., and several nieces and nephews.

As a young man he conducted a lumbering operation in the Maine woods and worked in a saw mill as a sawyer.

In 1945 Mr. Wilkins came to Winchester to go in to Seller's Market, (a family business for more than 50 years), later he assumed ownership until he was forced to sell because of ill health. In his later years he was custodian of the Church of the Epiphany until his retirement in 1973.

He was a member of Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church, a 55-year member of the Grange, past master of Wilson Grange in Maine. Past Master of Winchester Grange No. 343, a member of Excelsior Pomona Grange No. 5, in Maine, Massachusetts State Grange, and National Grange.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. on Dec. 22 at the Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church with Dr. Leon Hatch officiating and Rev. John Bishop of the Church of the Epiphany assisting. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery. The Norris Funeral Home handled the arrangments.

Memorial may be made in his name to the American Cancer Society.

NEW YEAR'S BABY?

Yes, the first baby to be born in our town is going to be a lucky baby! There'll be great gifts for the new year's first arrival to get him or her off to a fabulous start! It's our local merchants' way of welcoming the town's newest citizen!

CONTEST RULES:

To be eligible, baby must be born in Winchester Hospital and parents must be residents of Winchester. Exact time of birth must be specified in writing by the attending physician and submitted to this newspaper not later than noon on January 4, 1978.

In the event there is no winner by that time, the contest will be extended until a winner has been declared. In the event of a tie, prizes will be distributed by a panel of judges. Decision of judges will be final. Names of winning baby and it's parents will be published in The Winchester Star.
